No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4061-Jack slowly got up, and a white light started to wrap around him.

The discussions about Jack in the Black Abyss never stopped the whole time. After all, Jack choosing the ninth level of difficulty was just too shocking.

It was a difficulty that they could not even imagine, but Jack had picked it without any hesitation. They had never seen someone who wanted to die so badly. Yet, as time passed, nothing happened on the Black Path Jack was on.

The warriors in the plaza were starting to lose their cool.

“How long has it been? Why hasn’t he been tossed out yet? Could his technique be so quick that beasts can’t catch up to him at all?”

“What’s so surprising about it? There are all sorts of miracles in the world. This guy probably has some special movement technique. That’s why he dared to challenge the ninth level. Yet, even so, I feel like he’s such a joke. Does he think he can win just because he manages to keep on avoiding the attacks?”

“He probably wants to try and get the beast to use up all its true energy. The side without any energy would be the losing side, and their opponent would be able to do whatever they wanted. He probably had that in mind when he chose the ninth difficulty! That thought process is just too presumptuous.”

“Humans are very different from beasts. Humans are way above the beasts when it comes to intelligence and understanding. However, we can’t compare to beasts when it comes to defensive capabilities and energy stores...”

“If he wants to win by using his movement techniques and trying to expend the beast’s energy, then it’s practically impossible. The one who uses up their energy will definitely be the human!”

That person’s words were agreed on by most of the participants there.

Trying to outlast a beast was a laughable thing. Beasts had the upper hand when it came to energy. Trying to defeat a beast with one’s weakness was a completely idiotic move.

Even if he managed to avoid many attacks in the short run, the moment the guy's true energy ran out, he would die!

Burke scoffed and said, "There's something wrong with Lourain's head as well. Lourain spoke of that guy as if he was so strong. If I didn't know any better, I'd think he's a warrior at the peak. In the end, he was just an idiot who thought too highly of himself!"

Keller laughed and said, "Do you think Lourain will be able to complete his challenge? Lourain saw what that guy picked just now as well, but Lourain did not have too big of a reaction. Could Lourain already know that the guy would choose the ninth level of difficulty? If he knew and didn't stop the guy, could he really think that the guy would succeed? With just some movement techniques?"

Vaughn coldly looked at Keller and Burke.

Vaughn was naturally a bit upset when they started to mock Lourain, but he could not say anything about it. He could not find anything to say to them at all. After all, even he felt like the situation was a bit absurd.

Keller laughed and continued to say, "I wonder where Lourain got the confidence to believe in that guy's arrogance? Could Lourain have just been completely fooled?! Maybe he can't even attempt the second level of difficulty and only chose it because he's too arrogant. Later, we might not just be seeing that guy's corpse, but Lourain's as well!"

Vaughn could no longer stand it as he loudly shouted, "Shut up!"

At Vaughn's shout, Burke raised a nonchalant eyebrow, "What is it? Do you think we're wrong? Then tell me, what's wrong with what I said? Do you think that guy will be able to complete the ninth level of difficulty?"

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4062-The moment that was said, a cry of shock could be heard.

There was suddenly an uproar all around the Black Abyss.

“He succeeded! That madman succeeded! Did my eyes deceive me? Isn’t that a white light?” A participant with sparse hair shouted while his eyes widened from the shock.

The person next to him nodded, “It should be white. I saw a white light as well!”

When the Black Path’s challenge ended, it would let out two different kinds of light based on the results. A white light meant success.

The participant would be enveloped by white light and sent to the White Abyss. A black light represented failure, and the participant’s corpse would be sent back to the Black Abyss plaza with the black light.

The Black Path that Jack entered was letting out a white light, meaning that Jack had successfully attempted the challenge, and was being sent to the White Abyss.

One person could be mistaken, and two could be as well. However, more and more people saw the white light, which meant that Jack had really succeeded, and was already being sent to White Abyss. After all the exclamations of shock, there was a period of complete silence.

The crowd found themselves struggling to react because none of them could believe what they were seeing.

Did someone actually succeed in the ninth level of difficulty?

Even the third and fourth levels were already a huge problem for a lot of the participants, but that person managed the ninth. It was crazy!

Even warriors at the peak might not necessarily be able to complete the challenge, but that person did it.

Everyone knew what that meant! At that moment, Keller’s mocking smile was still frozen on his face, but the look in his eyes had completely changed. He was a bit stunned, and his body was somewhat frozen as well.

