

No 1 Supreme Warrior

Chapter 3757

His thoughts contradicted his actions.

Anne steadily walked toward the betting area. When he initially placed his bet, the odds were at 1:1.06.

With the odds, it was not like there was much profit to be made. However, Anne had betted a whole 20 million spirit crystal and thus earned 1.2 million in profit.

That sum was a huge one for a lot of the people around. Some of them did not even have that sum if they added up all their fortunes.

When Anne had put down a 20 million bet, it shocked quite a few of them.

They thought that Anne was merely a pompous airhead who caused one too many troubles, but with his fortunes, it could be said that Anne had an impressive background behind him.

However, no matter how great his background was, there was no way he could offend the Star Continent so fearlessly. After all, they were among the top second-grade worlds.

Anne's actions did nothing but shorten his lifespan.

Rowan gritted his teeth. "He managed to benefit this time! Just look at how much he made. I never expected this guy to be able to bet twenty million so easily! It looks like he's got a little more going on for him. Still, even if he has an impressive background or got lucky enough to find some treasure left behind from ancient times, nothing will change the terrible fate waiting for him!"

George, who decided to ignore the matter, was once again thinking about the issue.

He turned to look at Anne's back, and he could not ignore the gnawing feeling that bothered him. Everything about Anne seemed wrong.

Was Anne capable, after all, of staying true to his word?

However, George laughed the moment the thought was in his head, tossing the thought aside.

So what if Anne was talented enough to stay true to his word?

It did not matter if Anne had a strong support system.

The warriors of Star Continent were not to be trifled with. The Whirling World was a place where the strong ruled over the weak, and death was a mainstay in this world.

Every time it opened, around half of the people who entered would die. Furthermore, Anne dying to them was completely his own doing. Even if he had a strong backer, they would not be able to find a reason for revenge. Anne's background was still pure speculation in the end. The moment he managed to offend them so badly, he sealed his fate.

Nymm frowned and said, "I don't know why, but I feel like this guy isn't a fool at all. It seems like he's purposely toying with us!"

The moment that was said, all his fellow disciples turned to look at him.

Nymm coughed and said, "I'm not trying to praise him! Just listen to me. This guy has had a mask on the whole time. We've only been able to see a part of his face. As long as he changes how he looks, it'll be hard for us to find him again."

"If he was just an idiot with a painfully low IQ, then it would be simple. As long as he steps on stage, we'd be in control of the situation, but I don't think he will. The fact that he bet so much on George means that he has a clear mind."

"Since he knows how strong we are, the consequences of offending us, and what he's going to face when he goes on stage... Since he knows everything, he wouldn't have done that unless he wants us to torture him to death!"

Nymm's analysis made a lot of sense.

After the others heard that, their expressions turned serious and were deep in thought.

If Anne decided against his word in the end, they would just be able to say a few things about it at most. It was not the most reliable of plans.

If he really wanted to go back on his word, they did not have the time to drag things on with him either.
