

MY SLAYER SYSTEM: RISE TO SUPREMACY

Chapter 481: Goodbye Forever Jack!

"Aren't you... aren't you the heir to the Thunderbolt guild? Harry?" Jay asked in shock as he could see a young man standing with his body crackling with yellow lightning with a frown and a smile on his face.

"I couldn't sit back at home when the world is in trouble with a former lowerclassman of mine trying to kill his friends." Harry smirked as he tilted his head towards Jack who growled in anger and then proceeded to shoot a long stream of dual laser beams towards Harry.

"Oh Jack!" Harry muttered as he swung his sword that was now being surrounded by yellow electrical Ki in a precise arc smashing the laser beams away from him and into the ground beside him burning a deep hole in it.

"Go!" Jay roared as he blitzed forward, his hands breaking down and taking the shape of a canon and with a grunt, an explosion shot forward as two energies swirled towards Jack who quickly zipped away causing the energies to crash into the ground and ripped a deep crater in it.

"AWOO!" Jack howled as he bolted for Jay who was trying to reposition himself when Gray suddenly appeared in front of them, intercepting Jack with a solid punch to his snout sending the omega werewolf skidding an inch in pain.

"Humanity trusted you all, Jake trusted you all. And you betrayed us?" Gray shouted as he punched his knuckles together, his Qi swirling around his feet and without wasting time, he dashed forward.

"I'm not done with you!" Gray roared as he snapped his fist towards Jack's face but without breaking a sweat, Jack clasped his hands around the fist bringing Gray's hands to a halt.

"Ywo nweed two dwie!" Jack howled as he hurled his claw fist towards Gray's face but in an instant, Jay dashed forward with all the speed he could muster as his hands morphed into a black shield which he placed in front of Jack's fist.

Bang!

Boom!

The shield rang out as Jack's fist slammed into the shield with a reverberating bang that caused Jay's hands to throb in pain.

"Pwest!" Jack howled as he slammed his foot into Jay's chest sending him hurling with blood spraying from his mouth before he lifted Gray with a single hand and tried to slam him into the ground but like a lightning bolt, Harry zipped forward with his sword raised above his head, lightning Qi crackling around it and was about to slam the sword into the werewolf's arms but...

Buzz!

Two laser beams shot towards Harry with immense speed that he had to quickly snap his sword in front of him in an attempt to block the beam but...

Bang!

The force of the beam and the fact that it was fired at point blank range, caused Harry to go flying and spinning back and in order to stop himself, he slammed his sword into the ground, causing it to slice through the ground like a knife cutting through butter.

And that was when he finally came to a skidding halt, his knuckles smoldered slightly due to part of the laser grazing it.

"All of you need to die for father's plan to be realized!" Jack howled as he reverted his face to human form and then glared at Gray in his hands who was thrashing around.

"Starting with you!" Jack hissed as he proceeded to lift Gray above his head and was about to slam him into the ground when...

Zoom!

The sounds of sharp blades slicing through the air was heard causing Jack to swiftly turn around to see fifty Qi swords heading towards him at full speed.

In one fluid motion, he hurled Gray away causing him to tumble a few times on the ground before he swiftly turned around with his furry arms crossed in an X shape above his head as the swords struck with a deafening boom, black blood trickled down Jack's hands as he grit his fangs and was being pushed back slightly, causing deep fissures to run across the ground.

Finally, the swords dissipated and Jack huffed and puffed as he tried to place his hands down when he saw Jay in front of him with a smirk on his face and his hands transformed into mechanical giant fists.

"Have a taste of your own medicine." Jay hissed as he swung his mechanical fists forward causing them to slam straight into Jack's face and therefore hurl him across the battlefield with a broken tooth and blood spraying from his mouth.

He came to a skidding halt and was about getting up when he saw Jay appear in front of him after boosting his speed using his transformed legs and then unleashed a powerful uppercut with his mechanical hands again causing Jack to get lifted off the ground a bit.

But before he could go flying, Gray quickly whipped his hands around and a Qi whip shot forward grabbing Jack's legs and then with a heavy tug, Jack was sent crashing back down with a deafening boom as the ground quaked loudly, a deep crater formed beneath his body and dust along with debris were kicked up.

"AWHOOO!" Jack howled again and from the dust that obscured the view, four laser beams shot towards Jay who didn't expect it and at the last moment, he tried to transform his hands into a shield as the beams approached rapidly.

The beams were mere inches away when he finally got his shield out and right on cue, the beams slammed into it, sliced through the shield and the force of the beams also sent Jay hurling back.

And just in time as Gray launched forward with Qi swirling around his feet and fist which he swung towards Jack's face but the werewolf quickly leapt back and then whipped his legs out slamming it straight into Gray's face and also slamming him into the ground.

'Damn it! My Qi. Is all gone.' Gray thought as he struggled to stand up when he saw Jack lift his furry foot and was sending it hurling towards Gray's head.

'Is that it? Is this the end? Is this how I really die? Is this how I will die without seeing the end of this war? Damn it! I'm sorry Jake, I failed you.' Gray thought in disdain as the foot rapidly approached him when he heard...

"Thunderbolt Technique: Fifth form!" Harry said, his sword in its sheath as it was glowing soft yellow from the outside, the crackling lightning around Harry intensifying and then...

"Spark of a thunderstorm." Harry muttered and then he disappeared.

Looking he teleported as he suddenly blinked in front of Jack who was unable to react quickly and then his foot got sliced off.

"Arghhh! AWOOOH!" Jack howled as he tried to steady his footing when...

"I'm sorry dear friend. I hope you rest well and get reborn as a human with good parents." Harry muttered as he suddenly blinked again then he appeared behind Jack who could be swaying left and right before slumping to the ground in a thud, his head decapitated, blood gushing out of his neck like a fountain.

Chapter 482: What now?

"When Alex killed you, you should have stayed dead." Raze roared as he snapped his fingers, a small shadow was cast above Scar who looked up to see two hundred Qi swords hovering above his head.

"Now you get to die again." Raze chuckled as he slammed his hands together causing the Qi swords to shoot down with immense speed.

BOOM!

An immense explosion erupted after Raze unleashed the two hundred Qi swords towards Scar the Beta werewolf. The ground quaked immensely as if an earthquake was going on as the swords made contact with the ground.

Dust, debris, broken ground, and even shockwaves were kicked up as Raze could be seen huffing, puffing and sweating while staring at the dust if his attack had worked.

'Come on! This has to work damn it! I don't have much Qi left. I have been pouring everything into my most powerful attacks trying to take this annoying werewolf down.' Raze thought as he took in steady, deep breaths while staring at the dust and then...

"You are all too weak." A hoarse voice called out as part of the dust suddenly spread apart and Scar could be seen jumping out of whatever crater was created by Raze's attack with only slight trickle of blood on his fur and a smile on his snout.

"Damn it! Damn it! Damn it!" Raze grumbled beneath his breath as he took a stance, his sword tightly gripped in his hands as he glared at Scar while taking deep, steady breaths.

"You wanted to kill me, make your attack counts. Something as weak as that can't harm me." Scar grinned widely causing his fangs to be on display.

"Enough yapping!" Kate roared as she tugged at her bow and sent four Qi arrows flying forward but Scar didn't spare them much of a glance as he easily stepped aside for each arrow avoiding them and letting them explode into the ground.