Burke was not much better than Keller. He felt like someone was choking him, and his breathing started to speed up as his body trembled slightly.

His eyes were opened so wide his eyeballs looked like they were going to fall out. He stared right at the Black Path that Jack had entered, and he had an incredibly conflicted expression. He even wondered if he was dreaming. Even if he was dreaming, his dreams would not have been so absurd.

Everyone knew what the ninth level of difficulty represented. They had even speculated before that even warriors at the peak might not be able to pass it. Yet, someone had done it right in front of them. Even more laughable was the fact that he had just mocked that person.

Right at that moment, someone said loudly, “Do you still remember how that person looked when he chose the difficulty? I happened to have a good view of him then. He didn’t really have much of an expression on his face. He looked incredibly calm. It was as if he was not choosing the ninth level, but the first...”

“At the time, I thought he was crazy. Only now do I know that he wasn’t crazy, we were just ignorant.” After he said that, that person fell silent for a while.

“Aren’t all the warriors at the peak already inside? Why is he only here right now?! Could the challenges not be done stage by stage like we thought?”

“Who knows?! After entering the Radiant Hall, I lost contact with my fellow disciples, and I don’t know what their situation is like. I don’t know what challenges they’ve gone through as well.”

“This guy must be a warrior at the peak, and could even be ranked in the top five amongst them. Why haven’t I heard of someone this strong before? There are only so few warriors at the peak, and we’ve all already heard about them. Even if I wasn’t familiar with the guy, I should have had some sort of an impression. Yet, this guy looks completely unfamiliar to me!”

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4063

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4063-“He might have changed his looks. Those warriors at the peak aren’t as brazen as they used to be anymore. All those shameless and despicable things they did in the past are already public knowledge. The regular warriors already hold a grudge, and they wouldn’t dare to show off in front of us.”

Hearing all those discussions, Keller's lips trembled, "Is it really a warrior at the peak? So it was a warrior at the peak, but why would a warrior at the peak be with that bumpkin."

The bumpkin being referred to was obviously Lourain.

Earlier, Vaughn had been in so much shock that he could not even recover from it.

After hearing what Keller said, he was immediately furious. He had been so helpless earlier, no matter what those two said, he had no way to retort at all, but it was completely different at this point.

Vaughn no longer needed to hold back.

He turned around and scoffed coldly before he said, "You two are the bumpkins! Don't judge others by your own standards. Just because warriors at the peak look down on you two, it doesn't mean they'll look down on Lourain. Lourain has always been morally upright, so he's worthy of being a companion to the warriors at the peak, but the two of you definitely aren't!"

Vaughn finally got the chance to vent his frustrations.

Earlier, those two had said so much, and Vaughn had been forced to hold it all in. There was no way he would let the opportunity slip with him finally getting the chance to let it all out.

Vaughn held his head high and said, "How dare the two of you judge others with your pathetic knowledge?!"

"Who do you think the two of you are to talk about what kind of difficulty the warriors at the peak can challenge? Look at yourselves in a mirror. Before you laugh at others, you should look at yourselves first to see if you're a joke!"

At that moment, Keller and Burke were completely mute.

The two of them had managed to grow a lot in recent times, but they were still nowhere near the level where they would dare to cast judgment on warriors at the peak.

Warriors at the peak were objects of their admiration. Even if they tried to argue, they would only be laughed at even more.

The two of them were forced to just shut up, no longer daring to say anything!

Within the Black Path, Lourain had his right hand holding a sword.

He was breathing heavily, and his arm was shaking slightly. Even though he was still standing upright, he could not stop himself from the mild trembling.

A bit further away from Lourain was a beast that looked similar to a donkey or a horse.

The beast had already stopped breathing, and Lourain had many wounds on his body. His clothes were torn in a few places as well. Even though he was injured and looked a bit haggard, Lourain felt incredibly happy. It was already one of the better results he had expected. He was injured, but it was not heavy. He killed the beast and won!

Two points were in hand!

Only after composing himself did he have the chance to think about anything else.

Just the second level of difficulty had given him such a hard time. He did not dare to imagine how hard the ninth level of difficulty was. If he challenged the ninth level of difficulty, he would probably have turned into a corpse in just two minutes.

He did not know how Jack was doing on the other Black Path. He wondered if the battle was intense.

