

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 461 461: Robots or Iron men?

Back on Earth, a huge war was about to erupt between the Fang hunters and a hundred thousand werewolves while the whole were on the edge of their seats watching the screen in fear, hope and worry for the safety of the world.

"What do you all want? Where is your Alpha?" The Rave lord asked.

"The great Alpha is currently preparing your gifts so he can't see you all now. But in the meantime," Ulric said as he snapped his fingers and slowly, werewolves were beginning to descend from the glide.

They trickled out two at a time and in a few seconds, they were about a hundred thousand werewolves standing beside and in front of Ulric.

"Play with us for a while." Ulric smirked.

"Oh we surely will." Gray smirked as he pointed his sword forward, the werewolves all howling at once, the ground shaking from their terrifying howl.

"Ravage." Ulric commanded and the hundreds of werewolves dashed forward at immense speed, the ground quaking with each step from them.

"Remember you all!" Gray shouted as he turned towards the thousands of men behind him that were shaking in fear after seeing the large numbers on the enemy side.

"If we lose here, not only will they destroy the Fang hunters totally, the whole world will be doomed. Our loved ones, family and friends will be killed by this sheer number of them.

So fight! Stay and fight with vigour, bravery and hope knowing that our sacrifice would help to stop the world from heading into certain doom. Who's with me? Who shares the same ideology as me?!" Gray asked as from the corner of his eyes, he could see the werewolves closing in rapidly.

"I sure am." Andrew roared as he pulled out his Katana, leaned back a little, and in a flash, he bolted forward fearlessly.

"Yoo! I won't be outshined by a kid." Rave lord said as he pulled out his own sword and bolted towards the incoming werewolves.

"If those that are leading the charge are not scared of these sheer numbers, why should we?"

"Yes! And we have faith, the werewolf slayer will soon come down here to save us."

"Hundred percent. He hasn't disappointed us before, and he won't do that now."

"So come on, let's go!"

"AHHHHHH!"

The whole thousands of Fang hunters dashed forward with a loud battle cry that shook the ground as they prepared to clash against the werewolves.

Meanwhile, those watching online turned towards their keyboards again.

"I don't know if I should call them brave or foolish."

"I'm also confused. Just looking at the hundred thousand werewolves, I'm getting chills. Talk more of charging right into their midst."

"Did you hear their speech? Apparently, they think the werewolf slayer will come down to save them. Lol! I can't wait to see their hopes and faith shatter."

"You are laughing? Look at them! This is the final battle that will determine if you will exist or not and you are mocking them? Tsk! Pathetic fools."

"Just let them be. Clearly they haven't been to war before. Let's just watch and pray for humanity's victory."

BANG!

The whole air shook with tremendous force, the fight had already started with Andrew and the Rave lord at the forefront. Their swords moving so fast that the werewolves were unable to keep up.

"You filthy beasts! How dare you attack here!" Andrew roared in anger as he quickly leapt back just in time to avoid a swing to his head.

The next moment, his sword had moved like a blur causing the werewolf to drop down on its knees. He was about to move when the sound of something slashing through the air was heard.

"Claw." Andrew mumbled as he was about to avoid it when a dagger wheezed past his face and slammed the claw away from his face.

Then a bulky man dashed forward. Leaping up, he slammed his sword into the werewolf's head cleaving it into half before slamming into the ground causing a shockwave.

"Thanks." Andrew smiled curtly before turning around just in time to meet a werewolf's claws with his sword causing a short bang to ring out.

The two individuals that had just helped Andrew were Helen and Berg and after helping him, they were out hunting and killing werewolves one after the other.

While all these was going on, the four thousand, five hundred men from the Fang hunters were busy fighting against the werewolves with all they got.

Qi swords, Qi bullets, arrows, sword strikes, punches using Qi was going off all around. The werewolves were falling one at a time but the humans were losing men more and fast.

For every werewolf that fell, four humans would go down with them and so, the battle turned chaotic real quick until...

"Even though I don't have my system, I still have this!" Gray roared as he coated his body from head to toe with visual Qi.

His body burned bright with it flames or something. Taking a small step back, he bent his knees and then pushed off from the ground strongly.

It cracked under the pressure of his feet as he went flying forward and the next moment, he slammed into the midst of a dozen werewolves.

A tremendous shockwave spread out slamming the werewolves off their feet, the ground quaked from the force of Gray's land.

Before the werewolves could regain their footing and realize what was going on, Gray had lifted his hands in the air and summoned a hundred Qi swords.

Without wasting time, he swung his hands down unleashing pure chaos as his swords ripped through the werewolves one after the other.

Some tried to battle against the swords and failed spectacularly while some managed to destroy the swords and move on to killing humans.

But Gray didn't relent as his feet moved again, he was now almost like a blur. Everywhere he went, howls of pain were heard as the werewolves fell one after the other.

He was so fast that it felt like the people were watching a Beta werewolf at work and that was because, he was coating his feet with Qi which let him move quite fast.

Even with all these, the amount of werewolves was still hefty as they had only managed to obliterate about two hundred werewolves with all their strengths and stunts.

"You won't be able to totally defeat them, luck isn't on your side today. Give up you fools!" Ulric shouted as he burst into laughter.

"He...he's right!" Helen shouted as she ducked just at the right moment avoiding a swing to her head before slamming her dagger into the werewolf's side causing it to lunge deep before leaping back letting the dagger stay rooted inside the werewolf.

Holding her palms together, she slowly pulled them apart while on the werewolf's side, it could see the dagger tearing into it and trying to cleave its abdomen open.

It was about to pull it away when it suddenly felt groggy and the next instant, it fell to its knees with a sickening thud.

"We need more backup." Helen completed her words while her breath was all ragged as she dove forward to retrieve her dagger.

"You need more backup, you got it." A voice was heard saying and everybody turned to the route that led to the academy and in the next instant, hundreds of mech dove forward at tremendous speed.

The drones that were capturing the fight shifted to the scenes of hundreds of robotic mechs that were being piloted by humans joining the battlefield.

"What are those?"

"Robots? Or iron man? Sorry, iron men... lol."

"What can piles of junk do in this battle? Have the Fang hunters lost their minds?!"

"You need backup, you got it." One of the mech that was crimson in colour and had a huge number 1 written on the side said and the next instant, it lifted it palms towards the werewolves.

BOOM!

BANG!

Blasts and lasers shot out towards the werewolves ripping through their heads and limbs. Even their furs were unable to save them as the blasts and lasers destroyed their heads and limbs.

Chapter 462 462: Powerful mechs!

The battle on Earth has just taken another turn with the introduction of mechs from the Fang hunters and the sheer destruction they caused, was nothing to laugh at.

"You need backup, you got it." One of the mech that was crimson in colour and had a huge number 1 written on the side said and the next instant, it lifted it palms towards the werewolves.

BOOM!

BANG!

Blasts and lasers shot out towards the werewolves ripping through their heads and limbs. Even their furs were unable to save them as the blasts and lasers destroyed their heads and limbs.

"Woah! Who knew that these were quite powerful?!" The leader of the mech pilot exclaimed in shock as he raised the robotic arms to stare at it while the other mechs were thrust into battle.

