

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4081

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4081-Would he not be immediately dissolved by the water if he entered the Chaos Water?

Yet, that old voice had clearly stated that he needed to enter the Chaos Water if he wanted to start training.

Jack suddenly found himself wondering if he should enter or not.

He only had nine days of training time, and he would need to get out after that. From the sounds of it, even one extra day of training was a luxury.

Jack felt incredibly conflicted, but he knew that continuing to dwell on things would achieve nothing other than waste his own time.

After thinking about it, Jack clenched his teeth and leaped in with a splash.

He entered the Chaos Water, and pain suddenly filled his whole mind. Jack never felt that much pain in his life. His skin was slowly being dissolved, as was his flesh. It was as if he had jumped into lava, and was slowly being dissolved. He could not even cry out in pain, because the Chaos Water would enter his mouth the moment he did. Then, every part of his mouth would be dissolved the moment they touched the Chaos Water.

The Chaos Water was even stronger than acid. In just five minutes, Jack's body was one with the Chaos Water. Even though his body had been dissolved, Jack was still able to maintain a clear mind for some reason.

He could feel that his body had already been completely fused with the water. He could even feel every single ripple in the water. It was as if the Chaos Water had become a part of him.

After his body had been completely dissolved, he could no longer feel the pain. All he felt was a sense of nothingness. He could only feel the void. It was as if he was already dead, but still alive at the same time.

He felt like he was in a state between life and death, and everything had achieved a balance.

At that moment, Jack's mind was clear of any other thoughts.

He was not thinking about the future, and even the fear of death had completely turned to nothing. He had reached the most fundamental state of mind!

***

Time slowly ticked away.

Jack did not know how long he was in that state, but energy suddenly started to gather. The Chaos Water started to form a vortex with him at the center.

Slowly, he could feel his bones being reformed. Right after that were his blood vessels and organs.

Jack suddenly felt like he needed energy!

He needed a lot of it!

No matter what kind of energy it was, he needed it all in his body.

Jack's mind immediately connected to Mustard Seed. To prevent anything from happening, Jack had taken out Mustard Seed and put it by the shore before he jumped in the pond.

He immediately pulled out the Twinleaf Heartgrass, supreme soul wisp, and all those other treasures from within Mustard Seed and threw them all into the Chaos Water.

The moment those treasures touched the Chaos Water, they were dissolved and turned into pure energy as well. They swam within the chaos, and Jack took the chance to absorb all that energy into his body.

As his body was being reformed, Jack felt like a hungry ghost that had not eaten anything for dozens of days.

Those treasures were like a banquet to Jack as they turned into energy. Jack frantically absorbed it, not leaving a single shred behind. Even after absorbing so many treasures, Jack still felt like it was not enough. So, Jack took out thirty pieces of purple gold from Mustard Seed and tossed them in.

Purple gold was basically an even purer form of spirit crystals in the first place. They had a lot of pure energy within.

With so much purple gold being tossed inside, the Chaos Water's silver light became even more dense. It even started to bubble, as if it was boiling. All of that energy was gathered in the vortex.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4082

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4082-Jack frantically swallowed up all that energy into his body like a hungry beast as he reconstructed his body.

When he opened his eyes again, his body was as good as new. Every single cell and muscle in his body had been reborn.

He suddenly wanted to shout out loud. It was as if he had limitless energy within his body.

At that moment, he really wanted to fight a great battle with someone. He wanted the battle to last for days on end until he was completely exhausted!

He leaped out of the Chaos Water and returned to shore. Jack tossed out a few punches with some interest, and every punch summoned up an energy wave!

"I've finally reached perfection!" Jack shouted excitedly.

He had been using Soul Sky for quite a while and had reached the second stage some time ago. Yet, ever since he made that breakthrough, he had been stuck at the second stage the whole time due to a lack of resources. With Chaos Water reconstructing his body and him absorbing so much energy, he finally reached the third stage, which was mastery.

He started to form seals with his hands, and the seals started to fuse in the air. A gray chain was birthed from those seals.

The chain was the thickness of an infant's arms and was filled with dark red runes. A faint gray mist surrounded the chain. Looking at the chain, it looked like something a grim reaper would use. The chain had its own name, it was called the Soul Chain.