Just as he was thinking about it, a white light wrapped around his body. Lourain did not fightback, he knew that it was the light that would send him away.

Right after that, the space around him started to distort. He plunged into the distorted space, and when the space around him started to stabilize, a white place appeared around him.

He heard a voice at that moment, "It's done! The hundred and twenty-third are here."

The moment that was said, his surroundings started to rumble. A white barrier separated the place from the outside world.

At that moment, Lourain's mind was still confused.

A hundred and twenty-three?

He was the hundred and twenty-third person?

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4064

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4064-If he was the last one, then would Jack not be separated from him?

Lourain started to panic a little after that. With his skills, even surviving was a problem without Jack by his side.

He anxiously turned around and looked all over. However, outside of the white barrier behind him, he did not see anything else.

Lourain was in complete panic at that point. He did not want to be the last one.

Jack had chosen the ninth level of difficulty, so Jack would probably have taken a long time with his challenge.

If Lourain was the last one, then it meant that no one else could enter after him. By the time Jack finished his challenge and entered the White Abyss, it would be a completely different one.

Just as Lourain was beginning to lose himself to his panic, Jack's voice was heard behind him, "What are you looking at?"

That familiar voice caused Lourain's eyes to light up. He immediately turned around to see Jack looking at him curiously.

When he saw Jack, Lourain let out a sigh of relief. He was so emotional that tears were about to fall.

He patted his chest and said, "I was so scared. I thought I would be separated from you!"

Jack laughed and said, "I was a step faster than you. I was the hundred and twenty-second person to arrive."

Every White Abyss was only about to accommodate a hundred and twenty-three people.

After the numbers were full, the plaza would be sealed off. While it was sealed off, no one could enter or exit until all the tokens had been exchanged.

The warriors who completed the next challenges would be sent to another White Abyss. There were countless White Abysses, and this was just one of them.

“You’re injured? Is it bad?” Jack looked at Lourain’s injuries and his ripped clothes before asking.

Lourain shook his head and shifted his shoulders around.

He took out a new set of clothes from his storage ring, “It’s nothing. It’s just some mild injuries.”

After that, he seemed to think of something as he suddenly looked up to measure Jack.

He saw that Jack’s clothes were completely fine, and Jack did not seem to have any injuries. Jack looked the exact same as before he entered the Black Path.

Lourain’s lips stiffened, suddenly not knowing what to say.

It sure was frustrating comparing himself to others. In front of Jack, Lourain was practically an earthworm. He was not even at the level of an earthworm.

He said helplessly, “Was challenging the ninth level of difficulty that easy for you?”

Jack shook his head, “It wasn’t easy, I was just lucky to not get injured.”

Hearing that, Lourain felt even more speechless.

Lucky?

Getting injured or not was just a matter of luck?

If one was not skilled or experienced enough, they would naturally get injured.

Jack not getting injured was not because of luck. It was purely because he was strong and experienced enough!

That was how he was standing there without any injuries. The ninth level of difficulty would only bring death for Lourain.

If it had not been for Jack and any other warrior at the peak who chose the ninth level of difficulty, Lourain would have been just like those other warriors and thought that the warrior at the peak was suicidal.

Suddenly, he found himself unable to fathom the limits of Jack's strength.

Lourain sighed, no longer bothering with the problem.

He looked around, and just like he thought before, the White Abyss looked white everywhere. The plaza was made of white bricks, and there were complicated runes on those prices. Floating in the air was over a hundred tokens.

There were seven different colored tokens in total.

The red ones were the fewest. Out of all the tokens, there were only two or three red ones. Meanwhile, the purple ones were the most, taking up every corner.

There was no need to explain, as everyone there knew what needed to be done. In a moment, they would use their points to get those tokens.

After obtaining the tokens, they could head to the relevant training grounds to improve themselves.

Quite a few people were looking up at the air. Those tokens were what they were waiting for. For the sake of getting more points, they had taken the risk and given it their all.

Lourain sighed as he looked at the other colored tokens attracting everyone there.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4065

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4065-Unfortunately, he knew very well that the points he accumulated were only enough to get him the purple token, which was the lowest-leveled one. However, he was not too sad about it. After all, he had at least given it his all to get those three points, and he was able to get a token.

There were those who failed to even obtain three points and did not even have the right to obtain a token.

