

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 418

Those words rang in her ears and Linda, who had just graduated, sweated all over.

So, Mr. Spinberg was a womanizer, right? He was a terrible man.

She didn't even manage to walk out of the elevator in time, and the elevator closed automatically.

Linda finally came to herself, clicked on the button and walked out in uneasiness and terror.

After she walked out of the hall, she took out her phone and called Catherine.

"Miss Collins, are you busy now?" she asked apologetically. She didn't think it was appropriate to ask Catherine about the Marsh Group's affairs.

"No. What's up?"

Catherine was keen enough. Since Linda called her during working hours, she must have run into some kind of trouble.

"Do you know anything about Mr. Spinberg?" Linda asked cautiously, "Mr. Marsh asked me to cancel his appointment with Mr. Spinberg, but we couldn't get through to Mr. Spinberg. He told me to go see him in the club where they should meet to inform him of the cancellation."

Catherine told her the truth, "He's not a nice person, but he's smart in business. He has made a lot of profitable investment decisions. But you have to be careful when you see him."

"I heard someone talk about him in the elevator just now. They said he has slept with a lot of employees of his. I have a bad feeling and I'm a bit scared of going alone..."

"Wait for me." Catherine understood what she meant. "Where are you now?"

"I have just walked out of the company building."

"I will be there in five minutes."

"Okay." Linda didn't refuse. After all, there was no one else who could help her now.

She would feel much relieved if Catherine was here. Catherine had seen much of the world.

Soon, Catherine arrived. "Get into the car." She said to Linda in the driver's seat.

Linda walked over, opened the door of the passenger seat and got in. "I'm sorry, Ms. Collins. You have left the Marsh Group. I shouldn't have bothered you."

"It's nothing. This is not about the Marsh Group. I'm helping you." Catherine had taken Linda as her friend.

"She started the car and asked, "How have you been? How's things with you and Finnley?"

"He's on a business trip and hasn't come back yet." Linda was somehow a bit nervous. She clenched her hands and took a deep breath. Finnley had gotten engaged, what could she do?

Moreover, there was such a gap between the two of them.

"Linda, do you think it's happy loving someone or being loved?" Catherine had been thinking about this question lately.

However, Linda had never been in a relationship before, so she had no idea.

Then, Catherine told her the answer.

"I think it's happy loving someone. Even if he might not love you or might not be around you."

"You could feel your heartbeat just whenever you think of him. It's a magical feeling, some people might not feel it all their lives."

"He could also make you feel energetic every day."

"While being loved, it might seem happier, but you won't feel a thing."

Linda turned to look at her and saw a smile on her face. Did she think of Ivan again?

"So, you are happy," Linda said, "At least, you had been so close to Mr. Marsh. You had been his most trusted person. Before Jennifer showed up, you were the closest to him. You had felt it before."

Linda was telling the truth, but Catherine still couldn't help feeling hurt.

Holding the steering wheel, she could feel her heart ached.

She had thought that after a few days of intense exercise and self-adjustment, she should have gone past him.

But she was wrong.

She looked well, but deep inside, she was still with a broken heart.