

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 319

In fact, Jennifer was prepared after considering it for a while. She had foreseen that Ivan would agree with Alfie.

However, she had mixed feelings when she saw the Lamborghini in the yard.

After all, her loved man was sitting in the car. She couldn't keep calm when they met, so she tried her best to repress the fluctuation in her heart.

"Tammy, can you call Spencer for me?" Jennifer was considerate. "To help Alfie with his homework, I must go to the kindergarten with Ivan. We're the children's parents, which cannot be changed by anyone. I hope he'll not misunderstand."

Jennifer believed that Spencer would feel better if she took the initiative to explain to him.

Tammy nodded, watching her leave. Then she picked up her phone.

She dialed Spencer's number and told him what Jennifer had said.

Spencer was on the film set.

The news made him frown and upset.

Jennifer was correct. That was the fact that no one could change.

However, Spencer felt reluctant as Ivan and Jennifer would probably tangle with each other in the rest of their life because of the children.

Thinking that Ivan looked down on him, sent his bodyguards to beat him up, and left the scene, Spencer had a sudden surge of anger.

He had to hire the best makeup artist to help him cover the bruises on his face.

"Excuse me, Director, but I have to leave for three hours." Spencer didn't tell the crew his reason. After putting down the stage prop, he strode away.

Georgia, who played the female protagonist, panicked. "Spencer!" Then she stood in a daze.

The director wished Spencer could leave after playing a scene but failed to see him anymore.

Outside the seaside villa.

Ivan pulled the door of the passenger's seat open for Jennifer. They exchanged a short glance before Jennifer bent over to sit in. Ivan closed the door for her.

He returned to the driver's seat, fastened his seat belt, and started the engine.

The car was pulled away steadily, just like how he felt.

He had planned to return to New York for his lost memories earlier. He wanted to check on the scene where the car accident had happened and the places where he and she used to wander and take photos.

However, their son's phone call made them reencounter.

"Why did you fight with Spencer?" she asked softly, but it hammered his heart heavily.

Spencer? Listen to her tone. They had become so intimate now?

Ivan was upset, stepping on the gas.

The car accelerated, which shocked Jennifer.

"What are you doing?" She gazed at his gloomy side face. "Safety comes first!"

"We can die together," Ivan chuckled, "I've died once already, anyway."

Jennifer was in wordless anger. She withdrew her gaze, peering out of the window.

However, she believed that he was a good driver.

The topic of his fight with Spencer ended abruptly. Since he was unwilling to answer, she wouldn't insist on asking.

Meanwhile, Catherine received a call from Spencer.

She was half-lying against the bedhead in the ward while listening to his voice. She snapped in disbelief, "Why are they so brave? They shot the family photo yesterday, and now they are going to kindergarten together. Wish to appear on the headlines again, huh?"

"Where are you? I'll pick you up." Spencer boiled with rage. "Let's watch the fun, shall we?"

"I..." Catherine felt embarrassed as her cheeks were still swollen. "I need another half an hour. I'm during a checkup in a hospital." She couldn't wait to go there indeed.

"I'll go pick you up." Spencer ended the call.

Catherine was sitting in a daze for a few seconds. Instantly, she said, "Linda, get me a dress and help me put on makeup. Hurry!"

Linda did as told while bitching about, "Why is Mr. Marsh going to the kindergarten with Jennifer Brooks? Have they decided to attend all such occasions together in the future?"

Her words riled Catherine up. "I'll never let them be together. Ivan must marry me. Our wedding will be held next Wednesday. He won't escape."

Catherine's eyes glimmered with stubbornness. "I don't mind who has won his heart as long as he's with me, and I can see him right after getting up every morning."
