Chapter 201 I Saw Everything

Joseph frowned and came over to catch Kathy who was about to fall. The smell of alcohol was emitted from the woman's mouth and his face darkened with dissatisfaction.

He grabbed her little hand and said in a low voice, "Mrs. Joseph, you're angry."

Kathy smiled mockingly and pushed him away. "It's none of your business."

Joseph's eyes darkened even more. He tyrannically raised her chin. She had no choice but to meet his cold gaze.

"Say it again?"

"It's none of your business, Joseph!" This time, her voice was much louder with hysterical.

She wanted to control her emotions, but she couldn't.

Thinking of Edith... That woman was in love with Joseph for so many years.

She was the one who was most qualified to be Joseph's woman.

"If it's none of my business, whose business will it be?" Joseph's voice became hoarse and seductive.

Kathy's body went numb. How could she resist Joseph's gentleness?

But she didn't want to rely on him anymore.

Against his chest, she coldly turned her head away and said, "It's not your business."

However, her chin was once again raised by Joseph. He narrowed his eyes, and the figure he saw just now flashed in his mind. He sternly asked, "What did you see just now?"

"I saw everything."

"Why are you angry?" Joseph frowned.

Kathy shook her head, not wanting to tell him.

Why was she angry? Even she herself didn't want to figure it out.

"Edith is my sister," Joseph said.

Kathy's face was still expressionless.

Her face was burning as well as her entire body, and she felt so hot in her throat that as if it was on fire.

She pushed Joseph away and wanted to stand up. But she couldn't stand stably at all and fell straight into his arms.

Joseph caught her and carried her horizontally.

Kathy instantly sobered up. She opened her eyes and saw the man's perfect chin.

"Let me go."

Kathy walked over and asked, “What happened to Mrs. Hilton?”

Billy frowned. “Do you have Rh-negative blood?”

Kathy paused and nodded. She had a rare blood type, but how could Billy know?

“My mother also has this blood type. I found your name in the blood bank.” Billy’s tone became heavy.

“Mrs. Hilton needs my blood?” Kathy immediately understood.

Billy nodded.

Kathy instinctively looked at Joseph. Subconsciously, she asked for his permission.

Joseph frowned. “If you are strong enough to take the damage, it’s fine with me.”

“I’ll go with you.” Kathy looked at Billy. “What kind of injury did Mrs. Hilton suffer?”

“She was in a car accident and is still being rescued.” Coldness that was emitted from Billy’s face intensified.

As he spoke, the man who had always been fearless trembled with fear.

Kathy’s heart was slightly aching.

"Mrs. Hilton will be fine," she murmured.

After they arrived at the blood drawing room, the doctor examined her. However, Kathy had a transfusion three months ago. Now, she was suffering from anemia.

"Miss Kathy, your current physical condition is not suitable for blood transfusion," the doctor said solemnly.

Joseph and Billy were both outside the curtain. The doctor's voice was not low, and both of them could hear him.

After that, Joseph immediately went in and said, "Then, stop it."

"Mr. Joseph, leave it to Kathy," Billy also came in and said with a cold tone.

At this time, a doctor from the emergency room came over and said, "The injured is still hemorrhaging. Is there a suitable donor? Otherwise, she will be in danger!"

The nurses were contacting the blood bank for suitable donors, but only Kathy was here.

Jennifer was still unconscious. She had serious injuries on her hands and legs, and her entire body was bandaged. The situation was not optimistic.

It would take at least 12 hours for her to get out of danger.

Billy stood beside her with a serious face.

Seeing Kathy enter, he walked towards her.

"Kathy, I'm sorry," Billy apologized again.

Just now, his mother was on the verge of death, so he had no choice but to ask Kathy for a blood transfusion.

But then she fainted, which made him upset.

"It's rare for you to say sorry," Kathy whispered. But her attention was on Jennifer.

Seeing the wounds on her body bandaged up, she revealed heartache in her eyes.

"My mother reminded me. She cares about Mrs. Hilton very much."

Billy's gaze was meaningful as he looked at Kathy's side face and his expression softened.

"No matter what, we owe you. You can make any request to me."

Kathy was surprised. Requests?

She thought about it seriously. But it seemed that Joseph could fulfill all her requests...

"Let's talk about it until I have one. When Mrs. Hilton wakes up, please inform me." Kathy didn't stay long.

At the end of the corridor, Joseph called John and said, "I want all the information about Jennifer and Angela."