Jack grabbed the chain and whipped it forward. There was a smack, and ripples were suddenly in the air. If he used his senses to feel it, he would be able to feel an incredibly destructive soul energy left behind.

The soul energy was incredibly potent and was even able to rot air.

Jack was incredibly excited as he pulled back his hand and the Soul Chain turned to pure energy, disappearing from the place. He had only managed to enter the first training ground after giving it his full efforts.

At that moment, it was evident that all his hard work had been worth it!

Meanwhile, Lourain was sitting down in the empty space, quietly waiting for the stone door to open. He had only been in the seventh training ground for two days before he was kicked out. Even if it was only two days, he had gained quite a lot.

Before this, he had only been able to be considered an above-average warrior.

After the past two days of training, he was already firmly at that level. The seventh ground was already so fruitful, let alone the first one. Lourain had already waited for seven days.

It was already the ninth day since Jack entered the first training ground. The first and seventh training grounds were already massively different from each other. On top of that, Jack had earned the privilege of seven more days of training than he had. The gap between them would only be even wider.

This time, Jack would definitely be much stronger after he walked out.

Thinking about that, Lourain could not help but sigh. The world had always been one where the strong ruled over the weak.

The strong got better resources, and they would only go higher and higher, climbing even taller mountains. The weak were only able to fight for the worst of the resources, struggling to move forward.

Just as he was thinking about all of that, he suddenly heard a cool voice, "Hey man, you were here waiting when I entered, and you still haven't left yet? How many days has it been?"

An armored man was asking Lourain with a curious tone.

After counting for a bit, he said, "It's been four days! You should have at least been waiting for four days. On top of that, you came from the seventh training ground, so you had to have spent at least two days inside. Your fellow disciple must have been inside for at least six days!"

"I think you should go ask around. Your fellow disciple must have missed you and gone on ahead. If it's been six days, then even those in the third training ground would already be out."

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4083

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4083-The armored man had chatted with Lourain since he had nothing else to do before entering the fifth training ground.

After he came out, he was stunned to see Lourain still waiting there.

Lourain raised an eyebrow and looked at the man, "He won't leave before me, but he should be coming out today."

It had been nine days.

Lourain counted the days in his heart and felt like it was about time for Jack to come out.

The armored man's lips curled up when he heard that, clearly not agreeing with Jack.

He laughed and said, "Could you not know that the training grounds will kick you out the moment the time limit is up, even if you can choose to leave early if you want? There are no exceptions. The higher the level of the training ground is, the longer you can stay inside..."

"If it's six days, then even those in the third training ground should already be out. However, if you're still waiting here, it must mean that your fellow disciple is already out. He might have needed to leave ahead of time for something pressing. Honestly, I would advise you to stop waiting here, it's just a waste of time."

Hearing this, Lourain nodded.

He could tell that the armored man did not have any ill intentions, and was merely giving some kind advice, “Thank you, but my fellow disciple is definitely still inside. He would not leave early.”

The armored man frowned. He had seen those who would not listen to advice, but never someone so stubborn.

He had made things so clear, so why was this guy not listening to him?

The armored man pursed his lips, “Unless your fellow disciple entered the second training ground, he’s definitely already long gone.”

The warriors who could enter the second training ground were all definitely warriors at the peak. He refused to believe that the man in front of him was with a warrior at the peak. They were not that easy to find. There were only over thirty of them in total. Those warriors at the peak were already deep in the Radiant Hall. There was no way they would still be here.

After thinking about that, the armored man raised an eyebrow.

Could this guy just be trying to show off here?

There was no way he did not know something so basic!

The armored man coughed and asked, “Which training ground did your fellow disciple enter?”

At that moment, a stone door was heard opening. Every time that sound was made, it meant that a warrior had completed his training and had exited.

Lourain widened his eyes, “He’s here! You wanted to know which training ground he came from? Just look and you’ll know.”

The armored man frowned.

He turned to look at the seven doors only to see the red door at the western end slowly opening. A man in green robes slowly walked out, earning exclamations of shock.

The warriors who had been waiting for their fellow disciples or friends all widened their eyes in surprise when they saw that.