Just as he was pondering, a few familiar figures suddenly caught his eyes. Dante was standing below a red token, looking at the token with an intense look in his eyes. It was clear that he really wanted it.

However, to get that red token, he would have needed twenty-seven points. It meant that he would need to have scored full points for the three challenges.

Even though they did not know what Dante's past rewards were, it was obvious from when he challenged the Black Path that he could not get the red token.

Lourain remembered that Dante had picked the fifth level of difficulty back then, and only managed to get five points in the third stage. From his results on the Black Path, Dante had probably managed to get fourteen or sixteen points.

Those points were able to get him a green token. With the green token, he would only be able to walk into the fourth-best training ground.

Next to Dante was Haversham. Just like Dante, Haversham was looking at the red token with greed.

Both of them had passed the challenges, and both of them could already be considered at the top of all the results there.

In the Black Abyss, Lourain had been observing what most people chose in the end. Most of the participants chose the second level of difficulty, while only a small amount chose the third.

Only a tiny amount chose the fourth level, and Lourain had only seen Dante choose the fourth.

Lourain estimated that Dante was probably in the top three among the hundred and twenty-three people there.

“Aren’t the numbers already full? The place has already been sealed. Why aren’t we exchanging our tokens yet? Are we supposed to take them ourselves?” After that person said that, he activated his true energy below his feet and tried to rush into the air to get a token.

Unfortunately, he only managed a short distance before he felt his whole body being held back, as if by chains. He could not leap into the air at all.

Feeling helpless, he gave up in the end.

The others saw that and forgot about it as well.

“What a bunch of idiots!” Dante laughed coldly as he said with a mocking expression.

His tone was nasty, and quite a few people looked at Dante with furious expressions. However, Dante did not care at all. The mockery in his eyes only intensified as he looked at them as if they were country bumpkins.

Most of the warriors there recognized Dante. After all, Dante was ranked in the top five of above-average warriors. Warriors of that level would be remembered.

Most regular warriors and above-average warriors, and even a small portion of warriors at the peak, would remember Dante. That was basically an acknowledgment of his skill.

Dante saying that naturally incited a lot of anger. However, those people were scared of Dante’s skill and position, so no one argued at all. Dante was not talking about anyone in particular anyway.

If they stepped forward, they would be acknowledging what Dante said.

Dante scoffed before he said coldly, “Those tokens were already in the air earlier. If we could get it so easily, then what’s the point of sealing the space off?”

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4066-Looking at the participants who did not dare to speak up, Lourain sighed softly.

Sure enough, they were not united at all.

In the Toman Battlefield, Jack had commented that they could be scattered very easily. Lourain admitted it in his head, but he had not agreed so wholeheartedly.

At this point, he clearly understood why Jack had described them that way.

Facing any challenges from a stronger warrior, even though they would be angry, they would remain silent. As long as they were not the ones being targeted specifically, then they would tolerate it. They would only fight back if it concerned themselves.

However, if they were asked to work together and fight back, they would only do it on the surface. In truth, they would constantly be looking out for themselves.

The moment the situation was good for them, they would betray their allies in an instant. Hence, there was no need to sympathize with them at all.

They would forever be in this state, worried for their lives at all times.

Jack looked at Lourain and patted Lourain on the shoulder, "Don't think about anything unnecessary right now. There are all sorts of people in the world. Even though most of them are nothing special, there is still a small portion of them who are true men..."

"When that incident happened on the Toman Battlefield, everyone was crying out for revolt so fervently, but the matter was put to rest eventually. They have their eyes on short-term profits, and they are incredibly shortsighted. As long as they are safe for the moment and they aren't threatened, they won't truly fight back. Those warriors at the peak know that which is why they do whatever they want."

Hearing at this, Lourain nodded.

That was how things were. It was something that could not be avoided.

People only looked at the short term and only cared about their own benefits. They would not fight back to make those warriors at the peak pay.

Those warriors at the peak found that they would not need to suffer any consequences no matter how bad they got, and would just get worse and worse. It was an endless vicious cycle.

After Lourain thought about that, he sighed and decided to forget about the matter.

At that moment, their circle tokens started to vibrate again.

Lourain raised an eyebrow as he took the token out.

Suddenly, everyone followed suit.

When they held the tokens in their hands, a stream of information was sent into their heads.

Jack raised an eyebrow and whispered, "Energy bubbles?"

