

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 471 - 471

"I don't think I can fight for now. Especially with me trying to conserve my strength for the Alpha." Rex said as he stared at the confused thousand werewolves.

"Same here." Bane said as he coughed out blood again.

"And that's why I'm here." A voice was heard heading their way.

Turning around, Gray's brows furrowed as he saw who was coming over with a Katana in one hand, the other hand bare and where there was supposed to be a hand, there was a stump which was covered up by the long robes he wore.

"Head General Humfree." Gray muttered.

"Yes. And for the record, I'm still pissed at you for whacking me unconscious." Humfree said as he pointed his blade towards Gray before turning back to the battle.

"Can you fight?" Rex asked as he and Bans walked over leaving their sons with the remaining fighters to face off against the werewolves.

"I was trained to be a fighter despite whatever conditions I find myself in. So yeah, I can still fight despite this." Humfree said as he lifted his stump up, a smile on his face as he turned towards the battle that had resumed again.

"Now, go and recover for your big fight. I got this." Humfree said as he bent his knees and the next second, he exploded forward.

Humfree was currently moving almost like a blur as he appeared in the middle of the hot battle. His remaining hand clenched around his sword as he swiftly drove it into a werewolf's head.

Another werewolf was about to strike him when he swiftly leapt away, his sword wheezed forward cleaving the werewolf's arms cleanly.

Before he whipped his leg forward sending the werewolf flying with a broken rib or two.

"Come on! Even if I had a single leg, I will still use it to tear you to shreds! I ain't backing down so come at me!" Humfree roared.

His long white hair which was now tied into a ponytail, moved from side to side as he shouted and the next instant, he exploded from his position.

Meanwhile, Raze could be seen surrounded by six werewolves that were currently causally circulating around him. Their movements, slow and calculative.

"Am I supposed to be scared?" Raze asked with a light chuckle. "Come at me damn it!"

"AWHOOO!"

The werewolves howled as they bolted towards Raze from all sides. A claw was seen headed for his face but leaning backwards, he avoided it.

That was when he felt another claw strike heading for his head from behind and in response, he quickly slammed his Qi infused legs into the ground causing a massive quake in the area that threw the werewolf off.

A spin around allowed him to slam his sword into a werewolf's eye damaging it while unleashing a Qi spear that smashed into a werewolf's head sending it flying with the spear in its head.

"One down, five more to go." Raze roared as he coated his leg with Qi and then in one smooth movement, he swung it out unleashing a wave of Qi that was about to hit the werewolves but they easily avoided them.

Causing the Qi energy to crash into the ground, creating craters as it moved and slammed into a few werewolves in the distance only harming them slightly from the reduced velocity of the strike.

"Oh?! You lots are becoming smarter huh?" Raze chuckled as he lifted his sword above his head.

The werewolves were circulating around him as Qi gathered around his sword causing it to glow bright yellow while he stood rooted in the same spot.

Eyes darting around the place, waiting for the first victim and it didn't take long as two werewolves bolted towards him, their claws slightly elongated which they proceeded to swing forward towards the still Raze.

In a flash, he spun around, his sword swung down unleashing a massive slash of Qi that sliced the werewolves open but this left Raze slightly open as the three remaining werewolves dashed forward.

One jumped up and swung its legs out slamming it into Raze's face hard. Blood shot out as he was sent skidding into another werewolf's path which swung its fist forward in a loud bang.

But spinning around while coating his hands with Qi, Raze grabbed a hold of the fist. A smirk on his face as he grabbed the werewolf with a single hand and proceeded to slam it hard into the ground.

Bang!

Shockwave spread out as the werewolf's body slammed into the ground hard. Loud crunch filled the air, blood sprayed from the werewolf's mouth as its yellow eyes rolled backwards.

Infusing his foot with Qi, Raze proceeded to give the werewolf beneath him a good, strong kick that hurled its unconscious body forward crashing into one of the werewolf and sending them flying at immense speed across the battlefield.

"Kuk!" Raze coughed as he held his head which was aching from the kick.

"AWHOO!"

The last remaining werewolf howled as it dashed towards Raze who had already forgotten that the werewolf was even there. It leapt forward with tremendous speed that Raze was a bit late in reacting when...

Clang!

A shield flew out from nowhere and smashed into the werewolf's jaws causing it to slam into the ground hard. The ground cracked hard, debris was kicked up along with some dust as the werewolf lay unconscious.

"Wh...what was that?" Raze muttered as he saw the shield fly back towards an individual's hand.

Erin who was watching the situation and commenting once a while, upon seeing the new arrivals, couldn't but scream loudly.

"Guys! What the fuck are we seeing here? The main core members of the Fang hunters have just arrived! General Paul and the others are here!" Erin roared down the camera as General Paul, Alex, Peter, Kate, Emily, Sophia and Jade could be seen coming out of a portal.

Their faces etched with confusion at the unfolding battle. A mix of exhaustion and dread lingering on their faces as they stared at the whole scene.

"What the fuck happened while we were away?!" Peter asked in shock.

Chapter 472: Where is the werewolf slayer?

The core members of the Fang hunters that had been on an expedition to conquer all planets the werewolves had stolen from humanity.

The core members that also went to the werewolves home base to destroy it and in the process, battled against an S rank dragon while barely coming out alive.

The same core members could be seen arriving through a swirling portal and thrust into the midst of another battle.

"Guys! What the fuck are we seeing here? The main core members of the Fang hunters have just arrived! General Paul and the others are here!" Erin roared down the camera as General Paul, Alex, Peter, Kate, Emily, Sophia and Jade could be seen coming out of a portal.

Their faces etched with confusion at the unfolding battle. A mix of exhaustion and dread lingering on their faces as they stared at the whole scene.

"What the fuck happened while we were away?!" Peter asked in shock.

"AWHOO!"

Two werewolves howled as they dashed towards the core members who still stood confused and wondering what was going on.

But the sudden howl snapped them back to reality as Kate swiftly pulled her bow and sent two arrows flying which slammed into the werewolves and causing them to slide to the ground with a sickening thud.

"Seriously? No break at all? From one battle to the next damn it!" Peter shouted in anger as he looked back to see some members of the guild meditating at the far back along with the world leaders.

Dead werewolves littered the place along with dead humans. A gigantic Aeroglide at the far back with a single werewolf standing there.

About over five hundred werewolves remaining with a about a thousand humans left battling against the werewolves with all the strength they could muster.

"My sword." Alex said as he held his hand out towards Peter.

"Seriously? You are simply going to jump straight into another battle despite your injuries?" Emily asked as she was the one currently supporting Alex with her shoulder otherwise, he could barely walk.

"When duty calls," Alex said finally standing on his own. Peter retuned his sword which he held firmly. His eyes burning with determination while looking at the battle.

