

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 134

She read the relevant information about Darcie again downstairs. Darcie had become an authoritative pharmacist at a very young age, which could easily make people have doubts.

Aubree face turned sullen. If this woman came to fool her on purpose, she would make her pay!

It was Darcie that rekindled hope in her heart.

As darkness fell, the Marsh Group building was brightly lit, and the employees were leaving one after another.

Ivan was held up at the company because of some work, so he came home late.

His Lamborghini finally stopped at Emerald Bay.

The driver opened the car door for him. Ivan stepped out, wearing a deep-color Burberry tailor-made coat. He strode toward the mansion like a royalty.

“Hello, Mr. Marsh.” Jordan greeted him at the door and took the coat off him.

Ivan walked upstairs and came down again after a while.

The butler was very puzzled, and Ivan asked, “Jennifer’s not home yet?”

The butler shook his head.

“Been out all day?”

“Yes.”

That was strange. She went out so early and hadn’t come back yet. Where did she go?

Ivan did not show his worries in front of the butler but went upstairs again.

He came to the study and took out his phone to call her.

Unexpectedly, her phone was turned off.

Where did she go? As her husband, he had no idea.

After he was injected with the nutrients, he went to take a hot bath. He wondered what he had done that made her mad.

But she didn’t leave with anger.

After taking a bath, he went into the study and read a book for a while. He looked out the window from time to time, but still, Jennifer didn’t come home.

She probably wouldn’t be back this night.

Ivan was a little depressed and in a bad mood. Lying on the bed alone, his thoughts began to drift away...

All that lingers in front of his eyes is her figure.

This night, he suffered from insomnia, but he didn't want to admit it.

And this night, Rowan and Jennifer, who were in Kelsington Bay, stayed up all night, overcoming difficulties in the drug research room, and they cooperated with each other perfectly.

To save time, they had to develop the first drug as soon as possible, because the second drug had to be applied every three days.

The dawn had come and the beautiful sunset broke through the window. This morning was peaceful and beautiful.

The first bottle of medicine was successfully created!

The two of them happily stared at the hard-won vial on the table and breathed a sigh of relief. Jennifer was still wearing a mask.

"Should we do an experiment?" Rowan was cautious.

"There is no time. We can only give it a shot." She lowered her voice, "Her skin is already like this and it can't be any worse."

Right, it can't be any worse.

Darcie put a label on the bottle, "This is just a lubricant. It has little effect on healing, but it is indispensable. Go down to see if she wakes up. Apply it to her and write down the time."

"Go to sleep for a while. You've stayed up all night." Rowan took the medicine bottle, "Leave the rest to me."

"I'll finish this up." She wasn't sleepy at all. "Go ahead and we'll take a break at the same time later."

"Okay."

Today is a brand-new day.

The entertainment industry has ushered in an exciting event.

The opening ceremony of "Love in Violet Gold Bay" was held in a hotel, which attracted various media and insiders. The character shots all looked so flawless; even those who play supporting roles were good-looking.

The actors got up early and came to the hotel, the stylists and makeup artists already on stand-by.

The lawn at the backyard of the hotel was very spacious and warm in the sun.

Georgia was sitting in the reclining chair with her eyes closed. She was dressed stylishly, and two make-up artists were doing make-up for her with very gentle movements.

“Miss Clarke, could you sit up and open your eyes?” A female makeup artist asked cautiously, “We are going to do your eye makeup.”

Georgia didn't open her eyes or her mouth. She seemed to be asleep.

Under the sun, she was so delicate and beautiful as a princess.
