

Surprised Wife With Twins (Ivan and Jennifer) novel

Chapter 9

Night had fallen. Cold winds were blowing. It was destined to be an unusual night.

Jennifer sneaked into the backyard and climbed over the wall! After being raped by Ivan, she learned some martial arts.

As soon as she landed on the floor, a bolt of lightning slashed above her head! It was blinding and terrifying.

Startled by the rolling thunder, Jennifer fell to the ground, her heart racing.

She felt like in a horror movie.

The demonic wind rustled the leaves, messed her hair, and flipped the corners of her skirt!

Jennifer hugged her arm. It was cold.

She saw the lights in the villa. The moment she stood up, pouring rain fell on her! She was soon all wet.

"Who?!" The guard rushed over quickly!

At the same time, someone rushed into the living room.

"Mr. Marsh, someone has climbed over the wall and entered the yard!"

In the well-decorated living room, the valuable crystal lamp emitted a brilliant light.

The light shone on the man on the sofa, making his face look more three-dimensional.

The children, as puzzled as Jordan, obeyed Ivan's words and followed Jordan upstairs.

After a while, Jennifer was taken into the living room by two bodyguards.

Ivan sat firmly on the couch, looking at the woman, his eyes a bit cold and lazy.

He raised his hand. The bodyguard let go of Jennifer and left.

Jennifer felt weird standing in the bright light and being looked at by him.

She was drenched by the rain. Her black, soft hair was clinging to her cheeks like glue. Her wet clothes were dripping.

The wet clothes cling to her body, perfectly outlining her curves.

Ivan got up and took steps toward her with his hands in his pockets.

Jennifer was forced to meet his gaze. There was only hatred in her eyes and the determination that she would take the children away tonight.

Whoever wanted to snatch the children from her was her enemy!

As Ivan approached, the living room became cold. Jennifer clenched her fists in panic.

Ivan's innate aura was intimidating.

He saw through all her embarrassment, restraint, and anger.

The air was filled with Jennifer's faint fragrance. Ivan lost his mind for a moment.

"Marry." Ivan sounded kind of cold, "Bring over some clean clothes for Ms. Brooks."

"At once."

Something flashed in Jennifer's eyes. She fixed her eyes on Ivan. "Save it, I'm here to take away the children!"

"Dress up first." Ivan's voice was low and cold. He turned to the door, looking as cold as a statue.

Jennifer roared in her heart!

"Ms. Brooks." Marry soon returned and said softly, "The clothes are ready, please go with me to take a hot bath, so as not to catch a cold."

Jennifer was soaking and cold.

She fixed her gaze on Ivan, who was looking out the window, then followed Marry into the bathroom.

Ivan went upstairs into the study and stood still at the window. Looking at the shocking lightning in the sky, he recalled his father for no reason.

Ivan frowned lightly, he didn't believe in love, nor did he believe in marriage, so there had never been any romantic gossip about him.

But that didn't mean he didn't want kids.

When he got the paternity test, he was extremely excited.

Catherine was coming back to Arkpool City. Aubree wanted him to marry Catherine.

But this woman named Jennifer broke into his world at the right time, and he didn't hate her.

So, he had a plan.