"I will answer." Alex said as he bolted forward with his cracked sword.

Behind him, was General Paul along with Sophia and Peter who swiftly dove into the heart of the battle.

Despite them exhausting their Qi, they still had enough strength to combat omega werewolves despite the fact that they struggled a little bit though.

Slash!

Whoosh!

Alex's sword sliced through the air as it slammed into a werewolf's neck before he forced his body to leap back in time for a werewolf had just crashed right in front of him kicking up dust.

"Must you make a silly entrance? Knowing that you will die by my blade." Alex cursed as he rocketed forward.

He thrust his sword forward but the werewolf slammed into claw's onto the blade cracking it further and sending Alex skidding a few inches.

"Strong, I like." Alex shouted as he pushed forward ready to clash hard against the werewolf.

Meanwhile, Peter was in the midst of two werewolves. A single axe in hand with the second axe long broken from fighting against the S rank beast.

"Now listen." Peter said, his axe raised in front of him. "I'm quite injured and tired so I implore that you all kindly take it easy on me."

"AWHOO!"

The werewolves howled at once as they charged right at Peter with full speed.

"As I thought." Peter grunted as he pushed forward, his axe smashed against a werewolf's claw in a reverberating boom.

The ground cracked hard beneath his feet as he quickly ducked to avoid a kick to his head. Then he slid on the ground, his axe slashed at a werewolf's legs before appearing behind it to swing his leg out in a roundhouse kick.

Bang!

A terrifying bang rang out as Peter's foot smashed into the werewolf so hard, it was sent flying away. Before Peter could regain his footing, he was slammed in the face by the second werewolf which sent his body tumbling back.

"Crap!" Peter coughed out a speck of blood as he finally came to a halt and tried to stand up when he saw the werewolf dashing towards him and when close, it leapt towards him aiming to crush him beneath its massive weight.

Reacting quickly, Peter lifted his axe up in an attempt to block but before he had a chance to, something wheezed in the air and smashed into the werewolf's head sending it flying away from Peter.

Turning around, he could see Kate standing a few metres away. Panting hard with her fingers tightly clenched on her strings.

"Thanks." Peter muttered dryly as he stood up.

"You're welcome." Kate shouted towards him and quickly spun around to let another arrow loose towards a werewolf's foot.

—

{Livestream}

"Is it only me or do the core members from the Fang hunters look quite tired?"

"Yeah. And injured too."

"Wait! Are they coming back from another battle or what?"

"Looks like it. Because that Rex's son; Alex looks badly injured yet he is still pushing forward."

"I kinda feel bad for him."

"Yeah, me too. Even General Paul is getting hit a lot and none of them are even using Qi."

"You see?!" Erin shouted down her camera after reading the new comments pouring in. "Aren't these the people you all were calling weak and useless? Look at them! Take a freaking good look at them!" She roared, Druig panned the drones to zoom on each member properly as they fought with all their might.

"They were out conquering planets and it looked like they encountered something beyond their powers hence the injuries. But instead of resting up, they are thrust into a large scale war again.

They didn't complain, they sucked it up and are fighting their hardest. You were all putting pressure on them saying they aren't deserving of their position but look! Should I remind you all that they are still kids?! Twenty at best! Damn it! Give them a freaking break!" Erin shouted so hard that it felt like her throat went sore.

"Shish! We didn't speak about them. We spoke about the one you fools made a world leader!" Someone poured his anger onto his keyboard.

"Yes! Isn't the werewolf slayer their leader? Then where the hell is he?"

"She keeps screaming and scolding us as if she's our mother or something. Scold the one you lots made a damned world leader that isn't living up to his position."

"That's right. Look at them too! His subordinates or friends are fighting with their lives on the line and he is nowhere to be found. So tell us, where the hell is the werewolf slayer?!"

Chapter 473: Energy Surge!

While the whole world were battling for their lives, the world pouring hate towards the werewolf slayer, while his friends were battling with their lives on the line, Jake; the werewolf slayer was on another universe training with its protector.

Trying to learn a new term he picked up called magic. He had been there for about a month and a half now and although he wasn't making strides in learning new magic, his other powers had improved.

Staying in the universe meant him battling against tough beasts. Beasts that couldn't be found on his universe and in the process, most of his skills leveled up, he leveled up immensely, stat points increased that he had hit a cap.

Even his magical prowess had increased.

Huff, huff!

Jake was heard panting as a giant dead beast lay at his feet, sweat drenched his face and clothes as he stared at his system screen in front of him.

{Congratulations! Level 10 beast killed}

{Rewards have been granted!}

{Rewards: +6,000 XP, +10 magical points.}

"System! Pull up my status screen." Jake called out as he slowly stood upright. His gaze fixated on the screen being displayed in front of him.

<Status>

<User: Jake Lucas>

<Level: 88>

<Title: Supreme System User>

<Combat level: Master>

<Skill level: Expert>

<XP level: 168,750/800, 000>

<HP: 80/100>

<Strength: 150>

<Agility:150>

<Endurance: 150>

<Stamina: 150>

Over the months, battling different types of beasts that were stronger than anything from his universe, Jake kept on leveling up continuously.

He was so obsessed with leveling up and growing stronger that he wasn't able to focus much on magic. If before he hardly received any quests on his universe when faced with beasts, now he received them abundantly.

Hence the jump in levels in a month and a half. His stats had also hit a cap and to keep on increasing his stats, Jake had to reach level 100 for that.

After seeing the requirements to uncap his stats, Jake finally stopped chasing leveling up and decided to focus more on magic. Any chance he got, he used his lightning powers more during battle.

Earlier, he always sustained lots of injuries. But now, his powers had grown so he didn't get as much injuries as before again.

A soft satisfied sigh escaped Jake's lips as he saw his stats.

"Pull up my magical tab." Jake called out and the system responded.

<Magical Abilities>

<Magical points: 30/50>

<Ability Tab>

<Blink (max): This allows the user to teleport away to any distance he wishes to but he must have been there before to be able to go there. Skill can only be used twice; Cool down:(2hr)>

<Lightning(LV4): This skill allows the user to create lightning strikes from thin air that could paralyze the opponent, electrocute them and also cause severe damage. This ability cost a total of 10 points per thirty minutes to use.>

<Telekinesis (LV 2): This skill allows the user to lift objects without directly touching them and it works with just a thought. (This ability costs a total of 10 points per five minutes of use.)>

Jake just clicked his tongue as he stared at the screen in front of him before looking up to see Grey walking towards him with a smile on his face.

"You know, this is my first time of attempting to teach someone something and I'm glad I did it perfectly." Grey smirked as a soft satisfied smile crept on his lips.

"Are you sure it was your teaching that helped? For all I know, I could have just been a genius." Jake chuckled as he stretched a little.

"Don't you dare undermine my teachings, okay?" Grey said with a playful smile on his face.

