

No.1 Supreme Warrior by Moneto

Chapter 4147

Jack coldly explained, "Rather than ask me, we should just try it out. If we can't succeed, then we'll figure something else out."

Those words were enough to console Zubac.

Zubac nodded before he started to summon his attribute again. Gray energy and golden energy started to get closer and closer in the air. The two energies got closer to each other under their control!

The two energies touched, and the golden energy started to mix with the gray energy. The two of them widened their eyes.

Could they really fuse them?

Before anyone could get excited, the golden energy immediately exploded!

Even though the explosion did not harm the two of them, it still meant that they had failed, and the two energies could not be fused.

Zubac shook his head in a despondent manner, "It looks like this is a failure too...."

Jack quietly looked at where the explosion happened.

At that moment, the two energies had already dispersed, and the explosion was no longer there. It was as if nothing had happened.

Jack was silent for a long time before he said, "This is definitely possible! We just didn't control it properly. The two energies clearly started to fuse initially."

Zubac looked at Jack's earnest expression before he thought about everything that happened. He felt like he was incredibly confused, and he could not figure everything out. However, he decided to pin his faith on Jack.

Jack was silent for a long time, "The metal attribute you have is at a different level of strength from my soul attribute! There was no balance since the powers were not equal. That's how the explosion happened."

Zubac frowned and thought about it for a while before agreeing.

Earlier, he had felt that Jack had a deep mastery of the soul attribute. That soul attribute's power was far much stronger than his metal attribute!

With the lack of equilibrium, it was impossible to maintain a balance.

Zubac took a deep breath, "Let's try again! This time, I'll make sure to summon up as much metal attribute as I can, and you'll have to reduce your power."

Jack nodded, and they started to try to fuse their powers again. This time, the two of them were fully focused, and the energy they controlled slowly fused.

A bang was the result of the following experiment.

The energies had failed to fuse again, but there was no disappointment in their eyes. Instead, they were incredibly excited.

The failure was because the two of them did not control the energy enough. They needed more chemistry with each other to control the attributes that flowed out. It was not that the method could not work.

Earlier, they had fused so much more than before. If the first time had ten percent progress, then the second time was twenty.

The two of them found a possible revenue of the attack and threw themselves into different tests again. They wasted two hours before they could fuse their energies.

When the two energies filled, the light turned into a dark golden color. It was like a gray shroud had been placed over the sky.

The two of them exchanged a look with each other before they nodded at each other. Then, they started to charge straight for the purple barrier!

Bang!

There were ripples on the barrier again, but the two of them held their breaths as they continued to observe, not even daring to blink.

After the ripples came out, it took a few moments for calm to return!

It was not just Jack and Zubac who had seen all of this. Everyone else who had been interested saw everything as well.

Everyone who saw the sight was incredibly surprised. They practically stood up at the same time as they quickly walked to Jack.