

Sweet love 1031

Chapter 1031

For some reason, Luther had a bad feeling in his heart.

Ms. Armstrong had just handed over Joyce's pendant to him, and surprisingly she disappeared. What could that mean?

He asked all the staff up and down the orphanage, and no one knew about what happened that year when Charlotte was taken away by the Heath family.

In his extreme disappointment, he was informed that there was once a cleaner, who had now resigned, and she might know a little bit of the inside story.

After he knew that, he used his connections.

The cleaner's current address was soon found to be a dilapidated house on the outskirts of Khebury.

Today, Luther woke up early.

He drove to the outskirts of Khebury.

He found that house easily, and he soon found the cleaner, Mrs. Barr.

just retired that year and took a part-time job in the orphanage to earn time in her life that she had seen such a dignified upper class person like Luther, who drove a luxury car that she had never seen loss for words, her wrinkles were all tangled together, and the orphanage had called her in advance in the morning and said that Mr. Warner, the patron of the orphanage, would prepared for saw the legendary richest man, Mr. Warner, she couldn't help but feel wanted to ask you about of the dilapidated house, with the musty smell wafting around and the rotting smell of garbage that hadn't been and forced himself to hold back anyone to handle Joyce's matter, so he did everything you, how are you? How may I help you?"

Capital was looking for their lost daughter, they found the Khebury Orphanage, and finally they identified Charlotte as their daughter. How much he handed Mrs. Barr the handbag opened it and it was it, but of course, with one condition. Whatever I ask you today, you

Wrong marriage and sweet love (Joyce and Luther)

Chapter 1032

"Are you sure that there were a total of two girls who fit the description of the Heath family?" Luther tried to confirm.

"Well, of course. After all, it was twenty years ago. In addition to those who had remained and grown up in the orphanage, there had been quite a lot of children who were adopted, and some were even adopted by foreigners. Ms. Armstrong checked pretty carefully."

Mrs. Barr recalled, "In the year when the Heath family lost their child, several children were taken into the orphanage. And then we ruled out the boys, those abandoned by their parents, those transferred from other orphanages, and those born and left in the hospital. At the end there were just two left, Charlotte and Joyce. Well, that's should be the number."

"And then what? Why did the Heath family decide it was Charlotte?" Luther pursued .

"As I recall, the Heath family initially seemed to say they had a token, but it was too long ago for Ms. Armstrong to really find it. At that time Charlotte and Joyce seemed to be in college, so they rarely came back to the orphanage. Now the technology is advanced, and you can check that ... What is that again?" Mrs. Barr struggled to think.

"Paternity test, DNA," Luther reminded

"Yes, yes, yes, that's it!" Mrs. Barr nodded hastily, "I seem to remember it all. Since I'm usually in charge of cleaning Ms. Armstrong's room and office, I know a little bit about all these things."

came that night.

something had heartbeat jumbled for no

was four years ago?" He asked tentatively, "But it's alright if you and it was hard to remember for anyone, and he did not

I had to prepare a lot of tributes for Green Tara's birthday.

Luther froze.

hurriedly took out his phone and his hand couldn't

could he forget

Chapter 1033

It was only then that Joyce was hurt again and again.

God, it turned out that this was the source of all the suffering.

To his surprise, it all began with the lost daughter of the Heath family.

Unexpectedly, today's unexpected harvest had revealed the hidden story back then.

"Mr. Warner?" Mrs. Barr, when she saw Luther was in deep thought, could not help but interrupt him, "What is the matter with you?"

"Oh, nothing. Please go on." Luther was snapped out of it, "And then what happened? They weren't even there that night and then what?"

Mrs. Barr thought for a while, "Then, about a few days later... I can't remember exactly how many days, but Ms. Armstrong rescheduled an appointment with them. I think it was in the afternoon. They both showed up that day. They offered their hair and nails to Ms. Armstrong."

Heaths there the day Ms.

Barr shook her head, "I still have some memory of Ms. Armstrong saying the Heaths didn't come because they had been disappointed too many times in the last twenty years to have expectations and didn't want to disturb "Hmm." Luther could understand.

the orphans who were already leading a normal and peaceful life. Moreover, Cecelia had lost her to the orphanage to provide their hair about the rest. Mr. Warner, I've told the case,

process was just

could not find remembered something and added, "By the way, Mr. Warner, I remembered that Joyce came to the orphanage in a hurry and then left again

Joyce was always running to St. Maria Hospital to

Chapter 1034

Charlotte was such a cunning woman.

If she knew the opportunity was in front of her, how could she let it go?

On that day, Ms. Armstrong only let them both provide hair and nails, and Joyce left first.

What if it was Ms. Armstrong who got the wrong hair and nail samples? Or, Charlotte might have switched the samples with her own hands!

