Chapter 221 How Dare I Lie to You

Herbert's face was deathly pale. She ran over and grabbed Billy's arm. "It really has nothing to do with me. It's not me. It's Peter behind the plot."

Billy stopped and narrowed his eyes as he coldly looked at Herbert. "Peter Champs?"

Herbert nodded solemnly. "It's him."

"Herbert, you know the consequences of lying to me." Billy narrowed his eyes coldly.

Herbert bit her lip and panic flashed in her eyes. She whispered, "How dare I lie to you?"

The next day, Kathy came to Boston University to confirm the information. She was about to call Joseph when leaving. After she went downstairs, someone suddenly grabbed her shoulder and pulled her to the classroom at the end of the corridor.

"Who are you?" Kathy's face turned pale. The person holding her was so skillful that she could not struggle away.

When the door was opened, a familiar figure appeared. It was the dean, Laura!

"Kathy, I've wronged you."

Kathy glared at her. It was her again. She aimed at her both yesterday and five years ago.

"Why did you do this?" Kathy was pushed away by the people behind her, and she staggered a few steps and fell to the ground.

Her hands had been tied, and she could not move at all.

Laura smiled and squatted down, pinching her chin. "I also work for others. What do you think?"

"Herbert?"

"Smart. I've helped her with so many things, but she blame all on me. Kathy, what do you think I should do?" Laura narrowed her eyes and hatred appeared in her eyes.

"Since you have broken the law, you should be punished."

"Me? I'm just a scapegoat. You have ruined my life! I don't accept it." Laura said sinisterly, pinching her neck hard.

It hurt so that her face turned even paler, but she was unable to resist.

"Let go of me. It is Herbert who hurt you!"

Herbert.

Laura's expression changed. Seeing that Kathy was about to faint, she opened her grip a little. hadn't defend yourself, nothing would have or later. Chapter 222 There Was No Time to Escape

Laura's face turned pale. I was also instructed! But you did it, Kathy said calmly. Laura staggered back a few steps. She saw hatred in her eyes. Kathy, let me go. I really don't know anything. Laura ran over and tried to grab Kathy's arm. Joseph held her in his arms and avoided Laura. Bring her to the police station. He took Kathy to leave after giving John the order. Are you injured? Joseph looked at her with concern and held her wrist in the car. Kathy shook her head. She didn't hurt me. She just wanted me to testify against Herbert. Neither she nor Herbert can escape. Ruthlessness flashed Joseph's eyes. Joseph said this, but Kathy could not rest assured. Quite a few people are involved this time. I never expected to make it a big scene. Kathy looked down. Anyway, it had affected the reputation of the Boston University. The school has long wanted to investigate the increasingly serious phenomenon of bribery. You just provide an opportunity for them. They returned to the Joseph Bay. Kathy discovered that her lower back was injured when she was taking a bath. It should have been hit by Laura. She walked out in a nightgown and looked for some tincture. She stood in front of the mirror, trying to put it on her back, but she seemed to not reach the spot. The door was pushed open. As Joseph entered, he saw Kathy nightgown was taken off to the wrist.

Her nightgown straps were pulled off and her porcelain-white shoulders seemed to glitter in the light. Her hands rubbed her back all the way down.

He saw her bruised waist.

His eyes darkened, and he quickly walked towards her.

When she saw the man walking in the mirror, she trembled slightly, and almost dropped the tincture.

Joseph hugged her from her back, his eyes becoming gentle as he put his chin on her shoulder. He said in a low and hoarse voice, "Are you seducing me?"

Kathy's cheeks blushed red. Looking at herself in the mirror, she realized that she was indeed seductive.

Billy paused for a moment. Suddenly, something flashed through his mind as he looked at his mother's expression.

However, he denied his guess at once.

It was impossible.

The next day, the Hiltons announced the cancellation of Billy's engagement to Herbert, causing the share price of the Herbert's group to plummet.

Billy had just ended the meeting. Before he could return to his office, Herbert stopped him.

??Sorry, Mr. Hilton, but I can't stop Miss Herbert.??