The whole battle turned chaotic instantly with the arrival of mechs. Laser beams, powerful mechanical blasts, swords and so on and the humans were now regaining their stance as they charged headfest pushing the werewolves back slowly.

But the werewolves didn't back away as they bolted for the mechs ignoring the humans that could hardly put a scratch on their furs or hides.

They began leaping towards the mechs trying to rip them apart but the pilots didn't give up as they continued shooting blasts while the werewolves used their powerful claws to start digging and ripping through the mechs with so much force.

"Right, battle." The number one mech pilot (I can't begin giving him names so let's stick with number one, shall we? 😊😊)

Boom!

Number one began sending blasts towards the werewolves that were leaping onto his comrades.

"I got two mech hands!" Number one shouted as he pointed the hands sideways and began shooting away skillfully.

Each blasts or laser beams didn't miss their targets as the werewolves were now falling down like flies.

Ulric who was about ten metres away from the battle and directly in front of the Aeroglide they had come in with, had a deep frown on his face as he watched on.

'At this rate, with those robot thingy, we might lost this war. No! Not lose the war, but lose this round if something is not done about the robots.

Some of the humans are unable to hurt the werewolves but with those mechs, they are dealing significant damage.' Ulric thought as he saw a werewolf get blasted away.

Then Gray dove towards four more, his sword moved like a blur causing the werewolves to get cut up easily before he moved towards the next again.

'And the Alpha,' Ulric thought as he turned back towards their Aeroglide to see the doors sealed shut. 'He still needs more time to do whatever he is doing. Damn it! I want to join the battle, but I'm forced to stay here.'

"Hahaha! Take that!" Number one shouted as he drove into the midst of a few werewolves blasting them away with deep injuries to their hides.

One werewolf leapt towards his face but quickly bringing his hand in front of him, he sent a laser beam burning a gaping hole into its head before it dropped down with a sickening thud.

'The mechs.' The Rave lord thought as he swiftly glanced around to see how the others were doing and then spun around in time to hammer his sword into the claws of a werewolf sending it into the ground.

Before swinging his hip and sending a spinning roundhouse kick into its head causing it to crack under pressure while its body flew so back that it crashed into several werewolves before falling down.

'The mechs are helping to reduce their numbers a lot but,' Rave lord thought as he saw a dozen werewolf dash towards a mech and with a few seconds, they had ripped through the metal parts and brought out the pilot and then ripped him to shreds.

'It's just a matter of time before the werewolves will understand their fighting pattern and start bringing them down and then, we are back to square one.'

"Hey!" Gray shouted towards a fighter that held a shield and was blocking a werewolf's hit while Gray was moving around taking down werewolves until he got in front of the shield user and sent a Qi spear flying into the werewolf he was fighting, bringing it down.

"How strong is that shield?"

"It's around the king tier." The shield user replied.

"It's good enough. Toss it to me when I give you the signal to." Gray said and without warning he dashed towards more werewolves leaving the shield user stunned.

"Wait! What signal?" The man shouted before he quickly spun around with his shield in front of him to block a claw strike that sent him skidding with his teeth grit.

'Damn! I'm just here blocking hits.' the man thought as his eyes laid on a sword just beneath his feet.

Looking back up, he saw the werewolf leap back and came dashing towards him with full speed and just at the right moment, the man dove away and swiftly picked the sword while rolling on the ground a few feet away from the werewolf which had just slammed into the ground.

"Alright beast, come at me." The shield user said as he held his shield in one hand, the sword he had picked up in the other while twirling it around his hands.

"AWHOOO!"

The werewolf howled as it bolted forward towards the shield user who took a stance, cuts on his face dripping blood while the werewolf leapt towards him.

"Foolish beast." The man muttered as he lifted his shield in front of him blocking the claw strike that sent him crashing into the ground.

But reinforcing his body and the sword in his hand with Qi, he swung it forward and it immediately slammed into the werewolf's eyes destroying it with the man pushing forward, fissures running through the ground.

"Die!" The man shouted as he drew the sword out and swung it forward cleaving the werewolf's head off before he fell on his knees, breath ragged.

"Toss it to me now!" A voice boomed in the battlefield and the shield user recognized it as he slowly rose up, his Qi flaring into the shield before he took a slight step back and then sent the shield flying in the direction he heard the voice calling for it.

'I wonder what he wants to use it for.'

"Perfect!" Gray smirked as he saw the shield slamming into several werewolves while heading his way.

Glancing up, he could see something forming in the air and in a few seconds, a gigantic hammer made from Qi hovered in the air and just at the right moment, when the shield was close to a dozen werewolves.

Gray swung his hands down sending the hammer flying towards the shield and in the next instant...

BANG!

BOOM!

RING!

Loud bangs and ringing sounds were heard as a tremendous shockwave that slammed into three dozen werewolves spread out as the hammer connected with the shield causing large ripples of energy to send the werewolves flying away.

Chapter 463: The power of an S rank beast!

Back on the werewolf planet, the Fang hunters' core members had just finished killing almost all werewolves and beasts on the planet and they were just about to rest when...

ROARRRRRR!

A loud, ear piercing and disturbing roar that was heard on all the streets of the huge city was heard heading their way.

"All of you, run!" Jade's voice screamed in their ears.

"Run?" Peter asked when the roar rang out again and he looked up, his mouth fell agape, eyes widened. "What the?!"

"Move!" Paul quickly shouted as a huge ball of fire crashed down from the sky towards the squad while they quickly leapt back in time.

BOOM!

The whole streets shuddered, houses crumbled as balls of small fire was thrown all around burning with bright intent malice.

"What the hell was that?!" Peter asked in anger as he slowly rose up but could not see anybody due to a thick dust in front of them all with obscured his view.

"What's going on? Kuh!" Emily coughed as she slowly stood up to look around as the thick dust was now slowly settling down to reveal a giant crater in front of them all.

The crater ran for twenty metres deep and wide.

Everybody seeing the crater, gulped loudly as sweat trickled down their faces.

"Di... did that attack from earlier cause this?" Kate asked with cold sweat trickling down her head.

ROARRRR!

A loud, ear piercing roar caused them to all look up to see something gigantic flapping its wings and hovering in the air above them.

"What the hell is that?" Alex asked and his answers was soon to come as everybody heard a loud voice inside their ears.

"Guys! I said freaking run!" Jade screamed using his tech to speak to them all.

"What got you so worried? Isn't it just a single beast?" Paul asked as something caught his eyes and he saw the beast descending down.

With a flap of its crimson wings, another wave of dust spread out, the ground trembled slightly and everybody could now see the full weight and body of the beast.

"A...a....a... a dragon?" Emily stuttered as she took a step back in fright, her heart thumping loudly that it felt like it would just out of her chest.

"Not any dragon, but an S rank beast!" Jade's voice boomed in their ears again and this time, it felt like three lightning bolts slammed hard into the team.

Their heads spun around from what they just heard. An S tier beast? The strongest beast that was at the pinnacle of all beasts. A tier that was said that not even the big three could defeat it.

Unless of course, they all teamed up together along with the most strongest fighters in the world could they take down an S rank beast.

ROARRR!

The dragon roared again as it glared at the humans in front of it with its yellow, slanted eyes and then, it opened up its maw, an orange glow was seen appearing behind it.

