

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) Chapter 54

“Now daddy is not at home, it’s the best chance to know this project.”

After entering the study, Alfie and Diana locked the door and went to the desk to open the computer.

“Will anyone come in?” Diana didn’t have much courage to do this.

Alfie shook his head. “The study is a forbidden area for others. Nobody dares to come in.”

“What if daddy comes back suddenly?”

“Go to the window and watch.”

“Okay.”

Diana crouched behind the curtain and focused every movement downstairs.

Alfie controlled the mouse and keyboard, quickly deciphered it, and entered.

In the Lamborghini, Ivan just called Catherine. He said in a deep voice, “Take Spencer to Rowan. He has specific medicine there.”

“Fine.”

Catherine wanted to talk to him more, but he hung up. She felt lost again.

Catherine’s heart cooled after she was moved just now. Catherine was in a complicated mood... If it wasn’t for Spencer, she wouldn’t have even met him once.

There was a warning sound from Ivan’s mobile phone. After having a look, he looked terrible.

The computer in his study was deciphered.

Turn on the monitoring. As he expected, Alfie was lying at the desk, holding the mouse in one hand and typing on the keyboard with the other.

And Diana squatted in front of the window, acting as a lookout...

Ivan frowned slightly, opened a system with his phone, and tracked what his son searched on the computer in the system.

He found that the little guy searched the relevant documents about the design directly...

Was he interested in design?

Ivan analyzed and tracked, and suddenly thought of Jennifer, as well as Emma.

Did she want to design?

Emerald Bay, in the study upstairs.

Alfie turned off the computer, and he finally understood, "This British Royal New Year's product needs not only to design clothes but also to design a full set of jewelry. We only have one month. Can mommy do it?"

"Is mommy willing to do it?" Diana asked.

"..." Alfie became silent.

Ivan didn't come back immediately, nor did he go to the company. Instead, he asked the driver to park by the lake. He got off and stood there, enjoying the lake wind.

At three pm.

Lamborghini drove into the yard of Emerald Bay. The driver opened the door for Ivan.

After he got off the car, he calmly went into the living room. Steward felt a strong sense of oppression. "Afternoon, Mr. marsh."

"Where's Alfie?"

"Master Alfie is upstairs."

Ivan stepped upstairs and went to the billiard room with his deep and dark eyes.

Mary was playing billiards with Alfie and Diana. The kids were having a good time. When Mary saw Ivan, she immediately greeted him, "Mr. marsh is back."

Alfie and Diana looked at him and said, "Daddy, come and play billiards together!"

"Alfie, come here." Ivan fixed his eyes on him without the softness as before.

Diana looked at her brother anxiously. Alfie walked to the door with a smile. "Daddy."

Ivan turned to the study.

Alfie followed behind him... He began to feel nervous.

Diana chased them to the door, called Jennifer with her phone watch, and whispered, "Mommy, where are you?"

Not long after, Jennifer came down from the roof, who was enjoying the view in the courtyard just now. She took Diana to the outside of the study to listen closely

"Alfie! Do you know what you have done?" Ivan asked coldly.

Alfie replied pitifully, "Daddy, don't be angry."

“What have you done to make me angry?”

“Daddy...”

“Do you think that because I love you and you are my son, you can cross the bottom line?” His calm tone of voice with deterrence cannot be ignored.

Jennifer outside was unhappy when she heard this. Did the children make a match between him and her that made him angry?

Jennifer pushed the door open. “Why are you yelling at a child?!”