"Yeah, yeah. I'm sorry." Jake chuckled as he raised his hands up defensively. "You do know that your teaching nearly got me killed once, right?"

On hearing that, Grey rubbed his crimson hair in embarrassment as he recalled when he tried to force Jake to learn cultivation and mana usage.

Getting fascinated by it, Jake decided to learn it but due to that, he almost died. While cultivating mana, his Qi moved defensively towards his heart to try and protect it from the invasive force.

The mana didn't want to back down, and so did the Qi. Hence a battle between the two forces that almost sent Jake six feet under but thankfully, the system acted out in time to protect Jake by flushing the mana out.

This put Jake out for three days before he got back to training again.

"Yeah. My bad." Grey said as he chuckled slightly. "So, when do you plan on heading back to your universe?"

"I'm not sure." Jake replied as he rubbed his temples in thought. "I mean, am I strong enough to face the Alpha werewolf?"

"To me, you are stronger than when you first came here. But about that Alpha dude, since I don't know how strong he is, I don't know what to say to you." Grey shrugged before yawning slightly.

"The way I am, I don't care much about threats. If I can handle it, I just blast them away with my magic and if I can't, I still blast them away." Grey chuckled dryly.

"That doesn't make any sense." Jake frowned.

"Although, one advise. Learn to trust the people around you. Learn to ask for help when you can and not rely only on your strength because at times, you can't do it alone." Grey added.

"So can't you come with me back to my universe to help me?" Jake asked pleading.

"Hahaha!" Grey laughed. "No." He added with a slight frown. "I already told you, if I interfered, something much worse will befall both our universes."

"Yeah, yeah." Jake said as he rubbed his chin and then turned towards the dead beast on the floor.

Crouching down, Jake tried to touch it when...

{Ding! System has detected a power surge from the beast which can help to upgrade system.}

"Huh? Power surge? What do..." Jake trailed off.

{System has deemed the power surge safe enough for host to absorb.}

"Absorb? What is this talking about?" Jake muttered in anger.

{Ding! System upgrade available now.}

{Beginning energy absorption...}

{Calculated time for absorption to get completed... (one hour)}

"What?!" Jake mumbled as he suddenly tried to shoot up when he fell on his knees with a heavy thud.

"Jake? What is wrong?" Grey asked as he raised an eyebrow up.

"I...I... ARGHHHHHH!" Jake screamed as a sharp shooting pain ran through his body feeling like hundreds of needles were prickling inside his skin.

Chapter 474: Pure torture!

{Ding! System has detected a power surge from the beast which can help to upgrade system.}

"Huh? Power surge? What do..." Jake trailed off.

{System has deemed the power surge safe enough for host to absorb.}

"Absorb? What is this talking about?" Jake muttered in anger.

{Ding! System upgrade available now.}

{Beginning energy absorption...}

{Calculated time for absorption to get completed... (one hour)}

"What?!" Jake mumbled as he suddenly tried to shoot up when he fell on his knees with a heavy thud.

"Jake? What is wrong?" Grey asked as he raised an eyebrow up.

"I...I... ARGHHHHHH!" Jake screamed as a sharp shooting pain ran through his body feeling like hundreds of needles were prickling inside his skin.

"Jake?!" Grey shouted as he bolted forward and quickly crouched down towards Jake who was now on his knees screaming, hands still on the beast's hide.

Grey was about to touch him when...

"Do...don.... Don't touch me!" Jake shouted, veins showing on his neck as his eyes began glowing with energy.

"What is going on with you? Wh... why are you screaming?" Grey asked feeling all panicked and confused about what to do.

Jake couldn't reply as his gaze averted to a small screen in his line of vision.

{Absorption rate: 2% absorbed.}

'Shit!' Jake screamed inwardly as his muscles all tensed up. His veins showing out of his neck as he tried to focus and hold in the pain.

"Pl...please try to...to protect my...my body." Jake pleaded towards Grey who stared at him in confusion.

"Protect your body? Dude, there aren't even much beasts around here." Grey said as he looked around.

"Al...also....also." Jake managed to say as he finally managed to sit down cross legged, his hands still on the beast hide. "Help...help open a portal to my world down so... so once I'm done, I can leave immediately."

"That will consume a lot of energy and who knows what the hell you are doing and how long it will take." Grey retorted as he backed away seeing how serious Jake was.

"Pl...please." Jake pleaded as blood trickled down his mouth. "ARGHHHHHH!" He screamed in pain.

Grey just sighed and surrounded his body with wind magic before moving away from Jake and stood about two metres in front of him.

"Fine." Grey said as he created a sharp lightning blade from nowhere and used it to cut his hand drawing blood.

And then he sat down on the bare ground to begin drawing different signs and symbols on the ground. Each of them so intricate that it required immense focus on his part.

He was so focused that he snapped at Jake anytime he howled in pain. He kept drawing for about five minutes before he was finally done, a smile crept on his face as he wiped his sweat dripping face clean.

"That was harder than I thought." He grinned.

"ARGHHHHH!" Jake's ear piercing shout came again and Grey's eyes twitched as he spun around, flames licking his hands.

"Scream one more time again, and I will burn you to a crisp." Grey threatened, his gaze sharp and resolute.

But it all fell on deaf ears as Jake had long since shut his eyes to focus on the intense pain swirling around him to even take notice of the barking Grey.

"Now..." Grey said as he turned towards the signs and circles on the ground.

His hand lit up bright white which he proceeded to place at the tip of the circle and the next second, it shot forward towards the other symbols in the circle.

It looked like as if someone had poured kerosene in a circle on a grass while using it to draw several signs and then lit it up with fire causing the grass to go up in flames.

That was what it looked like but in this case, immediately the white light connected with all the symbols, it lit up brightly to the extent Grey's face was illuminated as he stared the circle.

Boom!

A white swirling portal tore above the circle Grey had drawn on the ground. It was pulsing with magical energy in front of Grey.

'I didn't know where he was supposed to go, but while drawing and connecting with the universes, I felt something. This portal isn't complete yet.' Grey sighed inwardly as he strode towards Jake who had his face scrunched up in pain.

Grey managed to get behind him, his hand moving like a blur and then managed to pull a strand of hair from Jake's head in one smooth motion before walking towards the swirling portal.

Stopping in front of it, he stretched his palm that held Jake's hair...

Swoosh!

It felt like the portal suddenly flared to life as it sucked the hair from Grey's hands like a wormhole of some kind before spinning rapidly for a few seconds.

'Using his hair, will let the portal show the place he desires to be most. It will show the place and probably the people he wants to see.

After a few minutes will it fully activate and allow him pass through. I intentionally set it this way so that it won't consume much energy and it will still be active pending the time he would be done with whatever he is doing.' Grey thought as he saw the spinning portal slowly come to a halt when...

