Chapter 4165

Jack looked at the other two meaningfully.

He thought for a moment before he said, "Alright! Bring me over right now!"

Lourain widened his eyes. He had thought that Jack would ignore them for the sake of finding that door. Yet, Jack had actually agreed.

Cavill was incredibly happy when Jack agreed. Then, he immediately stood up and pulled Soare toward the east, as if he was afraid that Jack would regret it.

Jack followed closely behind, and the four of them headed toward the east.

After five minutes, they started to see Cavill's fellow disciple, Saunders.

Saunders was in a very bad state at that moment. His body looked like it had been sprayed with acid. There were rotting scars everywhere, and his clothes were completely torn apart. He lay on the ground and was barely able to breathe, his face completely pale.

Cavill panicked when he saw Saunders' state.

He immediately rushed over and helped Saunders up, "Saunders, are you alright?! How did this happen?"

Saunders looked at Cavill and suddenly reached out with hope.

He grabbed Cavill's arm and used all his strength to say, "Shin was caught by Presti while he was protecting me! Go save him! If you're too late, then he's done for!"

Cavill's expression looked murderous.

Soare quickly took out a pill from his storage and fed it to Saunders.

After Saunders took the pill, he slowly regained his breath, but the situation was still not promising!

It was not the time to wallow in his anger. Cavill suddenly looked up at Jack hopefully.

Naturally, Jack knew what Cavill wanted.

He nodded slightly, "Give me a direction, and I'll go over right now."

Around five kilometers away from them, Presti had his foot on Shin's chest, "I'll give you one last chance. If you hand it over, then I'll let you off! If you decide to be stubborn until the end, then you know the consequences!"

Shin spat out a mouthful of blood.

He was absolutely furious at that moment, "Don't think I'm an idiot! I know that you'll kill me even if I give you the key!"

Presti scoffed and raised his eyebrow before saying, "You're quite smart. You're right, even if you give me the key, I'll still kill you! However, you should know that I'll give you a quick death if you hand the key over. Otherwise, you'll regret still being alive. I'll make you experience hell on earth."

Presti knelt, his face almost touching Shin.

Shin could clearly see the ruthlessness in Presti's eyes. He believed that Presti would do what he said.

Shin refused to cooperate. Even with his situation, he did not want to just give up. That wooden box had been worth over forty points, and a red key was inside when he opened it. Even though he did not know what the key was meant for, he knew that it was definitely very valuable. It could even change his life.

Yet, he never expected those shameless and despicable people to have caught up to him just on his second day in the Hunting Plains.

Thankfully, he still had some skills. When he saw that the situation was bad, he managed to protect Saunders and let Saunders flee.
