Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) novel Chapter 3

Finnley was stunned.

Ivan stared at her. Jennifer's eyelashes fluttered.

Jennifer told herself to calm down. He dragged her seven years ago. After that, she lost her virginity and got two babies.

Fortunately, the children went to Jayla's house and won't be back for a while.

Jennifer took two steps back. But Ivan didn't intend to let go. He was still holding her wrist.

Jennifer raised her dark and bright eyes, asking tentatively, "Are you… looking for me?"

Ivan's cold eyes were still fixed on her. Jennifer was too pure, too delicate. Her skin was as smooth as porcelain. Everything of her was familiar to him.

Finnley looked at Ivan in disbelief. He was freaked out today.

"Let go of me first." Jennifer used the other hand to remove the big palm, but he secretly increased his strength.

The pain caused her to take a deep breath and stop resisting.

Ivan looked at the bamboo house and said in a low voice, "Who else lives here?" He didn't forget the purpose of his trip. He didn't believe that Jennifer stole the Blue Sky Plan.

"No one." Jennifer tried to keep calm. She had no idea of what her son had done up to now.

Ivan looked back at Jennifer coldly.

Jennifer's face stiffened as she asked, "What the hell do you want?"

Ivan's palm secretly exerted force. Jennifer frowned.

It was painful.

Ivan took the iPad from Finnley and handed it to her. Jennifer saw that the red dot displayed on the screen overlapped with the position of the courtyard. She immediately panicked, forgetting about the pain.

Ivan examined her expression carefully, trying to get the answer he wanted from it.

"What is this?" Jennifer looked up at him, pretending not to understand.

Ivan handed the iPad back to Finnley.

"So, you hacked my system and stole the Blue Sky Plan?" Ivan let go and put his hands in his pockets. His exploratory gaze fell back to the woman.

Hack the system?

Steal the Blue Sky Plan?

Jennifer finally understood it completely. "Alfie! Are you going to kill me?" she thought.

Ivan noticed her change in expression. His black eyes turned distant, "Where is the Blue Sky Plan?" He sounded ruthless. "Hand it over!"

"No. I don't know what you're talking about!" Jennifer waved her hands again and again, pushing the blame completely, "I have no idea of what system or plan. You must've got it wrong!"

Ivan's eyes sank suddenly, "It seems that you led me here on purpose."

"I didn't!" Jennifer retorted with an innocent look, "You've misjudged me. I didn't!"

"Are you insisting on not telling the truth?" Ivan's eyes looked cold and dangerous.

Everyone could feel the tension. Jennifer felt overwhelmed. She wished only that the children would not come back!

Ivan took a step forward, and grabbed Jennifer's wrist again violently, almost lifting her in the air.

"It hurts…" Jennifer hissed in pain. She said in a subdued voice, "Let me go!" She didn't want to disturb the villagers.

There was a compelling cold light in the man's eyes, "Hand over it!"

"I don't have it… ouch!"

At this time, Diana and Alfie, who had been hiding behind the water tank, realized that the situation was turning worse. So, they rushed out.

"Daddy! Let go of Mommy!" Alfie, the boy, ran faster. "Don't hurt her!"

Diana cried out in fright, "Don't bully mommy! Bad guy!"

The children's voices came from not far away as they hit Ivan directly, saving Jennifer from his hand.

Before everyone realized what happened, Ivan released his palm. He staggered a few steps backward.

Alfie, who stretched his arms to protect Jennifer, stared at Ivan angrily, "Daddy! Gentlemen don't hurt their women!"
