

Sweetheart 211

Chapter 211 The Smell of Love

Walking out of the airport, Kathy saw Alexia from afar.

In the past, she was usually dressed in casual clothes, but now she was wearing a mature black dress. She had her hair waved. Her makeup was exquisite and perfect. She was like a famous socialite.

"Kathy, you're here!" Alexia quickly ran over and held Kathy intimately.

Kathy smiled and hugged Alexia, "I missed you so much."

"Well. Me too."

After they talked, Alexia looked at Joseph and greeted, "Dr. Joseph, long time no see."

"Long time no see. I wish you a happy wedding," Joseph said politely. His expression always was gentle and elegant.

"Thank you."

Joseph did not go to Alexia's house with Kathy. There were still two days before the wedding. He stayed at the hotel to deal with his business.

After getting into the car, Alexia said with envy beside Kathy, "Dr. Joseph is so considerate."

Probably because he knew that they would be chatting a lot in the next two days, he did not follow them.

"He's busy with his work."

"No matter how busy he was, he still accompanies you here."

Kathy's face reddened slightly. Considering this, Joseph was indeed impeccable.

The car slowly drove into a European-style villa. Kathy was no stranger to this place. She had been here a few years ago and was very familiar with Alexia's parents.

Alexia directly took Kathy to her room, "You must accompany me these few nights."

"Of course, I've been waiting for this day for a long time."

"Actually, I'm very calm. To me, getting married is just a process." Alexia said indifferently.

Kathy frowned and sat down on the sofa. "Where's your fiancé?"

"He's on a business trip. He won't be back until tomorrow."

"Alexia, you've known each other just for a month. Are you sure you understand him?" Kathy was worried.

"I'm not just marrying a man. I'm marrying a big family. In this way, it's not important to understand him or not."

"I'll show you my wedding dress!" She didn't want to continue this topic. So she brought Kathy into the cloakroom.

They were eating at a Chinese restaurant nearby.
As soon as they sat down, Joseph called Kathy. "Are you still in the hotel?"
"I've already left. I just met Billy and had dinner with him." Kathy did not conceal anything.
Joseph paused and said, "Wait for me."
Billy's gaze was filled with dissatisfaction, "Joseph is coming over?"
Kathy nodded and looked at the menu. She kept silence when she was eating with Billy.
Just as she ordered, Herbert walked over at the door.
"Billy, why didn't you call me now that you had dinner with Kathy?" Herbert's tone was rather unpleasant.
After saying that, she sat down beside Billy.
Billy frowned, "Didn't you say you were uncomfortable? Go back and have a good rest."
"I've become better after sleeping for a while. I want to accompany you." Herbert held Billy in her arms.
It seemed that she was showing that Billy belonged to her.
There was no expression on Kathy's face. She just looked out of the window indifferently.
"Didn't you see that I'm busy?" Billy's tone was slightly cold.

“What? Is there anything that you can’t let me know?” Herbert pretended to be angry.

“I will eat quietly. I won’t disturb you.”

“I only agreed to treat Mr. Hilton to dinner. Miss Herbert, you have to pay for it yourself.” Kathy smiled involuntarily.

“Kathy!” Herbert was slightly angry. Kathy was making fun of her in front of Billy.

“I’m Billy’s fiancée. You invited him to dinner, so you naturally have to treat me.”

Kathy’s smile turned cold. “There’s no reason for me to do that.”

Soon, the ambulance arrived and Billy hurried over. He followed Herbert to the hospital.
Kathy wanted to go over, but she was hugged by Joseph.
"This matter has nothing to do with you." He said in a deep voice.
Back at the hotel, Alexia had been calling Kathy. Joseph answered the phone.
"She's in a bad mood today. I'll come with her tomorrow."
"What happened?" Alexia asked nervously.
"Nothing." Joseph didn't say anything and quickly hung up.
Kathy came out of the bath and was in a much better mood. She sat on the sofa and was wiping her hair.
Joseph came over with a hairdryer and sat down beside her.
"Give me the towel and I'll help you blow-dry your hair." His voice was gentle and hoarse.
Kathy looked at the man beside him. He was handsome, and his outline was perfect. He wore a white shirt, and two buttons were loosened, revealing his sturdy chest.
"I can do it myself." She was a little unnatural and wanted to take the hairdryer.