After the whole arrows were gone, Scar frowned at Kate and in the blink of an eye, he was in front of her with his claws swinging at her head while her heart thumped loudly in fear by seeing the claws heading towards her.

"Did you forget about me?" Raze asked as he surrounded his feet with Qi and exploded forward just in time as his sword suddenly crossed Scar's path.

Clang!

Raze's hands reverberated as Scar's claws crashed into his sword but he managed to swirl his Qi to his hands giving him a strength boost as he finally managed to push Scar away and then with a powerful leap, he jumped forward and smashed his knees into the werewolf's face causing it to fling its head back with a nose bleed.

"My turn!" Kate quickly snapped out of her daze as she darted forward and then leapt off the ground before landing a roundhouse kick into the werewolf's neck sending it skidding a few inches.

"Take that too!" Raze snapped his fingers as from behind the werewolf, two massive Qi swords shot towards its back and was about to hit it when it quickly spun around and sent its furry legs smashing into the swords.

But the force, speed and weight of the swords managed to send it skidding and tumbling back and a solid kick from Kate sent it skidding forward again.

"We are not done with you!" Kate roared as she swiftly pulled her bow and tugged at its string sending two Qi arrows flying towards the werewolf.

It was about to attack it when the arrows suddenly exploded right in its face sending him hurling back with force and then crashing into the ground with a bang.

"Arghh! Curse you all!" Scar howled as he slowly rose up to see its feet entangled by Qi whips not letting it move one bit.

Looking up, it saw Raze holding onto it with a grin on his face.

"Let's go Smashy Smashy!" Raze smirked as he tugged at the whip, lifting the werewolf above the ground and then smashing it back down with immense force.

Boom!

Another deafening round of shockwave spread out kicking up more dust and debris as Raze and Kate baited their time waiting to see if the werewolf managed to survive.

Kate held her bow tightly, three arrows already strung to the string as she held her breath and calmly waited while Raze also held his sword with a calm stance.

"What? What are we looking for?" A voice suddenly called from right behind Kate and she didn't waste time in turning around and sending her arrows flying towards the Beta werewolf.

"Not this again." Scar groaned as it suddenly slid on the ground causing the arrows to pass over him and then in the blink of an eye, it whacked Kate in the face sending her flying in the path of the arrows.

They exploded right in her face as her body got hurled away, tumbling and bouncing on the ground.

"All these worked on me the first time because I was unaware of them, but won't do anything the second." Scar declared as he tried to turn around when he saw Raze in front of him with his sword mid swing and headed for the werewolf's neck.

"You are so predictable. Your lil brother proved to be more of a challenge than you." Scar sighed as he quickly leapt back avoiding the swing totally.

He did think he avoided the swing but he was wrong as at the end of the sword, at its tip, a yellow crescent slash shot forward and slammed straight into the werewolf's chest drawing immense amount of blood, a deep slash could be seen on its furry body as it stood in disbelief.

"There's a reason I'm older than Alex!" Raze roared as he leapt forward with his sword mid swing and then...

Slash, Slash, Slash!

Raze began swinging his sword rapidly producing more and more Qi slashes that was starting to overwhelm Scar who could be seen dancing around the place trying to avoid the attacks.

One almost caught him but his superior speed allowed him avoid each and all the slash with immense speed, concentration and grit.

And then for the last slash heading for him, Scar quickly swung his claws forward clashing against it in a bang while causing it to dissipate.

"What now?" Scar asked as he leapt up high and could be seen rapidly approaching Raze quickly.

Chapter 483: No more energy in the tank!

"I will kill you!" Varian howled in anger.

"Give your throat a rest. I had killed you before your damned brother brought you to life. And I will still kill you again!" Rex said as he pointed his sword towards Varian who was shaking in anger.

"ARGHH! DIE!" Varian shouted as he bolted forward while Rex took a firm stance.

'Time to put this baby to the test.' Rex grinned as his grip on the sword was firm when Varian swiftly appeared in front of him with his claws heading straight for Rex's face.

With Qi empowering him, Rex quickly sidestep avoiding Varinan's claws totally before swinging his own sword towards the werewolf's arm but it managed to pull back its at the last moment causing the sword to miss him.

"Tsk! Pathetic!" Varian growled as he spun around with his foot heading towards Rex who quickly brought his sword in front of him.

Bang!

A shockwave rippled out as Varinan's foot clashed against the sword while Rex gritted his teeth as he skid an inch while glaring at Varian.

"Fuck you!" Rex muttered as he swung his sword aside pushing the werewolf's foot away before bolting straight for it and swinging his sword vertically unleashing a Qi slash towards it but it simply leapt a metre away avoiding the slash totally.

"I'm starting to get bored." Varian yawned loudly when a shadow was cast over him and he quickly glanced up with a raised eyebrow and could see five hundred Qi swords hovering above him like a circle of death.

"Take that!" Rex said as he swung his hand down and the swords shot downwards at Varian who just chuckled a bit before glancing back at the swords, claws gleaming as it waited and baited his time.

Boom!

The swords broke the sound barrier as they crashed towards Varian who began moving like a blur, his claws clashing against the swords and destroying them totally.

To the left, a sword was headed for him and he quickly pushed off the ground and smashed it away with his foot and still slightly airborne, it swung its claws out in an X causing a type of strange energy to wash out crashing into the swords and bringing them down.

Slowly but quickly, Varian managed to destroy the five hundred swords without sustaining a mark. He landed back down with a smirk on his face as he stared at Rex.

"Is that all the great Rex can produce? Really?! Or you can't take me on your own without your friends." Varian chuckled as he crouched down, hands behind his back with his claws still gleaming.

Bang!

A loud sound erupted as if a gun was shot when Varian dashed towards Rex.

"I think I have held back enough." Rex muttered as he raised the sword vertically in front of him, his gaze fixated on the charging werewolf and then...

Click!

The sound sprang out as Rex twisted a circle on the hilt of the sword and it lit up bright blue.

Varian sprang forward and his claws shot towards Rex's face. But in one smooth movement, the world leader slammed his sword into the ground just at the right time lifting a gleaming blue barrier right in front of his face with the werewolf's claws slamming against it.

Boom!

Varian's claws scratched on the surface of the icy barrier with a boom while its claws were slightly getting iced and so, it leapt back away from the barrier.

In one fluid, motion, Rex pulled the sword out of the ground and twisted the hilt again creating another loud click as he swung it down causing it to strike the ground with a wave of ice heading towards the Beta werewolf rapidly.

"What is this? You want to do a skating party or what?" Varian raised an eyebrow as he leapt into the air avoiding the icy ground.

"I would love to see how well you dodge while you are in the air." Rex said as he pulled the sword and twisted the hilt and the last circle made a clicking sound as he thrust it in the air several times.

Shooting out of the sword's tip were ice shards speeding towards the Beta werewolf with immense speed and seeing all these and knowing it can't dodge, it quickly shot down.

It's long claws clashing against the ice shards as it sped back to the ground and then with a loud boom, he smashed into the ground hard causing the earlier formed ice ground to crack slightly.

"I'm still not done with you!" Rex roared as he slammed his sword into the ice ground and then rocketed himself towards the werewolf while pulling his sword along.

"You foolish old man!" Varian howled as he dashed forward to meet Rex when he suddenly felt his feet moving slower than before, his legs getting stuck in the ground.

