Chapter 1331

Luther got up and he too went to wash briefly and when he returned he found that Joyce had fallen asleep with Andres in her arms.

The night light is still on.

She did not sleep soundly and her brow was slightly furrowed.

He lay down beside Andres and tucked them in. Reaching out, he stroked her long brow, stretching it in a nice curved arc.

Let her get a good night's sleep.

Tomorrow, we will wake up with a lot of new things to face.

The next day.

A sleep until nine o'clock, Joyce woke up to find Andres sleeping between them, she and Luther left and right to protect Andres, no wonder Andres slept well later last night.

When she woke up, Luther was awakened as well.

He sat up and said with concern, "How are you feeling? You didn't catch a cold last night?"

After using breakfast.

Joyce had a hard time getting Anderson to play the game and called Kane to come over and keep him company.

This was the first time I dared to go out with Luther to visit Julia in the hospital.

The company's main business is to provide a wide range of products and services to its customers.

Joyce nodded, leaving it to Kane, she was naturally at ease.

It is Luther, a rare open mouth to say thank you, "hard work."

Kane glanced at Luther, although Joyce and Luther together, he still very much in the matter, but also had to recognize, after all, no matter what, people are only a family of three. He blindly involved in what?

"It's not hard, it's what I'm supposed to do. Besides, I had a part in bringing up Andres as a child." Kane's words are inevitable.

Luther's face changed.

This is his biggest regret, not being able to see Anderson born and grow up with him.

Joyce saw that the atmosphere was not right and hurriedly dragged Luther away.

When I walked in, both Cecelia and Michal were there.

Luther came forward and greeted, "Hi Mom, Auntie, how are you?"

Joyce also came up to say hello.

Michal's eyes were obviously swollen, but she was clearly looking much better, and she couldn't stop holding Julia's hand. When she saw Joyce, she complimented her, "Cecelia, this is your daughter. She looks just like you did back then. I've always wanted a daughter, and it's so easy to have a daughter-in-law ..."

At this point, she choked up again.

Cecelia quickly reassured, "It's going to be fine, Dr. Price came by this morning and stuck the needle. He's also seen all the surgical records and CT films. We'll get other specialists together today to look at it. It's going to be fine. You see, I was in a coma for so long, but I also woke up. Don't think too much, everything will be fine."

Michal nodded and gently wiped away the tears at the corners of her eyes.

"I really like Julia in particular. I'm still waiting to hold my grandchildren. As for me, get married properly ... I've been looking forward to it for so many years ..."

People have arrived.

Joyce, Luther, Karl, and Chris, and Cecelia didn't come because she was with Michal.

Karl flung a thick stack of information onto the table.

"Here's what I've recently gathered, all about Otis and his henchmen."

"That's a lot." Chris had a headache when he read the document, "Tell me the key points. I hate reading these things, it gives me a headache."

"So yeah. What are you guys going to do?" Chris bristled.

"Mr. Clark, who we got rid of, was the main helper of Otis. But then the person who gave Otis financial support was Mr. Henderson of the Henderson family bank ..."

As Karl spoke, Joyce suddenly interrupted.

"Justin, I'll get in touch with him. It should break Otis' fortune."

When Luther heard this, his eyes tightened. When it comes to Justin, he always has an inexplicable irritation.

"Otis also has a financial link to Senator Hughes, who primarily assists Otis in making connections with dignitaries and providing funding to Otis. For meetings like this one between Otis and Euan, Senator Hughes was a big part of the process," says Karl. Karl says.

"If I remember correctly, Senator Hughes and your father-in-law, Governor Lin, now Senator Sanchez, the two of them were deadly rivals." Luther asked.

"Yeah, that means you." Karl nodded.

"Are you kidding me?" Chris slapped the table, "Why should I go? Me? You want me to approach a girl? You guys are crazy. I won't do it!"

"Good-looking and attractive, you guys are asking me to seduce?" The more Chris thought about it, the angrier he got, pointing at Luther, "Why not let him go? Isn't he good-looking?"

By this time, Chris was finally willing to admit that Luther was good looking.

"And you, you're good looking too, why don't you go?" Chris pointed at Karl and became more dissatisfied.

What are all the bad ideas?

"Ahem, wait a minute, let me ask, Senator Hughes is over forty this year, how come he has a sister who is only twenty-two years old?" Joyce asked in confusion.

Luther wondered, "Why is that? Is there any particular reason?"

Chris took the photo and gave it a disdainful look.

Alvonia has a lot of girls with this kind of look, not particularly beautiful, what's so unusual.

For him, it was nothing but a drop in the bucket.

He threw the photo on the table, "here the Hurley troops so many people, and not everyone in Otis over there on the number, just find someone to go."

Karl said, "If Mr. Hurley really doesn't want to, I won't force him, it's just a proposal, Mr. Hurley doesn't have to take it to heart."

Next, he answered Luther's question, "Mr. Warner, this Nina, I've done some research. Her past is actually rather miserable, her mother was a shady mistress. After entering the Hughes family, she was bullied to death by Senator Hughes' mother. After her death, she did not even have a decent grave, and her ashes were casually placed in the cemetery hearse. It was only after Senator Hughes' mother's death that her family began to pay attention to her, feeding her and giving her education. She was discreet, and perhaps because of this, Senator Hughes took a special interest in her."

"You need a plan for this?" Chris found it unbelievable, "Aren't you people too stubborn to do anything?"

"Of course you need a plan." Luther looked at Chris with amusement, "Do you know what school Nina goes to? Where does she live and what kind of transportation does she use to get to school? Where do you pass every day? What are the regular places she goes? What are her hobbies? What are her special interests? Do you know?"

It's hard to gauge the hearts of people.

As the saying goes, you don't know who you are.

People still have to make accurate judgments only after they have contacted each other and penetrated deep inside each other.

"So, what does Mr. Hurley plan to do after hearing all this analysis?" Joyce asked.

Chris gave it some thought.

"I first followed her for two days, looking for an opportunity to see if I can put a bug on her bag, or other items, and after getting to know her a bit, then according to her preferences, cast her, and find an opportunity to meet with her."

"After gaining some trust, the main thing is to be informed that she keeps things there. Then we find a way to obtain it. This should be the most trouble-free way and, moreover, I can avoid a deep friendship with her. It doesn't matter whether she is really sinful, or has been traumatized in her heart, or is a sincere convert to Catholicism and wants to become a nun. I don't think it has much to do with us. Karl did not have access to Eugene.

He asked, "What makes you think that?"

Joyce took a sip of water, "Intuition, every time I see Eugene, it always feels like he has more fear than respect for Otis. Especially the last two times I saw Eugene, this feeling is stronger than ever."

She thought for a moment, "The eyes, mostly the eyes made me think. If it is worship, is respect, from the heart of loyalty, not such a look. Eugene's eyes, showing a hint of fear."

"You're saying that Eugene may have leverage, or someone important, in Otis's hands, and therefore has to be loyal?" Luther asked.

"Maybe. Maybe it's just me. But it's worth exploring." Joyce stood up, "Anyway, I'll figure this one out."

"Joyce can you just stop? Is it appropriate for you to do these things?" Luther got angry on the spot.

Again and again involved in the risk, he felt that his heart was about to explode, day by day so on, sooner or later he died of heart failure.