The red door actually opened!

Someone actually entered the first training ground.

The armored man was shocked at the sight.

Lourain hurriedly stood up, "You're finally out!"

Jack nodded slightly, "Yeah... How many days has it been?"

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4084

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4084-Lourain immediately put up nine fingers, "A whole nine days! Sure enough, the first training ground really is different! I was kicked out of the seventh training ground after just two days, but you were able to spend a whole nine days inside!"

As he said that, Lourain's face was full of admiration. He straightened his body and gave Jack a once over. He accurately sensed that Jack was different from before as the other party seemed even harder to figure out than before.

There seemed to be a sense of emptiness coming from Jack, and his aura was even more ethereal. It was as if Jack was a deity that had descended to the mortal world. And, it was as if he had been reborn after stepping into the training ground.

Lourain could not help but lament, "It looks like you benefited a lot this time!"

Hearing this, Jack nodded. There was no need to hide anything from Lourain.

The armored man remained stunned in place as he stood by the side. His eyes looked like they were about to pop out of their sockets. He looked at Lourain before looking at Jack, feeling like he was in a dream.

The armored man suddenly turned to look at Lourain, saying with a hoarse voice, "This is your fellow disciple?"

Lorraine had never explained his relationship with Jack. When the armored man talked to Lourain, he had thought that Jack was Lourain's fellow disciple, and Lourain never bothered to correct him. Even at that moment, the armored man thought that Jack was Lourain's fellow disciple.

Lourain coughed before nodding, “Yes! Didn’t I tell you that he would never leave me behind? Why didn’t you believe me?”

The armored man almost bit his tongue when he heard that.

Before this, he would never have believed that anyone would be capable of stepping out of the first training ground. One needed twenty-seven points to enter the first training ground.

Every single warrior in the Radiant Hall knew what twenty-seven points meant! He never would have believed that anyone would be able to enter the first training ground!

The armored man’s lips trembled, “I thought you were trying to show off to me!”

He really did think that Lourain had been trying to show off by saying what he did. Lourain had wanted to show that he had a strong fellow disciple. Yet, Lourain had not been bragging at all, his fellow disciple really was very strong!

So strong that it was absurd!

That person was absolutely a warrior at the peak, one who was highly ranked as well. The armored man had never seen a warrior at the peak ever since he entered the Whirling World.

At that moment, his heart was beating wildly, and he looked at Jack with an incredibly complicated look on his face. It was filled with admiration, respect, and envy.

His breathing started to speed up, and he found himself suddenly at a loss for words. Jack merely glanced at him. The constant chatter started to annoy him a little.

He sighed as he said, “Nine days, it’s taken up a lot of time...”

He nodded slightly before he motioned to Lourain. He did not want to continue dwelling there and immediately headed to the next challenge.

They were in a massive valley.

There were seven different arenas in the valley. Each arena had a large scroll on it with names written on it. Every arena had a warrior standing on it at that moment.

Quite a few participants were gathered there.

Some of them were looking at the arena as they talked to those around them, looking like they were discussing something. Some of them had conflicted and anxious looks on their faces as if they were not able to come to a decision.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4085

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4085-That was the scene that greeted Jack and Lourain when they arrived there. The moment the two of them stepped into the place, the tokens once again sent the rules of the challenge into their minds.

Each challenge had its own name. The first challenge they went through when they entered the Radiant Hall was the Three Energy Space.

The second challenge was the Path of Fate. This challenge was called the Seven Death Arenas. The rules were not complicated, but it was a test of character as well.

After Jack understood the rules, he immediately understood why there were so many complicated looks around.

Lourain frowned, "This challenge seems quite simple. It should be quite easy to get nine points..."

As he said that, Lourain paused and he started to frown slightly, "However, it looks like I probably won't be able to get a single point!"

He suddenly realized that, even though the challenge was quite simple, it was only simple for a portion of people. Those like him who were average in strength could very well not be able to get a single point. Jack clearly knew that as well, and he nodded slowly.

This time, the challenge did not just test a person's character but was not friendly to regular warriors at all. Even Lourain could end up walking away without a single point, let alone those who were weaker than him.