Joseph, however, did not allow it. He pressed her head and let her lean against his leg. The rustling sound rang out very quickly.

Her slender fingertips passed through her hair. He occasionally touched her scalp, causing her to tremble slightly.

"Too hot?" Joseph asked as he changed the gear.

Kathy shook her head, closed her eyes, and hugged Joseph's waist.

"I thought no one would believe me," She suddenly said.

"Mrs. Joseph, I believe you." Joseph looked at her sincerely.

His words warmed her heart.

He seemed to have always trusted her unconditionally.

Kathy couldn't help but smile and ask, "Why?"

She didn't even know him before. Even if she was Mrs. Joseph, he still had the ability to distinguish between them.

"You are Kathy."

Chapter 214 It's Not Worth It

"Joseph, you must have a way to find Johnson, right?" Kathy looked at the man beside her.
He and Johnson were good brothers. He must know where he went.
Joseph looked at her, but his expression was always indifferent.
He rarely interfered in Johnson's affairs.
"Joseph." Seeing that he was indifferent, Kathy became more anxious.

The man frowned, hugged her slender waist, and said in a low voice, "If Alexia is unwilling to leave, Johnson will not force her."

"Who knows? Johnson is such a piece of shit. He can do anything!" Kathy was extremely angry.

She forgot that Johnson was her boss.

"Mrs. Joseph, calm down."

"How can I be calm? Joseph, help me find Alexia. I can't let her be harmed by Johnson again..."

In her opinion, Johnson was a love swindler. He had a fiancée, but he was still entangled with Alexia.

He was a playboy, but Alexia couldn't play with him.

Alexia was her good friend, and she didn't want her to get hurt again.

"Kathy, do you have any news of Alexia?" Alexia's mom hurriedly walked over. People had already urged Alexia's mom several times, and it was obvious that she was getting impatient.

Kathy remained silent and couldn't help but pinch Joseph's arm.

Joseph said indifferently, "Christie, we leave first."

Alexia's mother looked at the noble and elegant man and was astonished.

Just now, she saw that he was quite close to Kathy, but she had been busy with Alexia's marriage recently, so she had no time to care about Kathy.

Seeing Alexia's mom looking at Joseph, Kathy introduced him, "Christie, this is my boyfriend, Joseph."

Joseph frowned discontentedly. He did not like Kathy to treat him as his boyfriend.

Christie nodded politely. There was nothing she could do now. She could only hope that Alexia did not leave.

Chapter 215 Joseph's Praise

“There you are. Finally!” Herbert said discontentedly.

After he sent her to the hospital last night, Billy didn’t show up until then.

“You’re my fiancée. I remember that,” Billy said in an indifferent voice.

“I called the police. But why hasn’t Kathy been arrested yet?” Herbert said angrily.

After she woke up last night, she immediately called the police. She was injured because of Kathy!

“Although there are no cameras in the bathroom, Kathy won’t take the initiative to hurt you,” Billy said directly.

“You don’t believe me? She’s already Mrs. Joseph, and I’m your fiancée!”

“Herbert, behave yourself. I don’t have time to clean up all the mess for you. Even if you have called the police, Joseph must have fixed it. Who do you think you are?” Billy said with disdain.

Herbert muttered, “You can help me ...”

“I have warned you not to hurt Kathy.” Billy frowned.

“So, you’re here to laugh at me?” Herbert took a tumble.

Both Billy and Joseph took Kathy’s side!

“You can say that again. I will go back to City N tomorrow. After you are discharged from the hospital, you shall go back yourself.” Then, Billy quickly left.

Herbert was so angry that she grabbed the pillow beside her and threw it over. But Billy never stopped.

Two days passed.