Glancing down, the werewolf could see that its feet were encased in thick ice not letting it move well and that was when the air suddenly grew heavy and looking up, Rex finally appeared, his feet smashing into the werewolf's jaws and sending it skidding more than usual on the icy ground.

"Arghhhhhh!" Rex cried out as he swung his sword into the air a dozen times producing Qi slashes that shot towards Varian who growled and bashed his knuckles together before rapidly dealing with the slashes.

"Is this how you all want to win this war? With these weak attacks? Where is the Rex that I know? For real, you are making me bored the more this battle drags on." Varian sighed and Rex just shrugged.

"Can you count?" Rex asked and Varian raised his eyebrow in confusion as he stared at the world leader as if he was crazy. "Answer the question."

"What? You think I'm dumb? That I can't count? Of course I can." Varian grumbled in anger and then Rex smiled.

"Good." Rex nodded his head with a grin on his face. "Then...Kuk!" He coughed a mouthful of blood causing the Beta werewolf to raise a furry brow up.

"That means you can count how many of those things are up there right?" Rex asked as he coughed out blood again and with a raised eyebrow, Varian slowly glanced up to see hundreds.... No! Three thousand Qi swords looming above his head, each one targeted and locked onto him.

'Jake! With this, I will officially have no more Qi left. If this doesn't kill him, then I have no more energy in the tank left to fight against the Alpha.' Rex thought as he kept on coughing out blood.

{Absorption rate: 75%}

Chapter 484: A Battered Greig!

"My uncle took one of your arm, how privileged I am to take your life instead." Greig said, his grin widening as he bolted forward at an inhumane speed.

"Kids." Humfree muttered as he saw Greig coming at him from the side and the with a burst of speed, he pushed off the ground causing a small explosion behind him as he lunged towards the one armed Head General.

With a fluid movement, Humfree swung his with his single arm to intercept the claw strike from Greig that caused an immense wave of shockwave to ripple out, the ground quaked loudly as Humfree was seen skidding a few inches with his teeth grit.

"I never did like your arrogance since you were a kid." Bane roared as he zoomed forward, his hands changing shape to that of a huge giant fist which he swung towards Greig's face.

"Oh Bane uncle." Greig smirked as he leapt away just in time to avoid the punch to his face that created a loud bang.

"And here I thought I was your favorite person." The Beta werewolf grinned, his eyes now slightly slanted as it glared at Bane. "Oh well! You can die now, I don't care!"

"Qi Slash!" Humfree roared out as he swung his sword forward vertically unleashing a massive yellow crescent slash that sped towards Greig.

"Fine! You one armed human, let's dance." Greig hissed as he bolted for the slash instead of avoiding it and then with his claws elongated, he smashed it into the crescent slash totally dissipating it and creating some kind of smoke in his line of vision.

"This is for nearly killing my daughter!" Bane roared as his giant fist burst out of the smoke and smashed straight into Greig's snout sending him jumping back in pain with a trickle of blood dripping down his nose.

"How fu..." Greig trailed off as he suddenly saw Humfree blitz right in front of him with his sword in the middle of a swing and aimed at his neck.

"Tsk!" The werewolf scoffed as it leaned sideways avoiding the sword that grazed his furry face without causing any damage.

"Curse you!" Greig growled as he swung his fist smashing it straight into Humfree who gritted his teeth and took the attack without flinching but deep inside, the punch was hard as he felt like coughing.

But with a grit teeth, Humfree pushed off the ground heading straight for Greig with his sword in his only hand as he swung it causing more slashes of Qi to appear.

"You just don't learn." Greig growled in anger as he began darting around the place avoiding each of the slash with quick precision and agility.

The slashes slammed into the ground causing deep craters or fissures to form.

"Humfree! On your right!" Bane barked as Humfree quickly leapt to his left and right on cue, two deafening bangs rang out as two balls of yellow energy shot out of Bane's hands and sped towards Greig.

"You forgetting that I have seen this before?" Greig asked with a slight disappointment as he prepared to sidestep.

"Yes. But you have not seen this before!" Bane snapped his fingers as Greig had sidestepped avoiding the energy beams but they suddenly halted in the air and then swirled around slamming straight into the Beta werewolf's chest and hurling him back with immense force.

"Kuk!" Greig coughed out specks of blood as his body bounced and tumbled on the ground with force, his fur scrapping against the hard ground with force.

"I will make sure I kill you and your damned father won't be able to bring you back to life again!" Humfree roared as he leapt into the air, heading towards Greig who was trying to stand up when he saw the shadow cast over him.

Quickly, the Beta werewolf rolled around avoiding Humfree who crashed into the ground kicking up dust and causing fissures to run across the ground.

"Stop running away!" Bane cried out as he swiftly appeared in front of Greig with his hands changed into energy blades which he proceeded to swing forward at the werewolf who quickly leapt back trying to avoid it.

But all of a sudden, the swords turned into long energy spears that shot towards his chest and lunged in deep drawing blood as he skidded across the ground in pain.

"Oh! So a werewolf like you can bleed." Humfree muttered with a smirk as he swung his sword downward and immediately, a small shadow got cast over Greig who quickly glanced up to see a hundred Qi swords heading towards him.

"Sheesh! I hate this Qi thingy!" Greig scoffed as he quickly slammed his furry hands into the ground and then the force of the slam threw him up into the air to meet the swords.

Airborne, he began spinning around rapidly, gathering energy around him and in a flash, he swung his legs out to meet the swords totally dissipating the Qi swords.

"Can't dodge that well in mid air can you now?" Bane asked as he pointed his hands into the sky and two powerful energy blasts were sent Greig's way.

"Shit!" Greig muttered as he tried to spin around to avoid the blasts when a huge Qi fist slammed straight into his back from above causing him to spit out saliva, his descent back down was now accelerated as he rapidly approached the energy blasts.

Boom!

An explosion spread out as the energy blasts slammed straight into Greig who had his furry arms crossed around his head.

Bang!

His body smashed back into the ground with a deafening bang, a huge crater formed beneath his body as a huge mound of dust got kicked up.

"Is he still alive?" Humfree asked as he gripped his sword tighter while staring into the dust that was slowly settling back down.

"Kuk!" A loud cough erupted from the crater as a figure was slowly emerging.

"I guess he is still alive. Barely." Bane replied with a click of his tongue as he saw Greig emerging, his body battered, his hands dripping with blood.

"I'm not done with you all yet." Greig grinned as he took a stance and then dashed straight for the duo again despite his injuries.

Chapter 485 485: Last Stand!

"That means you can count how many of those things are up there right?" Rex asked as he coughed out blood again and with a raised eyebrow, Varian slowly glanced up to see hundreds.... No! Three thousand Qi swords looming above his head, each one targeted and locked onto him.

'Jake! With this, I will officially have no more Qi left. If this doesn't kill him, then I have no more energy in the tank left to fight against the Alpha.' Rex thought as he kept on coughing out blood.

Boom!

The whole battlefield for miles on end rippled out with a huge explosion. The ground quaked, the air rattled, the atmosphere became immense and that was because of one person.

Rex Slade: the strongest world leader there is. What did he do?

Unleashed a whooping sum of three thousand Qi swords on a single werewolf. But this was no ordinary werewolf, it was the strongest Beta werewolf in existence.

Erin held her mic, her breath baited as she stared at the dust, their drones still filming and bringing the tough battle to the world. Everybody tensely watching with baited breath.

