

No 1 Supreme Warrior

Chapter 3710

The moment they entered the Capture Hall, they were shaken by the atmosphere.

After they entered, what greeted them was a massive flight of stairs. The two of them walked up to the top, and what they saw was a massive arena.

The audience filled up the stands, and they were shouting and cheering loudly.

“The wings! Cut the wings off! Why are you staring at its tail? This is getting frustrating. I bet three million on you! Do you know what that can buy?! Fight properly already!”

“Why are you so anxious?! I told you to bet your crystals on Toulson or Nilah, but you didn’t listen. What’s the point of being so anxious now? If that guy manages to get the most Life Points, I’ll let you kick my head!”

Most of the warriors in the stands were in complete fervor. They were shouting and screaming, cursing every minute. It caused Benita to frown in annoyance. He hated noisy places like this the most, after all.

Nonetheless, he had to deal with it. After all, there was nothing he could do to change it.

Yolanda and Jamie seemed much more excited than him, having been pulled in by the atmosphere. The two of them started to look toward the arena below.

On the massive stage was a beast 9 meters wide and 15 meters tall, standing in the center of the stage. 10 warriors around the beast frantically attacked it.

All 10 of them had frowns on their faces. They constantly avoided the attacks from the beast as they tried to attack themselves. However, it was obvious that the warriors were at a disadvantage.

The feathers on the beasts were sharper than arrows. With a flourish, purple flames would ignite around its feathers and shoot toward the warriors.

The flaming feathers would form craters on the ground wherever they struck, and the crater would be glowing with purple flames. Even though the ground was made with special materials, it looked like it was going to melt from the flames.

Most of the burning feathers had not struck anything at all. The warriors around the beast were all incredibly alert. The moment the beast started its attack, all of them used their skills to avoid it.

However, someone was unlucky, having been struck on the arm by a feather. The purple flame burned the man’s arm immediately, causing the man to cry out in agony. He used his uninjured hand and frantically tried to extinguish the flames as he circulated his true energy to extinguish it as well, but it had little to no effect.

The flames were like a parasite. After hurting the man’s arm, it continued to crawl up his head. That person was in so much pain that his voice was hoarse. He was going completely crazy.

If the flames reached his head, he would probably die on the spot.

Witnessing that scene, the chaotic audience quieted down quite a bit, causing the person’s cries of agony to be even more intense.

“Save me! Save me!” That person frantically tried to put out the flames as he cried out in agony.

He lunged to the ground, frantically rolling around and trying to put out the flames.

After a long time, he barely managed to put out the flames.

However, his whole arm had been burnt to a crisp. It made for a horrifying sight. That man even burst into tears from sheer agony.