"ARGHHHHHH!" Jake's voice tore through Grey's thoughts which caused his eyes to twitch in anger.

"Relax." Noir's voice interrupted Grey from doing something bad. "You should understand, you also went through pains like this when you were trying to advance to the next star. It looks similar but it feels different."

"Yeah whatever." Grey waved his hands in the air and then, the portal suddenly changed from a swirling white light to something instead.

It felt like one was staring at a clear water when ripples ran along the surface to finally display something or somewhere.

"What the hell?!" Grey gasped as his eyes widened. "Are those the werewolves things he said his universe are battling against?"

—

{A/N}

For anyone that doesn't know, Grey is the main character of one of my series titled Magus Supremacy... This is a cross multiversal scene that's why he is here.

Now, for anyone that's fascinated about this character, do check out Magus Supremacy and I guarantee, you won't be disappointed.

Chapter 475: The Plan is ready!

Back on Earth, the fight between the world and the few thousand werewolves was finally drawing to an end. With one final slash, Jay tore through the last werewolf therefore signalling the end of the fight.

Ulric stood, vein popping on his head as he saw the last of his comrade fall to the human blades. After the fight, the loss the humans suffered as only a little over a thousand men remained.

They were all worn out, battered, injured and felt like collapsing but the joy of finally killing all werewolves overcame all as they had wide smiles on their faces.

Some hugged each other, others fell to the ground in exhaustion, some cried for the fallen and even others jumped up in joy and jubilation.

The whole world joined in this celebration. The online commenters pouring down their excitement down their keyboards.

"Finally! This war is totally over!"

"I can't believe it, they did it! A few thousand men from humanity side against hundreds of werewolves from the enemy side. This is truly great!"

"Man I thought we would be going extinct anytime now especially when I saw the hordes of werewolves."

"Is it weird that I almost wet my pants in fear?"

"My head is aching me now. I wasn't the one who fought but the emotional turmoil has also taken a toll on me."

"I hear ya. After this whole fight is over, I will just take a long nap."

"I just remembered something. Who the fuck said we needed the werewolf slayer to win this war? Because we are already winning it without him."

"I think it was that dick rider of his called Erin or something. In her beautiful and perfect face!"

"Tsk! What a dick rider she is. Damn that werewolf slayer! Fuvk him to the pit of hell."

While the hate for Jake kept pouring in, the core members of the Fang hunters painfully stood side by side, body feeling like it would collapse at any moment.

"Can't believe it. We managed to pull through despite the fact that we were badly injured." Peter chuckled dryly, blood from his head dripping into his eyes.

"Remember when I said I broke a rib or two? Well, make it four." Alex said, his hands clutched tightly around his side.

"So..." Head General Humfree was heard saying as he walked forward, blood half covered his face and stained his robe. "How was the expedition?"

"Head General... your... your arm?!" Paul exclaimed as he stared at the stump that was slightly visible through Humfree's robes.

"Oh this? It is not a big deal. Since I will be retiring after this damned war is over." Humfree smiled. "What do you think about a nice, relaxing vacation after all these is over?"

"I would say, that is a splendid idea. I have been weary all these days. Can't breathe properly and feel suffocated throughout this war of a thing." Paul said, a hint of melancholy in his voice.

"Yeah. Same here. I still wonder how the younglings managed to shoulder this burden though." Humfree said as his gaze turned towards the smiling crew of younglings as they proudly stood together.

"There is my stubborn son!" Rex's voice cut through the chatter as he strode towards Alex with Raze beside him. "I'm proud of you son."

"Dad..." Alex's voice croaked out as Rex threw his arms around the young Slade in a tight hug. "I missed you."

"I missed you too son." Rex said, a soft smile on his face.

"Hey! Save some of the hug for me too." Raze said as he dove straight into the hug turning it into a family group hug as Alex was heard sniffing.

"Ouch brother! My body aches!" Alex shouted in pain.

"You are a Slade, suck it up, weakling." Raze scoffed.

"A weakling that could probably beat you." Alex replied.

"Yeah, probably." Raze chuckled.

"There you are!" Bane shouted as he strode towards Sophia who turned around to see her dad walking over.

"Sir Josh." Sophia said as she bowed slightly towards Bane but he pulled her in for a hug instead.

"Call me dad." Bane said, a soft smile crept on Sophia's face, tears streaming down her eyes.

"I...I...I was so scared dad! I thought I would die out there. All... most... most of my friends died! Leaders and so many men died out there dad." Sophia sobbed, her facaded of a strong individual breaking.

"I know child, it's part of the war. And I'm glad you completed the mission. I'm proud of you." Bane said, a warm smile appeared on his face.

Throughout when Sophia could remember, she hadn't experienced her dad's warmth. He always pushed her away saying she reminded him of her mum and in the process, he banned her from calling him dad.

Hence the reason he sent her away to the academy when she was off age. And now, Bane was hugging her after so many years.

"Look at my cute little sister, all grown up." Jay smiled as he ruffled Sophia's hair.

"I'm not a little girl anymore, Jay." Sophia said as she broke away from Bane's hug.

"To me, you still are." Jay smirked.

"Tsk! Whatever." Sophia scoffed, her lips pouted as she turned around.

Everybody could be seen hugging each other and either crying or smiling but deep down, they knew that the war was far from over.

Ulric who stood directly in front of their Aeroglide, had a visible veins popping out of his head, teeth grit as he glared at the humans celebrating their win.

'Damn it! Damn it all! How can we lose?! The Alpha was so damned sure that if we overwhelmed them, we might win! So how did we lose? And where the hell is he? His army has fallen and still, his damned plan isn't ready?

What the fuck is going on?! I would have gone out myself but he ordered me to stay here and not move an inch. I could actually defy him and move, but what can I do? My life will be snuffed out the moment I try to attack them now.

Shit, shit, shit! Alpha! What are you still doing?!' Ulric screamed in his mind with all his might when...

"I'm ready." A voice boomed across the battlefield.

The Aeroglide from the werewolves opened up to reveal a figure stepping forward. The moment he stepped out, an intense, ominous and otherworldly aura burst out with him causing all hairs on every living being's body to rise up.

Sweat drenched everybody from head to toe as they slowly turned around to face who or what had just come out.

"I'm finally ready. Your doom is here to destroy you all."

Chapter 476: Ask him yourself!

While everybody were celebrating on Earth that the battle against the hundred of thousands of werewolves was over, the werewolves' glide opened up.

"I'm ready." A voice boomed across the battlefield.

The Aeroglide from the werewolves opened up to reveal a figure stepping forward. The moment he stepped out, an intense, ominous and otherworldly aura burst out with him causing all hairs on every living being's body to rise up.

Sweat drenched everybody from head to toe as they slowly turned around to face who or what had just come out.

