Chapter 511

At this point, Charlotte was afraid that they would delve further into the topic.

She leaned softly against Cecelia's side and said, "Mom, I'm not feeling very well, and I'd like to go upstairs and sit for a while. Besides, I haven't met Dad yet."

Cecelia hastened to hold Charlotte's hand and said in an anxious voice, "You hurry upstairs to rest. Here, I and your father will take care of the rest, and you don't have to worry. Make sure to take care of yourself. Mom can't lose you again."

"Hmm." Charlotte nodded.

At this point, Joyce said sagely, "Cecelia, we'll take our leave. You must have a lot of things to take care of. Sorry, we could not be of much help, so I won't bother you anymore."

Karl also said, "Ms. Hurley, I never thought we would be related in such a way. If you need anything, feel free to contact me. Now that we are relatives, I will take care of it, please don't worry."

"Good. I was unable to receive you properly because of the changes in my family. I'll see you some other time." Cecelia replied sincerely.

"I don't mind. You don't have to tell me, it's your privacy, and don't worry, I won't tell anyone else. Not even Juanita." Joyce smiled lightly, then her face sank again, "I just thought about the way Charlotte uncovered the white cloth on Rodney. Hey, just how could someone die like that for no reason? I also saw him in Riveria Haze this afternoon. Somehow, although I only met him twice, and I barely knew him, his sudden death made me feel so hard in my heart. I just could not calm down."

She raised her head slightly and looked into the hazy yellow streetlight, and surprisingly her eyes were slightly moist. Was it because she had no relatives? Or did Charlotte's words also touch her deeply?

Charlotte cried on Rodney's body, "I grew up without any family, and I grew up alone for over 20 years! It was so hard for me to finally find my own family."

A newly found family was lost again.

And she did not even know where or who her relatives were. Although she had not fantasized about her relatives for a long time, at this time she indeed felt a sense of loss. She was envious that Charlotte could find her family.

"Yes, we just simply could not solve every case. I've seen too many unsolvable cases. I really don't want Stephanie and Rodney's case to just sink forever." Karl sighed, "Besides, the Heath family and I are still related, I just have to try to find out the truth. I've kept all the photos from the scene and will go back and study them. Hopefully, we can make a breakthrough."

"Yeah, I forgot about that until you mentioned it. You're actually Charlotte's cousin." Joyce teased, "In that case, I don't even dare to count on you to check your own cousin."

Karl suddenly stopped in his tracks and said seriously, "How's that even related? I could never let her go just because I'm related to her..."

"Come on. I'm just kidding. Look at you, you can't take a joke!" Joyce smiled, "You got to see the fun and pick up a relative for nothing today, so it was a good trip."

The atmosphere between the two gradually melted up, talking and laughing, and from the perspective of the shadow from afar, they looked like a sweet couple.

"By the way, I forgot to tell you. I think of something strange. I heard Cecelia talk about how Charlotte got accidentally hit by a car in the evening and was sent to the military hospital. The Heath family had a series of accidents, very strange. And, as you know, I also saw Charlotte and Ricky together in Skymall this afternoon ..."

Although, he could not remember a bit of these things now.

However, just for the case in front of him, the reason why Karl had been helping Joyce, he was a man and he could not know any better.

"Karl, it's so late. Is it not appropriate for you to still be under my wife's apartment building? It's time for you to go back." Luther gave a chilling eviction.

"Mr. Warner should not bother Miss Knowles as well since he and Joyce have separated and are about to receive divorce papers. Isn't it time to go back too?"

Karl sneered.

"You!" Luther was furious, and he didn't expect that a criminal police officer would give him a hard time. Could it be that Karl had some kind of overwhelming background? Damn, it felt so bad to lose his memories.

Joyce had never seen Karl and Luther quarrel before, so she hurriedly pulled Karl back, "I'm fine, don't worry. It's getting late, I'm going to go upstairs and get some rest. You should hurry back and I'll discuss tonight's matter with you when I have time."

The minimalist design of the sofa was apparently from the hand of a master. It saved space and gave the room a premium feel.