They had thought that they would be exchanging their tokens after this, but it was not the case at all. That earlier stream of information notified them that, in five minutes, a thousand different energy bubbles would fall from the sky. Every warrior got to choose three of them.

Of the thousand energy bubbles, ninety percent of them were empty. Only ten percent of them had treasures inside.

Meanwhile, of those treasures, most of them were ordinary ones, and a very minute number of them were incredibly valuable! It was all down to luck if one managed to pick out any valuable energy bubbles.

Lourain widened his eyes, "A thousand bubbles, and we can only pick three! That means there are only three out of a thousand chances that I get anything valuable!"

Jack slowly nodded, "It's a bit more than that, but not by much. It means that getting any valuable treasures is all down to luck! Is this the chance to change your destiny? I feel like even if it is, it's just one of them. There should be more chances like that in the future. However, the chances are just too low. Unless you are incredibly lucky, there's a large chance you'll get an empty bubble."

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4067-Jack did not think he was all that lucky. After knowing the rules, he did not care much for it.

Compared to Jack, Lourain was incredibly eager. Even though there was only a very small chance of getting any treasures, the rules felt fair to Lourain.

No one was at an advantage, and it was all down to luck. Even someone as strong as Jack did not have an advantage at all.

All of the regular warriors there were instantly in an incredibly eager state. This time, they no longer needed to rely on their skill or talents to gain the treasures, and it was all down to luck.

Even though most of the participants were not incredibly lucky, all of them still held out some hope. If they happened to be lucky this time and managed to choose an incredible treasure, then they would take a huge leap forward.

Even if they could not use that treasure yet, they would be able to exchange the treasures with those they needed, or even for purple gold. Then they would be able to improve themselves quickly. As long as they were lucky, their future would be incredibly bright.

They could improve from being a regular warrior to an above-average warrior, while above-average warriors could move forward. Those above-average warriors who were highly ranked could even suddenly become a warrior at the peak, earning everyone's admiration.

Everyone's hearts were thumping wildly. They knew the chances were minuscule, but they could not control their excitement at all.

Dante frowned as various emotions flashed on his face.

He looked at the other participants around him. There was a look of excitement on their faces.

Dante scoffed in disdain.

Those pieces of trash who were not even worth noticing were only fit to be his stepping stones in life. They were only worthy of struggling at the bottom.

There was no way they could have a future ahead of them!

Yet, those people dared to covet the high-end treasures.

Were they worthy enough?

He wondered where they got the courage to even think about it!

Haversham was next to Dante and was looking at the participants there with a similar expression. In the eyes of those two, the participants were just wishing for something way above their station.

It was just a joke!

Suddenly, there was a rumbling as a white light flashed in the air. After that, countless energy bubbles appeared in the air.

All of the energy bubbles had a white layer of light around them. Even after knowing the rules and knowing that there was no way to see through the energy bubble to reveal what was inside, there were still a few people who wanted to test out their luck.

They let out their senses to examine the energy bubbles. However, no matter how hard they tried, they failed to see through the bubbles.

After trying for a long time, they were forced to give up on their attempts.

“It looks like it’s all down to luck. I thought that my soul was stronger than a normal warrior hence my senses would be stronger, but even after trying my hardest, I can’t see through it at all. Sure enough, the rules can’t be broken,” After saying that, a warrior sighed in regret.

Another man scoffed in disdain next to him, “Even if you’re stronger than a regular warrior, how strong can you be? Even the strongest warrior at the peak would just be an ant in front of the ancient hero who set the laws. Even if your soul was twice as strong, there’s no way you could look through the energy bubble!”

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4069-Jack looked at the energy bubbles around him.

Naturally, he failed to spot anything at all. After thinking about it, he decided randomly on three energy bubbles like the others. It would be down to his luck whether or not he managed to get something.

Lourain thought about it for a long time and picked one energy bubble close to Jack and another close to himself. After that, he randomly picked one from somewhere else. Even though he could not see anything, he was still trying to get as lucky as possible.

Time slowly ticked away.

After a while, everyone had settled on their choices. All the chosen energy bubbles turned red when they were in the hands of the participants.

The unchosen ones remained white. After the selection was completed, the unchosen energy bubbles slowly rose into the air, returning to where they came from.

After a brilliant white light flashed, the energy bubbles that were not chosen all disappeared.