Rex could be seen huffing and panting, beads of sweat dripping down his face as he weakly held his sword while the dust from the attack he had just unleashed slowly settled.

For several miles on end, deep craters formed, but the biggest crater was the one around Rex and Varian.

The crater went for twelve metres deep, six metres wide, around Varian's fur, deep cuts around his hands and face.

Blood gushing out of his body like a mini fountain, his breathing ragged, eyes still glowing bright blue as he stared at Rex. His wrists and forearms immensely bloodied as his blood dropped onto his gleaming claws.

"Is...is that all?!" Varian asked as he drew in a hoarse breath, his grin still didn't leave his face.

"Damn it!" Erin shakily held her mic as she surveyed the battlefield. The three Beta werewolves causing havoc with humanity losing slowly.

The world watching the war from their houses and commenting on the online Livestream, initially held their comments and now, they were rapidly commenting.

"What are they doing? How are they losing?"

"Damn it! These oldies are useless! How weak can they be?!"

"I knew we should have voted another set of world leaders than these oldies!"

"A one armed old General, teenagers, weaklings, and old fools! How on Earth won't we lose this war?!"

"Guys! They are really trying their best. We shouldn't cuss at them, they are at the front lines fighting for our lives."

"Shut the freaking hell up! If we don't cuss at these losers, then who else should we cuss at? Are you watching the same thing we are?! The freaking Alpha hasn't joined yet and we are already on our last legs."

"Yoo! That user was right. Instead of cussing at those that are risking their lives for us, we should be angry at the fool that made so much promises, gave us a fake heartfelt speech about wanting to rid the world of werewolves and he is nowhere to be seen."

"That's true! I swear, if someone we manage to win this war and that stupid werewolf slayer crawls out of hiding, I will hunt him down."

"Same here. The weakling knew there was nothing he could do hence he decided to go into hiding."

"But how sure are we that we are going to win? I mean look at Rex! He is basically on his last legs."

And with that last comment, the camera zoomed in on Rex's tired face, his breathing slow and steady as if he was trying to calm his wildly beating heart.

His hands weakly held his sword as his face was now drenched in sweat, his mouth stained with blood.

Then the camera turned from Rex to Bane and Humfree that were having their own stand off against Greig, Raze and Kate having their own standoff against Scar.

It felt like the world was now still, everybody breathing slowly as they stared at their opponents. Those that were not fighting, stood on the sidelines, hands shaking in fear of what might happen next.

Gray, Jay and Harry just finished dealing with Jack and now stood on the sidelines, breath ragged and barely able to stand up. Especially Harry, his legs were so weak and jelly that he could barely stand up.

He stared at the fight with dry mouth as the drones buzzed and zoomed around the place capturing every single person.

The Alpha who stood a few metres away, hands crossed and eyes fixed on the battlefield, suddenly moved, his steps steady and measured as he walked forward.

"Damn it! Damn it! The Alpha is making his move now!" Someone from the Livestream who noticed, announced and the drones immediately panned towards the Alpha.

"Tsk, tsk,tsk!" Rivock scoffed as he took steady, calm steps forward and then stopped in the middle of all three battle.

"And you wanted to wage the war against us. You wanted to wipe us out earlier, what happened to your resolve now? What happened to the strength you boasted off on the news? You all said the werewolf slayer would be your savior and all, but where is he now?" Rivock asked as he chuckled loudly.

"Rivock! I will be the one to kill you!" Rex roared, his grip on his sword tighter, gaze stern and teeth grit.

"First handle my kid brother before you speak to me." Rivock snarled as he sharply turned to glare at Rex.

"What do you want now?" Bane asked, one eye on Greig in front of him, the other on Rivock.

"The destruction of the human race." Rivock replied with a grin then he sighed. "That is my long term goal. But my current issue is that I'm bored. Watching my subordinates have all the fun is boring.

I need to flex myself a little. So... all of you, stand down now!" The Alpha ordered, his eyes glowing bright red and instantly, all werewolves slowly backed away.

"Now," Rivock said as he stretched his index finger forward with a grin on his face when his nails slowly elongated a few inches before stopping. "Where were we?" He asked as his teeth suddenly grew into fangs and without looking around, he swung his finger sideways causing his nails to shoot out faster than a bullet and then...

Bam!

"ARGHHH! Andrew!" Helen's voice rang out as she saw the Alpha's nail digging deep into Andrew's head and the next second, he slumped down with a thud.

Chapter 486 486: The Alpha has joined in!

Bam!

"ARGHHH! Andrew!" Helen's voice rang out as she saw the Alpha's nail digging deep into Andrew's head and the next second, he slumped down with a thud.

Hearing that shout, everybody quickly spun around from where the shout was coming from and their eyes widened in horror at what they saw.

Andrew was dead as his body slid down to the ground after being impaled in the head by the Alpha's elongated nail.

Everybody looked shocked, shaken and confused as they turned to glare at Rivock who grinned widely, his fangs on full display as he stared at everybody with his brown eyes.

"Oh my bad!" Rivock smirked as everybody turned to him on hearing his voice.

"Why... why did you kill him?!" Peter asked, his grip on his axe tight as he glared at Rivock in anger.

"And a saying goes." Rivock said as he scratched his head with his finger and then smiled. "The son would suffer for the sins of his father."

"What do you mean?!" Kate asked in a low growl.

"You don't know this but Andrew's dad, Blip! He had been planning a coup to overthrow me. He wanted to become the Alpha so bad, he came down to Earth without my consent, formed a group that ended up being part of the big three Guild, learnt Qi and felt like he was the strongest werewolf there was.

Now, the coup didn't happen because of Jake. Jake attacked Blip in anger for waging a war when he was not around. If Jake hadn't killed him, he would have died from my hands instead because I was so enraged. That's why, since I couldn't kill the father, the son had to pay instead." Rivock grinned widely.

"This has just gone to prove," Rex said as he gripped his sword tight, his gaze firm and his teeth grit. "You are no longer the Rivock we know!"

Boom!

As if suddenly receiving a burst of energy, Rex dashed forward at full speed, his sword gleaming behind him as he grit his teeth and then dashed faster again.

When he was close, Rex leapt into the air with so much force the a huge mound of dust was kicked up behind him as he came crashing towards the Alpha's head from above.

"I thought I told you this, I'm not Rivock. The real name is Vornak." Vornak replied as he easily sidestepped at the last moment causing Rex to crash into the ground instead, his sword slicing through the earth as if it was slicing through butter.

"And you just messed with the wrong person!" Vornak howled as he swung his foot sending it flying towards Rex's head.

'Damn it! I acted out of impulse, I really don't have any Qi to protect me at all. How would I be able to block this hit now?!' Rex thought in worry as the foot rapidly approached him when...

Clang!

Boom!

A human intercepted the kick with a shield right in front of him which Vornak's foot struck and it rang out with immense energy, Paul's hands trembled from the force of the kick but with a grit of teeth, he persevered and kept pushing at the leg.

"Huh? It didn't break?!" Vornak muttered in disbelief as he pulled back his foot and leapt back an inch letting Paul slowly rose up to his feet.

"Crap! Too much energy!" Paul roared in pain as the shield lit up bright blue that the General had to shut his eyes while pointing it at the Alpha and then...

Boom!

A tremendous wave of energy burst forward with full speed and headed towards the Alpha that stared at it in shock.

