Chapter 1361

Luther a black line, he comforted a few sentences, she also came to energy.

He began to protect Justin, and a worried look, he looked extremely unhappy.

"He's an adult, he knows what he's doing. joyce, you're way out of your depth." He was not pleased.

"Care too much? How can I ignore this when it's all because of me?" Joyce looked at him with surprise, "You're being too careful, there's nothing between Justin and me. It's purely for security reasons."

With that she was about to stand up.

Luther held her down with one hand, "What are you doing? You want to go again now? Don't you see what time it is? It's long past lunchtime. Have you had lunch?"

Joyce frowned, "I'm not hungry, I ate some snacks on the way."

"Look at you, you don't take yourself too seriously. You don't take good care of your own body either, worrying about this and that all day long. Can you take care of yourself first?" Luther said, "Three bad meals are not good for your stomach and intestines."

Joyce raised an eyebrow, "First my company, merged into the R&S Group office, the next step is to buy? Take it for yourself, your calculations are really good."

Luther couldn't help but laugh and reached out to pinch her cheek.

"You're teasing me? You're all mine, and I'm going to annex your company?"

He took her into his arms, fed her a bite with a spoon, and putty in her ear, "If you are not satisfied. You can do this, let JK Intelligence, annex R&S Group, OK? I will help you operate. Don't forget, you still hold the shares of R&S Group, which is still valid. It's not difficult to annex it."

Joyce almost choked.

Thanks to him for thinking of it.

"What are you talking about, boring." She rebuked slightly.

He wrapped his arms tighter, "No boredom, I'm yours, all of mine is yours. Whenever you want to annex me, you can. Even the person, with the company, whatever."

He sat in the back seat of the bus, stretching his long legs and surveying Nina who had just boarded the bus .

It's still pretty much the same style of dress as before, set in stone.

He spat in his heart, really an old-fashioned woman. The woman is obviously in her early twenties, but she has to make herself look like an old nun.

Yes, the nun. I heard she wanted to be a nun, didn't she? He did think it was a good match.

When Nina got on the bus, the seats were empty, but she didn't sit down.

Keeping his head down, he gripped the vertical bar nearest the car door as if he was always ready to escape through the back door.

Chris wondered, could it be that last time on the bus, he shouted at her to give up her seat and later he helped her out.

She is too scared to even sit in the seat now?

Not so much.

But apparently, the current situation proves that he was right in thinking.

He rubbed his temples, God, how serious was this woman's condition?

The bus stopped at the platform as scheduled.

Chris froze.

It was the first time he heard her voice. The ethereal feeling is somewhat similar to what he imagined.

Nina put the items she was holding into the basket, turned quickly, and went to the checkout area.
Instead of choosing to check out manually, she settled at the self-checkout counter.

One by one, she scanned the items and paid for them.

Chris took a bottle of mineral water and followed her, pretending to check out as well, and waited quietly.

He walked through all the area and followed her into the convenience store before it dawned on him that there were convenience stores near the school. The reason she chose this one was because it was the only one with self-service checkout.

He couldn't help but stammer, she really wasn't willing to touch people at all.

Nina finished the check, she knew there was someone behind her and moved out of the way.

Then she walked out of the convenience store.

"?" Sean raised his tone, a little incredulous, "Nina ? Fourth year of college, feelings or school sister, not little sister. Yo, there's such a beauty hidden in the school for so many years, I actually didn't know? Haha, that's ridiculous."

When he takes a step closer, Nina takes a step back.

He was more energetic, "Hello, you are really a child, I thought you were a new student. I've never talked to a sister before."

He tries to move his hands and Nina avoids it.

Sean laughed, "Don't hide, you're wearing glasses, you've been hiding in this school for four years, you've never been in contact with boys, right? Don't be afraid, let me teach you, how about it?"

"Tsk, tsk, tsk." He reached out and touched Nina's short hair, "I've found a treasure today. It's not bad to have a sister-brother relationship. It's a shame to be so pretty and blocked."

After that, he reached out and took off Nina's glasses.

In one fell swoop, Nina's small, palm-sized, delicate face was completely exposed to Sean.

Sean After the gang left.

Chris picked up the glasses on the floor and gave them back to Nina.

