Chapter 231 I Want to Be with You

It was already noon when Kathy waked up again, and Joseph's aura still lingered around her.

Did he go to the company again?

Kathy went downstairs. The servant already put her meal on the table.

"Was Joseph out?" Kathy asked.

As soon as she finished speaking, a familiar figure emerged from the second floor. It was Lincoln.

He didn't put up a gentle face when he saw Kathy.

"Mrs. Joseph was a real idler." There was a hint of irony in his words.

"What do you mean?" Kathy looked at him calmly.

"Nothing." Lincoln held his tongue.

He sat down on the opposite side, and the servant had apparently prepared his meal.

Kathy then concluded that Joseph didn't go out today.

At this time, Kathy's phone buzzed. Sue texted Kathy on Wechat, inquiring after Lincoln's whereabouts.

Kathy: He is in Joseph Bay.

Sue: Let him answer my call.

Kathy looked up at Lincoln's gloomy face and frowned.

At the same time, Lincoln's phone rang.

Lincoln hung up without thinking.

"Sue may have something important to tell you." Kathy said.

"She has nothing to do with me." Lincoln's tone was cold.

Kathy replied to Sue that she couldn't help Sue.

Joseph didn't come downstairs for lunch. Thinking that he didn't eat anything, Kathy carried some food to him.

Joseph was in the middle of a meeting, so Kathy did not disturb him.

Backing onto the French window, Joseph dressed himself with homewear. His profile was bewitching.

Kathy was absent-minded. Her eyes were always inadvertently drawn to Joseph.

Joseph's eyes met hers. His thin lips curled up.

"Mom, Kathy and I have a plan of the baby. Don't worry."
Outside the door came a deep voice.
Kathy was relaxed when she saw Joseph.
She was under pressure with Angela's demand of the baby.
"What's your plan?" Angela asked.
"It won't be late when Kathy realizes her dream."
Angela frowned, because she was dissatisfied with the answer.
However, she remained silence on this matter since Joseph had aired his opinion.
"Fine. It's good you can have your plan. Apparently, my plan for you is extra." Though Angela did not content with their plan, she could only accept it as she saw they were in love.
After having someone send Angela home, Joseph was going to do his work. He paused for a moment and walked towards the bedroom.
Kathy and Alexia were on the phone. Recently, the city was rocked with news about NCHV Medical Company. Alexia had worked in the Company for years, so she had a strong affection for it.

"It's the scumbag Peter who plots against us. Is he done with these tricks?"

"I saw him at the police station today. The evidence in his hands has yet to be confirmed, but NCHV Medical Company's ruined reputation was hard to save."

"What does Joseph think? He bought NCHV Medical Company. He won't stand aloof about the whole thing, will he?"

"Johnson is back. Now he is dealing with this scandal."

Alexia's voice suddenly stopped.

The man's name has vanished for a long time in her world.

Kathy also realized it, but her words were already out.

"Alexia, it's getting late."

A man's voice rang out.

Alexia came back to her senses and said, "Kathy, see you."

"Good night."

After hung up the phone, Kathy sighed. She sensed that Alexia wasn't over Johnson yet.

"Will Lincoln hurt Sue?"

“He doesn’t have that nerve.”

“Do you know something about their relationship?” Kathy asked curiously.

She didn’t want to bring back Sue’s terrible memory, so Kathy never inquired about the thing with Sue.

However, since Joseph and Lincoln were bosom friends, Joseph must know their story.

“Sue is Lincoln’s childhood sweetheart, but Lincoln’s families would accept Sue.”

“The Fletcher Family?”

Kathy knew little about Lincoln, but she already guessed that Lincoln may be a man with status.

When Sue left City N, Kathy came to see her off. Joseph did not drop a visit to Sue, because he had a meeting to attend. He just sent Kathy to meet Sue.

Sue led a wandering life, and she never settled down for years. She had already been accustomed to this kind of life, as she traveled a lot at home and abroad in the past years.

“Where’s Johnson?” Johnson did not show up, so Kathy asked.

“He’ll come over later. I’m afraid he is on a date.” Sue forced a smile.

“There are plenty of women around him.” Kathy frowned.

“It is weird that he doesn’t seem to have any much gossip recently.”