'So that's what the shield do!' Vornak thought as he quickly leapt up in the air avoiding the attack wholly and letting it crash into the ground where he stood earlier creating a deep gouge and crater in it.

'Damn it! He is too fast!' Paul cursed inwardly as he saw Vornak land back on his foot smoothly.

"Honestly, I don't know why you humans struggle and push back a lot." Vornak said as he lightly facepalmed himself while shaking his head in disappointment. "You know that your opponents are stronger than you, give up already."

"That word isn't in our dictionary." A voice sounded from behind the Alpha as he raised an eyebrow and then quickly spun around with his hands crossed to meet the strike of an axe that didn't even make him flinch.

"Futile effort." Vornak scoffed as he tried to kick the axe wielder who turned out to be Peter who leapt back from the Alpha's foot and another figure quickly came in.

"So just die!" A crimson haired individual roared as he swung his sword with all the strength he could muster, his body battered and injured to the extent that blood was still seeping out of his injuries.

"Alex." Vornak muttered as he quickly snapped his foot back and then in one fluid motion, he swung his legs from the side smashing it into his face and causing Alex's body to go flying before his sword could even think of touching the Alpha.

'Damn it!' Alex cursed inwardly as his body flew back with tremendous force, blood spraying from his mouth as his back finally hit an Aeroglide and then him bursting a hole into it with his body.

"And it's not my time to die yet, pests." Vornak scoffed as he turned around and then he froze.

"Rivock." Bane called out softly as he gently walked over with the others.

All the core members of the Fang hunters, Bane, Raze, Jay and all the others finally stepped forward as they all surrounded the Alpha in a circle of some kind causing him to twist and turn while staring at them all.

"Honestly, we didn't have to do this. Even though you were a werewolf, the care you showed towards us and this planet earlier felt genuine. You could have just continued like that instead of attacking us." Bane said, his voice weak and cracking due to sadness.

"You know, I'm still surprised that an observant fellow like you, the brain box of all the world leaders' operation, couldn't figure and see through my lies and deceit. I'm really disappointed in you." Vornak said as he shook his head in disappointment.

"And what's this you are all trying to pull off here? All of you against me? What kind of mockery is that?!" Vornak shook his head. "You need about hundreds and thousands of men to even think of doing anything to me."

"Well," Harry said as he took a stance, his hands crackling with Qi lightning with his hands placed on his sword. "We would see about that!"

And with that statement, everybody dashed forward trying to close in on the Alpha who just grinned.

Chapter 487 487: First Blood!

"Well," Harry said as he took a stance, his hands crackling with Qi lightning with his hands placed on his sword. "We would see about that!"

And with that statement, everybody dashed forward trying to close in on the Alpha who just grinned.

Boom!

The air exploded with energy as everybody, whether injured or tired, whether bleeding or on the verge of death, whether weak or strong, dashed forward in an attempt to take down the biggest threat of the human race.

Swoosh!

Four Qi arrows from Kate sliced through the air while headed for the Alpha who easily weaved and dodged all of them when he saw a shield from Paul heading towards his face.

Without any stress, he ducked down avoiding the shield and letting it go over his head. That was when a foot swung towards the Alpha's face from below but he quickly bashed it with his not yet transformed hands.

"Argh!" Helen roared as she leapt off the ground and quickly smashed her knees into the Alpha's face while holding his head tight.

That was the first solid hit on the human's side.

She quickly leapt off his face and landed smoothly away from the Alpha allowing for Bane to charge forward.

His hands broke down and changed shape into that of energy blades which he swung towards the werewolf but the Alpha quickly transformed his own hands into claws and began clashing against the energy blades causing ripples of energy to spread out.

"Arghh!" Rex roared as he leapt off the ground with force, his breathing slightly ragged as he swung his sword from the side heading towards Rivock's neck.

Sensing this, Rivock quickly smashed a kick into Bane's gut sending him skidding back in pain, blood dribbling down his mouth as the Alpha quickly spun around and then with his clawed hands, grabbed Rex's sword while he was in the air.

"Too slow." Vornak grinned, his fangs on display as he swung his fist towards Rex's face.

"Was I?" Rex asked with a smirk when...

Bash!

Paul burst forward from the side smashing his shield into Vornak's side causing him to tumble back and then let go of Rex's sword causing him to flip once and then land on his feet smoothly.

Raze leapt off the ground and quickly made use of the opportunity by swinging his Qi infused sword towards the Alpha's side but the werewolf on sensing the danger, quickly pivoted sharply on one foot avoiding the sword totally causing it to just slice through the air.

Vornak was about to unleash a kick towards Raze but Paul quickly intercepted with his shield again causing a loud ring to be heard as the Alpha's foot struck the shield and it lit up.

"Don't you ever learn?!" Paul smirked as a deafening bang rang out and a burst of energy shot towards the Alpha.

He couldn't react on time as the energy slammed straight into him, a mouthful of blood burst out of his mouth as his body went hurling and he crashed into the ground, his body skidding against the ground.

Surprisingly, he lay there, his body was unmoving, his breathing stopped as blood dripped down his mouth. Everybody stared with wide eyes, confused and surprised.

"Wait, is that it?" Raze asked as he stared at the Alpha's body from afar.

"Certainly not." A chuckle erupted from the Alpha as his shoulders rose and fell in amusement and then he slowly stirred up, his body didn't have any single mark on it, only his shirt was blown off.

"Did you think that something meagre like that would be enough to finish the leader of a whole different race?"

"We know that it won't." Alex could be heard shouting as he dragged his feet, blood dripping down his mouth, his injuries now reopened as his body ached from the hit he received earlier.

"I'm glad you don't underestimate me." Vornak grinned when the sound of something swooshing through the air was heard and the Alpha quickly spun around to see six Qi arrows heading towards his face which he quickly struck down with his claws but they created an explosion that pushed the werewolf back an inch.

"I hate werewolves!" An old man with a single arm which held a sword said as the Katana sliced through the smoke heading straight for the Alpha's face but the werewolf as if sensing the attack leaned back to avoid it and then swung his fist towards Humfree's face.

Instantly, Jay jumped in front of the old Head General with his hands now transformed into a mechanical wall that received the impact of the Alpha's fist.

BOOM!

The air reverberated from the Alpha's punch which landed on the mechanical wall. For a second, it looked like the wall held but the next second...

Crack!

And then the wall exploded with dozens of pieces falling to the ground while Jay yelled in pain as he was sent skidding from the air that came out of Vornak's fist.

Taking advantage of this, Humfree leapt forward, his sword slashing from above with a crescent wave of energy crashing towards the Alpha who just waved his hand, a loud bang shook the air, and then the crescent energy dissipated.

"This is getting slightly boring!" The Alpha howled as he bolted straight for Humfree, his claws now elongated which he swung towards the old man.

Clang!

The sound of claws hitting against steel rang out as Humfree was being pushed back, his teeth grit, hand trembling.

"I was a Head General for a reason." Humfree grunted out when he noticed his sword cracking under the pressure.

"And I'm an Alpha for a reason!" Vornak howled as he swung his foot towards Humfree's abdomen but as usual, Paul intercepted with his shield.

Luckily for the Alpha, he noticed it on time and quickly pulled back his leg.

"You are annoying." Vornak hissed as he tried to move when he suddenly felt his legs restricted.

