

No.1 Supreme Warrior by Moneto

Chapter 4115

No one looked down on him due to his appearance.

Quite a few people greeted him in a friendly manner after seeing him as well. After all, his business was there for quite a few days, so he had gotten familiar with them.

Wellis had just stopped when quite a few people walked over. Some of them were trying to negotiate, while some of them were trying to ask about the situation inside.

Wellis frowned slightly, clearly a bit impatient. However, he held it back and responded to everyone.

"I didn't see anything particularly dangerous. There's definitely trouble. At around forty-five minutes in, we stumbled on an evil beast that disguised itself as a rock. Thankfully I reacted quickly enough and we were prepared. They made quite a bit this time. Other than what they gave me, they earned nine Evil Badges each on average."

Nine badges could get three points. Three points was nothing to Jack, but it was very important for regular warriors. For instance, three more points in the White Abyss would have gotten them a whole other level of training ground.

"Nine Evil Badges. I only managed to get three of them after going in two times. I only got one point!" A warrior from a third-grade world said with a wry look on his face.

The others sighed as well.

They were in the same boat. Quite a few of them had entered a lot of times, but they barely managed to get any badges.

Some of them only managed to get one. It was not even worth a single point.

"Everyone, I'll head into the Evil Plains after another fifteen minutes, but this will be the last time. After that, I'll leave this place and head to the next challenge," Wellis said loudly.

"You're going to leave? Why the hurry? Won't you stay for a few more days? The challenge here suits you. After leaving the Evil Plains, it'll be a lot harder for you to earn so many points," Someone said anxiously.

Most of the warriors did not want Wellis to leave at all. After all, they had all witnessed Wellis' ability.

Going into the Evil Plains with him meant a ninety percent chance of surviving. Even though his price was high, his skills were plain for all to see.

Wellis was no idiot. He knew that the Evil Plains suited him, but he had already stopped there for eight days. He felt like he had already spent enough time there.

There were many challenges in the Radiant Hall. He could not just stop there by himself. It was said that there was an opportunity to change one's destiny in the halls. He would just be wasting his chance if he remained there.

He thought about it for a long time before he decided on that. Nothing anyone said would change his decision.

He took a deep breath and said seriously, "You don't need to try and change my mind anymore. I know what all of you are saying, and I've thought about it as well. This is a decision I made after thinking about it for a long time."

After he said that, no one bothered anymore.

At that moment, since Wellis was about to leave, there was a big commotion.

Everyone started to feel conflicted. If they lose the chance to go in with Wellis this time, then there would be no more chances.

Wellis did not bother with the discussions around him. He had already made enough anyway. He had managed to earn over thirty points. He was already content with that.

Lourain anxiously tugged at Jack's sleeve, "Jack! This guy made such a killing. Why don't you lead teams as well? You'd definitely be much better than him. Not a single person you lead inside would die!"