It was the boarding time. Sue slacked her paces and kept looking back.

However, the man she wished to see didn’t appear.

Sue’s disappointment was in Kathy’s eyes. She could do nothing but gave a hug to Sue, “Have a safe journey.”

Kathy planned to go back to Joseph Bay after she left the airport. But the case of Boston University was about to be on trial, she was supposed to confirm the record with policemen today.

She needed to testify in court three days later.

When Kathy left the police station, Peter was outside. He was arrested.

Confronting Kathy, Peter’s hatred welled up from the corner of his eyes.

His gaze stunned Kathy for a long time before she could collect herself.

Just now, Kathy learnt the details of the investigation. Herbert gave Peter away. She confessed that Peter was one of the conspirators who plotted against Kathy years before.

Chapter 234 You Are My Priority

Three days later, the case of Boston University bribery officially came to trial.

Joseph came over to accompany Kathy.

The investigation of this case yielded a clear result. Kathy, sitting quietly on the witness stand, was indifferent to the gazes people cast on her.

This case went to court because of her. Yet it had something to do with the corruption and bribery in universities, so many people were hostile to Kathy.

Kathy lowered her eyes. She listened quietly to the judge's verdict.

To her surprise, Herbert got the lightest sentence, one-year imprisonment, for her crime.

Peter, on the contrary, was found guilty of damaging Kathy's reputation and defamation. All those teachers involved in the case got their due punishment.

Peter was sentenced to thirty-year imprisonment. In the court, Kathy could clearly perceive Peter's eyes shooting at her with venom.

She turned her head indifferently. It was time for her to leave the court.

She did not have much objection to the court's verdict, because she believed the justice of law.

Kathy left the witness stand, but Billy stopped her with his tall figure.

"Aren't you curious about the reason why Peter was regarded as the chief plotter?" Billy asked.

"The police have investigated it clearly. The school teacher slandered me under his order. Isn't his punishment due?"

"What was Peter's motive for hurting you?"

"Billy, what do you want to say?" Kathy looked at him vigilantly.

"Peter has no support, so it's reasonable he was punished in this way. Yet how about Herbert?"

"If someone helps Herbert to reduce her penalty, it would be you, doesn't it?" After all, the Herbert's group was merged into the Hilton's group. Besides, both families were kindred.

Billy smiled and said, "Kathy, the man who can do anything in City N? Think about who he is."

Chapter 235 I'll Always Be by Your Side

Since she had been prepared for the exam, Kathy did not go out for half a month until she received a phone call from the hospital. It turned out that her mother had been hospitalized.

Before Kathy could notify Joseph, she drove to the hospital first.

She found her mother's ward. Before entering it, she heard an unfamiliar voice.

She stopped at the door.

"Follow me back to Country B." The man's tone sounded domineering.

"Fuck off." Angela threw the pillow at the man.

Out of worry, Kathy immediately walked in.

Seeing the man in front of her, Kathy still felt he was like a stranger.

Her impression of him was vague, because the last time she saw him was many years ago. Back then, she was only three years old, but he had already abandoned Angela and her heartlessly.

A hint of hatred appeared on Kathy's face and she turned her back to him.

"Angela, for the sake of your health, please leave with me, okay?" Maurice's voice softened.

"My mother told you to fuck off. Didn't you hear it?" Kathy turned around and glared at the man.

Maurice was not angry at all. He just looked at Kathy calmly.

"I'll come back tomorrow."

Kathy stared at his back, and her body trembled slightly.

That man was her father.

Her eyes had turned red, and she was trying her best to restrain her emotions.

"Mom, what's wrong with you?" Kathy bent over and picked up her mother's medical record.

It said that her mother was diagnosed with myocardial infarction, and further physical examinations were needed.

"I'm fine. It's just an old problem," Angela said softly.

"Why didn't you tell me? I'll go ask the doctor." With that, Kathy wanted to leave.

Angela stopped her by saying, "There's no need to make a fuss. I am getting old, and it's inevitable that my health has declined. Just stay with me for a moment."

Wearing a worried look, Kathy looked down at her mom.

She could tell that Angela was in a bad mood.

But why did her father suddenly come back?

She knew that Angela had always been waiting for him.