Billy narrowed his eyes and asked his secretary to leave.

Herbert looked at the man with an indifferent expression. She thought that he finally did it.

He maybe have been waiting for this day for a long time.

??Billy, why don't you discuss it with me in advance?? Herbert said angrily.

Billy sat down elegantly on the sofa without casting a glance at Herbert.

??Isn't it good? I'll let you go free,?? Billy said at will.

??I want to be with you!?? Herbert approached, trying to hold Billy.

But she was pushed away by him ruthlessly.

A pile of photos were smashed into Herbert's face. When she saw them, her face turned pale.

In the photos, she and Peter were hugging and kissing in different occasions, such as in the mall, and in the hotel.

How did he know?

??Do you spy on me?? Herbert widened her eyes.

Billy did not answer, but she thought that he acquiesced it.

Chapter 224 I Still Love You

The car sped up along the highway. Kathy looked out the window and saw desolate landscapes. She gradually clenched her hands.

Suddenly, the phone in her bag rang. The caller ID was "my husband".

Peter narrowed his eyes coldly and threw her phone away.

"Peter, you can't escape," Kathy said calmly.

Half an hour later, the car stopped on an empty flat ground. Not far away was a private airport.

Kathy was pushed out of the car. She looked at Peter and asked, "Where are you taking me?"

"A place no one knows about," Peter answered in a deep voice.

Looking at the plane in the distance, Peter smiled.

However, Kathy thought his smile was terrifying.

"I won't leave."

"You can't refuse. Kathy, I really both love and hate you. Do you understand what it feels like?"

Kathy frowned. She did not believe that Peter still loved her.

"You love Herbert?"

"No, I don't love her," Peter denied. "She can satisfy my needs when I stay with her, but I always feel lonely."

"Bastard," Kathy cursed angrily.

"If you had been willing to make out with me, I wouldn't have done it. Five years ago, I loved you. Now, I still love you. However, I also hate you."

"Madman?"

"Yes, I am, but it's all because of you. Kathy, admit it. You still like me. Otherwise, how could you kill that child when Herbert was pregnant?" Peter said coldly.

Kathy smiled with mockery. Peter never believed her.

"That child has nothing to do with me. Peter, if you don't believe me, why do you say you love me?"

"You're a malicious woman. How can I believe you?" Peter's eyes gradually revealed his infatuation as his rough hand touched her fair face.

Chapter 225 Why Did You Come?

With everything set, the cabin door was slowly closed.

Hope retreating to the backdoor, Kathy had to face Peter, because her shoulders were gripped by him.

"Peter, it's not late for you to let me go," she persuaded him.

"That's not possible. Herbert has turned herself in, and she will definitely rat me out. I don't want to be behind bars!" Peter's tone was hoarse and desperate.

He didn't work hard for so many years just to rot in prison.

Now he only needed Kathy.

His eyes grew passionate as he gazed at her delicate face.

Kathy avoided his gaze and focused her attention on the view outside the window.

The cabin door was closing, while she looked at the same direction. Then she noticed a familiar black car approaching the helicopter.

Hope lit up her eyes. At a closer look, she was sure that it was Joseph.

However, the helicopter was slowly ascending.

The black car stopped. John quickly aimed at the helicopter and reported, "Mr. Joseph, Peter and your wife are both on the plane."

Joseph squinted. "Are the jets ready?"

"Yes, standing by to attack."

Joseph got out of the car. The helicopter just took off, but was surrounded by four fighter jets, unable to fly higher.

Kathy had been looking down at Joseph, extremely nervous.

"Mr. Champs, we are under attack." The pilot turned around with an ominous expression.

Peter stuck his head out and realized that four fighter jets had cornered him. He gripped Kathy's wrist.

"I really underestimated Joseph."

"You were in danger. Did you think I was going to stand by?" Joseph pinched her chin with his slender fingers, sounding serious.

"But you could be in danger." Kathy's voice trembled.

"Your safety comes first."

Kathy bit her lips, feeling touched.

Did that mean Joseph put her first?

"Thank you," Kathy whispered.