Glancing down, Qi threads could be seen coiling around his feet not allowing him take a single step. Glancing around, the werewolf spotted Sophia twirling her hands around, blood trickling down her mouth.

"Useless effort." Vornak scoffed as he quickly crouched down and leapt into the air causing the threads to snap instantly.

"I want to see how you dodge in the air!" Paul roared as he grabbed the shield and with all the Qi he could muster and he had left, he sent it spinning like a disk towards the Alpha who was in the air.

"Big mistake." Vornak growled as he kicked the air, spun around and then grabbed the shield like a frisbee while somewhat hovering in the air. "Why don't you have it back!" He shouted as he swung the shield with immense force that the mere speed of the weapon shattered the sound barrier twice.

Bam!

Tchk!

The shield struck Paul in the abdomen, it tore through his body like a hot knife tearing through butter. Blood spurted out of Paul's mouth as his eyes closed in and out.

"General Paul!" Kate shouted at the top of her lungs in pain as she saw the General's body slid down to the ground.

Chapter 488 488: Killing Spree!

When I saw the shield being caught by the Alpha, it was as if I already knew what was going to happen. My life literally flashed before my eyes.

The only regret I had was that I was going to leave this world without helping to end this war. I didn't get to see Jake, my subordinates, my colleagues and most especially, my family.

Wilfred, you died during our planetary conquest, I'm also coming to meet you now. Although we won't be able to see this war to the end, at least we would be with each other in the afterlife.

You have always been my best friend during when we enlisted as military men. And now, these best friends would finally be reunited in the afterlife. I'm sorry everyone, I'm sorry Earth, This General is signing out of this war.

"General Paul!" Kate shouted at the top of her lungs in pain as she saw the General's body slid down to the ground.

The battlefield field froze, the atmosphere grew tense, everybody stopped moving for a second as they slowly turned around to see the General's split body in half fall to the ground.

Nobody knew how to react as they stared at the dead body. The whole world was in shock too. It is not an overstatement to say that the whole world knew General Paul out of the other Generals that ever existed.

And now, he lay dead on the floor. His body cut in half from his own weapon.

"No, no, no, no!" Kate shouted as he bolted for the dead body, she quickly plopped on the ground and began frantically shaking the body with tears running freely down her cheeks.

The others were too stunned to move as they could barely register what was going on.

"No, please no! Don't do this General Paul. Please don't." Kate pleaded as she shook the body with more tears running freely down her eyes.

"You can't leave me now, you can't leave us. You have always being a father figure to me. Although I have my biological dad who I haven't seen in a long time, you took up his role while I was in the academy.

You treated us all like your kid. Yo...y...you were like a father to us, you can't leave now! General Paul! Wake up now! Please, please, for my sake, don't go!" Kate cried out as tears were gushing out of her eyes like a waterfall.

"Damn it, damn it, damn it!" Someone on the Livestream commented in anger.

"General Paul is dead? Just like that? How?"

"Curse this Alpha werewolf. May he rot in the pit of hell! Damn it all!"

"This is bad."

Comments of anger kept pouring down and now, they were being targeted at both the Alpha and Jake.

Peter stood shocked, hands trembling in fear as his mouth was wide agape, hands shakily held his axe as he stared at the dead General, his blood boiling over and over.

Eyes suddenly red, teeth grinding against each other as he turned to glare at the Alpha that was now descending down from the air with a grin on his face.

"Finally! The annoying General and his shield are gone." Vornak smiled as he dusted his hands in satisfaction.

"Wh... what did you just do?!" Peter asked, his teeth grit as his grip on his axe now grew tighter.

"Why? I took care of a pest and you are all next now." Vornak smiled.

"Fuck you!" Peter roared and he didn't think twice before bolting straight for the Alpha.

In a flash, his sword was swung in a precise arc aiming to cleave the werewolf's head off but it quickly leapt back avoiding the swing which sliced through the air.

"Curse you!" Peter shouted with pure rage seeping out of him as he leapt up and delivered a roundhouse kick that was blocked by the werewolf's arm.

"Shit! He has gone crazy." Gray muttered as he pointed at the berserk Peter.

"So have I!" Humfree and Alex roared in unison as if their minds were linked as they dashed towards the Alpha.

"DIE!" Peter cried out as he swung his axe vertically aiming for the Alpha's chest but Vornak simply leapt back avoiding the axe that slammed into the ground, tearing a deep hole and shaking it with so much force.

"Not if you die first." Vornak grinned as his glowing red eyes suddenly flashed in front of Peter and his claws moved aiming to take his head off when a loud clang was heard.

Alex could be seen holding onto his sword, his teeth grit, eyes teary and slightly moist as he struggled against the claws from the Alpha.

"I will kill you!" Humfree roared as he leapt into the air and came crashing down with his sword heading straight for Vornak's head.

"Alright, I have had enough of you all." Vornak growled slightly as his legs suddenly bulged ripping through his pants with fur covering it, his snout grew more profound, arms grew thick fur.

And all of these happened in a split second. As Vornak swung his foot towards the Airborne Humfree who quickly brought his sword in front of him in an attempt to block.

A crack filled the air as the sword shattered and the Head General was sent crashing into the ground with his only remaining arm cracked and mangled from holding his sword in front of him.

Peter quickly came in from the side aiming to deliver a kick to the Alpha when his leg was grabbed and then he was hurled in the air sending him crashing into a glide and tearing through it.

"I'm not done with you! You need to join General Paul!" Alex roared as he pushed himself to his limit, his injuries opening up more as he swung his sword towards the werewolf that suddenly moved faster than anything he did before getting straight behind Alex's back.

"You sad about that General, you can also join him!" Vornak growled as he swung his claws towards Alex's head aiming to take it off when a dozen Qi swords shot down from the sky intercepting the claw strike.

Raze quickly appeared in front of the werewolf, his sword shooting forward at the arms of the Alpha. The sword struck but it immediately snapped in two.

"Crap!" Raze muttered as he was now left without a sword when Vornak snarled at him and then swung his palm towards his face and then...

Plop!

Raze's head got smashed into his body which now slid down with a thud.

"Brother!" Alex cried out in horror.

"Shit!" Rex muttered, his hands tightly clenched as he stared at his eldest son falling to the ground with a thud.

"I will kill you!" Rex roared as he blitzed forward, pushing himself to his limits.

Even without Qi, he was still faster than the normal human but in the eyes of the Alpha, it was nothing as Rex swung his sword and a loud click was heard when a stream of ice shot towards his face.

Vornak swiftly pivoted to the side avoiding the ice from hitting his face. Rex spun around, the sword made another click again as he swung it vertically causing dozens of ice shards to shoot towards the Alpha who elongated his claws like Wolverine and then began smashing against the ice shards destroying them one at a time.

Bane quickly came in from the side with his energy blade which he swung towards Vornak who quickly raised a claw to block the blade causing a loud ring to echo out.

Humfree who had been sent crashing down could be seen leaping off from the ground and smashing his legs straight into the werewolf's face causing it to stumble backwards.

"I have stayed on the sidelines enough!" The Rave lord shouted as he appeared behind the werewolf with his long sword swung out and slamming straight into the Alpha and sending it tumbling forward.

"You need to die!" Helen roared as she leapt off the ground and grabbed the Alpha's face before smashing her knees straight into his face.

She was about to leap back when the werewolf swung its claws grabbing her legs holding her in place before it took a swipe at her head aiming to take it off.