Kathy was struck dumb, and her face immediately turned pale.
She was trying to understand what Maurice had said.
Thoughts that had never occurred to her before flashed through her mind, causing her to tremble all over.
That was impossible...
“It’s up to Kathy. I don’t know how to tell her about this.”
“If you don’t have the heart to tell her the truth, I’ll tell her.” Maurice held Angela’s hand.
Kathy had already frozen with shock. Joseph, who also heard the conversation, hugged her from behind and said softly, “How about I accompany you out for a while?”
Kathy shook her head and pushed open the ward’s door.
Angela and Maurice looked at her at the same time.
Kathy walked in step by step. When looking at Angela, she wore a cold expression.
“Mom, what are you talking about?” Her voice trembled slightly.
Angela revealed a sorrowful look, and tears immediately fell down her cheeks.

Maurice gently patted her shoulder and stood up. "Kathy, did you hear our conversation?"

"Yes."

"Maurice, please go out first."

Not long after, there were only Kathy and Angela in the ward.

"Mom ... No ... Who is my biological mom?" Actually, Kathy heard the truth just now.

However, she thought it was unbelievable.

Jennifer?

She was Billy's mother.

She remembered that when Jennifer was in critical condition, she had saved her because they had the same blood type.

Later, Jennifer was nice to her, and she also seemed to have a strange affinity for Jennifer.

"It's Mrs. Hilton. Kathy, I'm sorry," Angela said with a sigh.

She had thought of telling Kathy the truth countless times, but she didn't have the heart to say it.

She didn't want to lose Kathy, nor did she want to deceive her.

Chapter 237 She Is Already Infatuated with Him

Kathy did not know when she had fallen asleep. When she woke up, she was already in the bedroom.

Lying next to her, Joseph hadn’t gotten up yet.

He was holding her in his arms. Curling up in his warm embrace, she felt very comfortable.

Subconsciously, she leaned against his chest.

She then looked up at his delicate chin, eyebrows and closed eyes.

He had arch-shaped eyebrows and a straight nose. Besides, his facial features were in perfect proportion.

This man was her husband.

She raised her hand and put it on his eyes. Joseph liked to wear glasses at ordinary times, which made him look abstinent and genteel.

However, after taking off his glasses, he was terrifying sometimes.

She wanted to withdraw her hand, but her wrist was suddenly grabbed by him. After opening his eyes, Joseph rolled over and pressed her body against his.

Kathy was dumbfounded, and she heard him asking in a deep voice, “What do you want to do?”

“I don’t want to do anything...” Kathy blinked, with her heart beating fast.

“You are already awake. Why didn’t you get up?” Joseph’s voice was a bit hoarse.

Kathy was lost for words.

She felt it was embarrassing to say that she had been attracted by his handsome appearance.

“I’m hungry.” She quickly changed the subject.

“I’m also hungry.”

With that, he moved closer and suddenly kissed her, which startled her a little bit.

Then he gently caressed her soft breasts.

Kathy came back to her senses. She still had to go to the airport, so she couldn’t waste any time!

She tried to push him away while saying, “We’re going to the airport.”

Joseph frowned. Obviously, he was unhappy.

Kathy asked softly, “How about tonight?”

When she said this, her ears turned red.

He pinched her chin and gave her another passionate kiss before letting her go. "I remember that."

Half an hour later, Joseph took Kathy to the airport. It was exactly eight o'clock.

“It seems that you have a good relationship with Joseph.” There was a hint of mockery in Billy’s words.
Kathy could tell that he was mocking her.

“In my opinion, Angela will always be my mother. As for Mrs. Hilton, I might need some time to accept her as my biological mom,” Kathy said.

At least for now, she didn’t know how to face Jennifer.

“If you need someone to talk to, I’ll be there for you at any time.” Billy’s voice became a little gentler.

“Thank you, Billy.”

She never had any special feelings towards him.

But she remembered that he had helped her many times.

When Billy left, Joseph had just returned.

At the entrance of the elevator, they bumped into each other.

"Mr. Hilton, did you come to look for my wife?" Joseph's voice was cold.

"Yes. You should know her identity. She is my sister."

"Did she accept that?" Joseph frowned.

