

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 130

"Mrs. Marsh," Rowan came with a task and had been prepared with several plans to persuade her. "Darcie is young, but she's really good. To tell you the truth, she was my mentor."

There was surprise on Aubree's face under the mask. She looked up and into Rowan's eyes.

"It's true," Rowan stressed again and told the truth, "The medicine she has developed are of great effect. You can give it a shot. Anyway, it won't hurt. She is skilled at painless treatment."

Pippa really hoped that Aubree would agree, even if there was little chance it might work.

Anyway, she was moved by Rowan's words.

Therefore, she started to persuade Aubree. "Ma'am, should we give it a shot?"

Aubree stared at her. She didn't know that Pippa still had hopes for her.

Pippa held her arm. "It won't hurt. What if there is miracle?"

Aubree got mixed feelings.

"I believe in Dr. Watson's judgement and that Dr. Darcie won't leak anything. But if you are worried, we can sign a confidential agreement with her."

Pippa was considerate.

Aubree didn't reject. She was thinking. To Rowan, it meant there was hope.

"Ma'am. There are so many vacant rooms here. You just need to make two for us," Rowan continued, "Darcie and I will treat you together. We will move the instruments here and work on the medicine for you upstairs until you're healed. What do you think?"

"Is this what Ivan wants?" Aubree looked at him, "Did he go to you?"

Rowan couldn't say it wasn't Ivan. Otherwise, why would they be here?

He thought for a while and felt there was no harm in admitting it. "Mr. Marsh just wants happiness and health for you."

"Then go and tell him that I don't care about health. I am still alive, which is enough," Aubree said in a cold and indifferent tone, "As for happiness? It's simple. I will be happy if he gets a divorce and marry Catherine."

Rowan felt awkward.

He didn't know what to say now.

At this moment, Pippa spoke. "Ma'am, I don't think you should meddle in Mr. Marsh's love life. Only he himself knows what's the best for him."

Before Aubree could snap at her, she continued, "But right now, you should agree to let Darcie and Dr. Watson treat you. There is still hope."

"I'm tired. Go see Dr. Watson off," Aubree ran out of patience and said, "Rowan, tell Ivan that he must marry Catherine. If he didn't marry her before I leave the world, I'll die with regrets and haunt him forever!"

Extreme!

So extreme!

After that, she walked towards the stairs and Pippa quickly followed. "Ma'am..."

"Don't. I need some time alone."

...

Hiding behind a door, Alfie and Diana were in shock. Grandma wanted daddy and mommy to divorce?

But the kids need a complete family.

Aubree and Pippa had gone upstairs. Their footsteps could no longer be heard.

Alfie held Diana's hand and walked to the living room.

Seeing them here, Rowan was surprised. "Alfie, Diana?" He made a gesture of "shush" to the kids.

Squatting down in front of them, he whispered something to them. The kids listened carefully and nodded from time to time.

Then, Diana asked, "When will mommy be here?"