Rarely does Nina run away at first, she puts on her glasses with her head down and stares at the shoes under Chris's feet.

Then said, "Thank you."

Chris laughed, "A thank you for helping you so much and that's all? Ha, say you don't know how to be polite, you really don't know how to be polite?"

"Also, it's disrespectful to not look at each other when you talk, understand? Didn't your parents teach you that?"

Nina hesitated for a moment.

As if torn for a long time, she finally slowly lifted her head and looked at Chris .

In fact, she recognized him, the man who helped her on the bus last time. Although he was wearing different shoes today, he had a distinctive scent, like the fresh smell of some kind of grass, which she would not forget after smelling.

Not for the first time, you can see the face of the man in front of you.

She contained a timid expression, but was not as scared as last time. She tried desperately to control her trembling.

He wrapped his arms around her waist and took her with him was the best way to go.

He didn't want to part with her for a minute.

"I'm going back with you?" Joyce looked at him in surprise, "Why, I don't want to."

He hoisted her tighter, "Why, marry your husband and follow him, Khebury is your home."

Joyce, "..."

He coaxed, "You can't stay at the Capital for the rest of your life, don't you want to go home for a visit?"

"Home? Which one is my home? Your mansion in the city, the Warner residence, or the Eden Apartment, they're all your place, okay?" She asked with a sarcastic laugh.

On Sunday, there was a light rain in the morning.

The stone pavement in front of the Catholic Church was a little damp, and the sky was clear and bright blue as the breeze blew by.

It is a domed cathedral, snow-white all over, revealing itself as a holy place. Beautiful sculptures can be seen everywhere, colorful glazed windows are decorated, and devout Catholics flock to the church when the holy sound is heard.

It was the first time Chris had ever been to church.

How could he, who had always revered the command of force, believe in such things as religion? So, in his impression, believe in these, either ignorant or guilt-ridden, looking for spiritual support.

I don't know which one Nina belongs to.

He arrived a little earlier and watched from a distance until he saw a white figure appear and his eyes tightened.

It's Nina coming.

Today she wore a pure white tunic and a pure white coat, like an ethereal and holy maiden. She carefully stepped on the green stone pavement and reverently walked into the Catholic Church.

Chris followed in.

As he spoke, he deliberately turned sideways and lifted a corner of his shirt hem so that the older nuns could clearly see the butt of the gun pinned to his waist. With a few hints of warning.

"I... I'm her mentor. She, she has passed the pre-selection. Now submit the form and she will be able to enter the seminary for further study next month." The elderly nun replied with extreme calmness.

my God, what kind of man did Nina, who she always thought of as pure and loving, attract?

"Enter the seminary and become a nun like you?" Chris, who was completely ignorant of these rules, frowned and felt repulsed inside. Looking at the old nun's deadly appearance in front of him, he thought that Nina was going to become like that too. The heart inexplicably revolts.

"No." The nun replied, "She has to study at the Junior College for six years, be baptized, and become a full-fledged nun only after she meets the requirements."

"Well, don't let her know about what I asked today." Chris handed the application back to the nun, "Otherwise, I can't guarantee what I'll do. Blow up the place, it's possible."

The older nun was startled and cowered in fear.

She turned around and fled at a trot.

Chris looked at the nun's fleeing back speechlessly, saying what she really believed. This is not Alvonía, how can he easily blow up the church.

Chris has never done a beamer in his life.

Nina's villa, the surrounding area is relatively empty, if not very close, you can not hear the unusual movement inside.

He wouldn't have discovered the secret if he wasn't curious.

He watched Senator Hughes' car drive back.

Then several flamboyant women get out of the car and follow Senator Hughes quietly into the villa.

He observed that Nina's room was on the north side of the second floor because the light had been on since Nina came home.

Nina's father, whose room is on the south side of the first floor, and the rest of the first floor, which is all Senator Hughes' room.

After these women went in, they were on the first floor, and made a lot of noise for a long time in a ridiculous way.

It simply does not bear to bet.

Chris had to admire how Nina managed to keep her ears and eyes open on the second floor. How did she stay out of it? He suddenly understood how Nina's male-phobia came about, with such a father and such a brother in the family, playing with women with abandon every day.

No wonder she avoids men like snakes and scorpions.

It is also justifiable.
