

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 373

Spencer saw the name on the card. He took the card and mixed feelings surged through his mind.

"Now you know," Jennifer said calmly, "I would take the job because of you."

With the card in hand, Spencer looked up at her.

Jennifer asked, "Is a recording studio provided? Will I need to cooperate with other dubbers? Or I should work myself? What's your director's request?"

Spencer said, "How could you be StaRise?"

"That's my stage name," she replied.

"Why are you interested in dubbing?" Spencer thought she didn't talk much. When Ivan was in coma, she could remain silent for a whole day.

"I'm not interested in it actually and that's why I haven't take any job these two years," Jennifer had a sip of coffee and said smilingly, "But I would take this job for you. Could you let me see the contract?"

"Is that okay for you?" Spencer didn't want her to do something she didn't like because he loved her.

And he knew why Jennifer would take this job for him.

"I'm okay," she said with a smile on her face to comfort him, "I won't force myself to do anything."

They looked at each other and Spencer finally calmed down and gave the script to her, "You can have a check and the price is up to you. The director told me to give you whatever you ask."

"Okay," she took the pen and checked the contract and wrote a number, which was the lowest one in her dubbing career, and signed her name at the bottom of the contract.

Then she gave one of the contracts back to him, "Okay, I've signed it."

"Congratulations to your marriage," Spencer didn't leave and he just sat there with his eyes fixed on her without drinking his coffee.

She looked even more beautiful. Maybe that was because of her marriage.

Spencer remained calm in front of Jennifer to suppress his real feeling at this moment.

"Thank you," Jennifer said.

Ivan felt a bit nervous.

Why was he still there? Jennifer had already signed the contract for him!

Why was he staring at Jennifer?

“Mr. Marsh!”

A clear voice of a woman rose from behind and that scared Ivan a bit.

Jennifer and Spencer also looked at him as Ivan was surrounded by a crowd of people.

“It’s Mr. Marsh!”

“You’re so handsome!”

“Can we have a selfie together?”

Ivan stood up and saw Jennifer and Spencer were all staring at him. now he felt quite embarrassed.

“Sorry, no selfie today. Sorry.”

Spencer raised his eyebrows and looked at Jennifer.

Obviously, Jennifer didn’t know Ivan would come here.

“I’m leaving now,” Spencer took the contract and stood up.

Jennifer stared at his back.

Ivan walked over to Jennifer and he didn’t know how to explain, “I have a meeting with my client here.”

“Really?” Jennifer said smilingly. Ivan had just told her he had a meeting this morning in the company.

She looked around and said, “Then your client hasn’t come yet, right?”

“Not yet.”

She looked at him and nodded, “I’ll get back home and cook for you. Just wait here.”

Then Jennifer stood up with the script and contract, “See you.”

Ivan heaved a sigh of relief as his wife left.