Chapter 361

Jacqueline turned her head and rebuked Luther, "She's carrying your child. What about the baby if you don't want to get married?!"

Luther did not even hesitate, "Just abort it."

His words caused Charlotte's whole body to tremble violently, and her teary and confused eyes looked up in shock.

He even went so far as to tell her to abort the child. How could he be so cruel and desperate, and said that even without any hesitation.

Jacqueline almost muttered, "You're crazy! How can you say something like that?"

Luther's face was serious as he bowed deeply towards Cecelia as well as Rodney.

"I can bring in the best doctors in Mufron to do the surgery and make sure that it won't hurt Charlotte."

Cecelia sneered, "There is no abortion that doesn't hurt your body, the young master of the Warner family must be joking. Even if you don't want this child, can't we, the Heath family, afford to raise it?"

Charlotte, and these are my faults. The mistakes that happened in the past cannot be undone. Mistakes that can be foreseen in the future can only be stopped now. If the child is born, the Warner family would not be able to accept him, and he cannot have the right to inherit the Warner family. What's worse, sooner

Charlotte looked at Luther with piteous eyes and asked in a sad voice, "Why do you do this to me? You have clearly promised that you would be responsible ... Why, did you not even want the child ... It's a life ..."

Luther frowned, "I'm sorry, you saved me, I'm grateful. But it's better for you, and for the child, to make this choice now. Let's not keep the mistake any further."

"Mistake ..." Charlotte seemed to have lost her soul and laughed bitterly, rubbing up against the small of her back, "You said his existence is a mistake. Do you know how much I love you?"

"I'll do everything I can to make it up to you. Think about it." There was no hint of warmth in his voice.

Having decided to cut off his ties with Charlotte, he wanted to make things clear and did not leave a glimmer of hope.

Otherwise, there would only be more troubles.

Cecelia was on the sidelines and overheard Luther and Charlotte's conversation.

She walked up and helped Charlotte up from the sofa and said coldly to Luther, "Since you don't want to get married, we have nothing to talk about. Let's go first, and we won't attend the banquet tonight."

"Charlotte is the daughter of the Heath family, and you want to just get rid of it?"

"I really can't figure out, our two families are friends, there is a marriage contract, Charlotte is beautiful, good-hearted, and she saved your life, and she was pregnant with a child! Just what is it so good about Joyce?"

Jacqueline was really mad.

How could her son be just so disobedient?

Luther looked at Jacqueline askance and said lightly, "My mind is made up. I won't get married to her, and I won't have this child. No matter what your plan is, it won't work out the way you want it to."

"You!" Jacqueline almost gasped, "Just you wait, you're going to regret this."

"Huh." Luther sneered in disbelief.

He turned around and walked out of the box, paying no more attention to Jacqueline.

Jacqueline repeatedly took deep breaths and managed to control the rage.

Rodney, on crutches, laboriously walked down the hallway fast, stumbling from anxiety.

"Mia, where are you? Mia!"

His voice echoed in the empty corridor.

Suddenly, he was unsteady on his feet and nearly fell. Luckily he was steadily held by Cecelia, who was coming towards him.

"Daddy, look out." Cecelia heard Rodney shouting from afar, and he sound unusual and urgent, shouting Mia's name, so she rushed towards the source of the voice.

Fortunately, she arrived in time to avoid Rodney's fall.

Rodney was old, and a fracture would be a big problem.

However, that still could not make Rodney give up.

Photos could be burned and even Cecelia had never seen a photo of Mia.

However, the memory could not be cleared. Decades had passed, and Mia's face was still deep in Rodney's blood and bones. They could not be burned and destroyed, and he could never forget.

To this day, Rodney would still stare at the empty wall for an entire day doing nothing.

Charlotte had also noticed Rodney's dazed look.

Though they could not stay with each other for a lifetime, they did keep each other in their heart for a lifetime.

She also wondered who Rodney actually saw, and looked so much like Mia. Unfortunately, in addition to Rodney himself, no one had ever seen Mia, and she could not even find a photo in the family.

