

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 239

Jennifer sat opposite him. Tammy then served her breakfast, "Ms. Brooks, you want milk or soy milk?"

"Either is fine." She didn't look at Spencer the whole time.

Spencer also didn't look at her. He was having his breakfast.

Tammy found it awkward with them being in the same room.

But it was already a huge step that Ms. Brooks was willing to go downstairs. Why didn't he treat her nicely, with a smile perhaps? What was he mad at?

After breakfast.

Spencer's phone rang. And he picked it up in front of them.

Then he said to the phone, "I can do nine. I'll be there soon." He stood up and walked out while talking on the phone without saying goodbye to Jennifer.

He only stopped beside Tammy with the phone in his hand, "I have some scenes to shoot today, so I'll come home late."

"Don't worry, Mr. Lawrence." Tammy said thoughtfully, "I'll take care of her dinner."

Spencer then turned around at the woman who was having her breakfast and whose back was to him, which seemed like she didn't care if he was there with her or not.

He then left with a bit of sadness.

Jennifer put down the milk after hearing him walk away.

She regretted making the deal with Aubree as love was supposed to be about just two people.

Ivan wouldn't have been in a car accident if she had been brave enough and stood against his mother with him.

Then none of this would happen.

Jennifer walked away after finishing her breakfast.

In a nicely-decorated living room, Tammy handed Jennifer the mobile phone Spencer got her two weeks ago, "Ms. Brooks, please take this."

She had turned it down three times before.

Jennifer looked at the well-wrapped box. She thought for a while and took it over, "Thank you."

Tammy was pleasant and said with a big smile, "Mr. Lawrence would be so happy."

Jennifer didn't have the same pleasure as Tammy. She turned to look at the floor-to-ceiling window. It was a nice and full sunny day.

The warm sunlight was shining through the window and the colorful lilies were blooming outside.

The heavy yet appropriate fragrance of lilies wafted into the living room, which was refreshing and soothing.

"Are those new?" Jennifer recalled that they weren't there a few days ago.

"Yep. They've been working on it overnight." Tammy said in excitement, "Mr. Lawrence said lilies could help lighten up our mood."

Jennifer was dumbfounded and felt like she owned him more.

No matter what he felt about her, she just couldn't give him what he wanted.

"Ms. Brooks, you wanna sit in the yard? I'll bring you some tea." Tammy noticed her interest in lilies, and said, "It's good to have some fresh air."

Jennifer turned around at her quietly, "Sure."

She finally said something!

Tammy went to prepare some tea with pleasure.

Jennifer walked out of the living room and to the yard. She then sat on the porch couch with sunshine and perfume of flowers around her.

She took the phone out of the box but found that this phone had some special settings.

There was only Spencer's number in the contact and also this was the only number she could dial out.

"Childish!" Jennifer didn't bother to crack it and she didn't feel like doing it.

She then opened the browser and typed "Ivan's car accident" but she couldn't find anything.

There was nothing online about his car accident.

She thought for a while and realized it made so much sense for them to hide this big news.

Sending this news out would cause inner conflict and chaos in the Marsh Group. After all, every tranquil sea had turbulences underneath.

Jennifer then looked up to the blue sky with clean clouds.

It was the only sky of Arkpool City. And Ivan was the only one who could poise the Marsh Group to be strong again which had a significant role in Arkpool City's prosperity.

Tammy brought her favorite tea cup with water filled inside.

“Thanks.” Jennifer was touched by her gesture.