"Damn it! This is bad!" Paul shouted as he dove forward, his hands raised to the sky and at the right time, something flew into his hand.

A shield of some kind. Right on cue, he appeared in front of everybody, his Qi flaring around the shield and his body causing the shield to suddenly grow in strength just at the right moment.

As from the beast's mouth, a long stream of fireball shot forward to slam into the shield, Paul could be seen skidding on the ground, his teeth grit as the fire was pushing him back but he managed to hold his ground with sheer grit.

Finally, the fire stopped as Paul fell to his knees, breath ragged, his sleeves burnt and then, the shield lit up brightly.

The next instant, a tremendous blast of energy shot out towards the beast sending it skidding an inch without any scratch on it while Paul was sent flying backwards from the force of the blast from the shield.

"General Paul!" Kate shouted as she saw his body bounce on the ground a few times before he slammed his sword into the ground coming to a halt.

Raising his head, a frown appeared on his face as he glared at the beast.

"What are you kids doing? Attack the freaking beast! We can't leave here if we don't at least put it down. It won't let us get on the glide and it can freaking fly!" Paul roared as he stood up, blood dripping down his mouth.

"No one in history has ever defeated an S tier beast, but I will be the first." Alex smirked, his composure calm and collected as the dragon flapped its wings again, continuous shots of fireballs were sent towards the whole team.

"Qi shield!" Everybody shouted in unison as they slammed their hands to the ground, a glowing visible Qi wall appeared in front of them in an instant.

The fireballs slammed into it hard, a reverberating boom, tremor and shockwave flared out as the Qi wall shattered and everybody were flung away with blood trickling down their mouths.

"I will kill you." Alex roared as he flipped a couple times to break his flight and then bolted forward, Qi swirling around his feet, his sword gleaming behind him.

When close to the werewolf, it tried to open its maw and shoot out another fire attack but Alex had quickly leapt to the side and before the dragon could move, he had already leapt upward, his sword raised above his head.

Qi swirling around the sword coating it and also making it look more giant. Alex sent the sword crashing down on the dragon's head with a huge round of shockwave, the dragon's feet trembled under the force of the clash.

But unsurprisingly, there was no scratch on the dragon. It flapped its wings and took off the the sky with Alex on its back.

"Take me back down you crazy dragon!" Alex shouted as he tried his absolute best to hold onto the dragon's scales while it was seen speeding towards the sky at tremendous speed.

The next instant, it stopped, its body spun around while diving back to the ground with immense speed and at the right moment, it spun countless times in the air causing Alex to lose grip and was sent flying down at a decent speed.

But the dragon wasn't done as it spun around one last time, its long, spiky tail swinging out and slamming into Alex hard to the extent, the air trembled and his flight to the ground accelerated.

BOOM!

Alex's body connected to the ground in less than a second, a loud crack filled the air as if something was breaking. The dragon still not having enough, dove down towards where Alex was and came crashing down on his body.

A loud bang filled the air as the dragon's body slammed into that of Alex's unconscious body.

"No! Alex!" Emily cried out as she saw this.

Chapter 464 - 464

BOOM!

Alex's body connected to the ground in less than a second, a loud crack filled the air as if something was breaking. The dragon still not having enough, dove down towards where Alex was and came crashing down on his body.

A loud bang filled the air as the dragon's body slammed into that of Alex's unconscious body.

"No! Alex!" Emily cried out as she saw this.

ROARRRR!

The dragon roared loudly as if it was excited by the feat it just completed by pulverizing a pest.

"No... no, no, no!" Emily cried as she fell on her knees.

Those that were knocked back suddenly rose up, confusion and surprise etched on their faces as they rapidly blinked at the dragon.

"Please tell me that something is wrong with my eyes." Peter said, disbelief etched on his face. "Did...did... no! Please tell me I'm seeing things and it's not real."

"NOOO!" Kate cried as she also fell on her knees, her heart heavy by what they had just witnessed.

"How is this possible? How can Alex just die like that? He is strong, even stronger than me! So how the hell is this possible?!" Peter shouted, tears streaming down his face as he stared at the dragon which looked back at the team as if enjoying the show.

"So you do agree that I'm stronger than you." A voice said and everybody turned towards the source of the voice including the dragon.

They could all see Alex, battered, blood dripping down his mouth, head bleeding, clothes soaked in crimson, hands clutched against his abdomen. Even with his condition, a fiery determination could be seen on his face along with a soft, small smile.

"I knew you wouldn't die so easily." Paul smiled, his hands moved to quickly wiped a tear from his eye.

"Die? I can't die before fulfilling my wish of surpassing my dad." Alex smirked as he glanced at his cracked sword.

"Okay, that does it with this beast." Emily said as she wiped her face clean of tears and stood up, her katana tightly clenched around her hands.

"Let's create history by ta..." Peter trailed off as the dragon opened up its maw, an orange glow seen behind it.

"Not again!" Paul shouted as he held out his hands, the shield he used to block the fire from earlier flew into his hands which he proceeded to send flying forward with immense speed that it smashed into the dragon's jaws, sending its head moving an inch back.

The orange glow disappeared.

"Take this!" Peter shouted as he swung his axe upward and then proceeded to use the second axe to smash the first sending it flying at full force, slamming into the dragon's scales but not causing any damage.

"Our weapon is no match for it." Kate said as she raised her hand in the air, a giant Qi bow appeared which drew the dragon's attention.

Seeing this, its wings twitched as it tried to move towards the bow.

"Keep the dragon down." Kate shouted.

"On it!" Peter and Alex shouted in unison as they dove towards the dragon.

Stretching his hands, Peter managed to grab his thrown axe and then leapt towards the beast's head, a swing of his axe caused the dragon to lift its giant wings to block causing a huge amount of shockwave to ripple out.

Bodies were flung aside.

Crack!

Shatter!

Peter's axe shattered like fragile glass but he didn't mind as Alex had already appeared behind the beast.

Qi surrounding his hands making it glow bright yellow. While the beast after blocking Peter's attack with its wings, uncurled it and tried to flap it when it suddenly felt its movements restricted.

Looking down, it could see Alex grabbing onto its giant tail, his hands glowing yellow, his teeth grit as he tugged at the tail with all his strength.

"AHHH!" Alex roared as he was slowly pulling the beast out of the air while the beast was trying to flap its wings and move.

Seeing that it couldn't, it quickly turned its giant head towards Alex who had his eyes closed, pouring everything he had to dragging the dragon out of the air.

The dragon's maw opened up, an orange glow appeared behind its throat. The next moment, fireballs shot out towards Alex who was slightly unaware until...

"Look out!" Peter shouted as he dove forward and pushed Alex out of the way just in time as the fireballs slammed into the ground hard, scorching and burning a hole through it.

Although the fireballs were unable to hurt Alex, the dragon's aim of allowing itself move was complete. But as it looked up towards the bow, it could see a giant Qi arrow on the Qi bow's string.

"Kuh!" Kate coughed, blood dripping down her mouth but she stood firm. "Bye!" She said as the arrow shot forward with a loud bang, the air trembled with so much force as the arrow slammed into the dragon which had already lifted its giant wings in front of it.

