

No. 1 Supreme Warrior chapter 1726

An old man from the Cabello family flew toward Helena and stood by her side; it was clear he realized something was wrong. "First young mistress, something seems a little off with these people. They're too powerful!"

Helena nodded. "Yes, something does seem a little off. This group of young people is masters in the ultimate god-level, and they're incredibly strong. I suspect that they're natives from this area. Only people from this area are capable of achieving the ultimate god-level at such a young age as they're able to enjoy the abundant resources and everything present in this area!"

The old man was visibly frightened when he heard that. He tried his best to remain calm and said to Helena, "Why are they willing to help us, then? Did they help us because we were bullied by our opponents, seeing how lesser we are than them? Aren't the people inside here against us entering this area?"

Helena was just as mystified. She thought about it for some time before she responded, "I'm not sure what's going on, either. Why would the people from this area be willing to help us?"

The old man took a closer look at Helena, and a weird expression appeared on his face. "I do have a theory, First young mistress. It seems that they're willing to help because of your beautiful looks. After all, these youths can't possibly resist your charm!"

Helena was embarrassed, but she had to admit that could be a reason. Why else would they come to her aid when they did not know any of them? Why did they not help the people from the seas instead?

"Run! Even Elder Lent has died!" Tom's allies panicked as they witnessed his death. They thus hightailed out of the scene.

Unfortunately, the dozen people who came to Helena's side were extremely strong. Together with the crazy fight back from the members of the Cabello family and White family, their opponents were slain— not one was spared.

“Haha... It's been a long time since I've enjoyed killing with such alacrity!” Arthur laughed triumphantly as he killed the last person before he flew back and said to Helena, “Young lady, we still don't know your name. By the way, I'm Arthur Whittemore, and I'm a member of the Whittemore Fortress from the Nine Armies.”

Hendrick, who descended from his flight, also gazed at Helena expectantly as he wanted to know her name just as much, too.

“I...I'm Helena Cabello!” Helena smiled and gestured to the other party politely before she continued, “Thank you very much for your help; we would've died without you. How about this? The trophies will all be yours as our token of thanks. Well, my company and I will be leaving now!”

After she spoke, she waved her hand and said to her companions, not waiting for the other party to respond. “Come on, everyone. Follow me!”

Helena was obviously afraid when she learned that these people were from this area and after she saw how scary they were. She wanted to lead her people. And leave quickly.

After all, these people might not have realized that she and her group had barged in from Daxia. Who knew how they would act had they found out!

“Ms. Cabello, there's no need for you to leave in a hurry. I'm Hendrick Lavigne, and I'm also a member of the Nine Armies. I'm from the Lavigne Fortress!” Hendrick panicked when he saw that Helena and the others were leaving, so he hastily introduced himself.

At that moment, a middle-aged man from the Cabello family could not help but mumble, “Nine Armies? What's that place? Does it mean nine fortresses?”