

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 272

The stairwell was rarely visited, so no one could know what Alfie and Diana said.

“Alfie, I’m mad!” Diana was angry. “How dare she speak ill of Mommy! Nothing she said is true!”

Alfie was also angry. “But we can’t break in. We were just children, and Daddy won’t believe what we said.”

“What a bad woman!”

“Diana, she has a meeting later, and I’ll teach her a lesson.” With that, Alfie sat down on the stairs and took out his tablet from his yellow schoolbag.

Diana sat next to him, “Why is she so bad? I really hate her!”

Alfie did not say anything but focused on the tablet with sharp eyes.

“Alfie, what are you doing?” Diana looked at the screen.

“You’ll find out later.” Alfie took the time to hand Diana his phone. “Open the camera in the conference room, and we’ll watch a good show later.”

“Okay.”

At this moment, Catherine was still in Ivan’s office.

Catherine sighed, “I got to go. I’ll accompany you to meet with the senior management of Mayon after the meeting.”

After Catherine left, Ivan looked at the photos in his hands and had a strange feeling.

He wanted to remember who the hell the woman was.

He felt very familiar with the woman and her name.

Ivan was told two different stories and they both had evidence.

And then who was the man standing with Jennifer in the photos? Why was he so close to Jennifer? It didn’t matter that they ate together.

However, outside the operating room, why did she leave with that man?

Looking at the last two photos, Ivan felt somewhat upset.

The conference room downstairs was light, spacious, and well-equipped.

Nearly all the executives were seated at a sandalwood conference table.

Linda turned Catherine's laptop on and sat down in the dominant position. The conference room fell silent.

As Catherine's laptop was connected to the projector behind Linda, a group of photos popped up on the big screen on the wall, in which Catherine was naked with other men.

Everyone present was shocked!

Nonetheless, Linda did not realize it, because on her laptop screen everything was normal. She was adjusting the font size of the document.

Catherine was even less aware of it. Sitting in her chair, she was looking for a file in a folder.

The photos were played one by one, each staying on the screen for about three seconds.

All the executives' faces changed, especially those who were highly respected and of high status in the company.

In the stairwell, Diana held the phone in one hand and covered her eyes with the other. "Is she blind? She is still unaware of the photos!"

The conference room became even more silent.

"Miss Collins," one executive said with a long face, "You shouldn't have made such a mistake."

Catherine looked at him with a confused look.

At this moment, Ivan walked in. He attached great importance to this project, so he intended to listen in on the meeting.

Nevertheless, before he could take a step inside, he saw the photos on the screen.

Catherine was surprised when she realized that everyone was looking at her weirdly.

She followed their gaze and turned her head. The next second, she blanched!

Linda, seeing the photos, hurriedly tried to close them, but she couldn't do anything. "We...we're hacked? There was nothing wrong on this laptop's screen!"

But the men present were well aware of what Catherine had done.

Ivan, whose face was sullen, left the room.

"Ivan!" Catherine was ashamed, but she instinctively chased after him.

Linda was not mentally prepared for this. She could do nothing but watch more photos played on the screen.

In a panic, she had to unplug the projector, and then the screen went black.

“Ivan! Let me explain!”

Catherine trotted in high heels along the corridor, but failed to catch up with Ivan.