"You're my wife. Who else is going to protect you?" Joseph looked at her.

"However, that's only my title." They had no real feelings for each other.

A trace of disappointment flashed in his eyes. Raising his eyebrows, he asked, "Not satisfied?"

"No." Kathy avoided his eyes.

Being his wife was enough.

She didn't want to get too close with him.

In the evening, John came over to report that Peter and Herbert had been arrested. Bribery alone could put them behind bars. However, they were not convicted yet. The court day started next week, and Kathy needed to be there.

Now that Billy and Herbert were no longer engaged, the Herberts were in a bad place.

Kathy was calm. The matter involved a lot of people, and she hadn't had much hope for a thorough investigation. Now everything was progressing beyond her expectations.

Joseph stayed in the hospital for three days, and Kathy asked for leave to accompany him.

Lincoln and Sue visited them every day, but Lincoln did not look happy doing it. He was jealous of Joseph and Kathy being so close.

Sue and Kathy chatted. Lincoln sat beside the hospital bed and teased, "Have you been having a good time?"

“Jealous?” Joseph lazily raised his eyebrows.

“How can I? You’re my boss.”

“When do you plan to go back to the Fletcher’s?”

“Never. Do you think that will work?” Lincoln squinted.

He had long decided to not return to that place.

Just as the car left the Hilton's, Kathy received a call from Billy—Jennifer fainted from illness.
Kathy immediately asked the driver to turn around. However, noticing that her mother seemed to be exhausted, she requested him to send her mother back first.
"Kathy, be there for her," Angela advised.
Kathy did not think too much but nodded hard.
Angela looked at her daughter's figure, tears streaming down her eyes. Was this the right thing to do?

Jennifer was quickly taken to the hospital. Only then did Kathy know that Jennifer had been suffering from severe heart failure.

Not long ago, Jennifer had been diagnosed with this disease when she had had a car accident. Although the illness had been contained, it had been hitting her more and more often.

Kathy looked at the red light in the emergency room, unable to hide the worry on her face.

Billy stood at the end of the corridor, looking cold, cigarette butts piling up at his feet.

After a while, he walked over and said, "It's too late. Go back and rest."

Kathy frowned and shook her head.

Not only because Angela had advised her to stay, but she was worried about Jennifer.

"You're not a Hilton. Why do you concern yourself about this?" Billy didn't sound friendly.

This wasn't the first time that Jennifer had such an episode, but it was worse.

Thinking of his mother's abnormal behavior recently, Billy was irritated.

"Furthermore, haven't you refused to be my mother's goddaughter?" Billy said mockingly.

In his opinion, Kathy shouldn't be here pretending to care about Jennifer.

"I will leave when she is out of danger." Kathy did not want to argue with him.

She could understand how he was feeling. After all, it was his mother.

Chapter 228 Never Give up the Investigation

In the car, Kathy looked at Joseph and hesitated before she could say anything.

"If you have something to say, just say it." Joseph frowned and slowed down the car.

"I want you to take a look at these drugs for me." Kathy handed him the picture on her phone.

Joseph's sharp eyes narrowed. "Jennifer's?"

Kathy nodded slowly. Looking at Joseph's expression, she wondered if he would be angry.

She knew that Joseph had always hated her associating with the Hiltons, but this....

"What happened to her?" Joseph's voice was warm and calm.

“Chronic heart failure. I find her sickness too strange, so I want to check it out,” Kathy explained.

The car drove into Joseph Bay. Joseph looked at the photo and scanned the labels one by one.

“They are routine drugs. Regular intake can control the illness.”

Kathy paused for a moment, then took out a transparent bag. In it were some pills she took from Jennifer’s drug bottle.

“Take a look at this.”

“An outsider may assume you are a Hilton.” Joseph suddenly smiled.

Kathy frowned. Alright, she noticed that he was jealousy.

“Dr. Joseph, Mrs. Hilton is good to me,” Kathy said.

“And I am not?” Joseph turned his head, his eyes burning.

“Dr. Joseph treats me the best!” Kathy’s heart warmed up as she smiled.

