

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 198

On such a beautiful morning, just looking at Jennifer, Ivan felt his soul, which had been empty for 38 years, was now full.

Jennifer was having a long, long dream...

She dreamed that she put on a white wedding dress and walked on the red carpet happily.

It was a grand wedding. Many guests were there to bless them.

Ivan was standing at the end of the red carpet in a tailored-made suit. He reached out to her.

She walked towards him step by step. The wedding song was displayed in the background

But the closer she got, the blurrier he became.

The moment she stood still, he disappeared.

"Ivan!" Jennifer looked around. The smiling guests disappeared too.

The grand wedding was also gone...

She stood alone on the lawn in her wedding dress, with nothing around her.

Heavy rain poured down on her.

"Ivan..."

Awakening from her sleep, Jennifer saw Ivan right in front of her.

He was slightly absent-minded. But the next second, he asked gently, "Were you dreaming?"

Jennifer looked at him blankly but didn't answer.

"Do you want to sleep more?"

She shook her head.

Ivan accompanied her as she got up, washed her face, brushed her teeth, and changed her clothes. Then, he took her to the dining room.

While cutting the steak, Jennifer glanced at Ivan, and said in a soft voice, "Were you awake long ago?"

"I didn't sleep all night."

Jennifer was stunned. She stared at him, "Why?"

"I couldn't believe this is happening. I was too happy to sleep."

Jennifer brought a piece of steak to his lips with a silver fork, "Open your mouth, a small piece would be fine. You have been taking the medicine for a while, so let me see if it works well."

Ivan was in a good mood. He opened his mouth to taste the steak.

"Remember to take medicine." Jennifer reminded Ivan again. That was her last wish.

"Understood."

In the yard, dozens of reporters had arrived. They were chatting excitedly.

After breakfast, Jennifer changed into a dress. When she walked out of the dressing room, time seemed to stand still. All eyes fell on her.

Jennifer looked perfect.

Her nose, her eyelashes... Everything was perfect about her.

She was wearing an Armani dress with a tube top and a large skirt, which perfectly showed her good figure.

"She is so beautiful!" Alice was stunned. "I saw an angel!"

"Fabulous!"

"What a fine work of God!"

"Each time I look at Mrs. Marsh, she appeared more beautiful to me."

People were exclaiming.

Ivan had a straight back. He was very elegant. He walked toward Jennifer and took her hand. Everybody was stunned by them.

"So sweet." Alice just shipped them so much. "Thanks for rejecting me last time, Ivan. Your wife is so beautiful. I love her!"

Ivan smiled gently, which was kind of rare.

They went into the yard surrounded by the reporters. And before the shooting started, the reporters started to take photos of them.

Alice handed the ring box to Ivan. "Thank you, Ivan."

Under the holy sunshine, the man's face was so handsome and noble, which was beyond everyone's reach.

Opening the ring box, Ivan got down on one knee, raised his head, and asked the girl in front of him, "Jennifer, will you marry me?"

Half of her dream came to reality, but Jennifer knew it was just a dream.