When the two returned to the hotel, the moment they entered the lobby, Lincoln walked over and said, "Oh, man, I've been waiting for you for a long time!"

Joseph remained cold as he asked, "What's wrong?"

Lincoln looked at Kathy and lowered his voice. "Johnson is here and we'd like to have a reunion. But it seems inconvenient for you."

"Indeed. Rain check." With that, Joseph hugged Kathy and went upstairs.

Kathy heard Lincoln's words and tugged at Joseph's clothes. "If you have something to deal with, then go. I'll go back and sleep."

Jennifer stared at her son. “I didn’t ask you!”
Kathy frowned. Looking at Jennifer’s kind expression, she was silent for a moment.
“Kathy, think about it. I really like you. You saved my life again. No matter what, I have to repay you for your kindness. If you accept me as your godmother, then the Hilton family will be your family in the future,” Jennifer said earnestly.

Kathy smiled faintly. She knew Jennifer's intentions.

"Mrs. Hilton, when I go back, I'll think about it."

Billy stood at the side with a darkened expression, and his eyes were filled with anger.

After Kathy left, he closed the door and looked at his mother. "Mom, why did you do this?"

"Why can't I do this?" Jennifer frowned. She had been thinking about this matter for a long time.

"She's from the Joseph family," Billy pursed his lips and reminded his mother.

"I know that she is married to Joseph, but all I want is Kathy. It has nothing to do with the Joseph family."

"The Joseph family will not agree," Billy said coldly.

"I believe in Kathy." Jennifer was sure.

After leaving the hospital, Kathy thought about what Jennifer had said and was absent-minded.

Joseph held her small hand and asked, "What's wrong?"

"Mrs. Hilton wants me to be her goddaughter."

Joseph narrowed his eyes. "What do you think?"

"I don't think it's meaningful, but Mrs. Hilton treats me very well. I can't find a reason to refuse."

"So you agreed?" Joseph's voice was cold.

"I'll go back and ask my mother for her opinion," Kathy said.

If Angela didn't agree, she definitely wouldn't, either.

Kathy almost drowned in Joseph’s black eyes.

She nodded slowly. Of course she wanted Joseph to have time for her.

Kathy hugged him deeply. Most of the time, Kathy couldn’t help but rely on Joseph because he was so powerful and strong.

It was not until evening that they returned to their bedroom. Joseph’s cell phone was ringing. He walked to the French window and answered the phone.

Kathy’s cell phone also rang. It was Lincoln.

“Is Joseph with you, Kathy?” asked Lincoln with a little panic in his voice.

“Yes.”

“We can’t go back to City N in this period of time. BT Group’s sales channel is not ideal. MT Medicine has never been marketed.” Lincoln was angry.

Kathy was stunned. NCHV Medical Company and BT Group had discussed the marketing policy in detail before. If Lincoln was telling the truth, they didn’t need the BT Group to distribute MT Medicine at all.

“Mr. Fletcher, what should we do now?” Kathy didn’t have much experience dealing with these matters.

“I’m going to the BT Group tomorrow. Go with me.”

“OK.”

Joseph hung up his phone and walked over. His handsome face darkened.

Kathy said to Joseph, “I’m going back to the urban area tonight. It’s for a case.”

“OK, I’ll send you back to the hotel.” Joseph didn’t ask any further.

Kathy thought that he might already know about the matter.

It was getting late. Kathy looked at the sea outside and didn’t want to leave here...

Joseph knew that Kathy didn’t want to leave. He gently hugged her. “I’ll take you here another time, OK?”

Kathy smiled, “Will you?”

“Are you questioning me?” Joseph narrowed his eyes.

“No...” Kathy hugged Joseph and rubbed his chest with her head.

Joseph lifted Kathy’s head and kissed her deeply.

It was already early in the morning when they returned to the hotel. Kathy was a little sleepy. She did not have a good rest after sleeping with Joseph in the afternoon.

Joseph looked at Kathy's sleeping face, and his handsome face was tender.

Kathy was waiting until evening. Obviously, the BT Group was trying to stall for time.

She didn't have lunch, and her face was pale from hunger.

Now it's past work time. She took the agreement and went to the top floor.

The empty corridor was quiet, but the door of the office at the end was half-opened.

Kathy knocked on the door and saw Peter's handsome face.

"Mr. Champs," she called him politely.

Peter was doing nothing, so he was obviously not busy.