In truth, Lourain was not that weak. He could finally be considered above average, but even between above-average warriors, there was a huge difference. Lourain could only be considered to be at the bottom of above-average warriors.

The rules of the challenge were simple. The participants gathered were split into two types. The first were the ones who accepted challengers on the arenas, while the second were the challengers on the bottom.

To gather nine points, one would need to be the recipient of the challenges and stand in the arena. The challengers who were at the bottom could challenge the recipients at any time. The recipients had to accept any challenges directed at them.

As long as the recipients were able to stay on the stage for a whole twenty-four hours without losing, they would be able to get nine points. To prevent anyone from manipulating the rules to their advantage, the challengers would get five points if they won any challenges, but if they lost, five points would be taken from them.

Every time a recipient won, they would be awarded a point. After a recipient was done with a battle, they would be given two hours to rest and recover, preventing a person from being flooded with challenges.

Those rules in place helped prevent anyone from gaming the system with people they knew, deliberately losing to the recipients or otherwise.

Lourain raised an eyebrow as he said in excitement, "These rules are quite cool. It's such a test of your character and the choices you make. The moment the challenge starts, no matter how the battle goes, the recipients can kill the challengers..."

"Yet, the challengers can't kill the recipients, and can't deal any heavy injuries that can't be recovered from. So, those warriors gathered there will probably be thinking about becoming a recipient as long as they are skilled enough.."

"After all, each time a challenge is issued, the challengers can't kill the recipients, but not otherwise. So, even though a recipient needs to go through a lot of battles, they'll be able to get nine points as long as they manage to hold on and not lose..."

"Even if they lost, they'll still keep their lives. However, the rules for becoming a recipient are different. Even if they don't need to go through so many battles, they could very well lose their lives if they underestimate their opponents. Furthermore, they'll only manage to get five points after a challenge."

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4086

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4086-The rules were plain for all to see. Just like before, the choice was all down to the participants themselves.

Whether they wanted to be a challenger or a recipient, they would need to consider it first. Unless they were incredibly confident in their abilities, they would be extremely conflicted.

"I've already been thinking about it for four hours. Three of the stages have already gone through a change of personnel. To continue thinking about it is a complete waste of time!"

"Whatever! Even if my life would be at risk, I don't care anymore. I've never offended them before this. If I put in a few good words, I should be able to survive even if I can't win!"

A bald man was speaking to his fellow disciple with a frown on his face.

The man's fellow disciple nodded, sighing softly before he said, "I think I'll forget about it. I'm not even at your level. Let's just leave together after you complete the challenge."

Unlike the other challenges where one needed to complete the challenge before they could leave, there were twenty transfer arrays here. They were on the eastern side of the valley.

Anyone who thought they were not strong enough to be a recipient and did not want to be a challenger either could use the transfer arrays to leave the Seven Death Arenas.

Lourain was wondering if he should try it out or be safe and wait for Jack to complete the challenge as well. He would leave with Jack after Jack was done if he was not going to challenge anyone.

Hearing the discussions around him, Lourain felt incredibly conflicted.

Naturally, he knew how important the points were.

After going through so much, he had only managed to obtain three points. If he managed to succeed with a challenge, he would be able to get five points. It was even more than all three of the past challenges combined.

To Jack, it was a very tempting proposition. However, Lourain still maintained a clear mind. The temptation of five points was huge, but he knew very well that his skills were nothing too special.

As a challenger on the stage, if he was no match for his opponent, and his opponent was ill-tempered, then he would have to lose his life. No matter how strong Jack was, he could not change the rules.

Thinking about that, Lourain sighed deeply.

Jack looked at Lourain's depressed sigh and immediately knew what Lourain was thinking about.

He looked up at the Seven Death Arenas. Each of the recipients standing in the arenas did not seem weak at all.

As for how strong they were, he would need to witness their fight before he figured it out. If Lourain was a challenger and challenged them, the chances of Lourain winning would only be at twenty percent.

There was an eighty percent chance that Lourain would die up there.

Jack took a deep breath and patted Lourain on the shoulder, saying seriously, "Look at those seven up there, do you think any of them look like they're good-hearted people? The moment you step into the arena, things will be out of your control. I think you should forget about it."

