

Surprised Wife With Twins Chapter 466

At midnight.

Aubree calmed down and asked the chef to prepare dinner.

She had told Ivan and Jennifer to come home for dinner.

Although Ivan didn't agree, she knew he would come.

Ivan never turns a deaf ear to her words, although he seldom listened to her opinion when it came to major deals, he had never refused her tiny requests.

Before Jennifer and Ivan went to the Kelsington Bay, they got back to the Emerald Bay and took Pippa with them.

They were afraid that it might be awkward. Aubree trusted Pippa and took her as friend.

In the Lamborghini, Pippa sat next to the two of them nervously. She couldn't help asking, "Was it true in the news? You escaped from fire?"

Ivan and Jennifer didn't answer her, but Pippa had known the answer.

"It's okay now." Jennifer grabbed her hand and dared not recall what had happened. It was a painful memory for her.

After all, someone died in that fire.

Pippa knew that she must still be in lingering fear, although worried, she asked no more questions.

Everyone was safe now. It was all that mattered.

Ivan sat next to the window and was holding Jennifer's hand. He looked charming in every occasion.

He was looking out of the window at the scenery, no one knew what was on his mind.

After the Lamborghini arrived at the Kelsington Bay, Aubree saw it through the French window.

She was worried about Ivan, so she requested for him to come back for dinner.

After getting out of the car, the three walked into the house.

"Ma'am." Pippa greeted Aubree with a smile.

"Mr. And Mrs. Marsh." the maids bowed to Ivan and Jennifer.

"Mom," Ivan said to Aubree.

"Mrs. Marsh," Jennifer said.

Aubree glanced at Jennifer and then looked back at her son. "How's your injury? Let me see."

She had been worried.

Ivan looked into her eyes and unbuttoned his shirt. Then, he turned his back to her.

Pippa dared not look at it.

Aubree walked over and saw the gauze around his wound.

There was blood oozed out. She felt sorry for him.

"It doesn't hurt anymore," Ivan said, "I have taken the painkiller and Rowan used the best medicine for me." Then, he put on his shirt again.

There was nothing Aubree could do. She sighed. At least he was still alive.

"It was Hanson..."

"I know," Aubree looked at Ivan and said, "I saw it in the news." She didn't want to recall it again.

Aubree felt lucky they escaped.

She was really afraid of losing them,

Although she didn't like Jennifer or Spencer, she had never thought of letting them die.

At this moment, Pippa had gotten upstairs.

She had a bedroom here.

She grabbed some of her belongings, when she walked to the balcony, she accidentally spotted the kids' socks hanging there.

They were cute.

Pippa was suddenly lost in thought.

Kids?

With confusion, she walked to the room that had been locked the last time she came. It was quiet around.

She tried to open the door, but found it was still locked.

There were footsteps. She withdrew her hand and immediately turned around to leave.

She ran into Aubree at the stairway and smiled at her, "Ma'am." She was flustered inside.