Charlotte could totally do something like this!

It was exactly what Charlotte would do.

Luther clutched the steering wheel, squeezing it tighter and tighter.

The knuckles and the veins on the back of his hand were clearly visible.

Joyce left first to go to St. Maria Hospital to take care of Justin, while Charlotte invited Ms. Armstrong to dinner that day.

Why would Charlotte be so kind? Would she invite Ms. Armstrong to dinner? With his knowledge of Charlotte, she was so evil-minded and scheming, and would never invite Ms. Armstrong for a meal for nothing.

Damn it!

his fist on

have been so shameless to take Joyce's place and pretend to have saved

that there was a bigger always so outstanding, whether it was her look or temperament, and she must not have been born ordinary, not to mention how good Joyce could shoot. What a hardly find anything good about Charlotte. While she pretended to be soft and lovely, she were, completely,

was more like Cecelia and more more, now Ms. Armstrong had found had verified that the Silversword pattern on it was the emblem of this not to be the last thing. The paternity test. What exactly could go wrong back pressed down hard on the sped out like an arrow off

where Ms. Armstrong

He knew!

powerful families, like the Heath family, could only send samples was, and he decided, now, immediately, to get there right

He was constantly slamming on the gas and running over two hours

Chapter 1035

However, according to their rules, they could never reveal the information of the client.

He opened his mouth, forced by Luther's overwhelming aura, but he did not know how to answer.

"Yes, we did, but ..." Joe finally stammered.

"If it's been difficult for you, call Mrs. James out." Luther did not want to make things difficult for him and directly named the top leader of Khebury Analysis Center, Mrs. James.

Mrs. James, aged fifty, was a smart and capable woman in the workplace who was very close to the Warner family. She was once helped by his grandmother, and later had a good relationship with his mother Jacqueline.

"Okay." Someone knew better than to refuse him and rushed to call Mrs. James.

In a short time, Mrs. James came out from inside the office.

When she saw that it was Luther, she exclaimed, "Oh, my God, Mr. Warner!

"Mrs. James, how are you? I hope you don't mind but I do need your help."

Luther said politely.

want to make it difficult for your staff,

Stephanie died, and they still have not solved the case. When came to Khebury in search of their daughter, who had been lost for more than 20 years. I heard that a DNA paternity test was done. I

Mrs. James froze.

idea why Mr. Warner would want the Warner family, which was later canceled when something happened at the engagement party, and her head. Although the Heath family was too powerful to be offended, after all, they were now far away in the Capital,

"No problem, Mr.

involved back then in the case, back then. There are two other assistants, and I'll call them up all of you go to my

Mrs. James asked as she woman, called Miss Lee by everyone, cautiously approached Mrs. James with some hesitation and a torn

Chapter 1036

Khebury Analysis Center.

Joe, Joe's two assistants and Miss Lee, as well as Mrs. James and Luther, all came into the office.

Mrs. James locked the office door and pressed the remote control to close the blinds.

In this way, they were completely isolated from the outside world.

"Mr. Warner, please rest assured. My office has special soundproofing equipment. Nothing we say can ever be heard outside." Mrs. James pointed to the couch, "Mr. Warner, please sit down."

Luther nodded gently and then sat down on the sofa.

Mrs. James followed suit and sat down opposite him.

run through it and start from the beginning. Joe, can you tell us what happened when the Heath family was looking for their lost kid and sent

I've just said, laying the two reports in the report and two samples. After repeated testing and comparison, one of the samples sent the genetic test

of heredity and the paternity probability

the report

the time?"

the conclusion came out, we immediately informed the Heath family. We said we would send the report to them, when the old Mr. Heath insisted on coming to pick up lightly, "I'm not saying you're wrong. I'm just asking if there could be anything think about it

Wrong marriage and sweet love (Joyce and Luther)

Chapter 1037

"At that time, you told Rodney?" Mrs. James noticed a difference in Luther's expression, when his handsome face became gloomy and dangerous, and she felt something was coming with a woman's sixth sense.

It may not be a mistake of the identification center, but there must be something wrong.

"Yes, after I asked around, I told Rodney that the other girl's name was Joyce," Miss Lee replied affirmatively.

"What was Rodney's reaction when he heard about it?" Mrs. James asked again.

After four months, he came back to ask about the paternity test. Did the old Mr. Heath find something wrong?

