

No 1 Supreme Warrior

Chapter 3753

Sure enough, the Capture Hall was fair and just, it did not ignore a single detail.

Rowan was furious and wanted to start screaming at Paul, but he could not even begin to find the right words. After all, everyone else seemed to believe Maurina even though he genuinely wanted to fight back.

Right at that moment, a firm hand fell on his shoulder, patting it gently.

Rowan turned to see Abraham with a cold look on his face. Abraham's eyes were fixed on Maurina as if he was trying to see something.

Maurina looked back calmly. Their gazes met with a murderous aura in the air.

Ever since their conflict started, Abraham acted as though all was fine and that Maurina was not worth his notice at all, but he could no longer keep up the act.

He took a deep breath and said aloofly, "In so many years, very few have thoroughly angered me. You're the first and probably the last. I don't know how you're this bold to go against us like this, but whatever it is, it won't change your fate."

Maurina's lips twitched helplessly. "You've said that before, and I've answered. When it comes to threats like this, I've heard them way too many times. Dish a new threat, why don't you?"

Abraham narrowed his eyes slightly. "Your actions won't just end up with you paying a horrible price, but all those related to you will be punished as well. I'll make sure to find out what continent and clan you're from. Everyone who's close to you will be dragged down with you. I'll tell them that their impending suffering is because of your arrogance! You'll be cursed by everyone who's close to you."

Jordan and Benita could not help but duck their heads at that.

They were not close to Maurina at all, but if anyone found out about their relationship with Paul, they would be pulled into this chaos as well.

Jordan rubbed his temples in pain, suddenly not knowing what to say.

He was not on good terms with Paul, and it seemed like he would not be on good terms with the Star Continent anymore after being dragged down like that. He did not even dare to breathe too heavily at that moment.

Benita fared no better. Both of them lowered their heads, worried that others would notice the mood they were in.

When the crowd heard the threats from Abraham, a few of them hissed.

"This guy must surely regret everything he's done now. He's pushed Abraham and the others to a corner. They don't just want to kill him, but they want to kill everyone related to him as well!"

"That's honestly reasonable. This guy has thoroughly offended them. No one has ever dared to fight back against them like that!"

"Are you afraid now?" Abraham said coldly.

However, Maurina raised an eyebrow in exasperation. His expression never changed from the start. Why, he thought, would they assume he was scared?

Maurina shook his head calmly. "If you're able to, investigate to your hearts' content. However, I'll give you a bit of a warning. Plenty of people just like you wanted to do something similar, but the consequences that awaited them were lethal."

Abraham could not help but sneer at that. "I've seen everything now, alright. You're still threatening me even with things as they are!"

Some were rendered speechless by Abraham. Everything this guy did seemed unbelievable. No one could tell what was going on in his mind.

Dora, who had been quiet the whole time, suddenly said, "Are you not worried at all? Are you not afraid? Since that's the case, keep at it. Don't forget what you promised, though!"