"Sooner or later, she will accept me as her brother. Joseph, she is my family member." His tone conveyed a warning.

With an indifferent look, Joseph said, "She is my wife. Billy, please remember that."

After going back home, Joseph saw Kathy cooking in the kitchen.

After her resignation, she always cooked meals and her skills had gradually improved.

"You came back so early today?" Kathy looked at him in surprise.

Joseph usually got home late, so she had been used to cooking at night.

"Yes. I can't wait to see you." Joseph hugged her, with his chin resting on top of her head. His voice was gentle.

Kathy smiled, "You can see me every day."

"That's not enough."

After turning her face to his side, he kissed her. Then he pushed her against the wall and gave her a more passionate kiss.

Kathy had always been unable to resist him, but the soup she cooked was about to overflow from the pot, so she had to push him away.

Recently, Kathy almost cooked every night, but when Joseph came back tonight, the house was empty.

After looking around, he couldn't find Kathy.

He called Kathy, but her phone had been turned off!

With a sullen look, he instructed John, "I want to know the whereabouts of my wife within an hour."

Kathy was in a mall right now. She just wanted to go out for a walk.

She didn't want to doubt Joseph, but some facts made her suspicious about him.

She came into a bar and seated herself. It was already late at night and a singer was performing on stage.

She ordered a glass of non-alcoholic wine, but in the next moment, a familiar voice sounded.

"Change her drink to the Long Island Iced Tea."

Billy sat opposite Kathy and smiled, "Since you came here, you should drink wine."

"I also ordered wine." Kathy frowned.

"Since you have worries, drinking alcohol will make you feel much better."

Kathy remained silent. In fact, she also wanted to use alcohol to slightly anesthetize herself.

In that case, maybe she could pretend to be ignorant of some things.

"Don't worry. If you get drunk, I'll send you back. You won't encounter any danger."

"Do you think I'll believe you?" Kathy said coldly.

She never let her guard down in front of Billy.

Even though she knew that he might be her relative, she couldn't change her attitude towards him so quickly.

"If you don't believe me, do you believe in Joseph?" Billy asked bluntly.

Kathy's expression changed.

"Right now, the only one who can affect your mood is him. Can you tell me what happened?" Billy asked with concern.

Kathy frowned and did not speak for a long time.

"What I told you is correct," said Billy.

He continued, "Do you still believe him? Herbert has already been released from prison, and Joseph has been very close to the Herberts recently," Billy said in a deep voice.

"Billy, can you tell me why he did this?"

Chapter 240 Mrs. Joseph Must Be You

"You're not welcome here. Get out of here," Kathy said indifferently.

She looked at Billy.

Billy brought her to his side and said in a deep voice, "Joseph, did you hear what Kathy said?"

"She's my wife. You don't have the rights to speak for her." Joseph squinted his eyes coldly.

Billy chuckled, "Is that so? At least I respect her. What about you?"

"Joseph, give me some time to cool down. I'll be back."

After she found out the truth and reconsidered her relationship with Joseph, she would have a talk with Joseph.

It was hardly the time to discuss it now.

“Go home with me. I won’t disturb you.” Joseph’s voice became gentler.

Joseph was unstable just now. When he faced Kathy, he was out of control.

“I want to stay here. Don’t worry.”

“Mrs. Joseph, I’m worried that you’re alone.”

“I will protect her. Joseph, Kathy doesn’t want to see you,” Billy said from the side.

Joseph stared at Billy coldly. Billy looked at Joseph without fear. Billy even smiled.

Billy was happy that Kathy argued with Joseph.

Ignoring them, Kathy went back to her home alone and locked the door.

Joseph and Billy looked at each other.

“Since you know her identity, you should know that Kathy is my sister. I won’t let you hurt her.” Billy was in a bad mood.

“You don’t have the rights,” Joseph said mockingly.

“She doesn’t believe you. Joseph, I will let you get a divorce,” Billy said.

Joseph squinted his eyes coldly.

Looking at the closed door, Joseph stood at the door and didn’t leave.

Then he called John.

“Buy the Apartment NO. 15402 in the AN Road Community!”

John was confused. When he was about to ask the reason, he recalled that this house was across Kathy’s house.

“I see.”
