

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 337

In the bright dining room.

Jennifer put some food onto Ivan's plate, and looked at him softly, "Have a try and see if you like them."

With Jennifer by his side, everything was delicious to Ivan.

"Okay." He picked up the fork, graciously sent some food into his mouth, chewed it carefully, and said, "It's delicious."

Jennifer smiled and sat across from him, the dinner was calm and warm.

By the sea, the huge villa was empty.

Spencer was still sitting on the stairs drinking alcohol. Next to him were empty bottles. The air was filled with the strong smell of alcohol.

The more he drank, the clearer Jennifer became in his mind

She was his first love. Even if she had given birth to another man's children and was in love with someone else.

The few months of staying with Jennifer were the most precious memory for Spencer.

"Mr. Lawrence." Tammy reported softly, "Ms. Brooks' stuff is packed." In fact, Jennifer wouldn't lack anything. Ivan must have prepared everything for her such as skin care products and other daily necessities.

Spencer looked up and saw the bag in Tammy's hand. He felt lost. "Are the four things in the bag?"

"Yes." Tammy confirmed again, "Photo album, keychain, mug, jade pendant."

"Find someone to send them over." Spencer knew that those were Jennifer's most precious things. She had lost a child for them.

He picked up the bottle and took a sip. Tammy had not yet moved.

Tammy saw that his eyes were red and swollen, and she couldn't help but feel pain, "Will you personally deliver them over tomorrow? So, you'll see her again."

"No," Spencer repelled, thinking of some scenes, only to feel a sudden pain in his heart. "I'm afraid I will change my mind about letting her leave. I'll see her after they get married." There was a sense of helplessness in his voice. Then he smiled again, "Things would be much easier for me by then."

"Well, I'll send them now then." Tammy felt sad too.

About twenty minutes later.

Tammy arrived at Emerald Bay. The luxurious living room that was brightly lit made her overwhelmed.

Ivan stood tall and looked at her.

“Mr. Marsh, this is Ms. Brooks’ stuff. Please hand them over to her.”

Taking the bag from her hand, Ivan said, “Thank you.”

Ivan didn’t remember that he had sent Tammy to take care of Spencer.

But Tammy’s eyes looked emotional as if she wanted to say something.

Ivan tried his best to look relaxed. “Do you have something to say?” His voice was gentle male.

This made Tammy feel less distant, and she bravely raised her eyes, “Mr. Marsh, please cherish Ms. Brooks.”

That was it?

Ivan met her gaze and nodded. “I will.”

Tammy also told him, “Mr. Lawrence loves her, but he quit and gave her to you.”

Ivan was silent, did he need Spencer to quit?

Ivan wanted to correct Tammy, but Tammy saluted respectfully, then left.

Upstairs, Jennifer was packing up her stuff.

Aubree had thrown out all her stuff left in Emerald Bay.

In the afternoon Ivan made a list and sent someone to make the purchase.

The maids sorted out most of the items. Jennifer took care of the small items herself so she could find them easily when she needed them.

Ivan knocked on the door softly.

Jennifer looked back and saw Ivan coming in with a bag. “Spencer came?”

“It was Tammy.” Ivan put the bag on the table, “I’ll call Finnley and talk about the wedding. I’ll be in the study.”

“Oh, okay, go ahead.”

Ivan turned and walked outside. He didn’t like hearing Jennifer call Spencer by his first name. It sounded intimate.

But he didn’t want to ask for too much.