"I'm finally ready. Your doom is here to destroy you all."

An eery silence befell the battlefield and the whole world as they turned towards the person that had come out.

The tall, towering figure that stood around 9ft, 6 inches tall. The thick, luxurious black fur, the glowing red eyes that burned with a seething type of anger.

It was the Alpha. The leader and commander of the werewolf pack. The one behind the whole war that had been going on for years.

The sole creator of this problem; Vornak Bloodfang. He was here and was standing right in front of everybody.

His snout curled up into a grin of some kind as he saw the despair from the humans. Then he turned to glance at Ulric.

"Great job so far. I will take it from here." Vornak said as he strode forward causally with the humans at least ten metres away.

"It's obvious that you are the Alpha. How nice of you to make an entrance and show yourself to the world." Rex said, his brows furrowed as he clenched his hands tightly.

Anger brewing beneath his words as he glared at the Alpha.

The Fang hunters that had went on the expedition of conquering planets, all gulped loudly. All hairs on their bodies rose up as they suddenly recalled something that made their hearts skipped a bit.

'Th...this is the Alpha? The one that has strength equal to the S rank beast we fought.' Alex gulped inwardly as he shakily held his sword tighter.

'I hope my thoughts is not right. I hope I'm wrong... it's not a coincidence to encounter Rivock's two sons on different planets as werewolves. Please don't tell me that what I'm thinking is right.' Paul thought as he kept on watching the Alpha's movements with keen eyes.

"Now that we got you here, tell us. How do you want to deal with us now? Your whole army is gone, your subordinates are gone." Bane taunted, his lips curled upwards.

The Alpha just waved his hands in the air causally dismissing whatever Bane was saying.

"You see, I don't need any subordinates to take care of pests. All what I have been doing was to prepare for this fight. Although... nevermind." Vornak chuckled, his voice, a deep guttural howl.

"What do you want from the human race?" Humfree asked as he stepped forward a bit more, his gaze hardened.

"What do I want from you all?" Vornak asked as he chuckled again. "What more than your destruction. The death of all human race to prove that we werewolves are the superior race. That's our mission, the mission of our god!"

"God?" Rex muttered in confusion, his brows furrowed as he stared hard at Vornak.

"Yes, god. And all he seeks is the destruction of all universes starting with yours. Which is why," Vornak said as he lifted his claws, pointing it towards the humans.

Seeing this, everybody held their weapons tighter thinking it was going to be an attack. But it was not because right in front of their eyes, the furry hands, the claws, everything were reverting back to a human form.

First were the claws, the furry hands, legs, waist, body and finally, the head. Vornak finally reverted to his human form and seeing this, Rex and Bane dropped their shoulders down.

Humfree felt his heart beat several times in a split second. Gray who finally strode over after seeing the Alpha appear, had his mouth wide open in disbelief.

Not only those that were on the battlefield were shocked, so was the whole world that were watching through Erin's Livestream.

Erin herself couldn't comment as her mic slipped out of her hands in shock, mouth wide agape as her eyes blinked several times trying to see if she was seeing things.

But no, the reality was still the same. What she saw still stayed in her line of vision.

"Rivock?!" Rex exclaimed in absolute shock as the supposed Alpha that had been troubling the human race for years.

Sending down werewolves to slaughter them continuously, to make them lose their loved ones, family, friends and even comrades was none other than one of them.

Rivock Dem, a world leader that sat at the helm of human affairs along with Rex and Bane. All three leaders, although they had their differences, still treated themselves as best friends.

They fought battles together, dined together at times. Made decisions together and did most of everything together. And here, Rex, Bane and the whole world could see that their so-called world leader was the cause of all their problems for so many years now.

"Ri...r...Rivock?! You...you are the Alpha werewolf?" Bane asked in shock, stuttering at every word as if he couldn't believe his own eyes.

"I hate when my gut feelings are right." Paul grumbled beneath his breath as he glared at Rivock.

"Point of correction, I'm not Rivock Dem. My name is Vornak Bloodfang. Get that right." Vornak said with a smirk on his face.

"How...why? What the freaking hell is going on?" Rex shouted in utter confusion.

"How...wh... why? How? Why?" Vornak repeated sarcastically as he grinned at Rex. "Do you know how you sound? Like a kid."

"Rivo... Vornak. Why... why did you do this to us? What's going on? Since when were you a werewolf?" Bane asked, tears slowly dropping down his eyes as he clenched his hands tighter.

"I was always a werewolf but you all didn't realize it." Vornak shrugged as if he wasn't bothered by the revelation of his obvious betrayal. "You all were just too dumb to realize it. You know, for the smartest man alive, you are quite dense, Bane."

"How could you do this to us?!" Alex who was quiet earlier couldn't help but shout out in anger. "We looked up to you! Every single youngling in the whole Earth always looked up to the world leaders.

Why? Because you all fought for our survival during the war. I freaking called you my uncle damn it! How could you do this to us?!"

"Oh dear Alex." Vornak said as he shook his head slightly with a small, somber smile on his face. "You also said this yourself. When duty calls, I have to answer. See, my duty was to terminate the human race totally.

I didn't want to use brute strength, so I decided to play a little game with you all. Get into their ranks without them knowing, destroy them from the inside out, act like their ally while in reality, you are their enemy. It was fun, to be honest."

"Yo...you bastard!" Peter roared in anger as he grit his teeth tightly.

"Keep your voice down, young man. I'm several years older than you." Vornak snapped as he turned to glare at Peter.

"Jack never wanted to be a werewolf, he never shared in your ideology." Peter said, tears dropping down his eyes as he slowly lifted them up to stare at Vornak.

"All he wanted was to live happily with us, with Jake. But you still gave birth to him as a werewolf, brainwashed him, sent him to kill us and forced me to kill my best friend! How dare you?!"

"Did he want to live happily with you all?" Vornak asked with a raised eyebrow.

"He was our friend! We fought battles together during our academy days." Sophia shouted in anger, tears streaming down her face.

"You...you made me kill him. I won't spare you!" Peter said, his teeth grit.

"Well, you can ask him if he wanted to live by yourself." Vornak said, a smirk on his face as he lifted his index finger to the sky, a black ring on the finger and then...

Boom!

The sound of thunder crackling in the sky was heard which caused everybody to lift their heads up to see a black swirling portal open up.

—

{A/N}

Shocking betrayal right? Sigh... I can't believe Rivock was a betrayal all along. If he was your favorite world leader throughout the story, I'm sorry for making him a villain.

If you are enjoying the book so far? Your support will be gladly appreciated in the form of power stones, Golden tickets, gifts or even comments.

Anything will help to fuel me to keep writing this book to the end for you all. Also, not to spoil anything for you all but as you must have guessed, this book is slowly drawing to an end.