Kathy frowned and walked in. "What do you mean, Mr. Champs?"

Peter looked up and looked at Kathy indifferently. "My subordinate had reported to me. NCHV wants to terminate the contract, but I don't think there is anything wrong with our strategy of selling MT Medicine."

"Now we propose to terminate the contract. If you don't agree, we can only settle it in court."

Lincoln said that the BT Group would not admit that their strategy was wrong, so NCHV Medical Company had to be aggressive to terminate the contract.

“Kathy, I know that you have a backer and a lot of money, but you can’t waste money. MT Medicine is indeed not our main selling drug. Its reputation on the Internet has already been ruined, and consumers won’t buy it.”

“Then why were you willing to sign the contract with us before?” asked Kathy coldly.

If that was the case, the BT Group was cheating them!

“What do you think?” Peter narrowed his eyes. Kathy understood the unspoken answer.

“Mr. Champs, let’s cancel the contract. NCHV will compensate you.” Kathy calmed down.

She didn’t know if Peter was targeting NCHV Medical Company or her.

“This is an important matter. I can’t reply to you now.”

Kathy pursed her lips and asked coldly, “Mr. Champs, what exactly do you want?”

Peter smiled, “Kathy, do you think I’m targeting you?”

“I don’t think so. I just hope that we can settle this matter as soon as possible.”

“Don’t forget what you promised me.” Billy reminded her.
Kathy hung up the phone and asked, “How is Mrs. Hilton now?”
“She can’t leave the hospital yet. You can’t agree to her request.” Billy said with a stern face.

Kathy remembered that Mrs. Hilton wanted to recognize her as a goddaughter. She hadn't told her mother about that. However, if she agreed to Mrs. Hilton's request, she would probably have to meet Billy frequently in the future.

She disliked Billy.

"I won't agree to her request."

Kathy said confidently. Billy narrowed his eyes and asked, "It's because that you don't want to see me, isn't it?"

"Yes." Kathy did not deny it.

"Why do you think that I am not a patch on Joseph?" Billy asked coldly with his hands in his pockets.

Kathy paid attention to no one but Joseph. Billy envied Joseph.

Kathy frowned and said, "He's my husband. Billy, you're nobody for me."

Indeed, Billy helped her several times. But the relationship between them was nothing more than that.

"I told you before. He married you with purpose."

"Billy, you can say whatever you want." Kathy looked at him coldly. She hated this kind of hint the most.

"When your attitude towards me changes, I will tell you."

"Never mind," Kathy snapped.

The elevator reached the first floor. As soon as the door opened, they saw Lincoln's tall figure outside.

Lincoln heaved a sigh of relief when he saw Kathy. If something happened to her, he really didn't know how to explain to Joseph.

He was enraged by Peter so he left, but he didn't expect Kathy to be waiting there for so long.

Lincoln's face darkened when he saw Billy beside Kathy. He pulled Kathy to his side and asked Billy, "Why are you here?"

"I saved Mrs. Joseph, or she would be in danger." Billy said indifferently.

Kathy said to Lincoln, "I'll go to the hospital now. I'll go back to City N with you later."

Lincoln frowned discontentedly and asked, "Why are you going to the hospital? Are you going with him?"

Chapter 208 I Will Always Be by Your Side

When Kathy opened her eyes, she saw a familiar handsome face. There was no one else in the surroundings. The plane had already landed.

Kathy blinked her eyes. She wondered if she was in a dream.

She couldn't help but reach out to pinch Joseph's face. It felt so real.

Suddenly, Joseph gripped Kathy's hand and his head was closer to her. He said in a hoarse voice, "Mrs. Joseph, are you silly after sleep?"

"You're silly!" Kathy retorted.

When she came back to her senses, she hugged Joseph tightly and couldn't help but choke up.

Joseph was only away from her for one day, but she missed him so much...

"Mrs. Joseph, I will always be by your side." He whispered.

Kathy smiled and kissed his thin lips. She hugged him and threw her head back.

Joseph was stunned, and in the next second he leaned forward and kissed her deeply. In the end, Kathy was breathless in the kiss.

She sobbed and glared at Joseph.

Joseph smiled and carried her off the plane. Only then did Kathy realize that this was the rooftop of Joseph Bay.

"Did Lincoln go home?" Kathy asked.

"Mrs. Joseph, you finally think of me." Suddenly, a familiar voice sounded. In the living room, Lincoln sat at the dining table and ate.

