

No.1 Supreme Warrior by Moneto

Chapter 4148

"It's different! It was different from before! Oh my god, there's finally something different!" Someone shouted out.

Even though the purple barrier just caused ripples before returning to its original state, this time was still different.

Before this, the ripples only lasted for a few moments. This time, it made even more ripples than before, and it lasted for longer as well!

Now, no one doubted Jack anymore.

Practically everyone rushed over. Those results were basically the biggest progress in the past five days. Before this, nothing happened no matter what they tried.

"How did you two do it? The two of you were trying to do something for so long. How exactly did you cause so many ripples on the purple barrier?"

Everyone there was incredibly curious. They had looked into it for so long and tried so many things, but nothing happened in the end.

There had been no hope at all. That was why everyone felt so defeated. That was why some of those people mocked everyone who was trying as well.

Normally, Jack would never have bothered answering those questions. However, this situation was different. He could not break the formation alone. He needed everyone's help to break the formation.

He patiently started to explain everything.

When they heard it, they had looks of excitement on their faces. So the key was that the barrier would only react to the energy that was fused with several attributes.

Suddenly, quite a few of them were very eager to try.

Looking at how excited everyone was, Jack raised his voice again, "We need to be incredibly patient with this. Fusing attributes needs a lot of time and effort, and you'll constantly fail. Everyone, please be patient! Only then will we be able to break out."

Everyone nodded vigorously, seeing Jack's words as gospel. After being trapped for so many days and going through so many failed attempts, they were all already in immense pain. They were all afraid for the future and worried that they would end up losing their lives there.

They finally got a bit of hope, so they would naturally see the person who offered that hope as their leader. Jack's words were very effective at this point.

No one questioned him at all. Even Farrow, who seemed so antagonistic earlier, nodded along with everyone else.

Some of them started to try to fuse their attributes with those behind them. Initially, there were plenty of failures. Slowly, they started to get used to it, and their success started to increase.

"The main point of the Attribute Trap Formation is attributes. We should focus on that. We need everyone to fuse their attributes together! Only then will we be able to break out!"

Those words ignited the passion in everyone's hearts. A lot of people needed to fuse their attributes together, so they knew that it would be incredibly difficult and that they would go through many failures.

However, at that moment, no one cared how many times they had failed. The most important thing was that all of them had hope. As long as they had hope, they did not care about some failures.

If once was not enough, then they would do it twice. If twice was not enough, then thrice. The plaza was absolutely bustling as they started to fuse their energies again and again!

Everyone started to forget how much they have failed. They could vaguely remember that about two days had passed before they could finally maintain a balance.

Everyone's attributes were gathered together into a white light!

Jack frowned!

Either failure or success was about to be evident. If they failed to break the formation even with this, then even he did not know what they needed to do after this.