Bang!

The dragon was hurled to the ground with resounding and immense force, a deeper crater appeared beneath it as the werewolves' structures in the distance crumbled from this.

Just with the dragon's body hitting the ground, those that were standing, were losing balance from the force of the slam but they managed to stay rooted.

"Did it work?" Peter asked as he slowly rose up along with Alex to stare at the thick dust where the dragon was and then...

ROARRRR!

The dragon roared as it flapped its wings, the dust settled. It could be seen with black blood dripping down its wings with a small hole in it but nothing too serious for it.

WHOOSH!

The dragon's wings flapped and the next second, it took off into the sky, hovering and staring down at the humans that gathered together weakly.

Opening its maw, a huge orange glow appeared again.

"It's going for another attack!" Emily shouted in dread as the glow was getting bigger and bigger and then...

BOOM!

A gigantic fireball was shot towards the humans. It was so gigantic that there was nowhere they could run that the fireball wouldn't hit them.

"Shit! This is bad." Kate gulped loudly in fear.

Chapter 465: You called for us? Here we are!

Back on Earth, the war of the century, was happening and surprisingly, the Fang hunters were holding their own against the werewolves slightly.

Although, the sheer numbers of werewolves was still overwhelming. People were dying anyhow and out of the hundred thousand werewolves, the Fang hunters were only able to eliminate two thousand while out of four thousand, five hundred men on the Fang hunters' side, only a thousand remained.

Until Gray decided to pull off a weird move that destroyed two dozen werewolves at once.

BANG!

BOOM!

RING!

Loud bangs and ringing sounds were heard as a tremendous shockwave that slammed into three dozen werewolves spread out as the hammer connected with the shield causing large ripples of energy to send the werewolves flying away.

The online commenters and the world watching the high speed movement, the death of the humans, the remaining werewolves didn't know how to react.

"Guys! It hasn't even been up to thirty minutes and the Fang hunters have lost more than half their men."

"Shit! This is getting bad."

"You know, the members are good. I blame their so called leader. Even in this problem and war, the werewolf slayer is nowhere to be seen. What kind of a leader is he?"

"I agree with you on this one. Even if he is on a planetary conquest, he should be done by now and if he isn't, shouldn't he have paused it and come back to Earth?"

"This is what you all get for making a kid a world leader and also the leader of a reputable guild. Now see the implications. He isn't here, his members are dying, the fate of humanity hangs in the balance."

Erin who was reading the comments while watching the battle, couldn't hold herself back and shouted down the camera.

"Will you all just keep shut?!" She shouted, her hands tightly clenched around the mic. "You all keep commenting like you could do better than him. He is just nineteen you stupid fools!"

"Who the hell is she calling stupid?!" Someone commented in anger.

"Let us out, we could do better than that useless kid. All of you keep hyping his strength and where is he? Nowhere to be found in the time of crisis."

"Tsk! You should have all known by now, she's a dick sucker of the werewolf slayer, how won't she get angry?"

"If I was in his position, I would have done better. All he does is flex his damned power and act like he is better than everyone."

"I don't blame him, I blame the people that put him in his position. I mean look at Gray, he is at the front lines bulldozing through the werewolves while the supposed leader is nowhere to be seen."

"I agree with you. On the day of the duel, I voted for Gray to win and get the position of the world leader. But how the werewolf slayer won, is what I don't understand till now."

"Gray would have made a better world leader than that stupid kid."

Erin reading the comments couldn't help but keep fuming in anger, her head looking like it will explode in anger but before she could rant down at the viewers, a voice spoke in her ears.

"Don't do anything stupid again. I won't accept it if I lose my viewership because of your uncontrollable emotions. Whatever you have to say, keep it to yourself and only comment on the fight. Understood?"

Erin listening to the voice, couldn't help but click her tongue in anger.

"Yes." She muttered, her hands clenched.

'Everybody keeps talking bad about Jake. He is a kid, he is a bad leader and so on. They don't freaking see the things he has been through, what he had to face from a young age.

Damn it Jake! Where the fuck are you?! Come down here and shut everybody's mouth up and clear all these filthy beasts away from this planet!' Erin screamed inwardly.

Back on the battlefield, the leaders that were leading the army were doing their best against the werewolves. Their Qi was running low rapidly and they were slowly being overwhelmed by the werewolves and fatigue.

"Damn it!" Berg cursed in anger as he leapt back to avoid one werewolf, another one slipped towards him without him realizing and slamming its claws into him sending him skidding, blood dripping down his mouth.

"Berg!" Helen cried out as she bolted forward towards her one and only trusted bodyguard.

A werewolf leapt towards her and was about to hit her but she quickly ducked and slipped under the werewolf, her dagger slammed tightly into its underbelly before she appeared behind it.

Without wasting time, she swung her legs out sending the werewolf flying into another. Turning back around, she could see Berg slowly standing up, his sword slightly cracked by the strength of all the clashes.

"Berg! Catch!" The Rave lord shouted as he swung his sword forward that slammed into a werewolf that was heading towards Berg.

Seeing this, Berg bolted for the sword, grabbed it and turned towards another werewolf that tried to slam its claws into his face.

BOOM!

A shockwave rippled out as Berg grunted under the strength of the werewolf while another one was creeping towards him from behind.

"Ugh! Give me a break damn it." Berg roared as his mind raced with what he could do when Andrew dashed forward, his sword making quick work of the werewolf that tried to sneak behind Berg.

"Crap! This is getting worse by the minute." Rave lord shouted, Qi swirling around his fist as he pivoted sideways avoiding a swing before slamming his fist into a werewolf sending it flying with a gaping hole in its abdomen.

"We are losing men quickly!" Helen cried out as she leaned backwards to avoid a claw strike but it grazed her cheeks drawing blood.

"The mechs, where are they?" Andrew asked, his breath ragged, his body riddled with injuries as he was seen clashing against two werewolves.

"Destroyed. All of them except one." Gray replied as he swung the shield in his hand causing it to tear a werewolf's head off.

Right on cue, a laser beam shot out towards a werewolf killing it immediately.

"Mech number one at your service!" Number one shouted.

"Shit! We need reinforcements. Where are the big three? I thought they were heading here!" Helen shouted in anger as she bolted towards a werewolf, her dagger slamming against a claw.

"That's right, I thought they heard about this. So where the fuck are they?" Andrew asked in anger.

"You know, we can't do without showing up." A voice boomed from above.

The drones quickly switched to the air, four giant Aeroglide hovered in the sky. Rex was seen standing on the roof of one, his crimson cape fluttering in the wind, his crimson hair also flowing in the air.

Raising his hands to the sky, two thousand Qi swords materialized above the battlefield, a grin and a small frown crept on his face as he stared out at the battlefield.

"You called for us, here we are." Rex said as he snapped his fingers unleashing pure chaos on the battlefield.

Chapter 466: Release them!

"What am I seeing guys?" Erin shouted down at the camera as she glanced up to the sky.

Four huge Aeroglides with Rex on one of them, hands crossed and a small frown on his face.

"Rex finally decided to make an appearance guys!" Erin screamed for joy as she watched Rex uncross his hands.

"You know, we can't do without showing up." A voice boomed from above.