Just in time, as she saw her life flashing right in front of her, Berg; her bodyguard from childhood leapt up and bashed the hilt of his sword into the hand holding onto Helen causing the Alpha to drop her.

Berg was just about to move but he was a tad too slow as the claws initially aimed for Helen's head, took his instead.

"Berg!" Helen cried out in shock as she saw her bodyguard and also best friend slumping down without a head.

"Futile and weak ass efforts!" Vornak howled as he restricted himself from fully transforming and even with that, he was causing full on damage as Helen was unable to move in shock.

But this didn't stop the others from fighting as Rex quickly spun around with a loud click heard from his sword and then it began getting encased in ice which the world leader swung towards the Alpha who quickly brought his hand in front of his face.

But what he didn't expect was the strength of the ice, and the fact that Rex had regained a little bit of Qi which he coated along the edge of the sword that now struck Vornak's hand and it got cleanly sliced off with blood spurting out of his stump.

The Alpha didn't even have any time to register his fatal injury when Bane with his bloodied face appeared directly in front of him with his palms now placed directly in front of Vornak's abdomen and then...

Bang!

A huge blast erupted as Bane had transformed his arms into a small canon which emitted an energy burst that sent Vornak's body flying, blood spurting out of his mouth.

Chapter 489: Jake is back!

Bang!

A huge blast erupted as Bane had transformed his arms into a small canon which emitted an energy burst that sent Vornak's body flying, blood spurting out of his mouth.

The werewolf's body tumbled and bounced on the ground, its abdomen now had a gaping hole in it, blood dripping out of it as the body finally came to a skidding halt.

The remaining humans that were not currently grieving, stood side by side, breaths ragged as they stared at what might happen.

Kuk!

Rex coughed loudly as he held his stomach, body aching him from pushing himself to the brink, his arms throbbed in pain as it felt like he might collapse due to exhaustion.

"I'm sure he is not dead," Alex said, his hands clenched tightly as he stared at Raze's dead body, tears streaming down his eyes as he saw his brother's lifeless body.

"So I will finish him off myself!" Alex roared in anger as he didn't think twice and he charged towards the Alpha's body that lay on the ground a few metres away.

"Alex, wait!" Emily tried to reach out in horror but Alex wasn't hearing anything as pure rage clouded his reasoning as he darted for the werewolf.

"Shit! Rex do something or you will lose your only remaining son now." Bane said as he stared at his hands that refused to transform again due to low energy.

"On it!" Rex muttered as he darted for Alex who was now incredibly close to the Alpha that wasn't still moving a muscle.

"I will kill you!" Alex growled in anger as he stood over the werewolf glancing at its injured stomach and its one arm now.

No sign of any heartbeat, no twitch in muscles even though Alex was practically standing over the Alpha.

"Huh?" Alex muttered in disbelief as his anger was slowly receding. "Is it dead already? So easily?" He muttered as he finally heard his name being called and he turned to see Rex dashing towards him.

"Dad?"

"NO! Alex! Look out!" Rex shouted in pure horror as his eyes bulged as if he had seen a ghost.

"Huh?" Alex muttered as he slowly turned around to see a pair of glowing red eyes staring right at him in the face.

"Now you will be my meal." Vornak smirked as he swiped his claw towards Alex's stunned face and in response, the teenager just shut his eyes in fear when...

"NO! Rex!" Bane roared in shock which caused Alex to raise an eyebrow.

'Rex? Dad? What ha...' Alex trailed off inwardly as he opened up his eyes to see Rex staring at him with a smile on his face, his mouth full with blood and then with a cough, he spat the blood out.

"I... I'm sorry son..." Rex tried to apologize when the Alpha's jaws opened wide and he took a huge chomp of Rex's head before swallowing it whole.

Alex stood rooted, shock, sadness, anger and confusion etched on his face as he saw the werewolf taking his time to munch on his dad's dead body.

The remaining humans stared, mouth agape in horror as they saw the werewolf devouring Rex's body while Alex shuddered, his hands clenched and his eyes dilated.

"Da...dad?!" Alex muttered as the realization was slowly dawning on him. In just the span of a few minutes, he lost his brother, his mentor, his friends and now, his dad.

His head spinning in shock, tears freely falling down his face as he saw the werewolf fully regrow its cut off arm, his stomach now fully healed up from the gaping hole delivered to its body.

All injuries dealt to the Alpha was now healed in a split second.

"AWHOOOOOO!" Vornak howled into the air, his eyes glowing red with energy and power, red blood from the corpse it had just devoured dribbling down his mouth.

"AWOOOOOOOO!" All the Beta werewolves that stood a couple metres away watching the show, howled together, their eyes glowing bright blue with power too.

"Now. Where were we?" Vornak asked with a smirk on his face.

Seeing that smile, Alex finally lost any sort of sanity left in his mind, eyes blood red.

"ARGHHHHHHH!" Alex screamed into the air, the air now responding to him by reverberating causing Vornak to raise his eyebrows at this.

"Damn it! I have never seen Alex this angry before." Emily muttered, beads of sweat trickling down her face.

"You think?" Peter asked as he could be seen limping forward in pain, blood dripping down his mouth. "I was always the hot headed one amongst all of us. But this, this is on another level."

"He has gone mad in pure anger." Bane muttered as he closed his hands in and out trying to at least transform his fingers but to no avail.

"Come on." The Rave lord said as he gripped his sword tight. "Let's help him take this furry bastard down!"

"Take him down? Are we seeing the same thing?" Gray asked with a raised eyebrow. "Don't get me wrong, I'm a patriot and all that but we just saw him taking down Rex."

"Exactly! We can't just charge in recklessly without any form of a game plan or something. We would all just die for nothing and he will wreck more havoc." Jay replied with a slight nod as his eyes navigated around and could see Raze's dead body.

"Well, we can't just stand here and do nothing." Kate was heard saying as she slowly stood up from Paul's dead body, eyes puffed up and hands clenched.

"If I have to die taking that bastard down, I will gladly do it. Who's with me?"

"M..." Humfree was about to say when a deafening bang rang out and they quickly turned around to see Alex dashing forward, a pair of Qi swords forming in his hands.

"Shit!" Emily muttered as her heart thumped loudly.

Alex having enough, swung his Qi sword towards Vornak who quickly leaned sideways avoiding the swing wholely before sending his foot flying towards Alex but as if anticipating this, he quickly leapt into the air and then spun around with the swords slicing through the air smoothly and he was about to slam it into the werewolf.

But Vornak quickly leapt back avoiding the swords which crashed into the ground causing dust and debris to be kicked up.

Before Alex could regain his footing, Vornak made use of the smoke as a guise. His foot was seen slicing through the smoke while transforming to that of a werewolf mid swing.

Bang!

The foot smashed straight into Alex's gut causing him to spit out a mouthful of blood, his body was hurled back with his ribs cracked and broken, his Qi swords dissipating as the force of the kick, and the pain he was going through, made it difficult for him to breathe.

His body smashed into the ground, skidding and bouncing creating deep fissures in the ground.

"Alex!" Emily cried out as she didn't care for anything and she dashed towards the crimson haired who could be seen coughing hard over and over, blood shooting from his mouth.

"Alex, Alex, Alex!" Emily shouted as she slid on her knees beside Alex and quickly grabbed his head shaking him over and over. "Please stay with me. Please, don't go too! I love you, please stay with me!"