Joseph clasped the back of her head, his handsome face approaching, blocking her scorching breath.

Kathy shouted softly. Joseph got on the top of her, fierce, gripping her wrists upwards. Her struggle was simply futile.

After a long moment, Kathy flushed up to her ears, and Joseph let go of her with satisfaction.

“You got what you wanted. Now can you check this medicine for me?”

"What are you going to do?" Kathy asked anxiously.
After all, she had been working in NCHV for five years, so she didn't want anything bad to happen to it.
However, the business world was ruthless, not to mention that NCHV had long lost its glow.

"I will get to the bottom of this. But NCHV might fall apart," Joseph said in a deep voice.

Kathy was surprised. Looking at Joseph's cold face, she knew that he had already made up his mind.

"Have you checked all those drugs?"

Joseph asked John to bring the drugs over. "They contain components that can damage the nerves and heart. For patients with heart failure, long-term consumption can lead to death."

Kathy's face turned pale.

Her hands trembled as she took the medicine. Her suspicion came true.

"Who could it be?"

She murmured.

"I'll go to the hospital first. Mrs. Hilton can't take any more of these." With that, Kathy walked out with her bag in hand.

Joseph forcefully grabbed her wrist and pulled her into his embrace, sounding unhappy, "Kathy, you want to get your hands dirty with the Hilton's mess?"

"Yes." She nodded without hesitation, "Joseph, this is a matter of life and death!"

Joseph squinted dangerously, staring at her without blinking, anger surging in his eyes.

Kathy could not understand him, but his indifference chilled her.

She pushed him away. "I'll be back later tonight."

Then she quickly left.

Joseph looked at her back and the sinister look in his eyes became obvious.

When John entered, he felt sick from the smell of smoke in the room.

After all, Joseph rarely smoked, unless something was weighing on him.

John was observant, realizing that his boss was in a bad mood.

He braced himself, "Mr. Joseph, I've found out everything about Jennifer's miscarriage 25 years ago."

Chapter 230 Prepare for the Worst

It was night now, but Joseph still didn't come back.

Kathy received a phone call from Angela. Today's headlines were all about NCHV Medical Company, so Angela inevitably saw it as well.

Besides, the news concerned Peter. Angela was even more worried.

"Kathy, do something happen to NCHV Medical Company?"

"Yes." Kathy frowned.

For now, NCHV Medical Company was under investigation. The employees were notified of company's decision that they can be on leave now.

The situation NCHV Medical Company faced now was even worse than last year when it was once on the verge of bankruptcy.

Kathy couldn't help but feel a little guilty as she thought of the Lincoln's angry face in the morning.

Perhaps, to revenge Kathy, Peter took advantage his mother's death to fight with NCHV Medical Company.

"Does it mean that you are out of work?"

"Mom, don't worry. I plan to pursue my postgraduate study, so I am prepared to resign."

"Well, you've worked there for five years. It's good to have such a sound job. Haven't you given up the idea of postgraduate study? Why would you have that thought again? Take it easy, I would ask someone's favor to give you a job..." Angela said worriedly.

Kathy frowned. Her mother's thoughts were not unfamiliar to her. The job in NCHV Medical Company had little room for promotion in her eyes, but its merit was sound and riskless. Angela was satisfied with fact that Kathy could have this kind of work guarantee.

In Angela's view, Kathy's plan of postgraduate study at the cost of job was unrealistic.

Moreover, Kathy was already married. As Kathy had her family, she should set her family as the focus of her life.

"Mom, I've already decided and I won't plan to have a new job now." Her gentle tone carried a note of toughness.

Kathy rarely retorted Angela. In the past years, she always complied with Angela, but on the matter of her postgraduate study, her decision was unchangeable.

“No, you shall come back immediately. Does Dr. Joseph agree to this? You still do not consider having a baby this year. How old are you?”

Kathy was annoyed and quickly hung up the phone.

To have a children ... was something not on her agenda.

Joseph didn't return until midnight. Kathy comforted herself with words that everything was fine, but she couldn't help but call him.