The drones quickly switched to the air, four giant Aeroglides hovered in the sky. Rex was seen standing on the roof of one, his crimson cape fluttering in the wind, his crimson hair also flowing in the air.

Raising his hands to the sky, two thousand Qi swords materialized above the battlefield, a grin and a small frown crept on his face as he stared out at the battlefield.

"You called for us, here we are." Rex said as he snapped his fingers unleashing pure chaos on the battlefield.

BOOM!

The two thousand Qi swords crashed into the battlefield, dust, debris and even werewolves were sliced open. Screams and howls of pain rang out as Rex totally decimated two thousand werewolves with just a single move.

"Show off." A voice said as the roof to one Aeroglide opened up, Bane could be seen rising out of it till he stood on the roof of the glide.

His coat fluttering in the wind as he sighed after scanning the battlefield before lifting a single finger.

Pointing his index finger downward, a silent bang went off as something wheezed in the air and decimated a thousand werewolves.

Looking closely at the werewolves before they dropped down dead, bullet-like holes could be seen in their heads as if a laser beam passed through creating the small hole.

And that was what happened as Bane had shot a concentrated laser beam tearing gaping holes in the werewolves' head before they could react.

"What do we have here? Bane Josh has just joined the battle too!" Erin exclaimed as she watched Bane's lab coat flutter in the wind. "This truly feels like the last stand against the werewolves."

'Crap! I'm still injured from the battle against that Beta werewolf.' Bane sighed inwardly as he looked at his finger. 'If the Alpha joins the battle, we are dead.'

'Even if I'm still weakened a bit from the previous battle,' Rex thought as he took a step back on the glide's roof.

Eyes fixated on the chaos down below. After the destruction Rex and Bane had caused, the werewolves' numbers had just reduced and Rex was about to do much more.

'I won't back down from this fight, never!' Rex roared in his mind as he surrounded his body with Qi and then leapt off from the Aeroglide carefully so as not to damage the glide because of the people in it.

Flying downwards and feeling the cool breeze on his face, Rex spun around countless times before he landed in the midst of a dozen werewolves with a bang.

Energy shot out in the form of shockwaves crashing and throwing the werewolves off their feet. They were launched far away from him.

Immediately after he landed, Rex didn't waste time in lifting his hands up and then swinging it back down unleashing another five hundred Qi swords that decimated more than a thousand werewolves before dissipating.

"Damn! Rex is sure showing why he is a world leader and called the strongest world leader." Erin commented and the world couldn't help but agree more after seeing the destruction he was causing.

"Yo Rex!" Bane called out as the Aeroglide he was on earlier was now descending, his coat still flowing in the wind.

"Top this." Bane smirked as he lifted his palm and pointed it outward.

Bang!

A deafening bang rang out as something shot forward and annihilated hundreds of werewolves in the path while also cleaving the ground open.

Everybody stood stunned unable to react. Gray, battered and barely hanging on couldn't help but grit his teeth after the display from the two world leaders.

With more ferociousness, he dove back into the battle and began slashing and tearing werewolves apart but not without sustaining visible injuries that were now piling up and starting to slow him down.

"You should learn to take things slowly." A voice said as a young fella walked over towards Gray, his crimson hair swaying in the wind like Rex.

"I don't take advise from weaklings or younglings!" Gray roared as he swiftly avoided a slash to his face and then slammed his hands together summoning a giant Qi sword that shot forward tearing into a dozen werewolves at once.

'Crap! My Qi is almost depleted. If this fight doesn't end soon, I won't be able to use Qi for a while.'

"Weakling?" Raze asked, a frown deepened on his face as he immediately sidestepped avoiding a werewolf's kick before blasting it away with pure Qi. "I will show you!" He roared as he lifted his hands to the sky.

Swinging it back down, eight hundred Qi spears came crashing down with immense speed, tearing and ripping through werewolves as if they were nothing.

"That is the power of the Slades. Next time, think twice before calling me a weakling." Raze said as he swung his coat to the side, his sword was seen rattling in its sheath.

"Come on little friend, it's time to drink blood." Raze smirked as he unsheath his sword that was now gleaming with otherworldly energy.

While all these was going on, the four huge glides descended from the air and unleashed thousands of men from the Slade and Bane faction.

With this, the tides of the fight was slowly tipping to the human's favour as werewolves were now falling rapidly as if they were nothing but dead flies.

"Damn it." Ulric who was standing several metres away and in front of their glide, had a frown on his face as he stared at the battle that was now tipping towards the human's favour. "We are slowly losing this war especially with the arrival of those cursed world leaders."

"What can i do to help? The Alpha isn't still ready as his plan is not yet complete. So what the hell should I do?" Ulric muttered in anger as he clenched his hands while seeing his comrades diminishing and there came a voice...

"Release them now." The deep voice echoed in Ulric's ear and then a grin crept on his face.

"As your lordship pleases." Ulric smirked and then tapping the side of their glide, the hatch opened up.

AWHOOO!

ROARRRR!

GROWLLL!

Several sounds filled the air which drew everybody's attention to the werewolves' glide.

"What the actual hell?!" Andrew muttered through ragged breath.

Chapter 467 467: This is gonna hurt!

Back on the werewolves' planet, the core members from the Fang hunters were currently going through the battle of their life against an S rank dragon beast which had nearly killed them twice now.

They were injured, battered, bloody, barely hanging on and growing tired but even with this, they grit their teeth and still soldiered on.

"It's going for another attack!" Emily shouted in dread as the glow was getting bigger and bigger and then...

BOOM!

A gigantic fireball was shot towards the humans. It was so gigantic that there was nowhere they could run that the fireball wouldn't hit them.

"Shit! This is bad." Kate gulped loudly in fear.

"Hang on!" A voice shouted from the air and then...

BOOM!

Something landed a few metres away from them. A loud clicking sound followed as something finally rose above them encasing them in a dome while the gigantic fireball from the dragon slammed into it hard.

BOOM!

The dome that encased them trembled loudly and so did the ground causing them to all fall flat on their backside as the sound of someone grunting was heard.

The dome was quite dark so nobody was able to see anything properly. This tremble went on for some minutes before it finally calmed down.

And when there was no further attack, the dome slowly fell down to reveal Jade on his knees coughing and panting hard. Sophia stood strong beside him, her gaze fixed on the dragon that was seen hovering in the air.

"Jade? Sophia?" Kate uttered in a stunned expression as she stared at the duo.

"What did I tell you all earlier? Freaking run! So what the hell are you all still doing here?" Jade scolded in anger as he slowly stood up.

"How did you do that?" Peter asked in confusion.

"Do what? The dome? Simple explanation, it's a tech of mine." Jade shrugged when the loud roar from the dragon drew their attention.

"So, do you have any tech that can actually help us defeat this damned dragon?" Alex asked as his hands still clutched his side.

"Actually, I think I do." Jade said as he leapt back, his mechanical hands in front of him as he rapidly tapped on it. "But I would need at least a legendary tier crystal which I don't have."

"We can get that for you." Emily replied as she looked around at the dead beasts on the floor.

"Alex! Can you still fight?" Paul asked as he stepped forward, his hands on his sword tightly.