Right after that, there were cracking sounds coming from everyone's hands. They looked down to see the red energy bubbles rapidly falling apart, turning into pure energy and disappearing.

"What?! There's nothing in there at all! Out of three bubbles, I didn't get a single thing!" Someone shouted out angrily.

"Me too! When I chose the bubbles, I purposely picked them from far apart, but they were still empty. I didn't even get a low-level treasure."

"Am I really that unlucky?! I didn't even get a fifth-grade treasure! I thought I would at least be able to get something bad, but it was all empty in the end!"

Sounds of misery could be heard everywhere.

Most of the warriors did not manage to get anything at all. After all, it was all down to luck whether or not there was something inside.

The fact that all three were empty frustrated them!

Those who did not get anything were quite angry and felt like they were just incredibly unlucky.

Quite a few of the participants were already red with anger. They started to curse and swear.

In truth, they did not know who they were cursing at, but just needed to vent their frustrations, or they would go crazy.

Some were lucky as well. A man in green robes said happily, "Come here and look! Isn't this the Violet Grass? Are there any alchemists or knowledgeable folk here? Help me see if this is Violet Grass!"

Everyone looked over to see someone holding a completely Violet herb throughout. The herb looked quite strange, there were veins all around its leaves. The veins were glowing faintly with violet light, and quite a few people had looks of admiration on their faces.

There were plenty of looks of jealousy as well. They all cursed internally, wondering why they got nothing from their energy bubbles while someone got a Violet Grass!

Someone knowledgeable nodded, "It really is Violet Grass. You really are quite lucky as that is worth over ten million on the market!"

Ten million was equal to one piece of purple gold. It was no small number for most regular warriors. Back then, Lourain had been so excited after he won ten million from gambling.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4070

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4070-In truth, Lourain was already stronger than most regular warriors, so the ones weaker than him were naturally poorer.

When everyone heard the price, quite a few people turned green with envy!

"The Nine Cloud Pill?! Isn't this a Nine Cloud Pill?" A tall warrior widened his eyes as he looked in shock at the pill in another warrior's hand!

His voice quickly attracted a lot of attention, and quite a few people looked over to see a small-eyed warrior with a pill in hand. The pill had a fragrance about it, and there were many runes around it as well. It did not look like a regular pill.

"It really is a Nine Cloud Pill! That guy hit the jackpot. The Nine Cloud Pill isn't cheap. Even in the outside world, it's worth forty million!"

Quite a few eyes reddened when they heard of the price. They were talking about forty million spirit crystals. That number was something unattainable to most regular warriors, but the man had gotten it without any effort. Yet, the rest of them got nothing at all!

“What’s this? Could it be a Dragon’s Beard Herb?!” A man in red robes loudly said when he saw the herb in Lourain’s hands.

The words Dragon’s Beard attracted quite a lot of attention.

Suddenly, many people looked over.

At that moment, Lourain felt incredibly emotional as he held the herb with both his hands. The herb did not look that much different from weeds in the wild, but upon closer inspection, there were many differences.

The herb had a large amount of spiritual energy within it, and it looked like the beard of a dragon. Even though it was not related to actual dragons at all, it still fetched a high price.

“In the outside world, I went to an auction with my uncle once. There was a Dragon’s Beard Herb at the auction. I still remember that herb went for seventy-three million in the end!” A man in a black shirt said in admiration.

When everyone heard that price, quite a few people lost their clam. Many of them were so envious that they were drooling.

“I wish I was the one who had picked the energy bubble with the Dragon’s Beard Herb. With that, even if I used it myself or got some other treasure, I would definitely improve a lot!”

“I can’t believe I’m not just weaker than everyone else, even my luck is so bad. This is so frustrating! If this goes on, I really don’t know when I’m ever going to leap forward!”

Jack coldly looked over to the man in red robes who had told everyone about the Dragon’s Beard Herb.

The man felt Jack’s gaze and his excited expression was frozen. He could clearly feel the murderous intent in Jack’s eyes.

Jack frowned, “Keep the herb away!”

The moment he said that a familiar voice was heard, “Wait! Why are you in such a hurry?!”

The person who said that was Dante.

Dante had a forced smile on his face. It was obvious that he forced the smile out, but it did not remain for too long.

After a moment, Dante quickly composed himself. He walked over with a somewhat warm smile on his face as Haversham followed behind him.