Charlotte did not have the heart to think about it, and rushed to help Rodney with Cecelia, leaving Riveria Haze.

After Joyce accidentally bumped into Rodney and apologized repeatedly.

She hurriedly left the corridor. Although her mind was impulsive for a moment and she wanted to leave Riveria Haze, she finally calmed down.

Joyce wrapped her arms around herself, her nails sinking deep into her skin as she tried desperately to restrain herself.

Luther noticed something strange about her and came to sit beside her, but when he reached out to wrap his arms around her ...

She refused.

She moved to the side, not wanting to get too close to him.

"What's wrong?" Luther frowned, she was fine this morning, what was wrong with her again?

"Unhappy because of the internet comment thing?" He asked tentatively, but she didn't answer. He then asked directly, "I've already taken care of the comments, and it will soon be calmed down. Don't worry, I'll fix it all."

Fix it all? Joyce sneered at the bottom of her heart. His solution was to marry a warlord's daughter to for their power and then keep her by his side as an unseen mistress? To satisfy his personal desires? So he could use her shares, and her abilities?

He could certainly fix it all, huh?

The premium buffet was neatly arranged and had everything their guests might need.
One by one, many guests came, men in suits, women in fancy dresses.
Luther said softly, "I'll go ahead and socialize, you sit here for a while."
"Hmm." Joyce turned her back and stopped looking at him.
Luther walked up to the entrance of the banquet hall and spoke to an elder who had just arrived.
Joyce, on the other hand, just walked around and looked around.
Not far away, she saw Jacqueline and Shelly both came and were sitting over at the tea table whispering. She couldn't help but feel strange, they obviously saw her, how come they didn't come to pick a fight tonight?
She turned her head to look around again and was surprised to find a familiar figure on the second-floor observation deck.

That black suit, and that unforgettable demonic appearance. Besides him was a tall woman, who was standing against the second-floor railing in a similar black v-back evening dress, revealing a smooth back line. Despite her stunning side face, her wheat-colored skin somehow showed her wild nature.

Her breathing was suddenly disturbed, her heart was beating wildly, and her chest felt like something was about to burst open.

She remembered the last time she met Jacqueline and Shelly at St. Maria Hospital.

It must be them. They went to the hospital to pry into her privacy, no wonder the two of them did not find fault with her today. Now it seemed that they had got it all planned out.

Oh, in order to deal with her, they would really do everything.

Luther was also overwhelmed.

He was surprised because he did not know that Joyce was more than three months pregnant. Although they have had intimate relations, it all happened only recently. More than three months pregnant, so it must be...

The surrounding crowd murmured.

She was not going to be anyone's plaything.

Besides, Jacqueline and Shelly had always seen her as a thorn in their side, so why should she keep on being under their thumb?

Faced with Shelly and Jacqueline's aggressive questioning.

Joyce finally reacted.

A moment of silence.

She looked firm, word by word, and said icily, "Don't you all know that we are falsely married? This is my own child. It has nothing to do with the Warner family."

Jacqueline was overwhelmed with excitement when she heard that Joyce had admitted in public that the nail was on the coffin, which was great.

Shelly even coldly said, "Bitch! How dare you cuckold my brother."

Although Luther already knew in his heart, now when he heard Joyce's own words, it was as if his heart had just received a heavy punch, and the dull pain made him unable to speak.

The banquet hall was gorgeously lit with bright and blinding light.

Joyce looked at Justin in amazement, from top to bottom, her eyes resting on his long, straight legs. Although she had seen him stand up in a flash in front of St. Maria Hospital and on TV.

However, at this moment, seeing him with her own eyes, standing in front of her intact, she still could not believe it.

It was like a whole century when they were apart just for three months.

For more than two years of heartache and pain, he finally stood up and returned to the former gentle and elegant nobleman. Her eyes were slightly moist, and she couldn't help but slip a crystal teardrop.

"Come here." Justin held out his hand and smiled dotingly at her.

Her body trembled gently as she tried to walk forward.

Luther put an arm in front of her.

He glared coldly at Justin.
