

No 1 Supreme Warrior

Chapter 3620

• • •

A vibrant glow condensed above him as the Valley Entrance Pass descended and slowly fell into Jack's palm.

The pass was cold to the touch, and Jack could feel endless energy coming from it.

Jack smirked, revealing a smile. Those six stages were incredibly simple to Jack. Even the hardest stage was just two opponents with lower ultimate god rank techniques.

He used a storm god rank technique. It was far more powerful than them. Those opponents were just like paper in front of him, not a problem for him at all.

Jack looked up at everyone. At that moment, all of them had interesting expressions on their faces. They no longer looked at him like an idiot and were instead full of respect and fear. Quite a few people even avoided his gaze.

That large-mouthed man from earlier looked like a dog that had just been beaten up. He hid behind and was too scared to show himself.

From the sixth stage to the first, Jack had taken less than five minutes. For anyone else, five minutes might not even be enough for one stage.

Jack had been a complete clown in their eyes, but he had turned into an ace suddenly. Jack scoffed as he slowly walked down the stone. He did not care about what those people thought. It was a waste of his time. However, he would not just leave it be.

Jack looked at the large-mouthed man behind everyone, and he said in a low voice, “Don’t think you’re safe just because you’re hiding behind everyone. Didn’t you have such a good time talking just now? You said I didn’t know my place wanting to compete with Jimmy. Do you still remember your words? A man’s words are worth everything. If you can, why don’t you repeat everything you said?”

The large-mouthed man shuddered in fear, not even daring to breathe. He did not even dare to recall everything he had said earlier.

Anyone who passed was already stronger than he was, let alone someone who passed at such a shocking speed. It was as if those six stages were not difficult at all.

It showed how strong Jack was. He even started to wonder if Jack would be able to defeat him with just one hand! Offending someone as strong as that really was a horrible decision. He was already starting to thoroughly regret it. He should not have been so itchy with his words!

His lips twitched as he slowly looked up with an apologetic smile, "Sir, I had such foul behavior earlier! Just think of me as nobody and let me go. I really didn't mean to offend you. I was just blind, and didn't know you were that strong..."

The large-mouthed man's eyes were already starting to redden from the fear. He was worried that Jack would start targeting him.

Even though Cloud city was not somewhere you could kill without abandon, there was no way he would be able to hide forever, never taking up any challenges.

The moment he did, he would be in danger. It would be too easy for someone that strong to target him.

Furthermore, skilled warriors would definitely have followers. Those followers were probably not weak either. If he was targeted by that man and the followers, he would have to live his life in fear.

Suddenly, he tossed aside all his pride, practically begging Jack to let him off. Jack scoffed as a cold look was on his face, "Don't ever let me see you again. If I see you, I'll harvest your Heartblood."

A vibrant glow condensed above him as the Valley Entrance Pass descended and slowly fell into Jack's palm.

The pass was cold to the touch, and Jack could feel endless energy coming from it.

Jack smirked, revealing a smile. Those six stages were incredibly simple to Jack. Even the hardest stage was just two opponents with lower ultimate god rank techniques.

He used a storm god rank technique. It was far more powerful than them. Those opponents were just like paper in front of him, not a problem for him at all.

Jack looked up at everyone. At that moment, all of them had interesting expressions on their faces. They no longer looked at him like an idiot and were instead full of respect and fear. Quite a few people even avoided his gaze. That large-mouthed man from earlier looked like a dog that had just been beaten up. He hid behind and was too scared to show himself.

From the sixth stage to the first, Jack had taken less than five minutes. For anyone else, five minutes might not even be enough for one stage.

Jack had been a complete clown in their eyes, but he had turned into an ace suddenly. Jack scoffed as he slowly walked down the stone. He did not care about what those people thought. It was a waste of his time. However, he would not just leave it be.

Jack looked at the large-mouthed man behind everyone, and he said in a low voice, “Don’t think you’re safe just because you’re hiding behind everyone. Didn’t you have such a good time talking just now? You said I didn’t know my place wanting to compete with Jimmy. Do you still remember your words? A man’s words are worth everything. If you can, why don’t you repeat everything you said?”

The large-mouthed man shuddered in fear, not even daring to breathe. He did not even dare to recall everything he had said earlier.

Anyone who passed was already stronger than he was, let alone someone who passed at such a shocking speed. It was as if those six stages were not difficult at all.

It showed how strong Jack was. He even started to wonder if Jack would be able to defeat him with just one hand! Offending someone as strong as that really was a horrible decision. He was already starting to thoroughly regret it. He should not have been so itchy with his words!

His lips twitched as he slowly looked up with an apologetic smile, "Sir, I had such foul behavior earlier! Just think of me as nobody and let me go. I really didn't mean to offend you. I was just blind, and didn't know you were that strong..."

The large-mouthed man's eyes were already starting to redden from the fear. He was worried that Jack would start targeting him.

Even though Cloud city was not somewhere you could kill without abandon, there was no way he would be able to hide forever, never taking up any challenges.

The moment he did, he would be in danger. It would be too easy for someone that strong to target him.

Furthermore, skilled warriors would definitely have followers. Those followers were probably not weak either. If he was targeted by that man and the followers, he would have to live his life in fear.

Suddenly, he tossed aside all his pride, practically begging Jack to let him off. Jack scoffed as a cold look was on his face, "Don't ever let me see you again. If I see you, I'll harvest your Heartblood."

The moment that was said, the large-mouthed man's whole body stiffened. Those words were already a punishment to him. He was going to leave, but he would have to leave Cloud City.

He was reluctant, but he was worried about the consequences of offending someone as strong as Jack.

The moment that was said, the large-mouthed man's whole body stiffened. Those words were already a punishment to him. He was going to leave, but he would have to leave Cloud City.

He was reluctant, but he was worried about the consequences of offending someone as strong as Jack.

• • •