Kathy went back to work in NCHV Medical Company. And some of her colleagues gathered and chatted.

“I heard that Mr. Johnson is going to resign.”

“What? Why?”

“I don’t know. He hasn’t come to work for three days. I heard from the personnel department that there was a personnel change in senior management recently.”

Kathy frowned. As expected, everyone received an e-mail soon and was asked to attend a meeting in the meeting room.

Since Johnson wasn’t there, everyone was curious about the host of the meeting.

Chapter 216 Seize the Chance

Sue was a smart woman and quickly understood what Kathy meant.

A lightning marriage meant that they still didn’t have a strong relationship.

“Doctor Joseph is a good man. You must seize the chance.”

Alexia said so too.

Kathy seemed a bit sullen. She often felt uncertain about their relationship just because Joseph was so outstanding.

It was normal to drink wine in a dinner party. However, Joseph poured juice into Kathy’s glass. Sue tried to stop him but in vain.

“Nice try. Joseph cares about her a lot,” Lincoln said teasingly with his long legs crossed.

“It’s OK. I can drink some with your friends.” Kathy frowned. Everyone drank. Although she was a wimpy drinker, she could still take a sip or two.

“Anyway, Joseph will take you home if you’re drunk.” Sue blinked at Kathy.

Kathy flushed slightly. She did not dare to get drunk.

“Only one sip,” Joseph said seriously with a straight face.

“Kathy, Joseph is so strict with you. Are you preparing for pregnancy?” Kathy had just taken a sip and almost spat it out.

Pregnancy ...

She immediately shook her head, “Joseph and I don’t want a baby now.”

“You’ve been married for a year, Joseph. Didn’t your grandpa press you to have one?”

“It’s not up to him,” Joseph said in a deep voice.

“Don’t let Kathy wait too long.”

"You talk too much, Sue. Enjoy your wine!" Lincoln handed a glass of wine to Sue.

Sue was dissatisfied and involuntarily leaned against Lincoln. The moment they touched each other, they burnt with passion.

After Hannah left, Kathy sat alone in the coffee shop.
Just as she wanted to call Joseph, a man sat in front of her.
It was Billy again!
"Did you follow me?" She looked at him vigilantly.
Billy frowned and pointed at the building across the street. "I work here."
"I should go now." Kathy didn't want to talk with him.
But Billy stopped her and said, "Don't go. Would you like to come to my house for dinner tonight?"
"Billy, I don't owe you anything right now," Kathy said unhappily.
"My mother has just been discharged from the hospital. Now she is going to settle in City N. She wants to meet you."
Thinking of Jennifer, Kathy was a bit swayed.
"I'm busy."
"Are you busy investigating what happened five years ago?" Billy looked at her.
"How did you know?"
"If you want to pursue postgraduate studies, you must obtain your diploma first. The incident five years ago stirred up the entire educational circle. You were a top student from Boston University. It is very difficult for you to get rid of such a scandal."
Kathy's body trembled slightly. Every time that matter was brought up, she could hardly control herself.
She took a deep breath and turned around. "Billy, what do you mean by that?" said she.
"Maybe I can help you." Billy narrowed his eyes.

“No need.”

Then, Kathy turned around and decided to go.

Billy’s face darkened, and his black eyes narrowed.

“Don’t you want to know who framed you?” Billy said casually.

“I will find the answer myself,” she stopped and said coldly.

Kathy put the underwear in her bag and walked into the menswear area. Suddenly, Kathy saw Sue.
Sue was also very surprised. She walked over and said, "Kathy, are you here to buy clothes for Joseph?"
Kathy smiled and said, "Yes. I guess so."
But she hadn't found anything satisfying yet.
"I came alone as well. Let's go shopping together," Sue said straightforwardly.
Kathy did not refuse her. Sue had good taste. She could give her some advice.
"So, you want to buy Joseph a gift. Why don't you buy him a tie? I saw some good ones just now." Sue brought Kathy to another counter.
Kathy glanced at the price tags and was dazed.
Although she could swipe Joseph's card, the tie was worth her salary for several years. She couldn't afford it.
Sue noticed her expression and frowned, "Kathy, do you think it's too expensive?"