Lourain turned around and looked at Jack helplessly.

He knew that Jack was right, but Lourain was still not happy with it. The further he went, the more he felt the importance of getting points.

If he had managed to get to the sixth training ground, he would definitely have improved even more. Yet, gaining points meant taking even more risks.

With his skills at that moment, there was no way he could face those risks at all. The moment he was not careful, he would lose his life.

Lourain sighed, suddenly finding himself unable to make a decision.

At that moment, the recipient on the first arena, Carville, narrowed his eyes and looked below him, "Is there no one else? How boring. I thought I would be able to fight a few times and warm up a bit. I can't believe everyone's such a wimp. No one has the guts to come up here at all!"

Carville came from the Thousand Origins Continent, which was the same world as Lionel Simmons. However, the two of them were not from the same clan.

Carville's clan was even more arrogant than Lionel's and Carville was slightly stronger than Lionel as well.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4087

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4087-Carville was ranked highly among above-average warriors, so quite a few people recognized him.

Ever since he stepped into the arena, no one dared to challenge him.

Naturally, the warriors there were not happy with being called wimps, and all of them glared at him with angered expressions. However, not a single one of them dared to loudly rebuke him. All they could do was mumble in low voices.

The more they did so, the more Carville looked down on them. Sure enough, they were a bunch of wimps.

Even after Carville insulted them, all they could do was mumble to themselves, not even daring to speak up.

Bane raised an eyebrow and looked up at Carville. He had just taken two steps forward and was about to say something when someone else took the chance.

A man in black robes shouted loudly, "Carville! Don't be so arrogant! There are plenty of warriors that are stronger than you in this world! It's just that most of those stronger warriors have already completed the Seven Death Arenas, and have gone deeper into the Radiant Hall!"

That guy was right.

Most of the stronger warriors had already left the Seven Death Arena at that moment. The warriors that were still around had other goals. They wanted to accumulate more points as time passed. They were waiting for all the stronger warriors to leave before they did anything.

Whether it was as a recipient or as a challenger, the chances of obtaining points were far greater than before. However, a lot of participants did not want to waste their time there either.

Since they were being transported to separate places and transmission arrays did not work, they did not know what kind of challenges were waiting for them if they advanced. It was possible that the challenges moving forward were even more simple, or that they would have other benefits if they entered early!

The man in black robes who spoke up earlier did not like Carville at all.

He squeezed past the crowd and slowly walked to the arena, "Actually, you're just like the others. You only walked into the arena and became a recipient after waiting so long!"

"It's just because you've waited for long enough, and the stronger warriors have already left this place. No one's a threat to you anymore, so you're acting so arrogantly! Unfortunately, you made a miscalculation!"

After he said that, his feet stepped into the arena.

The moment the challenger stepped into the arena, it meant that he was issuing a challenge to the recipient!

A screen suddenly appeared around the arena, surrounding the whole thing. It was a protective barrier that would only disperse when the battle was over.

On the scroll that was floating in the air, the name Anders appeared beneath Carville's.

Anders looked at Carville with his head held high.

Carville narrowed his eyes, ignoring Anders' earlier challenge for a moment.

He evaluated Anders and guessed that Anders was probably around his level. The man was probably highly ranked among above-average warriors as well.

"You're just looking to die!" Carville said coldly.

Anders was completely nonchalant, “I was planning on becoming a recipient and standing on stage, but I really hate people who love to show off like you. After I heard what you said, I couldn’t hold myself back! I will teach you a lesson!”

Carville frowned. That man was mocking him for showing off. Suddenly, Carville felt himself burning with anger. There was a murderous air between the two of them. It seemed that this battle would not stop until someone was dead.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4088

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4088-“Does anyone know this Anders guy? I’ve never heard his name before. How strong is he? What world is he from?” Among the spectators, someone started to ask about Anders’ skills and background.

Anders was a highly ranked above-average warrior, there was no way he was an unknown person.

The other one quickly supplied an answer, “I know who he is! I think he’s from the Holy Peak Continent! He’s ranked highly among above-average warriors. I think his skills are around Carville’s level..”

