

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 359

Everyone attending the dinner was extremely excited.

The brilliant moon, shining on the sea, gilded the waves. However, they were outshone by the cruise ship sailing on the sea.

How romantic and joyful!

By contrast, in Kelsington Bay, the villa, with only one light in the living room on, looked rather deserted.

After Aubree returned, she watched the whole wedding live on the sofa.

She was also surprised by what was going on on TV.

The deck was decorated with flashing lights, countless roses, and balloons. Nice violin tones echoed throughout the sea, which were played by famous Italian artists with a pay of over one million per minute.

Jennifer, in a red evening dress, could even outshine the moonlight when she smiled.

On TV, Ivan tenderly adjusted the hair that floated to her cheeks and couldn't help kissing her forehead.

Then the whole deck erupted in applause, with blessed smiles on everyone's faces.

Aubree's face darkened, wondering why Ivan loved Jennifer that much.

Pippa could see the hatred in Aubree's cold eyes.

"Madam..." Pippa said softly.

"I didn't expect this girl could win Ivan's heart again," Aubree said as she looked away from the TV. She leaned forward and picked up her cup, saying in a nonchalant tone, "She is really somebody."

Before Pippa wanted to say something to defend Jennifer, what happened on the TV attracted Aubree's attention.

"This is so yummy! What's it called?" A villager said in a shrill voice.

"It doesn't matter. Just enjoy it! The more, the better! Miss Brooks does a great job!"

"Without her, we couldn't have such a dinner. We should all thank her!"

"You are right! She finds a perfect husband! Mr. Marsh is a good man. He's said he will treat us as Miss Brooks' family!"

"If so, whatever happens, we needn't do anything about it. Mr. Marsh will help us with it!"

"Can't agree more. As the president of the Brooks' Marsh Group, he is of great power!"

Hearing this, as Ivan's mother, Aubree was naturally unhappy.

She didn't like these villagers at all! She thought they were rude, vulgar, and long-tongued.

They not only ate all over their mouths but also wiped with their hands!

Once they were photographed and posted on the Internet, Ivan would be the laughingstock.

It was beneath Ivan's dignity to take photos with them.

After Jennifer appeared, Ivan kept acting crazy! That was extremely condescending!

Aubree was afraid Ivan would do something stranger!

"Madam!" Pippa, pondering for a while, said, "Do you think Mr. Marsh has changed?"

"Of course." Aubree rolled her eyes. "He is even willing to take photos with these villagers! I can't believe it! In the past, he hated having his photos taken and hated it when people came near him!"

Aubree felt as if Ivan was taken away from her.

Pippa bowed respectfully and said, "Madam, that's not what I meant."

Aubree was a little shocked. She stared at Pippa. "Then what do you mean?" Aubree picked up the remote and turned off the TV. "Just go ahead."

Aubree was disgusted by what she saw on TV, so she didn't want to watch it anymore.

With a smile on her lips, Pippa looked Aubree in the eye. "I think Mr. Marsh becomes much more approachable after he meets Miss Brooks."