

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 384

Aubree sat opposite Ivan. "I came here for Linda Chambers. Catherine went to see me earlier and told me the basic information about the girl."

"Pleading for her?" Ivan asked gently.

Aubree stared at him without blinking.

Jennifer arrived in the living room, taking in Jordan and Marry, who were standing motionlessly.

"Mrs. Marsh?" They didn't return to their senses until seeing her.

"When did she arrive?" Jennifer approached them and whispered, "How long ago?"

The other two exchanged a glance. Marry checked the clock on the wall. "Ten minutes ago."

Jennifer had a jolt in her heart. Ten minutes? Then... Auntie Aubree must have heard her telling a story to Ivan.

She felt highly embarrassed.

"Jordan, can you please make some herbal tea and serve them with fruits and desserts?" Then she said to Marry, "Can you prepare a guestroom for Auntie Aubree? She'll probably stay here overnight."

Marry looked shocked. 'Stay here overnight?'

"Go ahead, please." Jennifer had her own plan.

Marry nodded and answered, "OK, Mrs. Marsh."

Aubree and Ivan sat on either side of the coffee table in the living room on the second floor.

Ivan's mouth corner lifted slightly. "I won't hold her accountable. Jennie also pleaded for her. I agreed to let Linda Chambers stay."

Aubree nodded, staring at her son. However, she kept silent.

The air was full of awkwardness.

Suddenly, Jennifer returned to the living room. "Auntie Aubree, please stay here overnight. It's also your home. I've asked Marry to prepare a guestroom for you."

Upon hearing her words, Aubree turned to look at her in surprise.

Ivan reached his hand to Jennifer gently.

Walking to him, she put her hand on his palm and sat next to him.

"Have you finished the conversation, Auntie Aubree?" Jennifer asked politely, "Shall I leave you a private space?"

Aubree didn't reply, looking over at her son.

Jennifer asked her to stay, but she wondered if Ivan would object.

"The conversation is over." Ivan tossed Jennifer's hair. "Mom came to ask me to keep Linda Chambers stay. You both are indeed kind-hearted."

The two women exchanged a glance.

Jennifer's intuition told her Aubree would definitely stay. At least, she could tell Aubree wished so.

Soon, Marry entered. She reported with a smile, "Excuse me, Madam Aubree. The room is ready. We're thrilled to have you here. If you need anything, please do let me know."

Ivan didn't object to it. Hence, Aubree could stay. She didn't refuse, either, as she wanted to be closer to her son.

Many things had happened in the past few weeks, which had distanced her from her son.

"I'm going to read the playscript," Jennifer told Ivan. She stood up and beamed at Aubree before leaving.

The other two knew that she deliberately left them a private space.

"What playscript?"

Aubree's heart tightened. She asked, "Will she work in the entertainment business?"

"Nope." Ivan answered gently, "Do you know dubber? After a soap opera is filmed, dubbing is needed to give the audience the best experience. It's part of the post-edition."

"So?" Aubree picked up her teacup.

"She's a dubber named StaRise," Ivan explained. "I don't know if you've heard of this name. She's an important icon in the dubbing field."

StaRise? Darcie? A designer? How many identities did Jennifer have?

Ivan could tell Aubree's worry and concern. He added, "Please don't overthink. Everyone has their own hobbies. It's normal. Jennie has just become outstanding in all her hobbies."

"Without a powerful organization, how could she have become outstanding in everything?" Aubree reminded him solemnly.

Ivan curled up his lips. "I'll be the powerful organization behind her in the future."