“The two of them spoke so confidently, but I think Anders has a bit more faith in himself. He knew how strong Carville was, but he still dared to issue the challenge. It looks like he’s very confident in himself.”

“I hope Anders will be able to win! Even if he can’t kill Carville, it’ll at least teach Carville a lesson he’ll never forget. I hope Anders gives Carville a vicious slap on the face!”

What Carville said earlier had angered quite a lot of the participants. Quite a few of them were cheering for Anders.

The two of them seemed to be very ready, and confidence was written all over their faces. They looked at their opponents as if their opponents were already done for.

It was obvious that the two of them were incredibly confident in themselves, and that they had been thoroughly angered by the other side.

The battle was going to be very intense.

The two of them practically started their attacks at the same time. They started to quickly form seals with their hands, and countless seals danced in the air, making for a dizzying sight.

The seals from Carville were multicolored and looked like blooming flowers. Those seals formed a small vortex in the air, and cyclones suddenly started to rise from the ground.

Suddenly, the arena that had been made with special stones had a layer of green over them. Cracking sounds could be heard, and right after that, plants started to quickly grow on the stage, suddenly covering half the arena.

The flowers were all remarkably beautiful, and Carville looked like he was standing in a garden.

“This is the lower ultimate god rank technique, Bountiful Life! He actually managed to get it to the second stage. It’s even possible that he got to the third stage!” Someone who knew of the technique remarked in the audience.

When Jack heard of the name, he could not help but raise an eyebrow.

Bountiful Life?

The name sounded quite scenic, but Carville did not seem fit for a technique with that name at all!

Carville raised his hand, and countless petals suddenly started to fly into the air. The colorful petals seemed to resonate with each other in the air and started to flow around him.

Compared to Carville’s Bountiful Life, Anders’ technique was a lot more plain. The seals he formed danced around his fingertips, and two roars were suddenly heard.

The image of a green dragon floated on Anders’ right hand, while a white tiger floated on his left. The dragon and tiger looked incredibly impressive together.

Both of them glared right at their opponents.

Their verbal exchange earlier saw Anders pushing Carville down, so Carville was naturally not happy about it. He completely hated Anders at that moment.

Anders looked down on Carville as well, feeling like Carville was only good at bragging. The two of them did not like each other and wanted to kill each other.

Carville narrowed his eyes, “Just die!”

Right after he said that, he pushed his hands forward, and the petals turned into a cyclone that shot right at Anders.

Anders was naturally not afraid. He stepped forward and rushed right at those petals.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4089

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4089-In just a flash, Anders met that cyclone of petals. He did not even think about it before he punched forward, causing a loud boom!

A hole was blown into the cyclone, and a portion of the petals was blown away, falling right onto the ground.

Everyone could hear clinking sounds, as if needles had fallen on the ground. When they looked over, they saw that the petals that were blown away did not fall on the ground, but were instead stuck to it like knives. The petals sank two-thirds into the ground, and only a third of the petals were left visible.

Everyone was shocked at the sight. The flowers had appeared so beautiful and dazzling, not looking like they were all that destructive. Yet, the petals were even more destructive than weapons.

The ground was incredibly solid since it was made with special materials, but the petals still managed to penetrate it so deeply.

If those petals hit anyone’s body, that person would immediately have stumbled into a hornet’s nest!

Just as everyone was thinking about it, explosion after explosion was heard.

Anders never seemed to stop as he sent out punch after punch. In a flash, he had already punched out a few dozen times.

Punch after punch fell on that cyclone of petals. A part of the petals were blown away, while some of them were completely shattered. The dragon and tiger on Anders' fists seemed to look more and more realistic with each blow!

It seemed like no one was getting an upper hand from a glance, but upon closer inspection, one would notice that Anders seemed to be getting stronger and stronger, while Carville seemed to be remaining in the same state.

If that continued, Anders would probably end up ahead of Carville and win in the end. However, victory would not be that easy. After all, from that situation, it seemed like both of them were quite evenly matched.

Naturally, Anders could tell what was happening.

There was a mocking smile on his face as he constantly punched out, and he looked at Carville with a pleased expression. He could already see the results. As long as Carville fell into his hands, he would not let that braggart off easily!

