

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 281

Ivan thought Jennifer was taken away by Spencer outside the operating room and moved into Spencer's villa.

Did it mean that Jennifer was dating Spencer?

Somehow, although Ivan couldn't remember what happened between him with Jennifer, he felt heartbroken.

Ivan did not reply to Finnley, and he was struck by a migraine.

He could not remember anything about the past, but he felt really sad.

Ivan saw Jennifer today, but he didn't have the courage to face her. He didn't know what was wrong with him. Perhaps he wasn't ready for it.

Finnley looked at the trash can and thought the newspapers must have disgusted Ivan.

"Don't send the invitations. I won't marry Catherine." Ivan wanted to follow his heart.

Catherine was still enjoying herself in the bridal shop, unwilling to take off the wedding dress.

The sun was going down.

In Emerald Bay, Alfie and Diana were making spaghetti Bolognese in the kitchen.

Jordan, Mary, and the chef stood by, afraid that the children would get hurt.

Alfie and Diana were very serious, trying to make spaghetti Bolognese taste the same as Jennifer did.

When Alfie picked up the tomatoes from the boiling water, Mary was very nervous. "I can do this."

"No need." Diana stepped on the stool and peeled the tomatoes with her little hands. "We're going to do it ourselves for Daddy and no one is allowed to help."

Alfie was preparing the onion, ginger, and garlic. Although he was young, he did it very flexibly.

Ivan was on the way back.

He sat in the back seat of the car and his dark eyes flashed in the dark.

It was a trending topic that Catherine tried on her wedding dress with Aubree.

Ivan's face was cold when he read the news on his phone.

He decided not to get married.

His disgust at Catherine grew stronger and stronger.

After the car stopped at his villa, Ivan snapped out of it and got out of the car.

“Daddy! Come with us!”

Just as Ivan entered the living room, the children mysteriously pulled him into the dining room!

“Daddy! This is the spaghetti Bolognese we made for you with our own hands!” Alfie said proudly and then moved out the dining chairs.

Diana added, “Daddy, this is your favorite taste. We may not make it as good as Mommy’s, but I hope you will like it.”

No one was allowed to mention Jennifer. However, the children not only mention her but also put it into action.

Jordan couldn’t help but say, “Mr. Marsh, you used to rely on the nutrition injection to sustain your life. After you ate the noodles Miss Brooks made, you fell in love with it and your stomach didn’t reject it.”

What a strange story! Ivan was slightly surprised.

“Try it, Daddy!”

Ivan sat down in a white dining chair. Everyone in the living room surrounded him and looked at him expectantly.

Diana handed the chopsticks over, “Daddy, try it. It smells so good!”

Ivan reached out and took the chopsticks. He felt a little awkward at first, but as he ate, he was stunned.

The noodles were so good, and Ivan found they had a familiar taste.

One bite after another, Ivan did not have any nausea. Instead, he finished the spaghetti Bolognese in front of everyone.

The dining room erupted in applause.

Especially Alfie and Diana were over the moon.

“Does it taste the same as Mommy’s?” Alfie sat at the table and carefully looked at Ivan. “Can you remember anything?”

Hearing Jennifer, Ivan was reminded that Jennifer entered Spencer’s villa and that she left with Spencer outside the operating room.

What a heartless woman!
