

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 218

After taking a shower, Ivan lay on the bed and thought of the words that Pippa had said to him. He thought of what Jennifer had gone through in the Kelsington Bay and couldn't help but frown.

The next morning, the sun started to rise.

Ivan had just had an IV injection and opened the door of the room.

"Mr. Marsh, good morning." Several of his bodyguards had been waiting outside and greeted him when they saw him.

He said to them, "You don't need to follow me. I'll go out for a walk."

Then, he walked towards the elevator.

After leaving the hotel, he found himself unconsciously walking to the places Jennifer and he had visited together before.

He was much as sad now as he was happy that day when they were together here.

He was tall and looked lonely among the crowd. New York was a romantic city, and there were many couples on the streets.

He had blacklisted Catherine and Aubree. He just wanted some peace to reminiscence his good memories with Jennifer.

He came to the restaurant that they had been before. Although he didn't want to eat anything, simply by sitting in their old seat made him feel much calmer.

It was as if she was sitting opposite him just like before, cutting her steak carefully and then feeding him one piece. "Have a taste. Maybe you'll like it."

The waitress felt strange. She knew Ivan from the promotion video of the ring, which was popular in the city. She recognized Ivan at a glance.

The woman in the video came yesterday and he came today, both alone.

They had been here before together. How strange!

But she didn't ask any question, after all, it was their private affairs. She just needs to do her job.

Ivan sat there for about an hour and only had a glass of red wine. The dishes on the table were untouched.

Then, he walked to the coffeehouse Jennifer had been before and he stared at the place where she had queued up in line for a long time.

He also went to the viewing deck. Standing at a height, he stood there with his hands on the railings. Suddenly, Ivan felt that he had lost everything.

But when she was by his side, he felt that he owned everything in the world.

Ivan had walked around the city for a whole day and gone to every place that Jennifer had been before.

Then, it was midnight.

Ivan stood in front of the photo studio and suddenly felt depressed.

Like all the couples in love, they had organized their photos together into an album. He was already 38 years old and it might not be an age-appropriate thing for him, but he didn't feel it at all.

This was the only place he hadn't visited again. Without hesitation, he walked towards the store.

He had unforgettably charming looks and a special aura of a king. He could always catch everyone's attention.

Moreover. The promotion video had gone viral everywhere recently.

People who were into jewelry all remembered him and the lady who owned the photo studio was one of them.

Just as Ivan walked into the store, the lady was thrilled. "Mr. Marsh, you're here! Why didn't you come with your wife?"

Ivan looked gentle but didn't know how to answer.

"Mrs. Marsh looked even more radiant than before. I saw her yesterday," The lady said with joy, "She also came alone, but she wasn't here for photo development or..."

"What did you say?" Ivan's eyes widened as if he had seen a glimmer of hope. "You said she was here?"

The lady was stunned. Had they been separated from each other? "

"Yea... yes. She came last night." Then, the lady told him everything about last night.

Ivan was overjoyed. He retreated outside of the shop and saw a surveillance camera there.

It was of wide scope.

"Miss, can you show me the surveillance recording here? I want to know which direction she has left in," Ivan was excited and said frankly, "We had a fight and she has been angry with me."

The lady heard this and went to the computer. "Come, let me show you."