

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 247

Rowan gave the diagnosis directly, and the doctors all agreed with him.

Ivan looked at the people in front of the bed again, one by one.

The doctors breathed a sigh of relief. He said with a smile of joy, "He won't be vegetative. What a relief! As for his memory, he'll get it back."

"Don't rush to get his memory back," Another doctor said, "the most important thing is that he is awake."

Rowan introduced people to Ivan, "This is your mother."

Aubree understood that Ivan was having selective amnesia which make him forget about his mother.

So, she pulled Catherine over and preemptively introduced, "Ivan, this is your fiancée, Catherine!"

The crowd was flabbergasted.

Aubree continued, "In the three months that you were unconscious, she was by your side. She had cried countless times. She has been losing weight."

Rowan was startled. He turned to look at Aubree.

Ivan almost died. Yet Aubree was still so stubborn.

Catherine was also shocked. Her mind went blank. She was completely unprepared.

Ivan looked at Catherine with doubt. She was tall and good-looking. With tears in her eyes, she looked haggard.

It was obvious that he didn't remember her.

Fiancée?

Ivan had no concept of it. Even his mother was strange to him.

"Let's do a check." Rowan told the doctors, "See if there is anything else."

Only then did people come back to their senses from the joyful mood. They took out the tools and started giving Ivan a check.

Ivan was very cooperative in bed, trying to recall what had happened.

He remembered some details of the car accident. He was chasing something. He was so anxious that he didn't even pay attention to the traffic.

Then he felt a headache and couldn't think any deeper.

Mother?

Fiancée?

What was going on here?

He had two children, Alfie and Diana. Where was their mother?

But Aubree's intention was clear. She wanted to take the opportunity to get Ivan married to Catherine as soon as possible.

She would quietly send Alfie and Diana away.

Ivan and Catherine needed to get married first. She can take Alfie and Diana back after Catharine gave birth.

That was perhaps the best ending.

The results of the examination showed that everything was normal. Ivan was just having selective amnesia.

Rowan explained in front of everyone, "Selective amnesia is often caused by external stimuli or serious brain collisions. The patient would forget some things that make them miserable, that is, selectively avoiding people or things. It is a defense mechanism in psychology."

Rowan knew that Ivan had encountered a great stimulus that he could not accept, and then subconsciously he chose to forget it.

Most likely, Ivan would forget Jennifer.

This may be a good thing. Remembering was a painful thing to do.

At the shooting site of "Love in Violet Gold" in Arkpool City.

45 episodes had been finished. After working together for months, people all got familiar with each other.

Georgia, as always, bought a cup of latte for everyone on the crew. She heard that Spencer loved lattes.

"Yours, no sugar." At halftime, Georgia handed the latte to Spencer in person. Her voice was sweet. There was a bright smile on her face.

Spencer reached out and took it, "Thank you." He didn't look at her one more time.

But Georgia was happy as long as he didn't refuse!

She was like a little girl in love. She swallowed her pride to please Spencer

“Since we are not shooting on Saturday, let’s go play golf! My treat!” Georgia, who was in a good mood, sent out the invitation to everyone.

“Amazing!!”

“Georgia, this is so generous of you!”

Just as everyone was cheering with joy, Georgia looked at Spencer, waiting for his reaction.

Yet he ignored it. He was texting someone.

To get the reply, Georgia walked over and asked, “Spencer, are you available on Saturday?”

“Nope.” After answering her, Spencer walked away without looking back.

Georgia bit her lips and frowned, thinking that she had made a mistake.

She should have invited Spencer directly.