"Always ready to fight General." Alex replied with a grin as he held his cracked sword.

"Good, you, Peter and Sophia. With me. Emily, Kate and Jade get the damned tech working and let's take this damned beast down." Paul barked as he bent his knees, eyes fixed on the dragon which was now opening up its maw to unleash another chaos.

"Not again!" Paul roared as he leapt off, QI surrounding his feet as he held out his hand.

A shield flew into it which he swung forward with all the strength he could muster causing it to smash into the dragon's maw while he managed to step on the air countless times before shooting forward and landing on the dragon's wings.

Feeling something on its wing, the dragon tried to shake Paul off but he had simply leapt up, his hands coated in QI which he proceeded to slam into the dragon hard.

ROARRR!

"Alex!" Paul called out as he barely hanged onto the dragon's wing. Because it was currently swiveling around trying to shake Paul off with all its might but he held on.

"Clip the damned wings!" Paul ordered as he slammed his hands into the dragon's head again and this time, unleashing a burst of shockwave that spread out violently.

"Well, how am I supposed to do that? You are the one on the damn dragon." Alex shouted as he glanced at Paul struggling to stay on the dragon.

"I can help with that." Sophia said as she hurriedly began moving her hands in the air, eyes focused. "Just help create four Qi swords."

"You sure? I only have so much Qi left." Alex muttered as he clenched his hands in and out.

"Sure, just do it now." Sophia ordered as sweat began trickling down her face.

"And I will help keep that dragon busy while I..." Peter trailed off as the dragon quit trying to take Paul down and instead, open up its maw to send fireballs raining.

"Quickly lend me your sword now." Peter ordered Alex and without questioning him, he gave it to him.

Channelling his Qi through the sword and remaining axe in his hands, Peter dove forward just in time as the dragon began sending fireballs after fireballs towards the small group.

Without wasting time, Peter began swinging the sword and axe out in the air rapidly unleashing slashes and balls of Qi that collided with each fireball.

For each fireball shot out, Peter had to unleash half a dozen Qi attacks to combat it and in the process, his Qi was depleting faster and faster until the dragon had enough and dove down in anger with immense speed.

"Crap!" Paul exclaimed as he stood on the dragon's back, barely holding on.

His sword was raised above his head. Qi surrounding it and making it stronger and also glowing yellow.

"Here goes nothing!" Paul shouted as he swung his sword down towards the dragon's head with all the strength he could muster.

Bang!

Ring!

ROARRRR!

A deafening ring and bang rang out as Paul's sword connected with the dragon's head who in turn roared loudly in anger as it began spinning in the air angrily trying to get Paul off, black blood trickling down its head.

Paul who was about to fall off, spotted something around where he had struck the dragon with his sword earlier.

"An opening? A weakness?" Paul muttered not until the dragon spun harder again causing Paul to slip off, his body flying towards the ground with immense speed.

The dragon finally free of Paul that was still free falling, opened up its maw and sent a huge fireball crashing towards Paul.

"Shit!" Paul muttered as he quickly spun in the air, hands held out as a shield flew towards it which he put in front of him causing it to absorb the impact from the fireball.

Totally swallowing it like a wormhole of some kind.

'The shield I got from the corpse of a Fang hunter. It is indestructible and can absorb any attack, power or kinetic energy while still shooting it out as a pure, destructive energy.' Paul thought as the shield lit up so bright that his face was now illuminated.

"Crap! I haven't seen it light up this bright before." Paul muttered as his eyes widened. "This is gonna hurt!"

Bang!

An ear piercing, deafening bang echoed in the whole battlefield. A tremendous wave of energy shot out slamming into the dragon while Paul's fall accelerated and in the blink of an eye, his body connected with the ground hard.

Chapter 468 468: The tech is ready!

"Crap! I haven't seen it light up this bright before." Paul muttered as his eyes widened. "This is gonna hurt!"

Bang!

An ear piercing, deafening bang echoed in the whole battlefield. A tremendous wave of energy shot out slamming into the dragon while Paul's fall accelerated and in the blink of an eye, his body connected with the ground hard.

ROARRR!

The dragon roared in anger and pain as the tremendous wave of energy slammed into it hard, causing it to bleed badly as it was swung back with so much force that it nearly fell from the sky.

But a continuous flap of its wings finally made it come to a halt as black blood continuously dripped down its crimson body.

"General Paul?!" Peter shouted as Alex and Sophia were still busy making whatever they needed to get the beast down.

"I'm...Kuk! I'm okay." Paul coughed as he slowly rose up, blood dripping down his nose. "On a second thought, I think I cracked a rib or two."

"You need to be more careful!" Peter scolded as he offered his hand forward and Paul took it while slowly rising up.

"Yeah, I will." Paul said, a small smile on his face when the dragon's roar brought them back to the battle.

"Stop shouting every single time you damned dragon! Give your freaking throat a rest." Peter shouted in anger.

In response, the dragon shot out several fireballs from the air towards Peter who gripped his axe and sword tightly until...

"I got this." Paul said as he grabbed his shield and dashed forward, slamming it into the ground hard.

Causing a wave of Qi to spread out and block the fireballs from hitting them but Paul was still sent skidding a bit.

"How do we get this overgrown lizard down here now? Jade can't do whatever he wants while it is in the air." Peter said as he kept swinging his axe and sword several times in the air unleashing slashes of Qi to hit the dragon continuously but it managed to avoid each and every single one of them.

"That's where we finally come in." Sophia's voice echoed as the four Qi swords Alex had created floated in the air.

Surrounding the swords were thin lines that looked like threads but not the usual thread, these ones looked to be made from Qi.

"Is... is this your visual Qi? A thread?" Peter asked in confusion.

"Just shut up an..." Alex trailed off as the dragon geared for another attack.

It tried to open its maw to unleash another round of fireballs but reacting quickly, Paul sent his shield flying forward.

As if anticipating this, the dragon quickly swiveled in the air avoiding the shield which still flew back whacking the dragon in the head and moving giant head a few inches.

"Stop the yapping and get working!" Paul roared.

"Alex!" Sophia called out as she twirled her fingers around causing the thread to wrap around the swords tightly like two sticks being connected to each other using a rope of some kind. "Shoot!"

"On it." Alex said as the dragon now opened its maw about to send another fireball attack when the swords flew forward at immense speed towards it.

Seeing this, it quickly turned its maw towards the swords and immediately sent a huge fireball towards the swords.

"Crap!" Sophia said as she twirled her fingers and at the last second, the swords swiveled around the fireball which was now heading for the ground.

In a split second, the fireball slammed hard into the ground, dust and debris kicked up as a giant hole was burnt through the ground.

"Go!" Sophia roared as she swung her fingers forward causing the swords to rocket forward at immense speed.

The dragon tried to chomp on the swords but they just turned around, towards the dragon's back and the next second, the four swords lunged deep into the dragon's wings.

Two on each wing while Sophia held her palm outward. Focusing on it, she slammed her palms together and the thread swiftly reacted, connection with each along with the swords finally tying up the beast's wings.

ROARRR!

The dragon roared furiously as it was suddenly sent plummeting down like a meteor heading straight for Earth. The speed with which the beast was seen crashing down was so immense that the sound barrier shattered multiple times.

