Wrong marriage and sweet love (Joyce and Luther)

Chapter 421

"Who's thinking about you? Nonsense." Her handsome face was so close that she couldn't help but duck back.

However, his palm wrapped around her slender waist and pulled her directly into his arms, pressing her closely below the waists.

Joyce's cheeks were hot and she instantly recalled the restrictive scene of the morning. She pressed her fists against his thick chest to stop him from going any further, "Let go, we are at the company. What are you doing?"

"My company, I can do whatever I want!" Luther smiled wickedly.

Now he especially enjoyed teasing her. The more she is annoyed and angry, the more he found it interesting.

The thought that tonight he would solve everything made him so happy, and he was more excited to tease her.

"Get your filthy hands off me! Touch it again and I'll call out!" She was so angry that her cheeks puffed out like a cute little puffer fish.

He couldn't resist reaching out and cupping her cheeks, "Please, I especially like to hear you shout. Especially like in the morning ..."

Seaview's Restaurant.

The restaurant was surrounded by a long ridge of garden stream and greenery, so you would not be able to see inside from the outside, and you could not see the hustle and bustle of the city and the flashing neon lights from the inside, which was quite isolated from the world.

Charlotte came early to Seaview's Restaurant to wait for Luther, she had deliberately dressed up, wearing a long plain dress and light makeup, and she looked just mild and innocent.

Luther had booked the entire Seaview's Restaurant tonight and there was not a single customer inside.

The waiter led her to the most luxurious box.

Her emotions were vaguely excited that Luther had finally figured it out. She had waited too long for this day.

Thanks to Joyce's pregnancy with Justin's child, Luther had completely given up upon her. In vain she spent so much thought and did everything she could, but still, she just could not get rid of this Joyce. Finally, thanks God, Joyce and Justin had an unknown past and Luther finally gave up upon Joyce. Really, all her efforts seemed to have paid off.

The thought that she would soon be a Mrs. Warner, with a man as handsome as Luther almost overwhelmed her. Thinking about his perfect chiseled face, and his sexy toned body, she had wanted him for a long time, and finally she was able to get him.

A waiter walked in and asked, "Sir, Miss, what would you like to order?"

"Appetizer, main course, dessert, just the most expensive ones." Luther didn't even look at the menu and said casually. He didn't want to bother ordering, he was here just to deal with Charlotte.

"Okay, do you need some red wine? We have a long-term cooperation with a winery in the store, and all kinds of famous wines are available." The waiter asked respectfully.

"No drinking. I have to drive at night." Luther waved his hand, "Serve the dishes all at once, and don't come in after that if you're okay."

"Good." The waiter nodded, understanding in his heart that they didn't want to be disturbed.

When the waiter left.

Luther stood up, "I'm going to go to the bathroom. You wait here for me."

Joyce was stunned and her first thought was that she had dialed the wrong cell phone number.

She moved the phone and looked at the screen. There was no mistake, and it was indeed Luther's cell phone number that was dialed.

So, Luther was now with Charlotte?

"Charlotte, why are you answering the phone?" Joyce asked, holding back her anger and easing her tone.

"Oh, I'm with him, he just went to the washroom, what do you want? I'll have him call you back when he gets here." On the other end of the phone, Charlotte sounded very polite. She deliberately gasped slightly as she spoke, giving the false impression that perhaps something had just happened.

Joyce frowned, "No need for him to call back if it's not important. I'm hanging up, bye."

She hung up the phone hastily.

Looking at the dark phone screen, her bright eyes reflect a different light.

He even shamelessly asked her to buy household items and asked her to take pictures for him to confirm?

"You think you are some emperor? And ask me to prepare everything and wait for you? Dream on, scum!"

She went to the door and decisively changed the code. And after closing the door, she used the latch to lock it up and would never let him in again.

On the other side, Seaview's Restaurant.

Charlotte put Luther's phone back in its place.

She pulled up the corners of her lips, showing a smile of triumph. God did help her this time!

Luther was inside the bathroom, repeatedly washing his hands with hand sanitizer. He had just touched Charlotte a few times, which made him unbearable.

