

No.1 Supreme Warrior by Moneto

Chapter 4125

With Jack at the helm, all they needed to do was kill a few stragglers around them before they managed to break through.

Ding! Ding! Ding!

There was a bell-like sound in the air. As more evil beasts died, the bell-like sound continued chiming!

Jack looked up to see Evil Badges falling from the air.

He finally remembered that Evil Badges would fall after evil beasts died. The stronger the evil beasts were, the more badges there would be.

At that moment, they were killing so many evil beasts that the Evil Badges were frantically dropping. Yet, no one was excited to see those badges at all. They had only one thought in mind, which was to escape the place as soon as possible!

Another evil beast was sent flying by Jack. There were no longer any evil beasts in front of him.

Jack turned to look at everyone before he shouted, "Follow me!"

Everyone summoned up all their strength and followed right behind Jack, trying to escape as quickly as possible!

Jack and the others ran ten kilometers in one go. The horde was completely left behind.

For some reason, after they rushed out, the horde had only chased after them for one kilometer before it slowly slowed down and stopped pursuing them.

Jack and the others stopped at around the twenty-seven-kilometer area.

Other than Jack, the rest of them were all completely exhausted. Even Wellis was panting roughly. He wiped away the sweat from his forehead before turning around to look at the empty plains.

Even though he knew that the beasts did not pursue them, he was still struggling to keep his calm. He could not understand what had happened just now.

Normally, those evil beasts lacked any intelligence. They were not even as intelligent as normal beasts. Since they were not intelligent, there was no way they could set any traps. Yet, they had clearly just experienced a trap. If Jack had not been so strong, all of them would have died there.

"The claws are poisonous!" The man in red robes said.

He ripped out a part of his sleeve before he looked at his wound.

Even though Jack was the main attacking force, the others were not holding back either. In the frantic battle, the man in red robes had been accidentally injured by a claw.

Jack looked at the wound on the man's arm.

The man had a pained expression, and the wound was deep enough that bone could be seen. The area around the wound was stained green, and the wound was rotting at a fast pace.

"Hurry up and use some pills! Let's rest here. Make sure you try your best to suppress the injury!" Jack said with a frown.

The man looked at Jack thankfully before he immediately sat down to treat himself!

He was not the only one hurt, but his injuries were the most severe.

Everyone was in a serious mood at that moment. Things had happened too quickly for them to process. They were clearly at the safest place outside of the transfer array. The beasts that could threaten them should all be at the areas over thirty kilometers!

Jack called out to everyone and had them rest. At that moment, even him could not be certain if they would face a life-threatening situation again.

"Ishak! Don't you always talk about how smart you are? This is your chance to prove it. What do you think happened to us just now? Were we just unlucky or is this the work of someone else?" Morul said as he clenched his chest.

The man called Ishak shook his head. His face paled as he widened his eyes slightly. He was still in a state of shock.