He would teach him a vicious lesson and completely beat him up.

It was unfortunate that the challengers could not kill or leave any permanent injuries, or Anders would definitely have Carville begging for mercy!

At that moment, Carville suddenly let out a shout. He started to move his hands again and started to form some incredibly eye-catching seals. As petals entered Carville's back, the petals quickly combined to form an incredibly large flower.

"That's Carville's world avatar?" Someone said with widened eyes.

Lourain was not sure if that was correct, and turned to look at Jack.

Jack nodded when he felt Lourain's gaze.

The large, nameless flower behind Carville's back was his world avatar. Even though they were separated by a barrier, it was clear to see that the nameless flower was emitting laws of nature.

"Why are you getting so pleased with yourself? Did you think you could defeat me with your skills? Dream on, brat! Today, I'll show you that there are some people you should never offend!" Carville shouted out.

The petals that were dancing in the air suddenly emitted a radiant light, and a howling wind was summoned around them. These petals were pulled into the wind and suddenly ripped from the middle, breaking into two. Those two pieces ripped again, breaking into four.

After all the petals were ripped, they seemed immensely more powerful!

Carville quickly started to form seals again, and the petals gathered together before rushing right at Anders!

Anders frowned and started to feel the pressure.

Read No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4090

No. 1 Supreme Warrior Chapter 4090-However, he did not let that pressure get to him. It was just a world avatar. It was not like he did not have it.

After he scoffed, two illusions started to form behind him.

The illusions could not be seen clearly, but from the general shape, they were probably a dragon and a tiger. It was just like the two images on his hands. Anders let out a roar before he started to rear his fists at the petals that were coming toward him!

Bang! Bang! Bang!

Anders' fists moved incredibly fast, causing some afterimages.

The countless petals were blown away, but this time, the petals did not pierce into the ground after they were blown away. Instead, they quickly changed directions and attacked Anders yet again. The petals seemed to come at every single angle and were quickly swallowing Anders up.

At that moment, Carville suddenly shouted, "Explode!"

With a bang, countless petals suddenly exploded at the same time.

The intense explosion hit Anders' body, catching him completely off guard!

He merely felt an immense impact slamming into his body, causing pain all around him!

Before Anders could even react, six petals that were not blown away shot right over. Two of those petals were aiming at Anders' heart, and two at his left hand. Another one was aimed at his right hand, while the last one was at his core!

At that moment, Anders was still reeling from the intense explosion. The petals were incredibly quick as well, so Anders was not able to retreat at all. The petals had already pierced into Anders' body, and after they did, they started to quickly destroy his body.

Only then did Anders react.

He immediately summoned his true energy to suppress the injuries, and tried to force the petals out of his body!

At that moment, Anders was at his weakest. As long as Anders had enough time, he would be able to force the petals out, but there was no way Carville would allow Anders to do that.

Taking advantage of Anders' weakened state, Carville quickly attacked. He held a sword in hand as he shot forward.

Anders suddenly felt an intense murderous intent coming for him. He looked up to see the vicious glint in Carville's eyes.

Anders knew that his life was in danger, and did not dare to hesitate at all as he quickly tried to pull away from Carville, but he was already too late!

Carville pierced forward and pierced right into Anders' chest.

His chest had already been pierced by two petals. He had yet to suppress those petals, so Anders' sword worsened his injury. The pain almost caused him to lose his thoughts.

For the sake of his life, Anders violently bit the tip of his tongue, and blood immediately filled his mouth.

The pain woke him, and Anders pushed some more strength into his legs as he frantically retreated. He had finally managed to pull away from Carville with that last-ditch struggle!

Yet, Anders was already heavily injured at that moment.

Those petals were incredibly strange. After they entered his body, they were constantly unleashing violent energy into his body. He was forced to use most of his true energy to suppress them.

Yet, at that moment, Carville was completely unharmed.

It was already impossible for him to face Carville!

Even though Anders had pulled away, Carville refused to give Anders any hope of surviving, and continued to pursue him closely!

Carville was not slow, and Anders' body was in a terrible state at that moment. In just a few seconds, Carville caught up to Anders.

This time, the sword was aiming for a different target, and it pierced right at Anders' core!