If you want another series that can fuel your reading experience from the same author, then check out Magus Supremacy written by me and give it a good damn read. I'm sure you will love it.

Chapter 477: Reviving the dead!

"All he wanted was to live happily with us, with Jake. But you still gave birth to him as a werewolf, brainwashed him, sent him to kill us and forced me to kill my best friend! How dare you?!"

"Did he want to live happily with you all?" Vornak asked with a raised eyebrow.

"He was our friend! We fought battles together during our academy days." Sophia shouted in anger, tears streaming down her face.

"You...you made me kill him. I won't spare you!" Peter said, his teeth grit.

"Well, you can ask him if he wanted to live by yourself." Vornak said, a smirk on his face as he lifted his index finger to the sky, a black ring on the finger and then...

Boom!

The sound of thunder crackling in the sky was heard which caused everybody to lift their heads up to see a black swirling portal open up.

"What is that?" Erin muttered as she glanced to the sky, the drones also zoomed in to capture what was going on.

It looked like something tore through the sky. A black swirling portal that glowed ominously with some otherworldly aura that made all hairs stand up.

Everybody trembled including the drones capturing what was going on.

"This... you think that you managed to destroy my subordinates?" Vornak asked, his voice drawing everybody's attention back to him.

"Well think again." He grinned as shooting down from the portal like thunderbolts from the sky, some figures smashed into the ground hard.

Dust were kicked up, the ground quaked as whatever shot down from the portal landed and slowly, the dust settled to reveal five figures.

All of them human looking but something was different about them. Most of the people seeing this, were shocked... twice in a row now.

"No! How is this possible?" Peter asked, his voice barely above a whisper.

Kate and Alex also took several steps back in fright as their hearts pounded loudly in their chests.

"How is this possible?" Paul asked, his head spinning in confusion as he stared at the figures right in front of them.

"Didn't I kill you before?" Rex asked as he pointed at one of the figures in confusion.

"And we also killed you." Bane pointed another figure, his eyes blinking rapidly in confusion.

"What is going on here?!" Kate shouted as the five figures that had descended from the portal that was still swirling in the sky causing the area to slightly go dark were werewolves.

And not any normal werewolves, but ones that the people standing there had killed. The upper echelons of the werewolf pack. Greig; Vornak's son who was a Beta werewolf.

Jack; the next strongest omega werewolf who was also Vornak's son and one of Jake and the core members' friend whom Peter and Emily had killed earlier.

Dredmar; the strongest omega werewolf who Rex had killed one time he attacked Fenna city which is owned by Bane.

Varian Bloodfang; a Beta werewolf which was also Vornak's younger brother who had attacked Aurora once and in the process, Rex, Bane and Humfree had band together to take him out.

After so many injuries which hasn't healed up till now, they managed to kill him and in the process, Humfree lost an arm.

And the last werewolf was a Beta werewolf that had attacked Kate and Alex when they were out conquering planets. The Beta werewolf known as Scar which was initially a human.

But because of his anger and burning desire for revenge towards Jake, he accepted to join the werewolf and finally managed to rise through the ranks and became a Beta werewolf.

These five were supposed to be dead but now, they were here again and seemingly shot down from a black swirling portal.

These five had given humanity trouble and it took a lot, people died, sacrifices were made before they could be killed. And now, all five were together, in one spot along with the Alpha.

"How are they still alive?" Humfree asked in shock.

"They weren't, they really died thanks to you all. But you see, I attained a special ring that could connect with souls that were killed not too long ago." Vornak explained with a grin on his face.

"I connected with their souls, with the help of the god that had sent me down here and in the process, I brought them all back so they could take their revenge against those that had killed them. And that's why I took so long to join the battle." He added, a smug smile on his face.

"So?" Rex asked as he stepped forward, his hands outstretched to the side and it was now glowing bright yellow. "Are we supposed to be scared? If we were able to kill them once, we can surely do it again."

"You don't understand, do you?" Vornak asked as he shook his head in disappointment. "You all always called me the hotheaded one but you fail to realize something Rex. You are the hotheaded one."

"What do you mean?" Rex raised an eyebrow as he stared at Vornak.

"Look around you for a moment." Vornak replied.

Rex slowly turned to look around and raised an eyebrow in confusion as he didn't get it at first until it finally clicked.

The humans, the fighters, all core members from the Fang hunters were currently tired, battered and could barely hold on.

But even with that, they still held their weapons ready for action.

'All of them...they are too exhausted and might not be able to do anything. Looking at them, their Qi must be totally depleted so they won't amount to much in this fight.

The only ones that can fight are me, Bane, Gray and probably Head General Humfree. The rest will only slow us down. While the enemy has many strong fighters that just freshly came out of the oven.' Rex sighed inwardly as he pointed his palm forward.

"It doesn't matter. If I can't do as much as eliminate you all for the world, then I won't be called a world leader." Rex smirked and then...

Boom!

Fiery Qi shot out like a blast of fire heading towards the werewolves.

"Suit yourself." Vornak smirked as the five werewolves all bolted forward managing to avoid the fiery Qi attack.

"Brace yourselves! Those that can fight, step forward. If you can't, don't act brave. Retreat, heal up, recover and then come in with a bang! I won't repeat myself again." Rex said as he walked forward causally, hands tucked in his pockets as the air shuddered.

Shooting down from the sky were hundreds of Qi swords crashing down with the aim of tearing the werewolves apart. And with that, the last stand was beginning again.

Chapter 478 - 478

"It doesn't matter. If I can't do as much as eliminate you all for the world, then I won't be called a world leader." Rex smirked and then...

Boom!

Fiery Qi shot out like a blast of fire heading towards the werewolves.

"Suit yourself." Vornak smirked as the five werewolves all bolted forward managing to avoid the fiery Qi attack.

"Brace yourselves! Those that can fight, step forward. If you can't, don't act brave. Retreat, heal up, recover and then come in with a bang! I won't repeat myself again." Rex said as he walked forward causally, hands tucked in his pockets as the air shuddered.

Shooting down from the sky were hundreds of Qi swords crashing down with the aim of tearing the werewolves apart. And with that, the last stand was beginning again

Those that were terribly injured like Alex, Paul, Sophia and Emily listened to Rex and retreated back to rest up.

Letting Gray, Andrew, Helen, the Rave lord charge forward with about a thousand men ready for the intense clash that was about to take place.

Boom!

The whole place shuddered as the thousand men clashed against the five upper echelons who had long since transformed into their respective werewolf form and currently, a massacre was going on.

Bang!

An adventurer's sword met with Dredmar's claws which easily ripped through the steel before he swung his furry arms into the man's head and causing it to blow away from his neck sending the rest of the body flying.

Before he could move forward, a dagger shot towards his face which he used his claws to block in time but the dagger was coated with Qi which made him skid a little bit with the dagger falling to the ground without causing any scratch on him.