"I...I...I...if you don't stop shaking me, I might actually die." Alex coughed out a speck of blood again and Emily stopped shaking him.

"I know you are angry." Vornak said as he slowly strode towards Alex who on hearing the voice, was now struggling to stand up.

Those on the sidelines walking over slowly and now, they stood behind Alex, ready to attack and prepared for anything to happen.

"You are too angry right now because of the death of your family. So I'm feeling generous right now and I will gladly send you over to them!" Vornak smirked as he was about speeding towards Alex who was now standing weakly when...

BOOM!

The air trembled loudly. Loud crackles could be heard in the sky as if it was about to rain. Everybody including Vornak quickly glanced up and they could see the sky in one side suddenly darkening.

"Huh? What is that?" Kate asked as they all noticed the sky darken for a few seconds, then it suddenly lit up bright white.

The sky was now bright white and it kept shining and shining and then...

BOOM!

BANG!

The sky split open, swirling with mystical energy. It looked like a wormhole in the sky and it was swirling with energy and then the sound of something sizzling and crackling could be heard in the sky.

BOOM!

A bright white light shot down from the sky crashing straight into the ground a few metres away, sparks of lightning dispelling around the ground, the whole ground scorched badly.

"You take one more step, I will slice your head off. Not like I wasn't planning on doing that earlier." A voice came out from the middle of the bright light as a figure stepped forward.

His slick, black hair fluttering in the wind, his sharp, blue hazel eyes gleaming in anger as it was fixated on the Alpha, his hands clenched tightly.

Everybody including the drones filming the war to the world, quickly turned around to stare at the new arrival and everybody opened their mouths wide agape, everybody shocked to the marrow at the arrival.

"Jake?!" Everybody shouted at once.

Chapter 490: A pained and tortured heart!

A few moments ago, while the whole world were putting their lives on the line against the Alpha, while the whole world were wondering where Jake was.

Jake could be seen on another continent, on another planet and he was going through hell. Going through pure torture.

Blood pouring out of his mouths, his hands bloodied as he had dug his nails into his palms drawing blood, lips bleeding from him biting down on it so hard so as to ease the pain.

Why? That was because he was going through a system upgrade and in the process, his mind was going through hell.

He wasn't alone on this place, someone else was with him. The protector of the continent he was on.

Grey Dawn: The Supreme Mage.

A portal shimmered beside Grey, the battle going on, on Jake's planet being displayed right in front of him. Earlier, Jake had made a request that he wanted Grey to create a portal back home so immediately he was done with what he was going through, he would quickly jump through.

Now, Grey was watching the show, his own muscles tensed as he saw the humans fighting against thousands of werewolves as they were falling down like flies.

'Damn it! These are what Jake's people are up against? How are they even able to deal with these?!' Grey thought as he saw some humans shooting our yellow energies shaping it like swords the same way Jake always did.

'That must be what's helping them. But damn! This is a lot.'

"ARGHHH!" Jake roared out in pain as he had his eyes shut and was unaware of what was going on.

Slowly, the battle against the hordes of werewolves was finally over and the Alpha made his move by reviving his dead Generals and then another wave of battle ensued. With only those strong enough facing off against them and they were losing.

'Come on! You need to go through this quickly. Everybody needs you. Your friends! Your family, the guild, the whole world! Come on Jake!' Jake roared inwardly as he tightly clenched his hands when he heard a shout, the voice eerie familiar as he quickly snapped his eyes open.

And there, he could see it. A shimmering portal displaying the fight, the last stand going on back on his planet.

"H...huh? Argh!" He groaned in pain as he peeled his eyes open staring at the fight going on between the world leaders, some of the core members of his guild and against the Beta werewolves.

"What's going on?" Jake muttered to himself as he saw the fight. How his allies were struggling to even land successful hits. Rex was having it a lot easier as he was going all out, landing hits after hits.

Seeing his friends battling hard, made him want to jump straight into the portal but he could barely move a finger. Just keeping his eyes open and peeled was torture enough.

The fight kept dragging on until the Alpha finally stepped forward calling his Generals back.

'Wait! Is...isn't that Rivock? Wh.. what's he doing there? Wa...wasn't he supposed to be dead? Why are the werewolves listening to him? What's going on back at home?' Jake thought and then he saw Rivock transformed partly and then a new battle ensued.

Every single person there band together against the Alpha werewolf and just mere looking at them from the portal, he could see how exhausted, weak and injured they all are.

They were pushing through their limits with grit and fighting with all they had trying to bring Rivock down. While they were using all skills they could muster, Jake watched Rivock leap into the air and then Paul sent his shield flying towards the werewolf.

The shield was caught and then retuned back to Paul but in the process, he got sliced in half. Jake's eyes widened in horror.

'NOOOOO!' Jake roared inwardly as he saw Paul slowly slump to the ground, his heart tightening as he saw the General lay dead on the ground. 'Damn it! Damn it! Damn it! Damn it all! I should be there! I'm supposed to there! If I was, General Paul wouldn't have died! ARGHHH!'

"Jake," Grey softly called out without turning around. "I know seeing your friends and allies dropping down, you must be seething inside. But I want you to focus on what you are going through right now."

"ARGHHHH!" Jake roared both in anger and pain as tears freely trickled down his face. After General Paul's death, he began seeing the others dropping down.

First Raze, then Berg, then Rex. And with all the deaths, his head ached, his chest tightened and his eyes moistened.

'Curse it all! I will kill him, I will freaking kill that betrayal! ARGHHH!' Jake cried in his mind when he saw Alex angrily dash forward. 'No! Alex will get himself killed. No! I can't lose him, I can't freaking lose him too!'

"Gr...Grey." Jake called out with a cough and a grunt. "Ac...activate the portal, I need to get back now."

"What?!" Grey shouted as he quickly spun around to face Jake who's eyes were now slightly red, his hands twitching in pain. "You are not done with what you are doing. Look at you! You are in no shape to fight, if you do, you would be killed instantly."

"And if I don't, the family I have suffered to build over the years will all die. I... I can't risk losing them. Th...the werewolves took...took my parents when I was younger, can...can't let them do the same now. I...I... I need to get back ASAP now!" Jake roared and then his body spasmed in pain again.

"Let him go." Noir whispered in Grey's mind.

"Fine." Grey sighed, his hands glowing bright white while Jake slowly pushed himself off the ground with all his might, his teeth grinding against each other.

Thrusting his hand forward, the bright light from Grey's hands struck the portal and instantly, it lit up brightly with Jake dragging his legs towards the portal, he was now an inch away from it when he suddenly turned around to stare at Grey, his system softly glowing in front of him.

{Absorption rate: 85%}

But he paid no attention to it as he grit his teeth and then turn began speaking to Grey.

"Grey, thank you so much for all you have done for me. With the short time I have spent here, yo...you have really helped me a lot. Thank you dear friend." Jake said and without looking back, he jumped straight into the portal which immediately snapped shut behind him.

"You're welcome dear friend. If you manage to survive, I will come to your universe and pay a visit. Till then, good luck." Grey smiled softly as the portal finally shimmered out of existence.

And all of that led to Jake descending from the sky with sparks of lightning shooting out everywhere, his teeth grit as he glared at Rivock in anger.

"You take one more step, I will slice your head off. Not like I wasn't planning on doing that earlier." Jake said as he came out from the middle of the bright light as a figure stepped forward.

