

Sweet love 711

Chapter 711

Could it be...

Juanita was Julia, the only daughter of Mr. Sanchez, the girl who was arranged for him by his family?

Karl recalled at this point that his mother Michal had called him when he had left the Capital.

"Karl, don't stay in Khebury, go back to the Capital."

"Mom misses you so much."

"Although Mom and Dad arranged a marriage for you without your consent, you have never met the girl after all."

"Mom has seen her! She really is a very good girl. She looks spirited and lovely. She is knowledgeable, mild and well-mannered and she was born in a good family. Even her voice is terrific. You should at least meet her and refuse us if you are still not satisfied."

"Mom, what era is it now? You still arrange a marriage for me? How dare you take it upon yourself to get us engaged? I heard it's Mr. Sanchez's daughter, Julia, right? You really think I don't know anything."

"Meeting her? I heard she had run away from the Capital. She's not even at the Capital, and Mr. Sanchez doesn't know where she's gone."

When Michal left, Juanita sighed in relief and felt her body go limp.

She really should not have done what she did last time... Just how come Karl's mother would find out!? It's all over and she wouldn't be able to explain it.

"Juanita, yesterday ..."

As soon as Karl opened his mouth, he was interrupted by Juanita before he could finish.

"That was ... don't worry, you don't have to be responsible. We could just pretend that nothing has happened."

Juanita gave a dry laugh, "I'll get dressed first ... Why ... why don't you turn around."

She pulled up the quilt and revealed only her big watery eyes, blinking and blushing.

It was quite a crazy night yesterday, and now that she was awake, she felt so ashamed and that she was simply too bold last night.

Karl narrowed his cold eyes and caught a glimpse of the blushes rising on her face. He frowned, turned around, opened the bedside drawer and took out a clean shirt for himself to change into.

Juanita rolled up the quilt to cover herself. Her clothes were thrown to the floor last night, and now they were simply too far away.

She moved carefully to the edge of the bed, and reached for her clothes.

It was quite far away, and her hand was not long enough. Suddenly, when she was trying so hard to reach further and further, she fell to the ground entirely...

Karl got up from the bed and scanned through the room. The sterile kits and fever patches were on the bedside table.

It seemed that Juanita had taken care of him all night last night and helped him reduce his fever.

To have access to his apartment, it must have been Franklin who called out to Juanita.

He looked down and saw the gunshot wound in the abdomen. She had treated it so well that he did not have to do anything for the time being.

He picked up the used gauze from the floor and threw it into the trash bin.

Then, he removed the blood-stained sheets, put them aside and replaced them with new ones.

Since the wound had not yet recovered, after cleaning his room up, there had been a thin layer of sweat on his forehead.

After washing up, he opened the door to his room and went to the living room.

Michal had just returned and placed the breakfast she had bought on the table.

There was milk, various kinds of buns, cakes, sandwiches, and everything.

Michal complained as she rummaged through the fridge, "Karl, what's wrong with you! There's nothing in the fridge! What do you even eat every day? I can't believe there is not even one egg in the fridge!"

Michal glanced at the thermos sitting on a table, stepped forward and held up the lid, "It's a nutritious porridge, is full. How come he didn't eat any of it? It smells so good, and it. It was from back, "I'll go get at you. What a hard look the back of his chair and struggled to not hurt when he was standing, hurt the most when he was sitting Is it going to be okay?" Michal saw that second thought, he had the energy to do what he did last night, so she doesn't matter. It's with

"I didn't know you were in Khebury, and what are you doing here?" Michal said with concern, "Your father is worried sick. I met him in the city council some time ago and he even mentioned you to me. He looked just so upset."

"I ... I have a marketing job in a large group here."

Juanita answered with her head down.

When she first fell out with her family in order to escape her marriage, she ran to Khebury alone. She even changed her name just to get rid of their shackles.

Even if she earned a meager salary, at least she was living for herself.

However, who would have thought that the person she didn't want to marry would be Karl.

The one person she was now so preoccupied with was also Karl.

She had done so much for nothing. What a fate!

"Something happened at the police station, and he ..." Juanita said with a pang of sadness as she thought of Joyce, "Anyway, Auntie, I'll explain to you later. "

"Oh."

Michal glanced at Karl. In the end it was her own son, and of course, she was worried about him.

When she looked at his pale face, she sighed, "What police station are you going to on Sunday, and you don't even look at your pale face."