It furiously tried to flap its wings several times but to no avail. They weren't responding to it and then, it slammed into the ground in a split second.

A loud, deafening boom shook the whole planet. With this, it felt like the planet had moved slightly from its position. Werewolves' structures crumbled in an instant.

A tremendous wave of shockwave spread out that it knocked them all from their feet sending them bouncing a couple times before coming to a halt.

"Damn it! How much does this shitty lizard weigh?" Alex cursed as he slowly rose up along with the rest to see the dragon standing up.

Its head slightly bleeding. It shook its massive head a few times as if trying to get rid of a hangover or dizziness.

"Quick! Before it regains its head." Sophia shouted as she grabbed her rapier and bolted forward.

"As if there's even anything we can do against it." Paul said as he also dashed forward, his cracked sword in one hand, his shield in the other.

Despite their injuries, they still braved forward with Sophia at the forefront. Immediately after reaching the beast's position, Sophia leapt up towards its eyes.

Her rapier moving quickly towards it as the dragon was still seen trying to regain its head. But as if sensing her presence, its eyes snapped open and the dragon opened up its mouth trying to chomp on her when...

"You younglings and acting rashly." Paul shouted as he bolted forward, pushing his body to the limit.

Seeing that he would not be able to make it in time, he swung the shield forward sending it flying towards the beast's face but as if anticipating this, the dragon swung its tail towards the shield sending it flying back towards Paul.

"Qi wall!" Paul shouted as he slammed his hands together and a massive wall of Qi immediately raised up.

But when the shield struck, it shattered like fragile glass as Paul was sent flying due to the force of the shield hitting him with blood spraying down his mouth.

Due to Paul's timely involvement, Sophia finally was able to lunge her sword into one of the dragon's eyes with all the strength she could muster.

The blade met a bit of resistance as the dragon thrashed around in pain but she infused the sword with all her Qi letting it push through and pull out the dragon's eye with black blood dripping down the eye socket and then...

Whack!

The dragon's tail finally moved and slammed Sophia away from it sending her flying and tumbling on the ground with a cracked nose, blood spilling down her nose and mouth.

"Shit! When will the damned tech be ready?" Peter cursed in anger as he got ready to dash forward when...

"It is ready!" Jade called out.

Chapter 469: The destruction of the werewolves' planet!

Whack!

The dragon's tail finally moved and slammed Sophia away from it sending her flying and tumbling on the ground with a cracked nose, blood spilling down her nose and mouth.

"Shit! When will the damned tech be ready?" Peter cursed in anger as he got ready to dash forward when...

"It is ready!" Jade called out

"Took you long enough..." Peter trailed off as he turned to where he had heard Jade's voice and he could see that his hands were no longer human.

They had suddenly fused together forming a huge cannon. On his back, there was a small compartment where two beast crystals lay while lighting up slightly.

On the side of the back compartment, a long thin, rope was seen protruding out while Jade pointed his cannon hands towards the dragon that was still thrashing from pain of having its eyes removed.

"What the hell is that?" Peter asked as he saw Kate standing beside Jade, Emily quickly ran forward towards Alex who knelt down in pain.

Coughing out specks of blood.

"You okay?" Emily asked as she slid beside Alex.

"Yeah, I'm fine. Just a little bit sore." Alex chuckled dryly when the sound of the dragon roaring was heard again.

"I will implore you both to keep romance aside and let's focus on the gigantic problem." Peter hissed in anger.

"I need it to stay still." Jade said as he raised his canon hands, pointing it forward at the dragon which had just snapped its one good eye open.

Opening its maw, it shot out multiple fireballs forward while still sending a long stream of fire forward which was following behind the fireball.

"Okay! I can help with these damned fireballs but after that, my Qi will be depleted." Alex said as he forced himself to rise up and walk forward, fiery Qi blazing around his body.

After surrounding his body, they suddenly detached from his body and rose up above his body forming a huge ball of fiery Qi swirling with intense amount of energy.

"Kuk!" Alex coughed as he almost stumbled forward, blood dripping down his mouth as he tried his best to contain the ball of Qi and in a flash, he sent it flying towards the fireballs at immense speed.

Bang!

The attacks collided against each other with a terrifying bang, the air crackled and shuddered from the force of the clash.

"Over here!" Sophia made use of the smoke screen created from the clash to dash towards the dragon, her Qi thread swirling around to form a massive, thick thread.

She coated her feet with Qi and dashed around the dragon's legs while swinging the thread all around. The dragon roared and tried to lift its feet when Paul swung his shield out causing it to slam into the dragon's legs causing it to tumble back.

With a final thug, the thread tightened and just in time as Alex and Emily had bolted forward, Qi swirling around their hands.

'This is the final Qi I have.' Alex sighed inwardly as he along with Emily leapt forward, their hands smashed into the dragon's face with a deafening bang sending it tumbling to the ground creating a much larger crater.

"Now would be the right time to attack!" Peter roared.

"Kate!" Jade called out and Kate quickly grabbed the thin rope on the side of Jade's mechanics.

With a strong pull, the cannon around Jade's hands lit up, swirling with immense energy and then...

Boom!

A humongous blast shot out towards the dragon, the recoil strong enough to throw Jade back, his techs crumbling to the ground while the blast was seen headed towards the dragon which was trying to get up.

"Move!" Emily shouted as she leapt forward and pushed Alex out of the way in time as the blast tore the ground and slammed into the dragon with a tremendous bang.

The whole area trembled tremendously, the shockwave from the blast was enough to throw everybody off sending them flying and tumbling backwards.

The shockwave covered the entire planet, craters formed like spider webs around the ground. The forest on a few metres away was totally destroyed, uprooted from the ground and tossed around.

The remaining buildings crumbled down totally, the dead werewolves on the ground, their bodies were torn to absolute shreds.

The planet trembled and quaked for a few seconds until it finally calmed down letting everybody to slowly rise albeit with a loud groan as their bodies ached massively.

"Di...did it work?" Peter asked as he touched his head which was bleeding profusely.

"I think it did." Jade who was knocked back by both the recoil and shockwave slowly made his way over, his body aching tremendously.

That was when they saw it, the dragon twitched.

"Nope it didn't! It is still freaking alive!" Jade screamed in horror as everybody else held their weapons tightly staring apprehensively at the twitching beast.

But then, it stopped twitching all of a sudden and lay unmoving.

"What's going on?" Jade questioned softly as they didn't see the beast move again. They waited for a few seconds and didn't see it move so General Paul decided to walk forward slowly.

His steps slow and steady as he strode towards the unmoving beast.

"What are you doing General Paul? What if it's still alive? We just saw it twitch just now, it might spring back up." Peter whispered in caution.

"It will be fine. If I don't do this, we may never know if it's still alive." Paul said as he was now a few feet away and then he peeked at the dragon's body even cautiously probing at it.

Kate and Jade closed their eyes instinctively expecting a reaction from the dragon but there was none.

"Relax you all, it's dead." Paul said as he walked over and everybody collapsed to the ground in exhaustion.

"I can't believe that is over." Alex sighed softly as he also collapsed to the ground, his chest heaving in and out slowly.