Kathy was embarrassed. She pushed Joseph away and jumped down from his arms. Seeing Lincoln eating, she also felt hungry.

She hasn't eaten anything all day.

"Are you hungry?" Looking at Kathy's eyes, Joseph dotingly rubbed her head.

Kathy nodded. The servant quickly brought the food to them. Joseph and Kathy sat down opposite Lincoln.

"I don't want to see your public display of affection!" said Lincoln, looking disapproving.

"You can leave. We don't want to see you, either." Joseph said indifferently.

Lincoln choked and said, "I took your wife back!"

"You were in dereliction of duty." Joseph narrowed his eyes.

Chapter 209

In the afternoon, Kathy returned to NCHV Medical Company. She wanted to ask for leave, and she had to apply to Johnson personally.

Johnson was about to sign his name, but he noticed Kathy's reason for asking for leave: To attend a friend's wedding.

"Which friend?" he asked casually.

Kathy frowned and answered, "Alexia."

Sure enough, Johnson's face darkened. Johnson signed on the note and said indifferently, "Give my congratulations to her."

Kathy was impassive. She got out Johnson's office and Lincoln happened to come up.

"Kathy, come with me to the Joseph's Group." Seeing Kathy, Lincoln was like to see a savior.

Kathy was confused and Lincoln dragged her into the elevator.

"Mr. Fletcher, what happened?" Kathy frowned. Although Lincoln appeared to be cynical, he had always been calm in his handling of affairs. It was almost rare to see him be anxious.

"Did you quarrel with Joseph?" Lincoln did not answer, but asked instead.

Kathy was dumb, thinking of Joseph's unhappy expression this morning. He must be angry...

Lincoln understood when he saw Kathy's expression.

He rubbed his forehead between his eyebrows irritably. When had Joseph's temper been affected by a woman?

"Probably... No, I didn't." Kathy shook her head.

Joseph would never quarrel with her.

"You must have had a quarrel with him. He is a stern-faced despot in the company today. I can't calm him down, and the whole company will suffer."

"Since you can't calm him down, I can't either." Kathy frowned.

"Yes, you can! Only you can do it." Lincoln said confidently.

"I'm still at work..." Kathy didn't want to see Joseph right now.

Lincoln thought for a while. Then he directly dragged Kathy into Johnson's office and said to Johnson, "I'll take Kathy out for half a day!"

Johnson nodded abstractedly. He was thinking something.

Chapter 210

“Tyrant!”

As soon as he left the office, Lincoln slammed the documents and was very angry.

“Forget it. It’s none of your business. Let’s go and eat something.”

“Mr. Fletcher, I’d better wait for Joseph. You can eat by yourself.” After saying that, Kathy went back to her office.

She knew who she belonged to.

However, as soon as she entered the office, she bumped into an embrace and her shoulders were clasped, causing her face to turn pale from the pain.

“Joseph.” She whispered and looked at him.

The love in the man’s eyes was so deep that it could not be dissolved. He held onto Kathy and was extremely possessive.

Lincoln was so angry that he had already left. There was only Joseph’s office on this floor. So at this moment, it was quiet.

Kathy’s shoulder was pinched so hard that she could not help but push him away.

But Joseph pushed her onto the wall. He approached her and held her chin. His voice was hoarse, “Mrs. Joseph, who is your husband, huh?”

“You,” Kathy answered quickly without thinking.

“What about Lincoln?” he asked again. This time, his voice seemed a little more dangerous.

Kathy’s heart beat fast. Lincoln?

At first, she thought of him as Joseph’s friend, and later, she thought of him as her superior.

Therefore, she had always been polite and respectful towards Lincoln.

“He is my boss,” she said calmly.

Joseph’s gaze was deep and terrifying.

“Don’t bother with him in the future.” Joseph said in a deep voice.

“He’s your friend, and he’s worried about you.” Kathy said.

Otherwise, Lincoln wouldn’t be in such a hurry to find her today.

“I only need your concern.” As Joseph spoke, he stared down at her and kissed Kathy.

Before Kathy could regain her senses, a familiar aura had already spread out between her lips and teeth. Joseph was always so domineering that she could not resist.

Thinking that they were still in the office, Kathy tried to push him away.

However, she couldn't move at all. She was enjoying herself in Joseph's embrace. She glared at him, panting for breath.

Joseph smiled. This time, he asked, "Are you hungry?"
