

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 372

Ivan looked at Marry, "Thank you. It's delicious."

"Thank you, Mr. Marsh," Marry said happily.

Ivan didn't feel nausea but he knew he couldn't eat anymore due to his stomach problem.

"Maybe you should inject some glucose for yourself," Jennifer said, "I will cook for you this noon and send some food to you."

"Don't bother. I'll get back for dinner in the evening," Ivan stood up and got his suit."

Jennifer was still having her breakfast, "I won't be bothered. After all I can stay with you this noon."

Ivan smiled and said, "Okay. I'll wait for you."

Twenty minutes later in the yard before their villa.

The driver opened the door of Lamborghini for Mr. Marsh, "Please, Mr. Marsh."

Before he got onto the car, he said to Jennifer, "Be careful for the meeting. Call me if you need."

"Don't bother. It's just a contract," Jennifer smiled and said softly, "I'll let you know after we finish."

Ivan stroked her head and got onto the car.

Jennifer waved at him and the car disappeared from her sight.

She also had to set off. They've agreed to meet at an outdoor café.

Jennifer took a deep breath and got on to a car next to her.

The driver would send her to the café as Ivan asked him. Ivan didn't want Jennifer to get out alone.

Jennifer looked at the scenery beyond the window and wondered what would happen when Spencer knew she was StaRise.

Would he turn away instantly as he thought she was joking?

Back then when she lived in the sea view villa after coming back from New York with Spencer, Spencer would send her a bundle of lily flower to her every day. Jennifer felt sorry for Spencer and she also knew a little about him.

Like Ivan, he also looked cold but was in fact quite kind and friendly.

They actually cared about each other. But they didn't want to admit that.

Jennifer hoped one day they could become really brothers despite what happened between their parents.

The car was pulled over ten meters from the café.

Jennifer arrived at the café ten minutes earlier than the time they agreed.

She sat at a seat that could overlook the river beside the café.

A black Volvo was pulled over beside the café. Spencer also came earlier.

Was StaRise a male or a female?

Spencer was not sure.

Spencer took off his sunglasses and noticed the girl at the café. She was in a cream-colored dress.

He got off his car and walked to the girl with the script in hand.

Driven by his curiosity, he walked quickly towards her and sat in front of Jennifer.

As he could finally look at the girl before him, he almost jumped from his seat.

He calmed down and looked around. Then he stared at her face, "Maybe I've made a mistake. Or it might be you..."

"No, you got the right seat," Jennifer looked at him and smiled.

She looked so beautiful in the sunshine of the morning. He was still confused.

Jennifer used a different voice, "Hello, I'm StaRise."

The voice shocked Spencer. He stared at the woman before him.

He had listened to the clip sent by StaRise for several times.

Jennifer smiled and had a sip of the coffee. Then she said, "You look so confused, Spencer."

Not far from her, Ivan was hiding himself behind a big potted plant. With a cup of coffee in hand, he was staring at the two.

The smile on Jennifer's face made Ivan feel a bit jealous.

Apparently, Spencer didn't realize what had just happened.

Jennifer gave her business card to Spencer, "Hello, I'm StaRise. Nice to meet you."