He repeatedly rinsed his hands with warm water and washed them several times before he felt better.

Suddenly, he looked aghast and remembered that he had forgotten his cell phone on his seat. In case an important call came in and Charlotte saw it, it wasn't right.

The food was exquisite and tempting enough, but looking at the pretentious Charlotte, Luther had no appetite.

But since he would have to drive in the evening, he casually took a few bites.

Charlotte carefully cut a small piece of foie gras for him, stood up and handed it to his plate, with a gentle smile on her eyes and eyebrows, "It's delicious, you try it too."

"You're pregnant, you eat more." Luther forked the foie gras back onto the plate in front of Charlotte, keeping as gentle a look on his face as possible. In fact, he did not want to eat her food.

Charlotte's watery eyes sparkled slightly, covered with a thin layer of mist, "You are finally willing to care about the baby in my belly."

She seemed to be almost sobbing.

Luther faintly returned, "Sorry, I neglected you before. I won't do it again."

Then, naturally, they had sex and she gave him her first night.

She pretended to blush and lowered her head.

In fact, the whole process she saw was Joyce dragging Luther from the water to shore, giving him artificial respiration, and her clothes were torn apart by Luther and she was pinned beneath him... So that was all she could say. She thought it was seamless.

Luther heard what she said. He remained expressionless but he understood everything.

Charlotte said she saw someone struggling in the water and she went down from the shore to save him, which is obviously very different from the truth.

First of all, in order to escape, he leapt from the bridge at that time, and after jumping into the Han River, he did not struggle in the water because he was drugged and his consciousness was blurred. Secondly, Rex saw with his own eyes the person who saved him clearly jumped from the bridge.

It was impossible that someone jumped from the bridge to save him, and Charlotte from the shore also got into the water to save him.

"Take a picture, send it to me immediately now!" Luther's eyes were austere, and he said with a straight face.

His heart, uncontrollably, also accelerated.

"Good."

It only took about ten seconds for Mr. Arnold to take the picture and send it to him.

Luther's dull, dark pupils contracted violently as he clicked on the picture, and sure enough, it was the same as the picture of a boomerang dart Aaron had found for him.

Sure enough, Joyce saved him!

He could not describe his feelings at this moment. He felt excited, or uplifting. At first, he only guessed, only suspected, and now when he finally found the answer, he actually had somewhat unreal feeling.

Joyce had been so proud. She would rather give up everything than to suffer any humiliation. She was definitely not willing to become a problem in the relationship between him and Charlotte!

God, he finally saw Charlotte's true colors in time! Fortunately, even with all the misunderstandings and blockages, he still fell in love with Joyce!

Only no, one mistake after another.

No need to ask Aaron to investigate Joyce's whereabouts that night, he was 100% sure that the person who saved her life was Joyce!

He and Joyce had a child, his child, surprisingly, his child! His mind seemed to fly above to the clouds. He felt that he could not breathe, and the whole world became so unreal for the joy he was feeling now.

At that moment, Charlotte slowly approached Luther's side.

Since a moment ago, he had a complicated expression that didn't look right. She had no idea what happened, but it should have nothing to do with her.

The meal was almost over, and she thought about how to keep him around so that they could go to the hotel for the night. Even if it's just in this box, something could definitely happen.

Charlotte had no time to cover up the sudden change of events, she was in a complete panic and instinctively denied it.

"Luther, what are you talking about? How can it not be your child? Did you hear something? I... I..."

She was incoherent. Originally she crouched on the ground, but now she was so shocked that she scrambled up from the ground in a wretched manner.

She wanted to reach out and grab the hem of his shirt, her watery eyes filled with crystal tears, expecting to win the heart of the man in front of her with such a pitiful gesture.

Luther was the most averse to this.

He shrugged Charlotte off with contempt, not wanting her to touch him even a little bit.

She couldn't figure out how he could suddenly change his face after just answering Mr. Arnold's phone call, it didn't make sense at all.

Pushed away by him, she stumbled a few steps and eventually failed to stand, and with her legs weak from the fear, she fell to the ground again.
