Chapter 751

If she had known, she should not have followed the staff to come over.

She could simply send a formal letter informing Blue Maple Group that she would not consider working with them.

She didn't expect that a meeting would lead to so many things.

She did not know that what happened just now had all been seen by Luther.

Luther had heard the staff member mention something about Blue Maple Group earlier and guessed that Miss Zora might be going to their booth and talking about cooperation.

A small family business like Blue Maple Group certainly did not deserve his attention.

He came along only to secretly observe this Miss Zora.

He never thought I would see such a wonderful scene.

Bravo.

This Miss Zora had never failed to surprise him. Although he had seen what she could do last night in the elevator, the over-the-shoulder slam just now was indeed quite something.

So it seemed that she had been quite merciful to him yesterday.

He was more or less disappointed in his heart however, because Joyce did not know karate.

The Heath residence.

Everyone in the Heath family had been quite busy most of the times, but they would always spend one night and have dinner together every week. It's kind of a family habit from time to time.

The Heath residence was located inside the Warlord Palace. After the entrance of the Warlord Palace, they still need to drive about ten minutes halfway up the mountain before they could reach their forest surrounded home.

It was in such a secluded position that it was nearly impossible for an outsider to notice the entrance to the Heath residence from the outside.

Tonight, Cecelia had called everyone in the family.

Ralph was busy with his business and finally had some free time to have dinner with his family today.

Charlotte had followed Cecelia back to the Capital since her miscarriage four years ago.

Cecelia had already prepared the meal. All sorts of dishes were placed on the table. There were roasted ducks, braised prawns, steamed crabs, and all kinds of fresh seasonal vegetables, and next to them there was even a bottle of well-aged red wine.

When Otis met Cecelia, he saluted, bowed, and greeted her politely and courteously, "Good day, Mrs. Heath."

"No need for that! We are a family now, just come on over." Cecelia greeted him with a smile.

Otis changed his shoes at the door and walked in, but still he was wearing his daytime uniform. Today, after the Artificial Intelligence Summit at the International Exhibition Center, he returned directly to the Warlord Palace. Today the Heaths were gathering for dinner, and as usual they called him as well.

Charlotte came down the stairs and saw Otis. Her eyes flickered slightly and she gritted her teeth gently, but still, she smiled lightly at him.

Otis walked up to Charlotte in a gentlemanly manner and offered her his hand.

Charlotte, in turn, placed her hand in his palm.

Otis led her down the stairs to the dining room and thoughtfully pulled out a seat for her.

While they ate around the table, they barely talked.

The atmosphere got even a bit depressing.

Occasionally Ralph talked to Otis about their work.

"Today you have been to the summit, what did you get?" Ralph asked.

"General. The Capital construction project just got started, and our land is also involved. We need to build an underground secret base, and the security system is the primary issue we need to deal with, which is why I will go to the summit. I want to find a suitable company for the design of our security system." Otis returned respectfully.

"Oh, can't we just use our people?" Ralph frowned, "If we hire a company from the outside, we must be careful with our confidential information. After all, national security would be at stake."

Otis replied, "General, we really don't have such talents. Now the world outside is changing rapidly, and there are new technologies every day. I went to the summit today, and it was an eye-opener."

Charlotte's face changed slightly as she listened.

Ralph kept talking about what happened four years ago, but of course, she knew what happened. She had a miscarriage and had an affair with her bodyguard Ricky. Her sex video was exposed, and her engagement was revoked by the Warner family. All these things had been quite enough for anyone to simply die of shame.

But Ralph should not mention it every time.

Especially not in front of Otis. It made her so embarrassed.

Cecelia kicked Ralph hard from under the table.

Ralph, who loved his wife so much, immediately stopped talking.

Otis saw that the atmosphere was not right, and he hastened to add, "I will take care of Charlotte, please don't worry."

After dinner, Otis decided to stay overnight at the Heath residence tonight.

This was something that had actually been accepted by the Heaths.

