

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 266

Upstairs, in the president's office.

A large stack of newly printed newspapers was placed on the desk. Ivan sat down on the office chair. He looked at the high-definition picture of the wedding scene occupying the entire page with calm eyes.

This mother was so overbearing. Had it been like this before?

Thinking of her refusal to take medicine, Ivan felt powerless.

He knew that his mother was not well. And this controlling mother made him very helpless.

But now he had new doubts about his relationship with the mother of his children.

He couldn't fall in love with two women at the same time, could he?

There are photos and videos with Catherine to prove that they are childhood sweethearts.

"Mr. Marsh."

A clear female voice came. Ivan raised his eyes and saw Linda come in with a document.

She smiled and seemed to be in a good mood, "Please check it out, it is urgent!"

Ivan reached out to take the file, opened it, and took a closer look.

Linda's eyes fell on the thick stack of newspapers and she thought that the wedding had made countless newspapers a lot of money.

The wedding site was very beautiful and super luxurious.

Ivan signed it, closed the document, and handed it to her, "Tell Ms. Collins that I want to have lunch with her at the western restaurant opposite, 11:30."

Linda's eyes widened, for a while she thought she heard it wrong.

She was stunned for a second, then smiled brightly, "Okay!" After taking the document, she turned around and left quickly.

Linda rushed into the vice president's office and almost couldn't stop, "Good news! Mr. Marsh invites you to lunch! 11:30 at the western restaurant opposite."

When Catherine heard the news, she couldn't believe it, "Are you sure?"

"He asked me to tell you, I'm sure." Linda smiled mysteriously, "And his desk is full of today's newspapers about the marriage news of the two of you!"

"Then... how is he feeling?" Catherine asked.

“Good. Can he be in a bad mood after he’s invited you to dinner?” Linda made circles with her body while she was holding the document. Clearly, she was immersed in a happy atmosphere. “I feel that he was super tender and soft today, and very handsome. He’s just so charming!”

Catherine was happy as well and she smiled sweetly.

She had been expecting the time to pass quickly all morning and looked at her phone almost every few minutes.

Ivan took the initiative to ask her out, which was definitely the first time!

She was looking forward to it!

After Jennifer left the kindergarten, she came to the riverside and walked along the riverbank. Did they take a break from school? The question haunted her.

What does taking a long leave mean? Where are they going?

Twenty minutes later, her car stopped at the gate of Emerald Bay.

She didn’t know if Spencer had found someone to follow her but she was very concerned about her son and daughter and she needed to find out.

So, she got out of the car, but she was stopped by the new guard at the door.

“...” She glanced inside and asked politely, “Can I meet Jordan?”

“No, you can’t.”

“Are Alfie and Diana in there?” Jennifer said directly, “I am their mother.”

The man said coldly, “No comments.”

Jennifer hit a wall.

There’s a lot of security here, and the guards have changed.

The wedding is around the corner and Aubree must have made many preparations.

So... if she wants to see the child, she has to only try other ways.

Maybe they have been sent to study abroad.

Looking at the familiar scene in the courtyard and the beautiful big villa, she felt the memories flooding towards her, drowning her with sadness.

At 11:30 noon, in an Italian-style western restaurant.

Catherine arrived there half an hour earlier.

Ivan was sitting across the table from her. He was wearing a well-fitting Armani tailor-made suit. His sculpted and handsome features, and his elegant and cold temperament, still deeply attracted her.

Catherine looked at him with a smile. This scene seemed like a dream to her.

The dishes are exquisite and rich, and the two bottles of red wine are worth over ten thousand dollars. The waiter decanted the wine into the glasses and then turned to leave.

The musicians were playing the violins live and it was very romantic.

“Can we not get married?” Ivan was cutting the steak when he said this gently.