Walking forward were Helen and her dad; the rave lord as they prepared to clash against the strongest omega werewolf in existence.

In another side of the battlefield, Scar could be seen tearing through men one after the other. His claws that were elongated to the length of a sword ripped through humans like they were nothing.

An adventurer tried to thrust his spear forward so he could slam it into Scar but when the tip of the spear hit, it bent and shattered before he got whacked in the face by the Beta werewolf's claws sending the man flying with a shredded face.

"You know, only cowards pick on the weak." A voice tore through Scar's rampage and followed by a massive Qi slash that was sent towards him.

Reacting quickly, he lifted his claws up and crossed it in an X shape blocking the massive Qi slash but not without skidding a few inches in pain.

"Tough hide." The attacker said, his crimson hair fluttering in the wind as he smirked at Scar.

"I heard you attacked my brother earlier. So why don't you come and pick on someone your own size?" Raze asked as he lifted his sword and pointed it towards Scar who in no second, it dashed towards him with immense speed.

Another werewolf who was destroying the human army was Jack, the omega werewolf who mercilessly shredded humans like paper going through a shredding machine.

His claws, legs and even jaws tore through weapons like they were nothing.

"AWHOOO!" Jack howled after just eating a human's head and then he swiftly spun around to land a roundhouse kick into another foolish human that dared to attack him.

Sending the human flying and crashing into several humans like it was nothing.

Boom!

Bang!

Two consecutive shots of energy flew forward which caught Jack's attention as he quickly leapt up just in time to avoid them. The blast slammed into the ground with a deafening boom, a deep crater appeared.

Dust was kicked up but then, out of the dust and smoke, two Qi swords shot out so fast that they slammed into Jack causing him to fly so back that he crashed into several humans.

Blood dripping down his mouth due to the impact of the swords which failed to impale his hide. Bursting out of the smoke were two individuals.

They were Jay who around his hands were small cannons which now broke down to form two energy blades; one on each hands.

While Gray who stood with his sword that was being coated in Qi making it glow brighter.

"You were once an ally and I don't want to take your life because of how close you are to my sister and her friends." Jay said and then he pointed his energy blade forward. "But for humanity sake, you have to go."

Jack didn't care for what Jay had to say as he dashed forward in anger with a loud howl. It's speed quite sharp and tremendous.

In another side of the battle, Rex was facing off against Varian; the strongest Beta werewolf in the pack. His strength which was unmatched that even forced all world leaders to band against him together during the first war.

The second time he had attacked, Rex, Bane and even Head General Humfree had to join hands together to take him down and now, he was facing off against the werewolf on his own.

"I don't know why, I feel like I can take you on, on my own." Rex grinned as he snapped his fingers sending a hundred Qi swords flying towards Varian who clapped his palms together creating a massive shockwave that shattered the swords to pieces.

This created a type of smoke that obscured Varian's view which Rex cleverly made use of to appear beside him, his hand glowing with Qi which he swung forward unleashing a terrifying bang that shook the air as Rex's fist connected sending the Beta werewolf skidding.

Another side, Bane and Head General Humfree were seen standing side by side and in front of them was Greig; another Beta werewolf who grinned from ear to ear, his fangs on full display.

"My uncle took one of your arm, how privileged I am to take your life instead." Greig said, his grin widening as he bolted forward at an inhumane speed.

And with that, the battle of the century had already begun which was also being broadcasted to the whole world as they sat on the edge of their seats, unable to comment.

{Absorption rate: 25%}

"ARGHHHHHH!" Jake screamed in pain as his system was now going through an upgrade.

Chapter 479: An Unexpected Arrival!

"You know, only cowards pick on the weak." A voice tore through Scar's rampage and followed by a massive Qi slash that was sent towards him.

Reacting quickly, he lifted his claws up and crossed it in an X shape blocking the massive Qi slash but not without skidding a few inches in pain.

"Tough hide." The attacker said, his crimson hair fluttering in the wind as he smirked at Scar.

"I heard you attacked my brother earlier. So why don't you come and pick on someone your own size?" Raze asked as he lifted his sword and pointed it towards Scar who in no second, it dashed towards him with immense speed.

A swing of his claws forward, a deafening bang rang out as Raze skillfully used his sword to block but the strength of the attack was enough to send him skidding as the werewolf didn't relent.

A quick leap, it swiped in the air several times unleashing visible claw strikes that shot out towards Raze who carefully used his sword to destroy each and every one of them before Scar suddenly appeared in front of him.

His claws shot forward but Raze had quickly pivoted sideways avoiding the strike before whipping his leg forward unleashing a Qi slash that burst out from his legs and slammed into Scar hard.

Scar who had his furry hands held out in an attempt to block the Qi slash, was sent skidding with his fangs grit as his eyes glowed bright blue.

"All of you are so annoying!" Scar shouted as he swung his hands out causing the Qi slash to finally dissipate. "All I want is Jake, I want to kill him with my own hands."

"Firstly kill me before you think of Jake!" Raze roared as he had already bolted forward, Qi encasing his hand which he swung forward with a deafening bang towards Scar who stood rooted.

His furry hands shot forward and it latched onto Raze's hands hard. A boom rang out as Scar skidded an inch before coming to a halt.

"Trust me, I will." Scar said as he lifted Raze with a single hand and then proceeded to slam him into the ground with another bang that caused a shockwave to spread out, blood sprayed out of Raze's mouth.

"Screw you!" Raze roared before he was lifted again and was about to be slammed back down when a whooshing sound was heard and Scar quickly let Raze go causing him to flip a bit and then land on his knees.

After letting Raze go, Scar quickly turned around to catch two arrows in his clawed hands. A hardened expression on his face as he saw Kate pointing her bow forward.

"You don't learn huh?" Kate asked with a chuckle as Scar quickly looked at his hands to see the arrows which he caught were Qi arrows.

His blue eyes widened as an explosion occurred with the arrows blowing up. His body was hurled back tumbling hard on the ground.

Raze didn't waste this opportunity as he bolted towards Scar who was just trying to stand up when an axe infused kick from above slammed into his head so hard that a delayed shockwave spread out.

The ground beneath Scar's knees shattered as he sunk into it. Blood spurted out of his head as Raze quickly leapt back just in time for Kate to send two more Qi arrows flying forward.

Seeing them, Scar angrily swung his claws in the air getting rid of them but the energy from the Qi arrows didn't dissipate as they floated in the air.

"You are really brain dead." Kate shook her head as another detonation occurred causing Scar to skid on his knees backwards.

"When Alex killed you, you should have stayed dead." Raze roared as he snapped his fingers, a small shadow was cast above Scar who looked up to see two hundred Qi swords hovering above his head.

"Now you get to die again." Raze chuckled as he slammed his hands together causing the Qi swords to shoot down with immense speed.

