{Full Celestial mode activated}

{Now Host, destroy your opponent.}

BOOM!

Jake took a single step and instantly, he was in front of Vornak who was too stunned to move when Jake's fist snapped forward and landed a powerful punch that shattered the sound barrier instantly as the werewolf's body was hurled back with speed and strength that dust got kicked up just the same way water will surround a rock that skipped across it.

THUD!

Vornak's body smashed into the wall of a building which was several dozen metres away from where Jake was. The moment Vornak hit the building, blood spurted out of his mouth, his eyes nearly rolled back from this.

The drones in the air quickly filed towards the main city where Vornak's body was hurled to.

"None of you should leave here." Jake calmly said without turning around to glance at his friends and then...

SNAP!

He was gone from where he was.

"We are going after him right?" Peter asked with a raised eyebrow.

VROOM!

The sound of an energy reverberating behind them drew their attention as Erin and Druig could be seen on their Aeroglide.

"Did you need to ask?" Erin asked.

"Come on, climb on let's see the end of this war with our own very eyes." Druig called out and Jake's friends quickly leapt onto the glide which sped into the town where the real fight was about to happen.

Meanwhile, after being hurled several metres away, Vornak was now regaining his head as he slowly rose up in anger.

'Damn it! That brat! How strong is he that he was able to hurl me so far back?! It was like his strength suddenly increased... it felt like it tripled.'

"I will make sure I turn him into mincemeat." Vornak growled as he tried to take a step forward when the whole air suddenly shifted and changed.

"Mincemeat? Didn't you see any other elegant design to pick for yourself?" Jake's voice suddenly called out as he was seen appearing two metres away from the werewolf.

"I have had enough of you!" Vornak howled as he swung his claws repeatedly unleashing waves of dark energy towards Jake one after the other.

"Tsk!" Jake scoffed as his glowing white hand was swung forward and a tide of white energy rippled out and clashed against the dark energy and then...

BOOM!

A huge explosion rippled out. The sky groaned out, dozens of building immediately got razed to the ground. The little group heading over on the Aeroglide were almost flung out of the air due to the shockwave but the glide managed to regain its flight and now, it was in the air above the fighters down below.

"Shit! Did they do this? How many seconds did we take to get here for them to raze half the town down?" Harry asked with a loud gulp as out of the four drones in the air, two shattered due to the immense shockwave.

"I see, you have also managed to understand the concept of celestial energy." Vornak smiled, his eyes lighting up bright red again. "But you still can't stop me!" He shouted as he shot out a huge laser beam towards Jake who just sighed.

"You still don't get it do you?" Jake asked as he snapped his fingers and immediately, the beam disappeared and the appeared above Vornak with another snap of Jake's fingers causing the beam to accelerate towards the Alpha werewolf.

"It's my attack, I can diminish it!" Vornak hissed loudly as his eyes lit up red and he fired an even bigger laser beam which clashed with his redirected beam causing a tremendous wave of explosion to ripple out due to the two attacks cancelling each other out.

"I'm not on your level." Jake calmly said as he could be seen coming out of the smoke and then a deafening bang rang out as Jake's fist smashed into the Alpha's face causing him to get hurled back with one of his horns snapping out of his head and his body bouncing and skidding on the ground.

SNAP!

Jake's fingers moved and fifty lightning arrows shot forward at breakneck speed and Vornak moved his claws aiming to take them out as usual but he was in for a world of surprise as the arrows slammed into him making his body spasm in pain.

"That is for killing Rex and Bane." Jake announced as he suddenly appeared right in front of Vornak, his palm placed on the werewolf's abdomen.

BANG!

A deafening, ear piercing bang shook the air as Jake shot out a condensed Qi blast at point blank range causing Vornak to spit out blood, his eyes almost rolling back as his body shot back and slammed into a building bringing it to the ground.

"That was for killing Head General Humfree and General Paul." Jake said, his tone now suddenly heavy as he gestured with his fingers and suddenly, Vornak lost control of his body as he could see himself heading towards Jake.

"Not again!" The Alpha hissed as his eyes shone bright red and a beam of laser shot towards Jake who just shook his head as his third eye shone bright white and a wave of white light shot out crashing into the laser and causing it to dissipate.

'What the hell?!' That was the only thought that could have crossed Vornak's mind as he suddenly found himself in front of Jake who had his hand clenched which he swung forward shattering the sound barrier again.

"This is for turning my friend into a werewolf and killing Gray!" Jake roared as his fist smashed straight into Vornak's face causing him to smash into the ground with a loud boom, the remaining one horn on the Alpha's head snapped away, blood spilling from his mouth as one fang cracked from his mouth.

Raising his hand to the sky, Jake glared at the werewolf beneath his feet that was now slowly trying to lift himself up from the ground when a bright light began forming in the sky and then swinging his hand back down, the light crashed straight into the werewolf with full force causing the small crater beneath its body to deepen further.

'What the hell?! How am I losing t...to this kid?!' Vornak thought as his face was now bloodied, Jake could be seen in the air, hovering above Vornak who was trying to stand up when he noticed his body was pinned into the ground by an invisible force.

"I'm not done with you." Jake calmly said as in the air, two dozen fists made from Qi appeared around him and was swirling around.

"This, is for attacking my academy!" Jake hissed as one of the fists shot down and slammed straight into Vornak's face causing blood to shoot out his mouth.

"This is for killing majority of my friends!" Another fist slammed into the Alpha.

"This is for killing my father figure; Sunny! This is for almost killing my friends! This is for killing so many innocent humans! This is for waging war against us and taking down so many people!" As Jake shouted, the fists moved one by one causing Vornak tremendous amount of pain.

Finally, the fists were done dealing damage as Vornak's bloodied body suddenly floated into the air towards Jake who tensed his muscles, eyes shining, teeth grit as he slam his fist forward towards Vornak's abdomen.

CRUNCH!

The breaking of the Alpha werewolf's several ribs could be heard as his body connected with the ground before he could think about anything.

"I was just an innocent young boy. A boy who wanted to live his life in peace with his family but you decided to wage war and make me an orphan." Jake said as he descended from the sky now standing three metres away from the bloodied and battered Vornak who slowly rose.

His pitch red eyes slowly reverting back to normal but it didn't fully revert as his breathing was terribly ragged but the fierce look he gave Jake still remained.

"In order not to lose anybody I care about again and take revenge, I attended the academy. I trained, fought so as to protect those I care about but you had to send your damned younger brother to wage war against the academy therefore costing me one of my friends!" Jake roared in anger as he snapped his fingers and he was suddenly in front of Vornak, his fist smashing into his abdomen cracking the werewolf's rib again and sending it skidding a few metres away.

"As if that wasn't enough, one of your damned generals attacked after I had decided to form my guild. He slaughtered so many people especially my friends. I lost so much in this damned war that I didn't want to get dragged into.

You could have just continued your facade as a world leader without waging this damned war! Rex and Bane trusted you and took you as a family but what did you do? You slaughtered and munched on them.

Are you happy now? Are you freaking happy? Was this all worth it?!" Jake asked in anger, tears slowly trickling down his eyes.

SILENCE!
