Chapter 1451

Sure enough, Athena reached out to touch the top of Fair's head.

Fair subconsciously avoided it, with a defensive face.

Athena grimaced even more and yanked Fair to her feet, forcibly stroking the top of her head.

"Stop acting, it's over. The mission was completed well oh. Say, what kind of reward do you want? I'll take you with me and reunite with my sister later, OK?"

Athena's words were like a boulder dropped on a calm lake.

Make a wave.

Ophelia's eyes were wide open, and Athena had even spared the child.

It is also necessary to plant the seeds of doubt in the minds of young children.

The current situation is more like Fair betrayed Anderson in order to be with his sister.

Fair froze and looked at Athena in disbelief, "What mission? Where the hell is my sister?"

Athena reached out and pinched Anderson's cheek.

Regretfully shook his head, "little brother, keep in mind oh, the world's most untrustworthy, is the words of women. How? Think about it, is she the one who tricked you out?"

Nina since the rehearsal.

She soon gained recognition at the Capital Jennifer College of Music. She was privately named a talented violinist.

For Nina, her weaknesses are her knowledge of music theory, and the history of music development.

When other professors held music theory classes, she would go to fill in the lessons and sit in the back to listen.

She walked into the classroom with her head down.

Erik took her seat at the front, and he looked frequently at the entrance and exit, waiting for her to come.

Finally waiting for her, he hurriedly waved at her, "Quick, sit here!"

The other girls, one after another, cast envious glances at Nina.

Erik is a famous genius in the piano department of Jennifer College of Music, with a bright future ahead of him.

The girls whispered.

"Aren't Erik and Sienna a couple? Did they break up?"

"I don't know, is it just Sienna bragging and always acting like Erik is her boyfriend?"

Erik interrupted just as he opened his mouth, "Correct your name. If you don't feel comfortable calling me by my first name, it's okay to call me Senior."

Sienna bit her lip, "Senior, what do you mean? Are you breaking up with me?"

Erik's eyes widened as he looked at her in surprise, "We were together?"

Sienna stomped her foot, "You know how I feel. Every time I've approached you before, you haven't refused! We even had dinner together."

"But I never agreed to a relationship either." Erik emphasized, "If once upon a time I acted in a way that caused you to misunderstand, then today I apologize. From now on, I hope you'll stop referring to yourself as my girlfriend. Let's keep our distance, thanks."

With that, Erik turned to leave.

Sienna couldn't believe that she had been dumped.

Although he did not explicitly say that he agreed, she always thought he was the default, and now he flip-flopped, she could not accept.

She tugged on his arm.

Nina had one of her wireless headphones taken away from her and she put the other away, opened her books and waited for the professor to teach her class.

When Erik saw that she didn't ask for the headphones, he simply didn't give them back to her.

He propped up his forehead and looked leisurely at her always shy side face.

Nina felt uncomfortable when she felt the burning eyes, and she moved a seat to the side.

Stay away from him.

Erik relentlessly moved a seat closer to her, still sitting next to her.

The class has already started, so I'm sure she won't suddenly stand up and switch to another seat row.

If she keeps moving to the right, she will only be cornered by him.

Nina is obviously aware of this problem.

One can only ignore him.

She opened her notebook and began to record the main points of the professor's class.

As he was writing, Erik took out a piece of paper and handed over a small slip of paper.

At this point, Erik writes the answer on a slip of paper and hands it to Nina.

He tapped on the table, just read the answers as he wrote them.

Nina glanced away, then she replied to the professor, "I'm sorry, Professor. I won't."

Erik lightly clenched his fist, she really did not take him seriously at all, not even accepting his help at this time.

The professor didn't expect her to be angry that she couldn't even know such a simple topic.

"This student, in such a state of study, you are going to fail the course at the end of the semester. I don't allow retakes in my courses, don't say you weren't warned, you hear me? You can't even learn music theory, and you still want to become a musician? Are you dreaming?"

"Got it, Professor. Sorry." Nina apologized.

"Sit down." Looking at Nina's soft and gentle appearance, the professor lost his temper.

Nina sat down after.

In the absence of the professor, the students in the classroom were unrestrained.

The boys, in particular, were all up in arms.

Girls have been throwing envious glances at Nina, showing their love in public, a privilege that not every girl can enjoy. Who wouldn't want to be confessed by a handsome and talented guy?

Sienna didn't go far; she and Aria both kept hanging around the stairway classroom.

When I heard the commotion, I immediately rushed to the classroom, thinking that something had happened.

I didn't expect to hear all the students inside the door before I entered.

"Promise him, promise him."

A boy whispered, "Wow, Nina just cried, she cried so beautifully, even I wanted to comfort her."

"Dream on, they have a famous woman."

"It's not like she didn't agree? Everyone has a chance."

"Now where there is such a pure and shy girl, and beautiful, modern version of Lin Daiyu."

"Lin Daiyu your head, Lin Daiyu is a sick child, OK."

"It just makes you feel protective anyway. I like it too hey."

"Don't dream, Erik can't even handle her, it's your turn? Don't even look at yourself in the mirror."

Erik gave them an unpleasant glare.

"What are you looking at? Let's all disperse."

Aria stood in the doorway and said to Sienna, "Look, Nina didn't say yes. You still have a chance."

Sienna shoved Aria, "You're stupid, aren't you? This bitch, she really knows how to get away with it. Who would let go of a man when he's crying like that. What you don't get is always the best."

Chapter 1458

Nina rushed to the bathroom and finally couldn't restrain herself from dry heaving one after another. She had just started eating and her stomach was still empty.

I can't throw up, I can only dry heave.

It took a while for her to slow down.

She looked in the mirror, rewashed her face, and after wiping it clean, she walked out of the bathroom.

Unexpectedly, the scene of her dry heaving was seen by Sienna who was inside the cubicle.

Sienna's suspicions rose in her mind. When she herself was in high school, she had a boyfriend who later became inadvertently pregnant, and it was because of such dry heaves that she was alerted to the fact that she was pregnant.

Later, she went to abort the baby, and then later, broke up with her ex-boyfriend during her freshman year.

So, Nina's reaction just now?

Could it be a pregnancy reaction?

He probably somehow understood, no wonder she cleaned herself up, so it is to be from one to the other. I didn't realize that she was still a devout believer. And generally speaking, pure traditional Catholics, only marry Catholics.

Although, marriage is very far away for him. For the time being on campus he just wants to be in a relationship.

At his age, he didn't even think about it.

"Nina, do you have to get married when you're in a relationship?" Erik asked. He finally knew why she looked completely different from others, because her mind had been purified.

Why does she play the violin differently from others? It turns out that she is able to listen to God's will.

Nina casually ate a few bites and she put down her chopsticks.

Thinking that avoidance is not an option.

She always needs to face it.

She took a deep breath, "Don't you waste your time on me, it's not worth it. I'm not the girl you think I am."

When she finished, she stood up, grabbed her bag, and turned to leave.

The hospital was lit up.

Julia has been transferred from the operating room to the ICU and from the ICU to a special unit.

Because Dr. Price judged from her brain waves that she would wake up at any moment.

Karl sat in the hospital room and held Julia's hand.

Wait quietly for her to wake up.

After the surgery, her face is slightly worse than before, but still rosy.

Her hands were warm and soft, and in her hands, like a ball of cotton.

Karl gazed at her sleeping face and recalled the frightening scene when he was in the car accident.

She was knocked off her feet and smashed heavily against the window of his car. This scene, the moment of fear of loss, such a scene, this life he could not forget. If she could wake up, from now on, he would cherish her.

Michal was sitting next to Karl, clearly in a much better mood.