"Mrs. James, at that time the old Mr. Heath was very calm. He immediately got up to leave, and before he left, he specifically asked me not to tell anyone that he had come." Miss Lee carefully recounted.

office was extraordinarily hot and stuffy, so hot that there was a thin layer of sweat on Miss Lee's forehead. She raised her sleeve his long eyes narrowed in inquire about the name of the other girl from back then. What could this mean? Did it mean Rodney must have first place? Why did he not continue as the Heath stammered because Rodney asked you to keep it a secret? You dare not say it? This is actually nothing at all? They have the right to know about the at Miss Lee's tangled expression, "Do you, in lip, lowered her head and twisted her hands helplessly, "It's a big deal, anyone, for that matter, be able to hurt you." Luther's

Wrong marriage and sweet love (Joyce and Luther)

Chapter 1038

Yes, it didn't occur to him that Rodney did die during that time, when he visited the Heath residence to offer his condolences.

He went to the downtown mansion of the Heath family with Jacqueline and Shelly early the next morning after Rodney's accident.

He stood up and repeatedly paced around Mrs. James' office with a strained expression.

Mrs. James seemed to have thought of something and waved her hand, indicating Joe and his two assistants to leave first.

She, Miss Lee, and Luther were the only ones left in the room.

Outside the office, the morning was bright and sunny, but suddenly became gloomy. Thick clouds soon covered the sun. Only some dim silent and miserable light could leak out from the clouds.

Originally the day was a little cold, but because the heater was turned in the office, they could not notice the slightest chill, but increasingly hot.

atmosphere was becoming more

James simply stood up and turned off stairs in the evening, and unfortunately died. It was said that Rodney was trying to go downstairs to answer the phone when he slipped and fell and Rodney leave the center?" Luther suddenly stopped and file was over four years ago, at 3:20 p.m. Plus the old Mr. Heath said a few words to me and left before four o'clock." Miss Lee affirmed, just

James, this matter has been kept my heart for many years, and I can finally say it today,

James praised, "It's our duty to protect our client's privacy, but when it's time to talk, you can't hide it. You did a good job. Don't worry, there's Mr. Warner before four o'clock and went home certainly before five o'clock. In the evening, he fell down the stairs and the matter is very important.

Miss Lee nodded reassuringly.

a secret for me. If necessary, I "Good." Mrs. James obliged.

Chapter 1039

Too unusual! Was he killed? Was it possible?

Who would be so bold? Who would dare to kill Rodney, the head of the military?

Rodney might be old, but he was still strong and ordinary people might not be able to take his life easily, unless Rodney was not on alert?

But who could it be? Could it be someone close to Rodney?

He thought of Ricky, who had always been with Charlotte.

He even thought of Charlotte. After all, after Rodney found out the truth, it was Charlotte who had the most benefit from his death. It had been four years, and she was still enjoying her life as the daughter of the Heath family.

Was she?

He would be so shocked by the evil of human nature if it was really her.

After he left the identification center...

He looked unusually calm. He was pensive and stony and no one could ever know what was going on in his mind.

He walked along the road, aimlessly, and even forgot to drive. He looked at the familiar road, but at the moment it looked so strange that he even forgot he was in Khebury.

what else could he do? And where should he

he could not hear the endless flow of cars on the road, know exactly what it bit more coolness and handsomeness to his chiseled silhouette. The girls passing around, all could not help but cover their lips and to a halt and stood in the missing and Rodney

that he had found all the clues, but then lost to pretend he did not know Zora was Joyce. But how could he confirm who was really the daughter of the Heath family, and how could he could not just told the case he was wrong, he would Joyce was more like a Heath, and her temperament was more like that of

She was natural sharpshooter.

the family also once

was the emblem of the Hurley

the two left their hair and nails, and it was entirely

Chapter 1040

The Capital.

The downstream of the reservoir.

A scavenger, who was picking up plastic bottles washed ashore by the lake, was walking along the shore when he suddenly saw what appeared to be a large bag next to a boulder not far ahead, rising and falling with the waves.

He hurried up to the front, expecting something good.

Unexpectedly, after a closer look it turned out to be a corpse. Face down, the body was soaked and swollen, and the scattered hair and weeds were undulating with the waves.

"Ah!!!" The scavenger shouted, frightened, his face turned, and he fled.

Municipal Government Chief Secretary Office.

Juanita was organizing the materials for a meeting from the previous day.

It was a quiet morning. The golden sunlight was softly shining in, and everything seemed incredibly peaceful.

ringing of the phone broke all the working at full attention when she was disturbed by the then picked up the the Capital Police Station. You reported a missing case earlier. This morning someone found a body downstream of the reservoir, and her height, body type and clothing matched what you the phone, the police department staff

first froze, and her heart missed a beat, "Yes, I'll

She had been worried for several days in a row, and in fact, she had thought in her heart, something enough, what she and headed straight to the Capital

Upon her arrival...

Phillips led her to the morgue and opened the pulled open, she found the person lying inside was indeed Ms.

when seeing the body, she had been much calmer. Although the body had is that the person you contact the Khebury police station and ask them to send someone over. Ms. Armstrong is from Khebury and her information and files