

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 199

Jennifer's eyes became teary. She smiled and nodded, "Yes."

In the presence of everyone's envious eyes, Ivan put on the ring representing true love on Jennifer's finger and kissed the back of her hand affectionately.

People applauded.

Ivan got up. He gently clasped the back of Jennifer's head with his hand and couldn't help but kiss her on the lips...

"Wow!"

People screamed! Some girls were captivated by this scene. The reporters kept shooting.

The beauty moments got to be recorded by all those cameras.

"Once you put on the ring, you can't take it off again." He whispered in Jennifer's ear, "This is not just some shooting, it's my marriage proposal."

Jennifer looked at him, her smile truly sweet, but there was a hint of sorrow in her eyes.

After the film. Ivan and Jennifer said goodbye to Mr. Edison and his family. Then they got on the helicopter, going back to Arkpool City.

"When the two projects are finished, we'll hold the wedding ceremony." Ivan couldn't keep the secret anymore, "I've asked Finnley to prepare for it."

Sitting in the window seat, Jennifer leaned lightly on his shoulder, and couldn't stop looking at the album.

"You've browsed through them three times." Ivan couldn't help but remind.

She happened to be on the last page. Closing the album slightly, Jennifer turned to Ivan and asked, "Will you cherish the album?"

"Of course, I will! I'll put it on my bookshelf when we get back." He said, "Not every book has a chance to be on my bookshelf."

Jennifer smiled, her eyes glistening.

When the private helicopter arrived in Arkpool City, Jennifer was sent back to Emerald Bay. But there was nothing that belonged to her anymore.

And she finally returned to reality. She loved Ivan, so she should let go of him.

Catherine, the vice president of the Marsh Group, was indeed a better choice for Ivan. Ivan needed Catherine's help.

As a man, career should come first.

Catherine entered the Marsh family at the age of 11 and she spent 22 years with Ivan. They celebrated every birthday and holiday together...

Thinking of this, Jennifer couldn't reconcile. She was so envious and so jealous.

The kids went to school today.

The driver sent Ivan to the company not long ago.

Jennifer stood in front of the bedroom window on the second floor, her face a little pale under the bright light. After much deliberation, she picked up her phone and called Aubree.

"Where are you?" Aubree's cold voice came over, "I heard you're back."

"I'm in Emerald Bay." Jennifer asked softly, "Should I go by myself or will Andrew send me off?"

"Andrew will send you," Aubree said without hesitation. "Go to the airport now,. Andrew will be there waiting for you. Is there a city you prefer?"

"New York," Jennifer said without thinking.

"Okay." Aubree said, "Don't ever come back!"

Jennifer ended the call. She gave up.

Even if she had cured Aubree's skin, Aubree wanted her to disappear immediately all the same. If she stayed, Aubree and Ivan would turn against each other. Jennifer didn't want that to happen.

Jennifer had just gotten on the taxi from Emerald Bay when Catherine received a call.

"Are you sure?" In the vice president's office, Catherine was overjoyed to hear the report from the person on the other end of the phone.

"Yes."

"Okay, I get it." Hanging up the phone, Catherine quickly cleaned up the table, "Linda, I'm going out!"

When Linda Chambers looked up, Catherine had already walked out of the office.

Jennifer looked out the window, trying her best to remember what the city looked like. She clutched her handbag, in which there were the teacup, the keychain, the half-jade pendant, and a palm-sized album.

These were her most precious things.

At this moment, Jennifer no longer thought about love. Her only worry was her children.

But she believed that Ivan would take good care of them.

Catherine's red Bentley departed from the company and sped off on the way to the airport!

She was afraid that Jennifer was just pretending to leave. She needed to talk with Jennifer and ask her to stop daydreaming.

Yes, Catherine went to provoke Jennifer.

The taxi arrived at the airport, and when Jennifer opened the door, the red Bentley also stopped not far away.