"And that is not all, we need to blow this whole place up and get back." Jade said as he turned to his mechanical hand and began tapping against it.

"You want us to go around this huge planet, planting bombs?" Peter asked in exhaustion.

"Nope! Already did that and it's going to blow in twenty seconds now." Jade said finally lifting his head.

"Wait, what?! Twenty seconds? We need at least thirty freaking minutes to get off this planet." Alex roared in anger as he forced himself to stand up.

"We even need about ten minutes to get back to our glide." Paul added.

"Ten seconds now." Jade said as he tapped a button and the next instant, a swirling portal appeared in front of them all. "Come on, let's go."

"Int..." Emily trailed off as Jade grabbed and pushed her into the portal with the rest of the guys jumping into it one at a time.

Jade was the last to follow and the moment he stepped through the portal, a tremendous rumbling was felt and heard as the planet shook tremendously and slowly...

Bang!

Bang!

Bang!

Multiple bangs went off all around the planet, the whole place shaking continuously then...

Boom!

Boom!

Multiple explosions went off as the portal snapped shut, the explosions rang out all around the planet and finally, a bigger one erupted.

The planet suddenly divided in two large and smaller chunks with debris floating in space along with the dead dragon's body.

Chapter 470: Monsters!

Back on Earth... After the world leaders made an entrance, the tides of the war fully tipped in favour of humanity. Just their presence, army, strength and smarts, the battle changed totally.

From a hundred thousand strong werewolves, they had now been reduced to not more than two thousand werewolves in just a few minutes of Rex, Bane and their army joining in.

"Those that have been fighting from the start, retreat, heal up, recover and then come back." Rex ordered as he pivoted sideways avoiding a werewolf from hitting him and then with the flick of his fingers, he sent a Qi bullet flying into the werewolf's head.

"No! We can't let you fight alone!" Gray shouted, his body battered with multiple injuries and cuts.

"Listen to him, you fool." Bane shouted as he leapt back before swinging his leg out, a blade shot out from his leg and slammed into a werewolf.

"We will retreat for now." The Rave lord shouted as he grabbed Berg who had been impaled in the side by a werewolf claw and then dashing away.

Helen was seen swinging her daggers that were unleashing Qi outward towards any werewolves that came their way while she slowly backed away.

Andrew who was barely hanging on, slowly backed away too along with about five hundred men from the initial four thousand plus that had come out for the fight.

Seeing this, and the way he was feeling tired, Gray didn't have any choice but to grit his teeth and retreat back slowly.

"Fine! But once my Qi has recovered, I'm coming back out here." Gray shouted as he dashed away from the battlefield letting Rex, Bane, Raze, Jay and their thousands of men to ravage freely.

The online commenters seeing this fight, took to their keyboards again while keeping an eye on the fight.

"You know, Gray is a really loveable fellow unlike a certain dude that is currently absent."

"Yeah. I really wish Gray was the leader of the Fang hunters instead of a kid."

"Is that what you are thinking about? I wanted him to join the world table instead."

"Right! I currently feel pity for him. He is so battered and tired but still wanted to keep on fighting for much longer."

"That's the qualities of a good leader unlike a certain someone. I didn't mention names, lol."

"Even if you didn't, we already know who you are referring to."

—

Ulric who was standing several metres away from the battlefield, just received a command from the Alpha in his ears.

"Release them now." The deep voice echoed in Ulric's ear and then a grin crept on his face.

"As your lordship pleases." Ulric smirked and then tapping the side of their glide, the hatch opened up.

AWHOOO!

ROARRRR!

GROWLLL!

Several sounds filled the air which drew everybody's attention to the werewolves' glide.

"What the actual hell?!" Andrew muttered through ragged breath as he watched from far away.

Rex who heard the loud sounds, lifted his head to see what was going on and his expression darkened.

Because swarming out of the werewolves' Aeroglide, were more werewolves about fifty thousand of them and not only that, flying beasts swarmed out of the glide.

Gorrila type beasts, wolf beasts along with the flying beasts swarmed out numbering around a thousand along with the werewolves, they bolted forward.

"How the hell do they have so many beasts?" Raze asked as he held his sword which was trembling with power.

"It's like they went to different planets to conquer all the beasts here." Jay added, his mouth agape.

"The right question here should be, how the hell are they able to control the beasts?" Bane said, his brows furrowed.

"Doesn't matter." Rex said, his hands crept up to grab his cape, pull it and swung it away to reveal his hard, toned and scarred upper body.

"Because whatever he throws at us," Rex said as he raised his hands, his gaze fixated on the beasts along with the werewolves coming forward.

Immediately, fifty thousand Qi swords materialized in the air. Blood dripping down Rex's mouth. A sign that he was nearing his limits but he didn't budge.

Instead, a smile crept on his face as the army neared them rapidly.

"How much power does this guy has?" Someone watching from the Livestream commented.

"Doesn't he have a limit?"

"Just when I thought that a thousand Qi swords was his limit, he went ahead to pull this off."

"Now I know why nobody wants to ever step on his toes. He is a one man army and can literally take down planets on his own."

"Agreed."

"Whatever he throws at us, I will eliminate them all!" Rex roared as he swung his hands down unleashing the thousands of Qi swords raining like arrows from the sky.

In a split second, the swords crashed against the army of beasts and werewolves tearing them to pieces. This attack was on such a large scale that the ground tore open.

Flying beasts dropped down like dead insects. Werewolves that didn't know how to combat against the swords, got themselves impaled with the swords tearing through their hides as if it was nothing.

"Kuk!" Rex coughed out a speck of blood, a smile still on his face as he stared at the destruction caused all around.

'Damn it! I have just gone and reopened all my previous internal injuries.'

"I'm not going to be outdone by you!" Bane said as he lifted his hands into the air.

Something flaring from his lab coat's sleeves and surrounding his hands forming a pair of long cannons.

"Explode!" Bane smirked and several shots of energy were fired out into the sky slamming into the remaining flying beasts.

The next second, the energies slammed back into the ground with a thunderous explosion. Werewolves were ripped apart, the ground trembled heavily.

The drones in the sky capturing everything, were thrown away due to the shockwave from the explosion.

{Livestream}

"What the hell?! I felt like my computer shook along with me."

"Not only that, it felt like my whole house got shaken up."

"Dude! My bones and blood screamed and shook from that."

"Crazy how these guys could easily rip through planets and take down even the solar system on their own."

"But can they stand their own against the Alpha though?"

"I guess we will find out in this fight if the Alpha comes out."

—

{Back at the fight}

"Kek! Now how was that?" Bane asked as he turned to face Rex with a smirk on his face.

He almost stumbled on the ground but quickly held himself and wiped a speck of blood from his mouth.

The dust that was thrown up slowly settled down to reveal that only about a thousand enemy remained.

"I don't think I can fight for now. Especially with me trying to conserve my strength for the Alpha." Rex said as he stared at the confused thousand werewolves.

"Same here." Bane said as he coughed out blood again.

"And that's why I'm here." A voice was heard heading their way.

Turning around, Gray's brows furrowed as he saw who was coming over with a Katana in one hand, the other hand bare and where there was supposed to be a hand, there was a stump which was covered up by the long robes he wore.

"Head General Humfree." Gray muttered.