Four years ago Charlotte had such a scandal and Ricky was killed on the spot. Of course, a lot of people had known about it. It's just that they did not dare to talk about it privately due to the hundred-year prestige of the Heath family in the military.

Although everyone knew what Charlotte did, there were still quite a lot of people who coveted the status as the son-in-law of the Heath family. So when Charlotte returned to the Capital, inside the palace, there were still many people who wanted to get close to her.

Cecelia only wanted her daughter to marry an honest man who could be good to Charlotte, and nothing else mattered to her.

Fame, power, money ... the Heath family had just enough.

Just to her surprise, Charlotte chose Otis in the end.

In fact, for Otis, Cecelia always had some odd feelings in her heart.

She had no idea what it was and there was really nothing wrong with Otis. She just had some kind of intuition.

"There's no need to be in such a hurry, right? Didn't we already get our application approved?" Charlotte frowned, and she sounded slightly dissatisfied.

She looked at Otis, who was lying in the sofa with an arrogant posture in front of her.

He was a medium-looking man with a decent figure. He had a square face, lengthy eyes and thick eyes brows. He might look restrained and polite in front of some people, but he was quite wild and arrogant in front of other people. Only those who were really close to him could know how sophisticated and sinister he was. He was really not the type Charlotte would like.

Most importantly, he was twelve years older than her.

Tsk, old man.

"What? You have a problem with that?" Otis raised his eyebrows, disdain written on his face, "You think you have other options? Are you still thinking about your old flame from the past?"

Charlotte didn't say anything, and the constant heaving of her chest meant she was already angry.

Otis glanced obliquely at Charlotte's belly and frowned, "I'm tired of your body already. When are you going to get pregnant? I need an heir to the Heath family." If it weren't for that, he wouldn't even bother to touch her.

She was quite pretty and hot, and he felt good for the first few times and he was patient enough back then. However, anything since that got boring. After all, she was really just a used toy to him now, tasteless and not worth his time.

It's not like she was a virgin, who could give him her memorable first time.

If not for the fact that she was the daughter of the Heath family, and he wanted a child for the Heath family, he would not even bother to touch her. There were so many women out there who wanted to sleep with him!

Charlotte subconsciously stroked her belly.

Four years ago in order to set Joyce up she fell down the stairs and miscarried. Back then, she suffered a great deal, spent quite a long time in the ICU and was forced to have one of her fallopian tubes removed. Now her chances of getting pregnant were cut half, and it's really not easy for her to get pregnant again.

She also wanted a child that she could control and she wanted to get rid of Otis with the baby.

She thought no one would ever mention it again, but to her surprise, Otis even found out about all these things.

Hell, four years ago, she was forced to return to the Capital.

After Ricky's death, the case of Ricky was transferred to the military system. It was said to be transferred to a court-martial, but in fact, it did not. Instead, Otis had personally handled the case.

Once Ricky died, Ricky's connections inside the military immediately surrendered to Otis and told him everything.

Little did she know that Otis was never the kind of person who would handle the case impartially at all. Instead, he collected all the evidence and used it to force her.

"Oh yeah, there's also the medicine that can cause short term memory loss. Tsk, if you still need it, just ask me, and I can get it for you. Haha." Otis laughed uncontrollably.

With all the evidence against Charlotte in his possession, he could certainly rest at ease.

After attending the summit during the day, Joyce went to Kane's house to have dinner with Anderson and play with him for a while.

Then she returned to the hotel.

The entire Artificial Intelligence Summit would last three days. On the third day, there would be a dinner party.

When Joyce got back to the hotel, she turned on her computer and started preparing the materials she would use tomorrow. She had a few more booths to visit tomorrow. It was worth her time to attend the summit. She had opened up her mind and learned a lot of new ideas for her future designs.

After she worked on the materials for a while.

Suddenly, there was a knock on the door, not too loud but pretty polite.

Joyce froze. No one knew that she was staying in the hotel, and Kane would surely contact her beforehand if he was coming. So who would knock on the door? Besides, she had not ordered takeout, and had not asked the front desk to deliver anything, so who could it be?