"Is this job that important to you? You've been shot twice and you don't even want your life anymore? Have you ever thought about your father and me if something happened to you? You're the only son in the family!"

Michal kept murmuring.

"Moreover, the Cole family has a huge family business, and with no one to inherit it... Karl ..."

Karl walked to the door to change his shoes and suddenly said.

"Next month, I'll be back to the Capital."

"I want to go to the Central Supreme Prosecutor's Office, Special Investigation Division."

Juanita hurriedly followed him, opened the car door and helped him in.

She then got into the driver's seat and started the car.

On the way, Karl's eyes looked fixedly out of the car window. He did not say a word, as if he was immersed in his sadness and melancholy entirely.

The view outside the window was nothing to him.

The golden sunrise shone through the glass, reflecting on his handsome face.

After a long time, it was Juanita who broke the silence first.

She felt that she was thick-skinned enough. Were it any other girl, after what happened last night, they would certainly feel so embarrassed, and she ...

"Still no progress in the search?" She asked about Joyce, which was her main concern.

"Hmm."

Only one syllable came out of Karl's throat.

Juanita had never seen Karl so serious before. She had the impression that he was always so indifferent to everything, but she never thought he would have such a ruthless side.

"Does Joyce know about your status as the prince of the world of laws?" She asked suddenly.

Karl flinched slightly, "She knows."

"Oh."

Juanita laughed wryly, "So you all just kept that from me."

He was a little embarrassed, but finally explained, "I did not mean it."

"Joyce and I happened to pass by the Heath residence and went in for a short sit. At that time, I was recognized by Mrs. Heath, and that was how Joyce knew my identity."

"She knew that I would like to keep it a secret, so she kept it a secret for me."

"It's okay. You don't have to be so serious..."

"I would not mind, but if I can know about it earlier..." she did not continue. In fact, even if she knew that he was just the man her family had found for her, that would not change anything earlier.

She had indeed met Michal. Her father had once taken her to dinner with Michal. So that night was for Michal to meet her.

Juanita walked into the pharmacy, searched the shelves, took a box of medicine and an anti-inflammatory spray. Finally, she walked to the checkout counter and picked up two bottles of mineral water.

"How much?"

She handed over the stuff in her hand.

The staff was a woman. She glanced at the box and said, "Girl, you should pay attention to the usage of this medicine."

"One capsule at a time, within 72 hours."

"I'll get you the black bag for it."

"A total of $109."

"Oh, thanks."

Juanita was a little embarrassed.

After checking out, she hurriedly took the black bag and walked out.

Back in the car, Karl was still waiting for her.

"Sorry for the long wait."

Juanita got into the car. She took a bottle of mineral water from the bag, opened it and handed it to Karl, "Got a bottle of water for you too."

Military Hospital.

On the day of Charlotte's engagement party, she had a miscarriage on the spot and was transferred to the military hospital immediately.

She almost had a hemorrhage, and eventually, she had an emergency surgery and was kept in the ICU for ten days for observation.

She was transferred to the general ward only today.

She underestimated the consequences before she rolled down the stairs. She thought it would be easy, and paid a heavy price herself for setting Joyce up.

The doctor said they had to have one of her fallopian tubes removed and her uterine lining became very thin due to the miscarriage.

The chances of getting pregnant naturally in the future would be reduced by half.

She was in a coma for the first few days in the ICU.

It was mainly because of her obscene video with Ricky, which for her was too big a blow for her.

The mental breakdown led to a slow recovery.

The fact that she would never be able to marry Luther again was depressing enough for her, and she had been just lying there lifelessly every day and did nothing more than that.

Although she didn't know why Ricky went after Joyce that day and why he confronted Luther and the police.

Ricky did not tell her about this plan beforehand, so it must have been an unplanned contingency.

However, these were not important.

The most important part was, Ricky was dead! And the dead would not talk!!!

Joyce was also dead, haha! It was simply great! Once Joyce died, no one could ever know that she was actually the real Miss Heath!

They were all dead.

Wouldn't that save her a lot of trouble?

She spent ten days in the ICU and came out with such a change! God was indeed helping her.

The corners of her lips raised in a smug smile. She had to think of a way to wrap the whole thing up.

As she was thinking, the door of the ward was gently pushed open.

Cecelia came in silently, carrying a thermos box with nutritious porridge in her hand.

When she saw that Charlotte had woken up and was sitting against the back of the bed, she hurried forward and drew out a pillow and put it on Charlotte's back.

"You're finally awake. I was worried sick."