Kathy nodded and pulled Sue out.

"Did Joseph give you a Black Card?" Sue asked discontentedly.

"Yes, he did. But I don't want to spend too much of his money."

"He has money. Don't worry. Come one!" Sue pulled Kathy back into that shop.

The shop assistant quickly came over, and Sue pointed at the ties in front of her and said, "Choose one."

Kathy hesitated. She knew that Joseph's card had no limit. She gave her salary card to him and had never taken it back.

"Choose one now, or I will do it for you," Sue said discontentedly.

Kathy had to pick out a navy blue tie and pay the bill. After that, the shop assistant wrapped it up and handed it to her.

"Sue, what do you want to buy?" Kathy asked. It occurred to her that Sue was in the menswear area just now.

"Nothing." Sue was just wandering casually.

Kathy frowned. They weren't very familiar with each other, so she didn't ask if Sue wanted to buy something for Lincoln.

Kathy's eyes widened. She stepped forward but was stopped by Joseph, unable to move.
Stimulated by the hormone, Joseph kissed Kathy. She slowly closed her eyes.
She was pushed against the wall by Joseph. And he started to touch her.

Kathy immediately stopped him.

His eyes darkened.

And he smiled. They were very close to each other. Kathy looked straight into his eyes.

“Joseph ... you’re going to work,” She said.

“Uh huh.” Joseph narrowed his eyes and lowered his head to kiss Kathy again.

He didn’t stop until she was almost out of breath ...

Kathy also went back to the company to work. It had been a week since Lincoln took office. Although everyone was gossiping about Johnson, no one knew where he had gone.

He seemed to have disappeared from City N overnight.

Kathy worked as usual. She and Sue got more acquainted than before. They often had lunch together, so it was normal for her to meet Lincoln.

In the staff dining room, Kathy and Sue had just sat down when Lincoln came up to them.

“Why didn’t you invite me to join you?” asked Lincoln directly.

Sue frowned and said, “Why are you always haunting me? It’s not working time now.”

“That’s why I didn’t ask you to work for me.” Lincoln narrowed his eyes.

Kathy was not surprised at their conversation. That was how they talked to each other. She just lowered her head and quietly looked at the menu.

“You shall invite me to lunch,” Lincoln said peremptorily.

“We have a lot fun together. Don’t disturb us.”

Chapter 220 What Could She Repay for Him

Beside Joseph sat a few doctoral students in medicine, and they all expressed their opinions.

The dean was embarrassed. He wanted to argue for himself, but the principal and other school directors were present. The classroom became quite quickly.

In the end, the principal walked over and said, "Kathy, I have read your thesis. I think it's not bad, so you can pass."

Kathy was dumbfound and didn't come to her senses.

She looked at Joseph through the crowd. She didn't know when he had been here.

When the teachers had asked her questions, she understood that they meant to not allow her to pass, especially the dean. However, the dean did not have any grudges with her. Why did she aim at her?

She knew well about her thesis, but she was angry when they obviously picked on her.

It happened again.

"What do you think?" The principal looked at the teachers of the thesis supervisory committee.

"We also think that the thesis is good. We were not being professional just now."

The principal narrowed his eyes and looked around the classroom. Finally, he looked at the dean.

"You are not the member of the committee, but you have questioned the thesis many times. Do you not trust our school's professors?"

The dean couldn't help but tremble as she heard his words. According to the rules, she shouldn't have been here.

However, now that she came here, the teachers would adopt her opinion for her sake.

"Mr. Principal, I'm just giving my opinion."

"I heard it, but I'm afraid your knowledge is not comparable to that of the student who answered. I'm very disappointed."

The dean was so embarrassed when she was criticized in public. However, she did not dare to say anything because there were many important figures here.

Hannah also arrived today. She was Kathy's thesis supervisor. She had corrected the problems if there were. Kathy would have graduated as she expected.