In another side of the battlefield, Jay and Gray were about to face off against an omega werewolf who was Jack; Jake's friend from long time ago.

"You were once an ally and I don't want to take your life because of how close you are to my sister and her friends." Jay said and then he pointed his energy blade forward. "But for humanity sake, you have to go."

Jack didn't care for what Jay had to say as he dashed forward in anger with a loud howl. It's speed quite sharp and tremendous.

In the blink of an eye, he appeared in front of Jay while sending his furry hand flying forward with terrifying speed but luckily, Jay was able to change his arms in time to form a shield that blocked the punch just in time but he was sent skidding a bit.

"Face here!" Gray roared as he bolted forward with a battle cry that drew Jack's attention.

"As ywo wtsih!" Jack struggled to say as he turned towards Gray who was dashing towards him.

Before Gray could do anything, Jack's eyes glowed with an intense yellow and the next second, two beams of laser were shot out towards Gray who had his eyes widened as he screamed...

"What the hell?!"

The laser beams came out too fast that he wasn't able to react on time and partly because he didn't expect that a werewolf would have such a skill when...

"You all are really hopeless." A voice was heard saying from above and then a foot coated in lightning Qi smashed into the laser beams sending it crashing into the ground kicking up dust and debris.

Jack stood confused and so did Jay who was slowly getting up as the dust finally settled to reveal an unexpected arrival which raised eyebrows.

"Aren't you... aren't you the heir to the Thunderbolt guild? Harry?" Jay asked in shock as he could see a young man standing with his body crackling with yellow lightning with a frown and a smile on his face.

"I couldn't sit back at home when the world is in trouble with a former lowerclassman of mine trying to kill his friends." Harry smirked as he tilted his head towards Jack who growled in anger and then proceeded to shoot a long stream of dual laser beams towards Harry.

Chapter 480: I managed to injure you!

While the young ones were having the fight of their life, Rex was also having the fight of his life against the strongest Beta werewolf who had lived up to his title over the years.

"I don't know why, I feel like I can take you on, on my own." Rex grinned as he snapped his fingers sending a hundred Qi swords flying towards Varian who clapped his palms together creating a massive shockwave that shattered the swords to pieces.

This created a type of smoke that obscured Varian's view which Rex cleverly made use of to appear beside him, his hand glowing with Qi which he swung forward unleashing a terrifying bang that shook the air as Rex's fist connected sending the Beta werewolf skidding.

"You think you can take me on alone?" Varian asked, a small grin on his face as he swung his hands down causing his claws to shoot out forming a kind of blade on each hand. (Think of something like wolverine)

Stretching his hand into the air, Rex waited a few seconds while Varian had a confused expression on his face as he stared at the still Rex who had immense concentration, his hand outstretched.

"What are you doing?" Varian couldn't help but ask as he was now confused by why Rex would just stand in a single spot with his hands outstretched.

"It usually takes a few seconds, I don't know what is going on." Rex said with an awkward chuckle. "Good, there it is."

Varian raised an eyebrow as he looked up to see something flying towards Rex's hand and then, in a flash while throwing his hand back, Rex caught it, a smirk on his face as he held the weapon in his hand.

"This was supposed to be used to slay your brother. But now, it will have to taste your blood first." Rex said as he pointed a sword that was oozing out mist from its blade.

The hilt was a mix of obsidian and blue with a snaky like pattern from the hilt to the blade. The blade had three thin lines that were currently filled with mist.

The hilt had three circles that were each linked with the snaky lines on the blade. This sword was the one made from the Demi-god beast the world leaders had come together to defeat one time.

The sword's purpose was to slay the Alpha but now, Rex had to start with the Alpha's younger brother who had a grin on his face.

"You think a puny weapon would harm me? I will tear it to shreds with my claws!" Varian howled, his eyes glowing with intensity as if resonating with how he felt.

"Let's give it a try, shall we?" Rex smirked and without wasting time, Varian bolted forward kicking up dust with his every step.

In the blink of an eye, it was in front of Rex as it swung its long claws forward at terrifying speed but Rex just leapt back an inch, his sword shot forward to clash with the claws.

A small bang initially resounded as the two were locked in a stand off. The next instant, the ground quaked as it shattered beneath their feet. A shockwave erupted out slamming into several bodies and flinging them away.

"The blade didn't break?" Varian muttered as he glared at Rex.

"Of course not!" Rex shouted as he leapt back and then with a click of his tongue, a dozen Qi swords flew out at tremendous speed towards Varian who destroyed the swords with a precise swing of his clawed hands.

"Is that all you have?" Varian asked in anger.

"Not even close!" Rex roared as he bolted forward. Qi lacing his every step, his sword infused with Qi which he proceeded to swing down unleashing a crescent slash which flew towards Varian at neck break speed.

Crouching down a bit, Varian leapt so high that he managed to avoid the slash which tore through the ground he stood on earlier and proceeded to slam into an Aeroglide tearing it in two.

"Destructive." Varian said as he landed back down with a bang while creating a crater beneath his feet.

The moment his feet touched down, he bolted forward. Dashing forward as fast as a bullet towards Rex who took a stance with his sword held out, a determined look on his face.

Boom!

Varian had pivoted at the last moment avoiding Rex's swing and then he appeared beside him before launching a full on blow that sent Rex tumbling on the ground a few times.

Varian was about to give chase when he felt his feet stuck. Looking down, he could see a yellow Qi whip holding his legs down and then from above, a massive Qi sword shot down.

Left with no other option, Varian decided to cross his arms in an X shape above his head in an attempt to block the massive Qi sword which slammed into his arms hard.

The strength of the sword sent shockwaves erupting out that some of those fighting, were flung off their feet. Varian felt his feet sinking into the ground causing the crater beneath him to crack more and more.

"Enough!" Varian howled in anger as he swung his hands away flinging the remaining energy from the sword away letting it slam into the ground hard.

Dropping his hands beside him, blood could be seen trickling down from it. A large cut was seen on his arms as he forced his legs to move and then managed to break free from the Qi whip to see Rex coming over.

"Oh look! I managed to injure you." Rex taunted with a smirk on his face.

"I will kill you!" Varian howled in anger.

"Give your throat a rest. I had killed you before your damned brother brought you to life. And I will still kill you again!" Rex said as he pointed his sword towards Varian who was shaking in anger.

"ARGHH! DIE!" Varian shouted as he bolted forward while Rex took a firm stance.

'Jake... I'm using all my high level Qi moves and if this fight drags on any longer, I won't have anymore to fight the Alpha. Currently, he is the bigger threat right now. Where are you?! Jake come down here now!' Rex screamed inwardly unknown about the torture Jake was going through currently.

{Absorption rate: 50%}

"Curses!" Jake screamed in pain as blood trickled down his nose and mouth while he grit his teeth in pain.