The whole apartment looked different! All she could see were smooth lines and top-quality furniture. Even the bed in the room was also replaced with a multifunctional bed, even with an electric folding function. And the desk, coffee table, and even the kitchen cabinets, all looked pleasing to the eye.

"What right do you have, to throw away the things I bought? Those are the things I paid for!" Joyce was furious to the core.

"What? You've got 10% of the Warner Group and you can't afford to throw away a few pieces of cheap furniture?"

Luther taunted, "I've decided to live here every day until the divorce is done. Keep an eye on you so you don't cuckold me and bring a man back to the apartment and embarrass me."

She took out her phone, "Yeah. I am just capable like that, now all I have to do is make a phone call. Justin will be here to pick me up in no time. You're so bothered about your woman cuckolding you, so you just don't keep an eye on me. Why don't you go watch your fiancée! Keep an eye on her and don't let her cheat on you. After all, she's the one who's going to marry you!"

Luther's eyes burned with hidden anger. Damn woman, she had successfully provoked him.

With a long arm, he instantly snatched the phone out of her hand, stopping her from calling Justin.

"The Henderson family has always attached great importance to family background, and there is no way they will let you in as an orphan girl. Don't dream!" He said with disdain.

"Oh, don't be so confident. Garrett has already met with me and we had a good talk! Throw away your worn-out ideas, I think you're the one dreaming." Joyce returned the same disdainful sarcasm, unceremoniously.

Hell, she didn't want to marry into the Henderson family, but at this point, she just didn't want to contribute to his arrogance.

He made her uncomfortable, and she must not let him feel comfortable.

"You!"

At this moment, his brain was confused and chaotic.

Her bright obsidian eyes seemed like an endless sea. She looked straight into it and could not see the bottom.

These days, he had also thought about the whole thing over and over again and really couldn't remember anything. But he thought, since he had already filed for divorce with her, he must have made the decision to leave her. Of course, he still wondered why he would default to the 30-day divorce cooling-off period, since as a matter of fact, he could always find a shortcut, and the divorce would be just a matter of minutes.

However, this time, no one could answer his doubts.

Jacqueline and Shelly both had a very strong animosity towards Joyce. He could not ask anything from them. They said Joyce was scheming and had cheated grandmother. So, no one knew what really happened between him and Joyce.

He could only infer from the only clues available.

When she left the Warner residence, she didn't take any of her fancy clothes and jewelry with her. She was not interested in these.

"Mr. Warner, why didn't you give me an invitation for your engagement?" She suddenly asked.

Luther froze, not expecting her to make such a request.

"You're coming?" He frowned.

"Why not?" She raised an eyebrow.

"I'll have Aaron send you an invitation tomorrow." He said back, "I'll go first."

With that, Luther turned and struck out of the apartment.

When Luther left, Joyce breathed a long sigh of relief and sat down on the couch.

Luther returned home and lay in the big wide bed, tossing and turning, unable to sleep.

Since the accident, he had only been able to sleep at Eden Apartment.

Now that he'd left Eden Apartment, he certainly couldn't just go back again just to sleep there. Damn it, he cursed, the thought of Joyce made his body hot and uncomfortable. He simply got up, turned on his computer and started working.

The work that had piled up during the period of memory loss had been largely dealt with. The Clarenworth real estate contract that was delayed due to the car accident was also signed. In the past two days, several new projects had been signed, and the business was going smoothly.

He concentrated on finishing his work, and before he knew it, it was already dawn outside. He wanted to go back to bed to rest for a while, but he was now so awake and energetic. When he was about to get up, the doorbell suddenly rang.

"Yes. It's not too late, we can just arrive at the Heath family by seven o'clock. They won't leave this early even if they have to go back to the Capital." Luther lifted his wrist to check his watch and said, "I'll sleep for half an hour, and then I could just get changed and go. You guys wait here for me for a while."

"Good. You hurry up and take a rest." Jacqueline quickly waved her hand, "I'll get everything else ready." By the way she had to put on a light makeup, since she couldn't go to the Heath family like this.

"Hmm."

With that, Luther turned around and went upstairs.
